National Championship Qualifiers

This historical research project has been underway since 2009, and is an attempt to document and honor Lobo athletes who competed in the NCAA Cross Country, Indoor Track & Field, and Outdoor Track & Field Championships. While the qualifying methodology to get to the NCAA Championship has changed over the decades, it is still an honor to represent the University of New Mexico at the highest level. The information contained in this document is based on available records from NCAA Archives, UNM Zimmerman Library Special Collections, UNM Department of Athletics Media Relations files, Track & Field News, and the United States Cross Country & Track Coaches Association archives. Contributions were also made by UNM Lobo cc/track alums. It remains a work in progress as some data has not been found through the aforementioned sources.

The NCAA Cross Country Championship for men began on Monday, November 21, 1938 in East Lansing, Michigan hosted by Michigan State University. The first Lobo male runner to compete in an NCAA Championship did so on November 27, 1950. Women began competing in NCAA Cross Country on Monday, November 23, 1981 in Wichita, Kansas, hosted by Wichita State University. A UNM team competed in that first competition. NCAA Indoor Track & Field Championships for men began on March 12-13, 1963 in Cobo Arena, Detroit, Michigan and the first Lobo male athlete competed on March 10-11, 1967. Women first competed in indoor track & field on March 12-13, 1982 in the Pontiac Silverdome, Pontiac, Michigan. The first Lobo woman competed on March 9-10, 1984. The NCAA Men's Outdoor Track & Field Championship began on June 17-18, 1921 in Chicago, Illinois. The first Lobo man to compete was on June 22-23, 1934. Women began competing in NCAA Outdoor Championships on May 31-June 5, 1982 in Provo, Utah hosted by BYU. The first Lobo woman to compete during the outdoor championship happened that same year.

Special Recognition

Prior to women being included into the NCAA Championship structure, they competed in the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW). Two Lobo women teams qualified for the national cross country championships during that era. On November 13, 1976 in the first year of UNM sponsoring a women's cross country team Coach Tony Sandoval's squad finished 10th as the championship was held at the University of Wisconsin. The team was composed of Karen Cramond, who finished 14th, Sue Vigil, who finished 28th, Cindy Ashby, Virginia Middleton, and Jean Rostermundt, who also competed for the Lobos in basketball team, but did both sports. Iowa State won the team title that year. On November 17, 1978 the Lobo women's cross country team finished 19th on a hilly Denver course in their second trip to the national championships. The 1978 team was composed of Sue Vigil (107th place - 18:59), Patty Kaufmann (117th place - 19:01), Regina Dramiga (167th place - 19:39), Lynn Brasher (215th place - 20:42), and Katy Huff (233rd place (22:56). Two other team members, Janet Wroblewski and Paula Trepenien were not able to compete at the national meet due to injuries.

Special Recognition

Prior to 1982 when the NCAA began sponsoring women's outdoor track & field at the championship level, the women's championships were first administered by the (DGWS) Division of Girls and Women in Sport (1969-1970) and then from 1971 - 1981 by the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW). Several members of the early Lobo teams qualified to either the DGWS or AIAW national championship and we would like to recognize those athletes.
