▶ NOTES

100-POINT CLUB

Sophomore attackman Grant Ament scored a pair of goals and added three assists to hit the 100-career point milestone against Johns Hopkins on April 15.

▶ With his five-point performance, Ament became the 24th Penn State player to score 100 career points. His 110 career points rank 21st all-time.

▶ Ament became the second active Penn State player to reach 100 career points this season, when Nick Aponte during the Nittany Lions' game against Furman. The senior ranks tied for the 11th most points in program history with 138 (68g, 70a).

▶ With Ament reaching the 100-point mark, Penn State is one of 17 programs nationally with a pair of 100-point scorers.

▶ Prior to Ament and Aponte, TJ Sanders (2013-16) was the last player to be a 100-point scorer. Senior midfielder Mike Sutton is the next closest active player to the 100-point mark, entering the game against Rutgers with 87 (75g, 12a).

ATTACK IN STRIKING DISTANCE OF SINGLE SEASON POINTS TOP-10

Following the regular season, each member of Penn State's attack in Grant Ament, Nick Aponte and Mac O'Keefe could plausibly crack the top 10 in single season points.

▶ Ament is the closest to joining the leaderboard, entering Saturday with 56 points to date - the ninth and tenth spots on Penn State's single season points leaderboard sit at 57 points.

▶ After his two-point game last time out, Aponte is two points short of the 57 needed to make the top-10. In addition to the single-season points leaderboard, Aponte needs two assists to pass Ament's 2016 season for 10th place in single-season assists.

▶ O'Keefe is the longest shot to crack the top-10 for season points, needing four more to tie for the 10th most in program history.

NITTANY LIONS SET HISTORICAL STREAK

Penn State began the season on a historical win streak, going 10-0 through the opening 10 games of the season.

▶ Following Penn State's win over Ohio State, the Nittany Lions continued the best start in program history at 10-0. Prior to the 2017 season the best record to begin a season at Penn State was 7-0, achieved by the 1992 team.

▶ With the win over OSU, Penn State remained one of two undefeated squads nationally at 10-0. Hofstra (9-0) is the only other undefeated program nationally. Penn State's 10-game win streak was the best in the country.

▶ With Penn State's victory over Ohio State, the Nittany Lions matched the longest single-season win streak with 10-straight. The win also saw Penn State earn its seventh ever season with double-figure wins.

▶ With the win against Cleveland State, Penn State went undefeated in the non-conference slate for the first time in program history at a perfect 9-0 mark. Penn State first became a conference member in 2000 when the team joined the ECAC before transitioning to the CAA and eventually the Big Ten.

OFFENSE AMONG NATION'S BEST

Entering the postseason the Nittany Lion offense continues to be one of the best in the nation statistically.

▶ Penn State rank second in the country statistically in shooting percentage as of May 7, firing the ball at a .353 clip. Grant Ament (.429, 18th) and Mac O'Keefe (.384, 54th) both rank within the top 75 nationally in shooting percentage.

▶ Of the over 70 Division I programs, Penn State finds itself also ranked among the top 10 in the country in scoring offense (fifth, 13.67) goals per game), points per game (sixth, 21.67) and assists per game (eighth, 8.00). Penn State leads the Big Ten in all four categories.

▶ In addition to its national prominence, Penn State's goals per game, points per game and assists per game figures are all the best during the Jeff Tambroni era to date. Penn State's 205 goals are the most in a single season during the Tambroni era, as are the teams 120 assists.

▶ Penn State has four offensive players ranked nationally among the top 150 in either points per game, goals per game or assists per game. Ament (3.73 ppg, 1.80 gpg, 1.93 apg) is the lone player to rank among the top 80 in all three categories. O'Keefe (3.53 ppg, 3.20 gpg) ranks top 35 in both goals per game and points per game, while Nick Aponte (3.67 ppg, 2.20 apg) ranks among the top 30 in points per game and assists per game. Ryan Keenan ranks 129th nationally in assists per game, averaging 0.87 per contest.

LIONS DOMINANT AT THE FACEOFF "X"

Penn State's success on the offensive end has stemmed from stellar play at the faceoff "x", creating opportunities for the offense to thrive.

