LOBOS EYE IMPROVEMENT AT BRYAN CLAY INVITATIONAL

New Mexico track & field is back in action this week as the Lobos aim to pick up more experience against top-notch competition at the Bryan Clay Invitational in Azusa, California.

Now that most of the team has competed at least one during the outdoor season, the Bryan Clay Invite provides the team with another chance to compete at a large, high-quality meet.

With postseason action less than a month away, the Lobos are looking to log key progress as they start to position themselves to compete past the Mountain West Championships.

Right after the conference meet, the top 48 athletes in each event in the NCAA's West Region advance to the NCAA West Preliminary Championship. From there, athletes can qualify to the NCAA Outdoor Championships in June.

Josh Kerr, the two-time reigning NCAA champion in the mile run, will make his outdoor debut at the Cougar Athletic Stadium, running the 1500-meter run.

Along with Kerr, the men's distance crew will be represented by Michael Wilson (800/1500), Kristian Uldbjerg Hansen (800/1500), Ian Crowe-Wright (1500), Jonny Glen (1500/3000 steeplechase), Taylor Potter (1500) and Jared Garcia (1500).

For the women, Weini Kelati takes aim in the 1500 along with Emily Martin, Kieran Casey, Kendall Kelly, Sophie Eckel, Alex Buck, Alondra Negrón Texidor and Charlotte Prouse.

A handful of those runners are slated to double, including Prouse and Negrón Texidor in the 3000 chase and Eckel, Kelly, Martin and Buck in the 5000.

New Mexico's sprinters, middle-distance runners and hurdlers will also see action.

Carlos Salcido (200/400) leads a sizable pack of Lobos in the men's sprints, with Jay Griffin IV (100/200), Mark Haywood (200/400), Isaac Gonzales (200/400), Bryan Cutler (200/400) and Alejandro Goldston (200) also racing.

Beau Clifton, Goldston, Salcido and Griffin are also in the hunt for improvement in the 4x100 meter relay.

On the women's side, Kyra Mohns looks to continue making strides in the 400 hurdles, while Steffi Jones and Larimar Rodriguez eye good times in the 800.

Erynn Caldwell is also slated to race in the 100 and 200.

In the field events, Ryan Chase and Tanner Battikha are set to compete in the long jump, with Omare Gregory entered in the triple jump and Brent Dionisio in the high jump.

Additionally, Malik Matthews-Gordon is entered in the javelin and Daniel Lam and Jason Atencio are entered in the pole vault.

Ada'ora Chigbo (high jump) and Allison Mady (shot put) lead the women field-event athletes, with Shannon Fritz (high jump/pole vault), Katherine Whiting (pole vault) and Sara Reyes (javelin) also ready for action.

KERR-TESTY CALL

Over the last 14 months, Josh Kerr has been virtually unrivaled running on the track for the Lobos, as evidenced by his three NCAA titles between the mile run and 1500-meter run.

But his run of success extends beyond just the national championships. Since the start of February 2017, Kerr has been the top finishing collegian in 12 straight finals on the track wearing a UNM singlet, not counting preliminary-round races or races he has rabbitied.

The only race during that stretch that he didn't outright win was the Wanamaker Mile at the Millrose Games, where he took second as the top-place collegiate athlete.

During that span of 21 races (prelims and finals), Kerr has finished within the top two 19 times. The only two times he wasn't a top-two finisher in the race were races he paced for teammates.

WOMEN'S XC/TRACK 2ND IN PROGRAM OF THE YEAR STANDINGS

New Mexico women's cross country and track & field program ranks second in the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association's Terry Crawford Program of the Year award standings for the 2017-18 academic year.

Led by head coach Joe Franklin, the Lobos have combined to gain 11.5 points in the in-progress report, which accounts for the 2017 NCAA Cross Country Championships and 2018 NCAA Indoor Track & Field Championships.

