COMING UP

Las Cruces, New Mexico - The Thunderbird women's basketball team played their first of three games in the state of New Mexico Tuesday night, as they fell to New Mexico State 74-60.

On Friday and Saturday the Lady T-Birds will take part of the New Mexico Tournament.

The Thunderbirds came out firing, jumping out to an 8-1 early in the first quarter. The Aggies started warming up offensively, but the T-Birds held a 17-11 advantage after the first.

"We really came out focused," SUU head coach Chris Boettcher said. "Hit a couple shots early, which relaxed the team."

Jessica Richardson led the team in scoring and rebounding with 21 points and nine rebounds. Jamie Smith had a big game for the T-Birds as well dropping in 18 points. The Thunderbirds shot 37 percent from the field, but had 22 turnovers.

Boettcher said Smith showed on Tuesday what they've been waiting to see from her all season.

"Tonight she finally did what we know she can do and that's hit shots," he said. "She's a very confident shooter with deep range and was really important tonight against their zone and their press, we knew that they would overload one side of the defense and that if we could reverse the ball to her that she'd have open shots."

The New Mexico Tournament is set to begin on Friday when the T-Birds will square off against the New Mexico Lobos. SUU will play Saturday, and will take on either the North Carolina A&T vs. Duquesne matchup.

Chris Boettcher

Chris Boettcher is under his second season as the Southern Utah University women's basketball head coach and looks to lead the team back to post-season play.

Boettcher has a long history of coaching NCAA Division I basketball in the state of Utah, spending eight years at Utah Valley and four seasons on the BYU staff with current head coach Jeff Judkins.

Boettcher began his career as a student assistant at Brigham Young University, working in the men's program at the same time as former Thunderbird coach Roger Reid. He went on to join Metro State College of Denver as an assistant and administrator. In 1997, Boettcher was appointed the basketball advisor for the city of Takayama, Japan where he helped the local teams reach the National Tournament for the first time ever.

He returned to collegiate coaching in the women's ranks at Utah Valley in 2001, aiding in the school's transition from a junior college to an NCAA Division I program as the Wolverine's associate head coach. In 2009 he returned to his alma mater and helped the Cougars to a combined record of 97-37 during four years as a member of the coaching staff.

Boettcher most recently coached the Shiga Lakestars of the Professional Basketball Japan League, leading the team to its best-ever finish in the standings as well as a postseason appearance. Former Thunderbird standout David Palmer currently competes for the Kyoto Hannaryz, another member of the Japanese basketball association.

Boettcher earned a degree in math from BYU in 1994 with a P.E. coaching minor. He prepped at Weiser (Idaho) High School, lettering in football, basketball and baseball. He and his wife Cinthya have five children. Boettcher becomes the 11th women's basketball coach at Southern Utah since the school added the sport in 1975.