▶ Penn State ranks eighth in the country in faceoff win percentage (.591) and 13th in groundballs per game (30.80) following 15 games. Penn State ranks second in the Big Ten in both faceoff win percentage and groundballs per game.

▶ Freshman midfielder and faceoff man Gerard Arceri ranks sixth nationally in faceoff percentage (.625) and 12th in groundballs per game (7.00). He ranks second in the Big Ten in faceoff percentage and groundballs.

APONTE NAMED 2017 CAPTAIN

Senior attackman Nick Aponte was named the 2017 squad's lone team captain in October.

▶ Tambroni on Aponte: "Our staff is very happy for Nick and optimistic about the path that he will forge for our team as a leader. He has earned the support and confidence of his teammates and coaches through his competence, tireless work ethic and compassion for this team."

▶ Aponte is just the second player to be a stand-alone team captain in Tambroni's tenure, the other being Kyle Zittel. Before Zittel, the last solo captain was Jon Poole in 1978.

HOGAN CLAIMS SUPER BOWL LI RING

Penn State men's lacrosse found itself in the headlines in late January following a breakout performance from former Nittany Lion midfielder standout and current New England Patriots wide receiver Chris Hogan.

▶ Hogan played four seasons as a midfielder for Penn State, in which he registered 57 goals and 14 assists for 71 career points.

▶ Hogan sustained an injury three games into his sophomore season (2008) in which he scored a pair of goals. Hogan was granted a medical redshirt, which he chose to use at Monmouth University after graduating from Penn State, where he played wide receiver and defensive back for the Hawks.

▶ Hogan's breakout performance came during the AFC Championship game in which he pulled in nine catches for 180 yards and a pair of touchdowns. His 180 receiving yards were a franchise postseason single game record. He recorded four catches for 57 yards in the Patriots 34-28 OT win over the Atlanta Falcons in Super Bowl LI.

▶ Hogan is the only member of Penn State men's lacrosse to ever play in the NFL or win a Super Bowl. Thirty-nine total Nittany Lions have now claimed 56 Super Bowl rings, with Hogan being the most recent player to do so.

ARCERI, O'KEEFE AND WRIGHT COMPETE

WITH TEAM USA

Freshmen Gerard Arceri and Mac O'Keefe and sophomore Tommy Wright represented Team USA over the summer of 2016 as a part of the 27-man U19 roster.

▶ The Penn State trio earned the gold medals with the team, marking Team USA's eighth U19 world championship. O'Keefe scored a team-high two goals and added an assist. Arceri saw time, but Wright was sidelined with an injury for USA's 13-12 win over Canada.

▶ Penn State was also represented by associate head coach Peter Toner, who served as an assistant coach for the USA U19 team. Head coach Jeff Tambroni serves as an assistant for the USA national team, while assistant coach Chris Doctor served as an assistant for the Iroquois national team from 2013-14.

▶ Four players on Penn State's current roster have played for the USA U19 team. Redshirt senior Matt Florence played with the USA U19 team in 2012 en route to the team's seventh world championship with a 10-8 win vs. Canada.

REMEMBERING CONNOR DARCEY

After the summer of 2015, the Nittany Lions decided as a program to honor the memory of goaltender Connor Darcey in several ways.

▶ Penn State commemorated his memory by pinning the No. 16 to the back of their nets for every home game starting at the beginning of the 2016 season.

▶ The Nittany Lions also named the locker room after Darcey during a pregame ceremony before their April 30, 2016 game against Michigan.

▶ The team decided it would pass down the No. 16 jersey each year to a rising senior, allowing the senior who previously wore the number to share the story of Darcey's legacy when passing down the number.

▶ Tambroni on the new tradition: "... Each year somebody would wear it and for the following year when the season was complete they would then hand it down to another senior. It would provide them an opportunity to talk about Connor Darcey and what he meant to them, what the number meant to them, what it meant to shoulder that responsibility but also that spirit."