It's the first time in two years that the Lobo women are in contention for the award through two of the three national championships in cross country and track & field.

The women's cross country team got New Mexico in the standings first as the Lobos won the NCAA Cross Country Championships in November. Just the third national title in school history, it's the program's second such title in the last three years.

Four All-Americans — individual champ Ednah Kurgat, Weini Kelati, Charlotte Prouse and Alice Wright — powered the Lobos to the team's eighth-straight top-10 performance at the NCAA Championships, which is the longest active streak in NCAA history.

Kurgat and Kelati continued the trend of scoring performances during the indoor season as both earned All-American honors in two events, the 3,000- and 5,000-meter runs, at the 2018 NCAA Indoor Track & Field Championships in March at College Station, Texas.

Kurgat was the NCAA runner up in the 5000 and eighth in the 3000, while Kelati took fifth in both disciplines.

Overall, UNM tied for 10th with 17 team points at the NCAA Indoor Championships, which are the best finish and point total in program history.

The only championship left to determine the final standing for the Program of the Year award is the NCAA Outdoor Track & Field Championships, which will be held June 6-9 in Eugene, Oregon.

Presented annually since 2009, the NCAA Division I Program of the Year Award recognizes the most outstanding cross country and track & field programs in Division I based on the institution's performance through the academic year. Final standings are predicated on the institution's combined finishes at the NCAA Division I Championships in cross country, indoor track & field, and outdoor track & field.

To be eligible for the award, teams must qualify for all three NCAA Championships. Scores for the award are calculated from the team's finish at those championships (i.e., first place earns one point, second place two points, 31st place 31 points, etc.). The team with the lowest total score for all three championships receives the award.

21 women's teams have scored at the first two 2017-18 championships. Oregon is leading through two thirds of the year with 10 combined points, with New Mexico second and Stanford third (12 points).

The New Mexico women have placed in the final standings for the award just twice: in 2012 (finishing 16th), 2015 (14th) and 2016 (eighth). UNM was also ranked in the in-progress report in 2010, as well, but did not finish the season in the standings.

KERR NAMED TO THE BOWERMAN POST-INDOOR WATCH LIST

Josh Kerr captured a spot on The Bowerman Men's Post-Indoor Watch List, the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association (USTFCCCA) announced Thursday, March 15.

Kerr, a three-time NCAA champion and back-to-back NCAA mile titlist, was one of 10 men selected to the Post-Indoor Watch List, which is the fourth such list in 2018 for The Bowerman, the highest individual honor in collegiate track & field.

Coming out of the 2018 indoor track & field season, Kerr has cemented himself as one of the elite middle-distance runners in the NCAA.

The first male athlete to win back-to-back NCAA mile crowns since former Lobo Lee Emanuel (2009-10), Kerr defending his upstart win from 2017 with a gusty victory on March 10 at the NCAA Indoor Championships in College Station, Texas.

Powered by his remarkable finishing speed, Kerr won the race in 3:57.02.

He is just the ninth male athlete to win consecutive national championships in the mile run over the 53-year history of the NCAA Indoor Championships.

Kerr also rewrote the record books in February, as he ran a personal-record time of 3:54.72 to place second in the elite Wanamaker Mile at the 2018 NYRR Millrose Games at The New Balance Track & Field Center at The Armory in New York City.

That time makes him the fifth-fastest collegian in the mile run in NCAA history with the sixth-fastest mile time in NCAA history. His time also ranks fifth in the world in 2018.

Kerr is the only athlete in NCAA history to rank top-six in both the mile and its outdoor counterpart, the 1500. Kerr ran a time of 3:35.99 in the 1500 last spring to rank No. 6 in NCAA history.

Kerr also broke both Miles Batty's Mountain West mile record (3:55.79) and the New Mexico mile record of 3:57.62 set by Emanuel in 2010.

Additionally, Kerr won his second straight Mountain West mile title and anchored UNM's distance medley relay team to its second consecutive win at the MW Championships in February.

