2017 Season Preview

While it certainly isn't the most ideal thing to have three head coaches in three years, it certainly seems as though The University of New Mexico women's tennis team is showing no signs of slowing down. The signs they are showing? Signs of a ninth NCAA Tournament appearance for starters.

For Stephanie Wooten-Quijada, she might be the third women's tennis coach at UNM in the last three seasons, but that's certainly not a bad thing. Wooten-Quijada is looking for a second straight NCAA Tournament appearance herself after leading the UT-Rio Grande Valley Vaqueros into the NCAAs last year, winning the Western Athletic Conference Tournament. That title marked the first-ever WAC title for UTRGV (formerly Texas-Pan American) in any sport.

Now she will attempt to repeat that feat with the Lobos. "The choice to come to New Mexico was easy when you look at the great facilities and the great tradition that is here," said Wooten-Quijada. "Our goal is always going to be to compete hard on the court, and in the classroom."

Competing for a return to the NCAA Tournament for a second time in three years is a goal that will certainly be helped by perhaps the most veteran squad in the Mountain West. Five seniors dot the roster, and all have killer resumes to their credit. The headliners are three fourth-year seniors in Emily Olivier, Dominique Dulski and Rachana Bhat.

Just that trio has combined for 196 singles wins and 150 doubles victories in their three-plus seasons of playing. Olivier enters her final Spring with a 53-48 overall record in singles and 54-42 in doubles. Last year she excelled at the No. 2 singles flight, going 8-4 in the Spring. Whether she plays up at No. 1, as she did seven times a year ago, or remains at No. 2, her expertise (and her blistering forehand) will be counted on for certain.

Dulski has been a mainstay in the middle of the lineup over her first three seasons, going 11-9 in dual matches last year, coming off a 16-7 sophomore campaign. Dulski has won some major conference matches, including the 2015 Mountain West Tournament, and she earned All-Conference honors a year ago in doubles with Olivier.

Bhat has been solid as a rock in the bottom two flights with a 19-8 record in Flight 5 and a 23-3 record in Flight 6. Overall, Bhat has proven to be at her best in dual play, going an astonishing 42-12 in her first three seasons. Bhat, counting the Fall season, enters the Spring needing 19 more victories to hit 100 in her career, which would make her the just the fourth Lobo in school history. She enters the Spring already ninth on the UNM career wins list.

Two other seniors were transfers from a year ago, and both made themselves right at home. Ludivine Burguire, a VCU transfer, went 21-5 over the season, splitting most of her time between No. 3 and No. 4 singles. Where she has improved already in 2016-17 is in doubles, where her seven doubles wins in the Fall are slightly more than half her overall total for last year. Along with Burguire is Andrea Leblanc, who transferred to UNM from Morehead State. Leblanc led the team with 27 wins a year ago, including 11 in dual play. Leblanc last season spent time at both No. 1 and No. 2 in singles, giving UNM plenty of experience up and down the lineup.

With one spot seemingly open, it will come down to the lone sophomore Ruth Copas, who is already 25-14 in her brief Lobo career, and a pair of freshmen. Cassie Chung went 6-4 in singles and 2-2 in doubles in the Fall and Diana Wong went 4-3 in singles and 2-2 in doubles as well.

What won't be easy is a schedule that will see UNM face several NCAA caliber programs and play just six matches at home. UNM opens up with Georgia and also has power five non-conference foes in Illinois, Colorado, Utah, Wisconsin, Arizona and Texas Tech. Along with regional foes such as Denver, the Lobos will get six straight games at home, including Minnesota, Northern Arizona, New Mexico State and UTEP out of conference and Utah State and Boise State in Mountain West play. The 2017 Mountain West Tournament is April 27-30 at UNLV.

About Denver

Denver enters the weekend match with a 1-1 record, having lost to No. 13 Michigan 4-1 and then defeating Syracuse 4-0. Denver picked up the doubles point in both of their matches, led by their No. 13 ranked doubles team of Julia O'Loughlin and Maureen Slattery, which defeated Michigan's No. 4 doubles team at the first doubles flight.