▶ Penn State shared a special moment with the Darcey family prior to the March 11 game at Harvard. The team conducted its practice leading up to the Harvard game at Wellesley High School in Wellesley, Massachusetts, where Darcey played in high school. Wellesley built a new lacrosse field, naming the venue Connor Darcey field, with Penn State lacrosse being the first team to ever practice on the surface.

TEAMMATES FOR LIFE

The Nittany Lions put their team mantra of "Teammates for Life" into action this season, as head coach Jeff Tambroni along with Penn State men's lacrosse alums Gary Martin and Rich Makover and faculty partner Andy Gustafson formed the team's first ever mentorship program this fall.

▶ The project has been in the works with two years, with this season's program being the first year of implementation. The mentorship program pairs current Penn State men's lacrosse student-athletes with an alumni of the program based on their career goals, majors, and geographical location.

▶ The program currently serves sophomores through seniors, with plans to expand to the freshman class in the coming academic year.

kins iced the game with 37 seconds remaining.

▶ Sophomore attackman Grant Ament led the way for Penn State with five points on a pair of goals and three assists. The five-point performance tied for most by a Penn State player in a Big Ten game. It marked the seventh time a Penn State player has logged five points against a Big Ten opponent.

▶ In addition to Ament's performance, six other Nittany Lions made multi-point contributions: Nick Aponte (4a), Matt Florence (2g), Mike Sutton (2g), Dan Craig (2g), Ryan Keenan (1g, 1a) and Mac O'Keefe (1g, 1a).

PENN STATE FACES FIRST SETBACK

The Nittany Lions faced their first blemish on an otherwise perfect record on April 8, falling 15-11 to No. 8 Maryland to go 1-1 in conference play.

▶ The loss snapped Penn State's 10-game win streak, which marked the best in the NCAA and tied the program's most consecutive wins in a single season.

▶ Despite the loss, Penn State had one of its best shooting performances of the season, going 11-of-27 (40.7 percent) on the day. The outing was the third most efficient of the season, outdone by only the Hobart (21-42) and Cornell (20-48) games.

▶ On the offensive end the attack trio of Nick Aponte, Grant Ament and Mac O'Keefe put together a strong performance, combining for seven goals and four assists, including O'Keefe's seventh hat trick of the season.

PSU TOP BUCKEYES IN B1G OPENER

The Nittany Lions opened the Big Ten slate with a five-goal, 9-4, win over No. 5 Ohio State to begin conference play.

▶ Penn State relied on a strong defensive effort to overtake Ohio State. The Nittany Lions allowed just four goals, marking the first time since the 2014 season to allow four or less goals when the team beat Towson, 8-1, on April 12.

▶ The Nittany Lions had a season-best 12 caused turnovers in the outing. The mark ranks tied for fifth most in a game during head coach Jeff Tambroni's seven-season tenure with Penn State. It was the first time since March 22, 2014 that the team had done so, in which the squad forced 16 turnovers against Albany, the most in Tambroni's tenure. Sophomore defender Chris Sabia and classmate Kevin Fox both logged multiple caused turnovers with three and two, respectively.

▶ In the cage, freshman goaltender Colby Kneese had an impressive outing, making 13 stops while allowing a career-low four goals. Kneese turned away 76.5 percent of the shots on goal, marking the best single-game save percentage since three-time All-American Austin Kaut logged a .917 save percentage (11 saves, 1GA) vs. Towson on April 12, 2014.

▶ On the offensive end, eight players contributed in the scoring column, with seniors Mike Sutton (2g) and Nick Aponte (1g, 2a) contributing multi-point games. Redshirt-senior midfielder Drake Kreinz logged his first goal of the season.

▶ Penn State's win over Ohio State made the team 1-0 in the Creator's Trophy standings, while dropping Michigan to 0-1. With a win over Michigan on April 30, Penn State would claim it's fourth title in the award's six-season history. Penn State is now 9-2 all-time in Creator's Trophy games.

KNEESE NATIONAL PLAYER OF THE WEEK

In addition to his pair of Big Ten weekly plaudits following the Ohio State win, freshman goalkeeper Colby Kneese was named Alpha Lacrosse National Player of the Week by Inside Lacrosse for the eighth such award of the season.