He clocked a raw time of 4:00.62 in the finals, which converts down to a 3:55.38 when the NCAA altitude conversion is applied. That time, although not superior to his season best of 3:54.72, would have still led the NCAA this season.

Kerr also anchored New Mexico's DMR to a nation-leading time of 9:33.41 (9:24.73 converted) that leads the NCAA by nearly a full second and set a Mountain West record.

That time is superior to the standing NCAA record of 9:25.97 when the altitude conversion is applied; however, the conversion is only used for NCAA qualification, not for official records.

KERR, KURGAT NAMED MOUNTAIN REGION ATHLETES OF THE YEAR

Two New Mexico track & field athletes earned NCAA Division I Mountain Region Track Athlete of the Year honors on Monday, March 5, as the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association selected Josh Kerr and Ednah Kurgat for their respective genders.

Kerr, a two-time NCAA champion and current NCAA leader in the mile run, was named the Mountain Region Men's Track Athlete of the Year, while Kurgat, who's ranked top-three in the NCAA in two events, was selected as Mountain Region Women's Track Athlete of the Year.

The duo's honors are the first for New Mexico indoor track & field. Courtney Frerichs earned the selection for the 2016 outdoor track & field season, while Kurgat (2017), Alice Wright (2014, 2016) and Sammy Silva (2013) claimed the corresponding honor in cross country.

THE PRICE IS WRIGHT

The NCAA began offering championships for women in 1982, and in the last 35 years over thousands of young women have attempted to qualify for the NCAA Championship in the 10,000-meter run.

Of those thousands, there have been about 700 who actually achieved the qualification standard and competed at the NCAA Championships.

Of that number, there have only been 280 who earned a top eight place and All American status.

Of those 280 places, there have been 51 women athletes who twice in their careers placed in the top-eight and earned All-American honors in the 10,000.

Of those 51 women, only nine have placed top-eight and earned All-American honors three times

New Mexico's Alice Wright is one of them.

And, since she has one more year of college eligibility, she could potentially become the only woman in NCAA history to place top-eight four times in the 10,000

GOING THE DISTANCE

The New Mexico women's track & field team has some incredible distance standouts, as evidenced by two NCAA cross country titles in the last three years.

That talent translates to the track, as well, with the Lobos registering five entries in the distance events at the NCAA Indoor Track & Field Championships.

Between Ednah Kurgat (3000- and 5000-meter runs), Weini Kelati (3000/5000) and Alice Wright (5000), New Mexico's five entries in the distance events are the most by any team at the NCAA Championships, men's and women's meets combined.

In fact, only two teams (the USC women and LSU women in the sprints) qualified more athletes in a single event group than the Lobo women did in the distance events.

KURGAT NAMED MW WOMEN'S TRACK ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

On February 13, Ednah Kurgat was named Mountain West Women's Indoor Track Athlete of the Week for meets contested from Feb. 9-10.

Kurgat, hailing from Eldoret, Kenya, ran a personal-record time of 8:57.47 in the 3000-meter run at the Husky Classic in Seattle on Saturday, February 10 to win the event that featured some of the best distance runners in the NCAA and 102 total runners.

Kurgat's time, which set the UNM record in the 3000, ranks third in the NCAA this season and leads the MW this season by over 2.5 seconds.

She ranks second in Mountain West history behind Allie Ostrander, whom Kurgat beat on Saturday. Ostrander's conference record is 8:54.27, set at the 2016 Husky Classic.

Kurgat's mark also stands as the 13th-best all-conditions indoor 3000-meter time in NCAA history, which counts oversized track times. The USTFCCCA's official ranks do not count times recorded on oversized tracks, which includes Dempsey Indoor, the facility in which she ran.

Overall, Kurgat is New Mexico's first MW Women's Athlete of the Week this season and the team's first since Calli Thackery claimed the honor on February 21, 2017.

