About St Mary's Music School

St Mary's Music School is Scotland's specialist music school and the Choir School of St Mary's Cathedral. It is easy to access, situated in a leafy campus in the heart of Edinburgh, a short walk away from Haymarket Station. Co-educational, day and boarding, the School provides specialist music training and an impressive and stimulating academic education for pupils aged 9 to 19 showing special ability and potential in music. St Mary's Music School "aims to provide the highest possible standard of education and training to exceptionally gifted young musicians, in an inspiring, inclusive and supportive environment".

Around 70 pupils, including day pupils, boarders and choristers, come from many different backgrounds and from all parts of Scotland, as well as elsewhere in the UK and abroad. Entry is by audition and pupils gain a place on the basis of musical ability and potential, regardless of personal circumstances. Scottish Government and school funding, up to 100%, is available through the Aided Places Scheme to assist with the cost of tuition and boarding fees. Some Aided Places are available for choristers, and there are also Cathedral bursaries.

The Choir School was opened in 1880 to educate choristers for St Mary's Episcopal Cathedral. Since 1972 the School has also educated young instrumentalists, composers and singers. The School is non-denominational and welcomes pupils of all faiths and none. Music is at the centre of the curriculum. The School runs a chamber-size orchestra, string ensembles, chamber choir, instrumental chamber groups, jazz ensembles and promotes traditional Scottish music.

Pupils share a common love and enjoyment of music and the School aims to ensure that they are given every opportunity to flourish and emerge as excellent musicians capable of using the powerful art of music to inspire and enrich their own lives and the lives of others. We aim to prepare pupils musically, academically, socially and emotionally for the next stage in their educational development. We encourage a high level of motivation and self-esteem, giving all pupils the opportunity to achieve their potential and promoting self-discipline, as well as developing skills of responsible citizenship.

The most recent report from HM Inspectorate of Education, in October 2024, rated the School "excellent" and "very good". Pupils consistently achieve very high standards in music and also academically. The academic education is widely based in the early years and, for older pupils, it is more flexible and individually tailored than is generally possible in larger schools. Most pupils proceed to higher education and most enter the music profession, with many established alumni now pursuing international careers, many retaining contact with the School. Illustrious former pupils include pianist Steven Osborne, soprano Susan Hamilton, conductor Garry Walker, composer David Horne, guitarist Paul Galbraith, cellist Philip Higham, presenter and comedian Alexander Armstrong and jazz pianist Alan Benzie.

Outreach is an important aspect of the work of the School. Our long established Saturday Music Classes offer Kodaly classes, theory, singing and instrumental tuition for children from the pre-school year upwards.

Pupils have many performing opportunities in School and in external concerts, in important venues such as The Queen's Hall and playing for royalty and at the Scottish Parliament, and also providing music for smaller-scale events, often for charity. Pupils also play in youth orchestras, such as the National Youth Orchestra of Scotland and the National Youth Orchestra of Great Britain, and sing in the National Youth Choir of Scotland.

St Mary's Music School is the only Scottish member of the nine Schools of Music and Dance Excellence, which are some of the most successful and vibrant school communities in the UK.

St Mary's Music School helps deliver the Scottish Government's vision for excellence in education by nurturing Scotland's finest young musical talent, being ambitious for our pupils and aiming for excellence across all aspects of the education we provide, as reflected in the aims of the School.

The School is a member of CSA (Choir Schools Association), SCIS (Scottish Council for Independent Schools), and ISBA (Independent Schools Bursars Association).