▶ Kneese is the second player this year to earn Alpha Lacrosse National Player of the Week honors, with sophomore attackman Grant Ament earning the award on Feb. 22. The duo are the only two Penn State men's lacrosse players to earn the award.

▶ Kneese logged 13 saves and allowed just four goals against Ohio State while logging four groundballs in the outing. His 13 saves tied for third most in a Big Ten game, while his single-game save percentage (.765) was the best by a Penn State player in a Big Ten game all-time.

SABIA, KNEESE LOCK UP B1G HONORS

Penn State claimed three of the four honors in the Big Ten's ninth installment of the 2017 Big Ten weekly awards. Sophomore defender Chris Sabia claimed Defensive Player of the Week, while freshman goalie Colby Kneese was named both Specialist of the Week and Co-Freshman of the Week.

▶ Sabia earned his recognition following a performance in which he logged three caused turnovers and a pair of groundballs while spearheading the Nittany Lions' defense. The three caused turnovers tie a Penn State record for most caused turnovers in a single Big Ten game and rank tied for third most in a single Big Ten season. Sabia's 24 career caused turnovers lead active Penn State players.

▶ Kneese logged 13 saves and allowed just four goals against Ohio State while logging four groundballs in the outing. His 13 saves tied for third most in a Big Ten game, while his single-game save percentage (.765) was the best by a Penn State player in a Big Ten game all-time.

▶ Penn State's 15 total Big Ten weekly honors lead all teams in 2017. Ohio State (seven) has the second most weekly award recipients, followed by Maryland and Rutgers (six).

PENN STATE DEFEATS CLEVELAND STATE

Penn State won its ninth consecutive game on March 25, taking down Cleveland State, 15-8.

▶ The starting attack trio of Grant Ament, Nick Aponte and Mac O'Keefe combined for 11 goals and four assists in the game. Ament (4g, 2a) led the team in goals and assists. O'Keefe (4g) matched Ament's goal total while Aponte (3g, 2a) and sophomore midfielder Nick Spillane (2a) co-lead the team in helpers along side Ament.

- ▶ Aponte finished the season strong, logging four goals in the final four games of the 2016 season.

IN IT FOR THE LONG HAUL

The Penn State roster also features plenty of duos who have played together through their high school careers.

- ▶ Sophomores Grant Ament and Chris Sabia (The Haverford School) played together for four years.
- ▶ Juniors Will Schreiner and Tanner Peck (Avon Grove) played together for four years.

- ▶ Junior defenseman Hunter Pearl is the son of J.J. Pearl, a Penn State lacrosse goalie from 1989-92. J.J. ranks fifth all-time in saves and had two seasons with a .635 or better save percentage.
- ▶ Junior midfielder Tanner Peck will welcome his younger brother Brayden to the Nittany Lions lacrosse team next season. Brayden signed his national letter of intent in November with 12 others to complete Penn State's 2016 recruiting class.

PENN STATE ADDS 13 FOR 2018

The Penn State men's lacrosse team finalized the class of 2021 on Tuesday, Nov. 15, as head coach Jeff Tambroni and his staff welcomed 13 new players to the roster, all slated to begin competing with the team in the 2018 season.

- ▶ Penn State's newest group of incoming talent includes Bobby Burns (Smithtown, Long Island, N.Y.), Greg Ey (Baltimore, Md.), Jake Glatz (Shrewsbury, Pa.), Jack Kelly (Scarborough, Ontario, Canada), Jake McCaughan (Richland, N.J.), John Nostrant (Haverford, Pa.), Brayden Peck (West Grove, Pa.), Dan Reaume (Beverly Hills, Mich.), Mike Shinske (Medford, N.J.), Joey Soran (Aurora, Colo.), Sean Sperzel (Westwood, Mass.), Dylan Sulzbach (Pittsford, N.Y.) and Cole Willard (Cazenovia, N.Y.).