NEW MEXICO SCORES 15 ALL-MOUNTAIN WEST SELECTIONS

19 New Mexico track & field athletes were selected to the Mountain West Indoor Track & Field All-Conference men's and women's teams on Monday, February 26.

The Lobos, who received a fourth-place finish from the men and a fifth-place finish from the women during the MW Indoor Championships in Albuquerque, saw six men and two relay teams claim nine total honors, while five women and a relay team posted six total selections.

All-Mountain West selections are awarded to the top three finishers in each event at the conference championships.

For the men, Josh Kerr led the way with two all-conference selections, one for his individual title in the mile run and one as part of the men's winning distance medley relay team.

Ian Crowe-Wright, Carlos Salcido and Michael Wilson also earned All-MW honors for their contributions in the DMR, which set the New Mexico record in the event.

Daniel Lam, winner of the heptathlon, also captured All-MW honors in the heptathlon and the pole vault.

Other Lobos earning all-conference honors were Salcido (200-meter run), Mark Haywood (400), Tanner Battikha (long jump) and Beau Clifton (heptathlon).

Additionally, the Lobos' 4x400 meter relay team of Haywood, Ben Parmoon, Isaac Gonzales and Bryan Cutler were recognized as all-conference for their third-place run.

On the women's side, titlist Weini Kelati was accorded all-conference honors for her win in the 3000. Also receiving individual selections were Ednah Kurgat (mile), Charlotte Prouse (3000), Ada'ora Chigbo (high jump) and Kyra Mohns (pentathlon).

The women's DMR team of Kieran Casey, Shalom Keller, Alondra Negrón Texidor and Kurgat also earned all-conference honors.

KERR NAMED NATIONAL, MW ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

New Mexico redshirt sophomore Josh Kerr was named Tuesday, February 6 as NCAA Division I Men's National Athlete of the Week by the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association and Mountain West Men's Track Athlete of the Week.

Kerr ran a personal-record time of 3:54.72 to win the elite Wanamaker Mile at the 2018 NYRR Millrose Games on Saturday, February 3 at The New Balance Track & Field Center at The Armory in New York City.

Racing against a field that included six Olympians, Kerr showed off his middle-distance acumen on arguably one of the most prominent stages in all of track & field, earning his second career National Athlete of the Week honor.

His time of 3:54.72 makes him the fifth-fastest collegian in the mile run in NCAA history with the sixth-fastest mile time in NCAA history.

After opening the race in the back half of the 12-runner field, Kerr rallied over the final stages of the race, moving from eighth at 800 meters to second at the line. He finished the final 200 meters in 27.69 seconds, the best split by any athlete over the entire race.

He also nearly caught the eventual Wanamaker Mile winner Chris O'Hare at the line, as O'Hare won in 3:54.14.

Nonetheless, Kerr's time of 3:54.72 currently ranks third in the world in 2018, behind Edward Cheserek, who ran a time of 3:53.85 on Saturday in North Carolina, and O'Hare.

However, Kerr is the only athlete in NCAA history to rank top-six in both the mile and its outdoor counterpart, the 1500. Kerr ran a time of 3:35.99 in the 1500 last spring to rank No. 6 in NCAA history.

Additionally, Kerr broke both Miles Batty's Mountain West mile record (3:55.79) and the New Mexico mile record of 3:57.62 set by two-time NCAA champ Lee Emanuel in 2010.

Kerr leads the NCAA in the mile this year by nearly a second, and leads the MW by nearly four seconds. His mile time also ranks fifth all-time by a British athlete.

Over the last calendar year (February 2016-present), Kerr placed in the top two in 16 of 18 track races he's run for UNM (preliminary rounds and finals), with only a pair of pacing runs as his finishes outside of the top two.

Kerr's selection is the New Mexico cross country/track & field program's sixth-ever National Athlete of the Week honor.

