#GoLobos at a Glance (#GoLobos)

The Season:

The University of New Mexico, which came in a close third in its last outing, picking up several podiums and wins along the way, will host The University of New Mexico/Drew Judycki Memorial/Jade Enterprises Invitational at Red River Ski Area (Downtown Trail) and the Enchanted Forest Cross Country Ski Center. The meet will not be live streamed but the Nordic races should be available on summittiming.com and the alpine races on live-timing.com.

The Coaches:

The University of New Mexico Lobos are coached by Joe Downing, who is the program's head alpine coach. Joe was named the interim head coach after former coach Fredrik Landstedt left for the University of Utah to become Director of Skiing after an 11-year run as UNM's head coach. Taking over as the head Nordic coach is former student-athlete and NCAA participant Christian Otto, who was previously an assistant Nordic coach. Aljaž Praznik and Carl-Johan Öster are former student-athletes for the Lobos who are serving as assistant coaches for Nordic and alpine, respectively.

What to Look For

Kornelius Grørv will enter to Montana State Invitational looking for his third straight podium. Having just missed RMISA men's Nordic skier of the week honors, Grørv earned a win in his first official collegiate race, the 10K Freestyle.

Tyler Theis has back-to-back top 10 finishes in the giant slalom, and there are two more GS races this weekend.

Rebecca Fiegl finished fourth in the first two giant slaloms of the season.

UNM's women's Nordic squad is looking for better cold medicine, as they recorded only three starts out of a possible eight on the weekend.

Following Along

The alpine events at Bridger Bowl will not have a livestream, but all the races can be witnessed on the net via live timing at www.live-timing.com. All four alpine races will have live timing available, and there will be updates on Twitter at @UNMLoboSkiing.

There will be no live timing of the Nordic events at Crosscut Mountain, but updates will be sent out as soon as possible via @UNMLoboSkiing.

1-2-4-5

Those aren't special numbers for the greatest television show in history LOST (no arguments allowed), those are the placements for one of the greatest Nordic races in UNM history, as the Lobos went 1-2-4-5, giving UNM 108 of a possible 111 points. The Lobos saw Kornileus Grønv finish first, Ricardo Izquierdo-Bernier second, Johan Eirik Meland fourth and Ben Berend fifth.

It was the first Nordic race in school history in which UNM finished in four of the top five slots.

OK, You Can Take This One

Kornileus Grønv won the 10K freestyle race at Montana State with Ricardo Izquierdo-Bernier finishing second. Going for the rare double, Grønv just missed, finishing second...to his teammate Izquierdo-Bernier, who in the process picked up his first collegiate win.

The win gave UNM three wins on the season out of four Nordic races, and that's the most Nordic wins in one season since 2010 when Martin Kaas won three classical and two freestyle races, giving UNM five that year.

So It's Been a While

With Kornileus Grønv and Ricardo Izquierdo-Bernier both winning races in Nordic, it marked the first time that UNM had two different men win Nordic races in the same season since Jonas Kjellmart won a classical race and Niklas Skogland won a freestyle race in 1994. No one on the current team was alive when that occurred. Additionally, here is what wasn't around back then:

SpongeBob SquarePants
The iBook Computer
Flash Drives
Britney Spears' singing career
The Lion King
The Shawshank Redemption
Forrest Gump
The Santa Clause

Grønv, Busengdal Named RMISA Skiers of the Week

Vegard Busengdal and Kornileus Grønv both earned weekly honors as the pair were named RMISA men's alpine and men's Nordic skiers of the week respectively. Both skiers were honored for their performances in the Montana State Invitational.

The honor is the first for Grønv and the third weekly honor for Busengdal, having earned the honor now in each of his three seasons. The skiers teamed up to help the Lobos finish a very close third at the MSU Invitational.

Busengdal picked up his first podium of the season at Montana State, coming in third in the slalom. He paired that with a fourth-place finish in the giant slalom, as he scored 65 points on the weekend. Grønv had an even better weekend in earning Nordic honors. He won his second straight freestyle race, and then finished in second place in the classical race to earn his accolades.

Grønv scored 77 points, and ironically his closest competitor for skier of the week was his own teammate Ricardo Izquierdo-Bernier, who finished first in the classical race and second in the freestyle race. Both skiers picked up 77 points out of 80 on the weekend, but Grønv had a faster combined time for the two races, giving him the honors.

The Lobo ski team has the weekend off before returning to the trails and slopes on February 1 and 2 with the UNM Invitational in Red River. The Nordic events will be held in The Enchanted Forest, while the alpine races will be held near the Copper Lift in Red River.

Feeling Grøovy

Kornelius Grønv won his first collegiate race, the 10K freestyle interval start at the Colorado Invitational. He became the first Lobo men's Nordic skier to win since Mats Rudin Resaland picked up a 10K freestyle win at the Jade Enterprises/UNM Invitational on January 31, 2015.

The win was interesting in that Resaland finished as UNM's top skier in the race, just ahead of current assistant coach Aljaž Praznik, who came in second. UNM's number three skier in the race? None other than the current head Nordic coach, Christian Otto.

Giant Slalom Qualifier a Hit

UNM opened the season with six top-10 finishes in the Colorado Invitational giant slalom qualifier, including four on the women's side. Rebecca Fiegl finished fourth, Antonia Wearmouth was fifth, Soňa Moravčíková tied for sixth and Hailey Cutler tied for ninth.

On the men's side Tyler Theis was fifth and Vegard Busengdal was eighth.

Theis tied for his best-ever finish, and for Fiegl, it was her best collegiate finish. What's amazing about six top ten finishes in the giant slalom is that Katharine Irwin, considered one of the top GS skiers in the NCAA, recorded a DNF. She was the NCAA Runner-up in the giant slalom a year ago.

Snowed Out?

Not exactly, but the combination of a hard snowfall and a really slobby, skittish track forced officials to abandon the men's slalom at the Colorado Invitational, and ran it on January 19 in Montana at Bridger Bowl. It marks the second straight year a meet had to be completed in a different state due to weather.

Last year, The UNM Invitational's Nordic races were held in Colorado due to the light amount of snow on the trails in Red River at The Enchanted Forest.

Keep On Winning

The Lobo men have turned in three wins on the year, all in different disciplines. The alpine team won the men's giant slalom at the Montana State Invitational and the slalom at the Colorado Invitational (which was held in Montana). The men's Nordic squad won the freestyle race in Montana and then finished second in the classical race.

Make Up!!!

The 2019 Lobo ski team is made up of 20 skiers, with the team having six men's alpine, six women's alpine, four men's Nordic and four women's Nordic. Nine skiers return from the 2018 team, seven of which are alpine skiers. UNM has back five NCAA alpine skiers from a year ago (Katharine Irwin, Rebecca Fiegl, Hailey Cutler, Vegard Busengdal and Tyler Theis) and two in Nordic (Ricardo Izquierdo-Bernier and Brenna Egan).

As far as where they are from, nine are from the United States (Colorado 3, Utah 2, Idaho 1, Wisconsin 1, Minnesota 1, New Mexico 1), Norway (5), Canada (2), Russia (1), Slovakia (1), France (1), and Austria (1).