WHO'S BACK

- ▶ Attack: The attack unit brings back preseason All-America honorable mention duo senior Nick Aponte and sophomore Grant Ament entering the 2017 season. Aponte led the team in goals (30) in 2016, while Ament paced Penn State in assists (34)

- ▶ Midfield: The Nittany Lions return 17 midfielders for the 2017 season, highlighted by seniors Dan Craig, Matt Florence and Mike Sutton who combined for 51 goals and 13 assists in 2016. Ryan Keenan (10-9-19), Kevin Hill (14-5-19), and Nick Spillane (4-2-6) will all look to make an impact in the offensive midfield while Tripp Traynor, Chris Isenberg and Tyler Chambers hope to help prevent opposing offenses.

- ▶ Defense: Penn State's defense loses no one to graduation, with senior Peter Triolo anchoring the Nittany Lions' defensive unit. Sophomore Chris Sabia was named a Big Ten preseason honoree, after starting every game last season. Kevin Fox, Mike Aronow, Dean Lamela and Hunter Pearl all rejoin the unit as well.

- ▶ Faceoff: Penn State's leading faceoff man last season, Billy Lombardi, returns for his final campaign, as does redshirt senior Drake Kreinz, who ranks eighth in total faceoff wins.

- ▶ Goal: Junior Will Schreiner returns for his junior season after starting all 15 contests last season and earning Big Ten specialist of the week on three occasions. Sophomore Trevor Scollins returns for his second season in the Blue and White as well.

WHO'S NEW

In addition to Penn State's 32 returners, the Nittany Lions add 11 new faces to the fold, with plenty of them competing for playing time early on.

- ▶ Attack: Mac O'Keefe and Conor Smith join Penn State as the two newest attackmen for the Nittany Lions. O'Keefe enters his inaugural season with PSU after serving as a member of Team USA's U19 team over the summer. Smith was a three-time member of the Suffolk County Top-20 team.

- ▶ Midfield: PSU adds five new members to the midfield in Gerard Arceri, Matthew Fisher, Nick McEvoy, Mitch Schaefer and Barrett Sutley. Arceri helped his high school team to back-to-back county championships. Fisher totaled 53 points his senior year and was a three-sport athlete. McEvoy led his team to two consecutive WCAC titles and a No. 3 national ranking. Schaefer earned Section V Tournament MVP honors in 2013. Sutley helped McDonogh to three straight MIAA semifinal appearances and was a MYLA All-Star.

- ▶ Defense: Nick Cardile and TJ Connellan are Penn State's newest defensemen. Cardile helped Avon Grove to a Ches-Mont Championship and state finals appearance, while Connellan helped Cazenovia to four state finalist finishes while being invited to the Under Armour All-America classic in 2015.

- ▶ Faceoff: Arceri and McEvoy both play a role in the faceoff game. Arceri joined O'Keefe on the U19 USA team, while McEvoy was a first team All-WCAC honoree and was a Washington All-Met honorable mention.

- ▶ Goal: Colby Kneese and Jack Rusbuldt round out Penn State's newest additions. Kneese led Highland Park to a Texas state championship in 2015 while earning All-State and Under Armour All-America honors. Rusbuldt was named both a U.S. Lacrosse All-America and Virginia All-State teams.

PANZER STADIUM

Penn State Intercollegiate Athletics announced $3.55 million in gifts for a new lacrosse stadium. Ken Panzer, a 1982 Penn State graduate, and his long-time business partner at Douglas Emmett, Jordan Kaplan, have committed a gift of $3.55 million to launch construction of the new facility on the University Park campus. As a former co-captain of the Penn State men's lacrosse team, Panzer has a long-standing history of giving to the Nittany Lions' program.

Panzer's latest and largest gift will help take Penn State lacrosse to a new level of excellence by transforming the current field into a world-class stadium. The new facility will be named Panzer Stadium.

"Our men's and women's lacrosse student-athletes are among the most talented and dedicated in the nation. We have exceptional leadership atop both programs, and Ken Panzer's gift will have a significant impact on their continued excellence," said Penn State Director of Athletics Sandy Barbour. "Penn State has a tremendous opportunity to be among the premier men's and women's lacrosse programs in the nation, and thanks to Ken Panzer and Jordan Kaplan, this stadium will be a catalyst to help get us there and maintain the excellence."