About Colorado

Colorado is 4-0 on the season with wins over Northern Colorado (5-2), Colorado State (7-0), Eastern Washington (6-1) and Boise State (6-1). Jeannez Daniel has to best record on the squad at 8-1, and 2-0 in dual matches. Three Buffs, Annabelle Andrinopoulos, Nuria Ormeno Ruiz and Louise Ronaldson are all 4-0 in Spring play. Colorado has used six different doubles teams and they are a perfect 9-0 this season.

The Current Lone Wolves

UNM suffered a tough opening weekend with a pair of 4-0 losses. However, UNM did get a win on the weekend, as the Lobos dropped the doubles point to Georgia State, but it was 2-1. The doubles team of Ludivine Burguire and Dominique Dulski picked up a 6-4 win at No. 1 doubles. It pushed the team of Burguire/Dulski to 3-1 on the 2016-17 season.

The only other doubles team at UNM with three wins also has Burguire in common, as she and Ruth Copas went 3-1 in the Fall. Overall UNM has used 12 different doubles teams.

The Match with Colorado will be Super

The match at Colorado on Sunday will have no television coverage. The match was originally slated to be shown nationally on Fox Sports with Joe Buck handling the play-by-play, but higher ups at Fox have elected to broadcast an NFL football game instead. While the switch from Fox is a blow to the egos of both teams, a double-whammy occurred when Lady Gaga turned down the national anthem opportunity to also head to Houston. In addition, also passing on the anthem was Ladysmith Black Mombazo, Lady Antebellum, Lady Miss Kier, Lady Bug Mecca, Lady Lamb and the Beekeeper and Ladies of the Gospel.

We Got a Schedule to Keep Cha-Cha

The New Mexico women's tennis team has an overall program record of 491-362, meaning that sometime this season, UNM should get win No. 500. Of those 491 wins, most were earned over 24 seasons by Kathy Kolankeiwicz, who went 354-212. Of UNM's five head coaches (not counting first year coach Stephanie Wooten-Quijada), four have had winning overall records, including the last two, Erica Perkins Jasper (40-33) and Kelcy McKenna (15-7).

Nothing to See Here

New Mexico's 0-2 start shouldn't alarm anyone. There is nothing to see here. Actually there's not. UNM's last 0-2 start turned out pretty fine as the Lobos started 0-2 in 2005 under Kathy Kolankeiwicz and finished the season 15-9. In fact, UNM opened that season 0-3 on the season.

Kate McKinnon isn't the Only Awesome McKinnon These Days

The Linda Estes Tennis Center served as a wonderful home for UNM Tennis, and even though UNM doesn't play outdoor matches there, UNM's tennis offices, locker room and the Randy Briggs Indoor Tennis Dome are all still located there. The Briggs Indoor Dome covers three courts. It is 40 feet tall, 196 feet long and 128 feet wide, and was at one time the widest indoor tennis bubble in the world. There is a lobby area and the bleachers that seat close to 1,000 fans.

Now, UNM calls the McKinnon Family Tennis Stadium home for its outdoor matches. The McKinnon Family Tennis Stadium is located directly across the street from Linda Estes, behind The Pit basketball arena and next to the Lobo baseball field.

The stadium features stadium lights, electronic scoreboards and six sunken outdoor courts that include stadium seating for approximately 1,000 fans. Fans can keep up with all the action via a large electronic scoreboard located between the two central courts as well as smaller boards at each individual court.

The McKinnon Family Tennis Stadium comes courtesy of a $1.2 million donation that was part of a $7.5 million gift to UNM that Ian and Sonnet McKinnon made in 2011. Another $500,000 was raised privately for the project and the stadium lights were donated by the City of Albuquerque. The McKinnon family also contributed $300,000 to an endowed scholarship in the name of Loren Dils, a former director of the Lobo Tennis Club and an ex-UNM assistant tennis coach, who has been diagnosed with ALS. Ed and Shirley Corley donated the scoreboards.

The McKinnon Family Tennis Stadium has also served as the host site of numerous events including the 2014 USTA/ITA Regional Championships and 2015 Mountain West Conference Championships.

In summer 2015, the McKinnon Family Tennis Stadium was recognized as one of 13 winners in its 34th annual USTA Facility Awards Program, which recognizes excellence in the construction and/or renovation of tennis facilities throughout the country.