Last spring, he earned the award after running his 3:35.99 in the 1500, while Ednah Kurgat claimed two such honors during her undefeated cross country season last fall. Courtney Frerichs, who was selected in May 2016, and Charlotte Arter, who was selected during the 2014 cross country season, have also earned the honor.

SALCIDO THREATENS SECOND SCHOOL RECORD OF 2018

Already the school-record holder in the 200-meter run, Carlos Salcido took aim at the UNM benchmark in the 400 at the New Mexico Classic on February 3.

The redshirt sophomore came close to earning his second record of the season as he ran an altitude-converted time of 46.71. That time is just behind Olympian Jarrin Solomon, who's 46.33 set in 2009 stands as the record.

Nonetheless, Salcido moved to first in the Mountain West in the event, and is the only athlete in school history to run under 22 seconds in the 200 and 47 seconds in the 400.

As of February 19, Salcido ranks 30th in the NCAA in the 400.

SALCIDO NAMED MOUNTAIN WEST MEN'S TRACK ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Carlos Salcido was named on January 30 as the Mountain West Men's Indoor Track Athlete of the Week for meets contested from January 25-27.

Salcido, a Rock Springs, Wyoming native, ran a time of 21.36 seconds in the men's 200-meter dash to win the event at the New Mexico Team Invitational on Saturday, January 27, at the Albuquerque Convention Center.

His time, which was converted from 21.29 to compensate for altitude, set a new school record in the event, eclipsing two-time MW 60-meter champion Ridge Jones' time of 21.43 set in 2015.

As of February 19, Salcido leads the Mountain West in the 200.

Additionally, Salcido anchored the Lobos' 4x400 meter relay team to second place, scoring a total of 18 points and helping the UNM men to a team win at the New Mexico Team Invitational.

This honor is the first such honor for Salcido, and the first for a New Mexico sprinter since Jones earned it on January 13, 2015.

KERR DOUBLES DOWN IN NCAA TITLES, FIRST SINCE 2008

At the beginning of March 2017, Josh Kerr was a talented runner for New Mexico, but probably wasn't a household name in NCAA track & field.

However, all of that changed on March 11, when Kerr defeated 17-time national champion Edward Cheserek of Oregon in the mile to claim his first NCAA crown at the NCAA Indoor Championships at Gilliam Indoor Track in College Station, Texas.

He followed that up with a tremendous outdoor campaign — including the No. 6 1,500-meter time in NCAA history at 3:35.99 — and an NCAA title in the 1,500-meter run.

Kerr is the first person to sweep the mile and the 1500 at the NCAA Indoor and Outdoor championships since Texas' Leo Manzano in 2008.

Colorado State's Bryan Berryhill was the last Mountain West athlete to accomplish the mile/1500 sweep, doing it in 2001. Berryhill is also the only other athlete in conference history to win the 1500.

MEN'S TRACK POSTS HIGHEST GPA, EARNS USTFCCCA HONOR

The New Mexico track & field team earned a number of academic accolades on July 27 as the USTFCCCA announced its All-Academic Honors.

Under head coach Joe Franklin, both the men's and women's track & field teams were recognized as All-Academic Teams, a distinction bestowed to teams that register a cumulative team GPA of 3.00 or higher during the academic year.

10 Lobos, five men and five women, were also named All-Academic Individuals by the USTFCCCA.

For the team awards, the New Mexico men set a new program record with a team GPA of 3.53, the best among the 142 teams honored as All-Academic. Last season, the Lobo men held the second-best GPA among the honorees.

The men were also just one of four Mountain West men's teams to be selected, and have maintained at least a 3.2 for 10 straight semesters.

The UNM women, with a team GPA of 3.52, were one of seven schools in the MW to earn the honor. The women rank 23rd out of the 218 Division I institutions that were recognized.

The Lobo women have logged at least a 3.3 GPA for 20 straight semesters.