The addition of the sport to the Big Ten Conference in 2015 has shifted the landscape of Division I lacrosse, elevating the Penn State lacrosse programs' competitiveness and national exposure. Both of the men's and women's programs, led by head coaches Jeff Tambroni and Missy Doherty, respectively, are ranked in the Top 10 nationally entering post-season competition.

Positioned within view of Beaver Stadium, the Bryce Jordan Center and the Multi-Sport Facility, the new stadium will join these iconic landmarks as one of the top lacrosse facilities in the nation. Panzer Stadium will enable Penn State to host a variety of events, including the Big Ten Tournament and NCAA championship preliminary rounds.

With this gift, the stadium, which will be constructed in the same location as the Penn State Lacrosse Field, will benefit from the following features and capabilities:

- Expanded stadium-style seating for up to 1,300, significantly growing the permanent seating capacity and options available to fans.
- Greater comfort and convenience for fans with permanent concessions, more accessible bathrooms and a ticket office.
- A press box above the new seating with full broadcasting capabilities for television and radio facilitating coverage on the Big Ten Network and ESPN.
- A multi-purpose room overlooking the field which will be used for a variety of lacrosse-related events.

"Our program is eternally grateful for the generosity and commitment of Ken Panzer," said Jeff Tambroni, head coach of the Penn State men's lacrosse team. "Ken is a tireless worker, a loyal teammate and a passionate alumnus of Penn State. We hope to honor Ken, his teammates, Jordan Kaplan and the stadium through our effort, loyalty and compassion for Penn State that is symbolic of the Panzer namesake."

Panzer Stadium will help usher in Penn State Intercollegiate Athletics' 20-year Facilities Master Plan which will build new, and revitalize selected facilities across the University Park campus. With the money now in place thanks to Panzer and Kaplan, the lacrosse stadium project is expected to begin this summer.

After guiding the Nittany Lions through their second season of Big Ten Lacrosse, Jeff Tambroni returns for his seventh season as Penn State's head coach in 2017.

Tambroni, one of the sport's most decorated coaches, enters the 2017 season ranking ninth among all active Division I coaches in career win percentage. During the 2016 season, Tambroni guided Penn State to its fifth season going .500 or above under his guidance. Most notably of the 2016 campaign, he led Penn State to defeat a top-ranked opponent for the first time in program history on March 26, when the Nittany Lions earned a 15-10 victory over defending national champions No. 1 Denver, snapping the opponent's 20-game win streak. Penn State notched two other wins over ranked opponents during the 2016 campaign as well, knocking off No. 18 Cornell and No. 8 Harvard in the process.

Tambroni led Penn State to be one of the most efficient teams in the country in 2016, with the team finishing second in Division I in turnovers per game, while finishing sixth in the country in shooting percentage. Penn State earned its first unanimous All-Big Ten selection in attackman Nick Aponte, while Grant Arment and Mike Aronow earned All-Big Ten honorable mentions. Tambroni also led TJ Sanders to be named Penn State's ninth USILA Scholar All-America selection.

Tambroni guided the Nittany Lions through a historic season in 2015 that brought Penn State's first appearance in the Big Ten Tournament following the first ever season of Big Ten lacrosse. The Nittany Lions opened the season ranked No. 14 in the USILA DI Preseason Coaches' Poll and knocked off No. 16/11 Penn during the 2015 season. Tambroni also led Penn State to its first two Big Ten conference victories as well as a berth to the conference tournament. He also mentored rising senior TJ Sanders to USILA All-America honorable mention honors.

In 2014, Tambroni led Penn State to its fourth consecutive above-.500 season. His student-athletes earned the eighth USILA All-American and third Scholar All-America honors of Tambroni's Penn State career. He also coached goalkeeper Austin Kaut to his school record third All-America honor and conference-best All-CAA First Team award.

Penn State's 2013 campaign saw Tambroni lead Penn State to one of the greatest seasons in program history while celebrating its 100th season. The Nittany Lions set new records for wins (12) and earned the program's first outright regular season conference title by sweeping the CAA with a 6-0 record. PSU rattled off 10 straight wins from March through May to earn the school's third NCAA bid and first chance to host an NCAA game.

Tambroni was named CAA Coach of the Year for the second time in his career (2011), while Kaut (under Tambroni's tutelage) was named Ensign C. Markland Kelly, Jr. Award for the nation's best goalie. Also, Kaut was CAA Player and Defensive Player of the Year. TJ Sanders was named Rookie of the Year and the Nittany Lions placed six on the All-CAA First Team.

During the 2012 campaign, Tambroni led the Nittany Lions to a second-place CAA finish with two USILA All-Americans and six All-CAA honorees. Penn State finished with a 9-6 overall record and a 5-1 mark in conference action.

The 2011 CAA Co-Coach of the Year, Tambroni led the Nittany Lions to a 7-7 record and their first-ever CAA tournament berth during his first year at the program's helm.

In 2011, eight Nittany Lions garnered All-CAA recognition and freshman goalkeeper Austin Kaut earned Rookie of the Year honors while being named a USILA Honorable Mention All-American.

Prior to Penn State, Tambroni spent 10 seasons as head coach at Cornell (2001-10). He guided the Big Red to a 109-40 record and three NCAA Semifinal appearances (2007, 2009-10), including the 2009 national championship game.

Tambroni was named USILA Division I Coach of the Year following the 2009 season and was tabbed the 2007 and 2009 Field Turf/NCAA Division I Coach of the Year. Tambroni was also the 2004 and 2009 Ithaca Journal Male Coach of the Year and a three-time National Coach of the Week.

While at Cornell, Tambroni became the 10th-fastest coach to reach the 100-win mark when he accomplished the feat in his 134th career game in March 2010.

During his tenure, his players earned 37 first-team All-Ivy honors, including five Ivy League awards, and three conference Rookie of the Year selections. In addition, 39 players garnered All-America recognition.

Prior to serving as Cornell's head coach, he spent four seasons as a Big Red assistant coach (1997-2000). Tambroni also served as assistant coach at Loyola College in 1997 and at his alma mater, Hobart College, for three seasons. With the Statesmen, he helped the program reach the 1994 NCAA Division III national championship game.

A 1992 graduate, Tambroni earned his bachelor's degree in American studies. He earned first-team All-America honors as a senior and was twice named a second-team All-American (1990-91). The MVP of the 1990 NCAA title game, Tambroni helped lead the team to back-to-back NCAA championships (1990-91) and left Hobart tied for seventh on the school's all-time scoring list with 202 points.

Before embarking upon his collegiate coaching career, Tambroni coached the Heaton Mersey Lacrosse Club of the English Lacrosse Union for one year and served as a visiting coach for the Czech-American Lacrosse Foundation in Prague in the summer of 1996.

Tambroni and his wife, Michelle, have three daughters, Carissa, Madison and Ella. Michelle played field hockey at Penn State from 1988-90 and earned All-America honors as a senior.

Turning Point

With 13 minutes remaining in the fourth quarter, Hobart nearly erased a nine-goal deficit, as Justin Scott scored his fourth goal of the day to pull within two, 15-13. Penn State won the faceoff, but couldn't convert the initial shot. The Nittany Lions were resilient, riding the Hobart defense and forcing a Hobart turnover during the clear attempt. O'Keefe scooped up the groundball and found Hill for the score to push the Penn State lead to three.

- Nick Spillane - Spillane had a career day, logging new career bests in goals (4), assists (3) and points (7). His seven points tied for the team's best.
- Mac O'Keefe - O'Keefe matched his point production from his collegiate debut, as the lefty attackman posted four goals and three assists to co-lead the Penn State offense.
- Kevin Hill - Hill took advantage of the extra-man opportunities, finding the holes in the defense with a pair of EMO goals. He added two even strength scores in a career outing.

By Quarters

First Quarter

Penn State opened the game's scoring, as a fast-paced clear led to Chambers' second career goal to put the Nittany Lions up, 1-0. Hobart responded before Hill scored his first goal of the game. Spillane found the back of the net with 4:11 left to go in the first, with Aponte finding the sophomore midfielder. 14 seconds later, Ament scored his first goal of the day before a Hobart timeout. Hill scored a man-up goal with 32 seconds left in the quarter, but Hobart logged one of its own 10 seconds later before the first frame finished.

Penn State 5, Hobart 2

Second Quarter

Just under two minutes into the second Keenan found O'Keefe in space to give Penn State a six-goal advantage. Hobart answered the call roughly two minutes later. A man-up goal from Hill with 10:28 to go in the second sparked a 4-1 Penn State run through the remainder of the quarter. O'Keefe found paydirt on back-to-back scores before Keenan logged his first of the season. Sutton and Keenan made passes to lead to the O'Keefe goals, while Spillane earned one of his three assists on the pass to Keenan.

Penn State 10, Hobart 4

Third Quarter

The two sides scored a combined 12 goals in the third frame of the game. It was the lone period in which Hobart out-scored Penn State, with the Statesmen holding a 7-5 advantage. Ament scored the first two goals of the quarter, both coming unassisted. A lone Hobart score broke up what would be a 4-1 run, as Keenan logged his second goal of the game with 7:51 left on the clock. 11 second later McEvoy made his collegiate scoring debut, giving Penn State a 15-4 lead. Hobart refused to break down, mounting an impressive 6-1 run to close out the quarter. The lone remaining Penn State score came courtesy of Craig off a pass from O'Keefe with 34 seconds left in the period.

Fourth Quarter

Hobart continued to strike, opening the final frame with a pair of scores. With 11:22 on the clock, Hill's fourth score made the lead 16-13. Spillane scored his second goal on the feed from O'Keefe to spark back-and-forth scoring between the two sides. Hobart scored before Spillane responded with his third goal less than a minute later. Hobart's Hancock registered Hobart's 15th goal, before O'Keefe, Ament and Spillane took the game out of question with three final goals over the last 2:53 of regulation.

By Quarters

First Quarter

The first quarter was defensive battle. While Cornell won all three faceoff attempts, the Penn State defense held tall, allowing for opportunities on the offensive end. Sutton opened the game's scoring, pump faking once before ripping it into the back of the net at 11:56. Penn State was scoreless for the next 10 minutes before Ament went high-to-low on a feed from Hill for the second goal of the game and his first man-up goal of the season.

Penn State 2, Cornell 0

Second Quarter

Not to be outdone, Cornell responded with a pair of goals to open the second in the first four and a half minutes of action. O'Keefe's first goal of the day came on a pass from Aponte for a brief 3-2 lead. With just over a minute left, Aponte passed from behind the net finding Ament in stride for a 7-3 advantage.

Penn State 7, Cornell 3

Third Quarter

Penn State outscored Cornell 7-2 in the third quarter in what would prove to be the most lopsided 15 minutes of the game. Ament opened the scoring with a quick fake before dumping the ball into the opposite side of the net. Less than three minutes later, Tommy Wright kicked the ball out to O'Keefe on a fast break for the score. Cornell responded before Penn State scored three straight, with each starting attackman netting one over the four-minute period. Cornell's Sam Duggan scored to break up the Penn State run, before the Nittany Lions scored five straight through the end of the third and into the fourth. Ament and Aponte both logged one more goal each before the end of the third.

Turning Point

The Nittany Lions held a 14-13 lead with just over a minute and a half remaining, when Penn's Kevin Chambers jarrred the ball loose, and while McGeary recovered the loose ball, a pair of Nittany Lions forced McGeary over the midfield line to gain possession. The possession gave Penn just 30 seconds at the end of the game to try to equalize, but the Nittany Lion defense answered the call.

Difference Makers

- Gerard Arceri – Despite facing three different faceoff specialists, Arceri remained consistent at the faceoff 'x', going 24-of-31 while collecting a game-high 15 groundballs. Both his faceoff wins and groundballs marked season highs.
- Nick Spillane – Spillane set a new career high with five goals on six shots to lead all players in the scoring column. The five goals were one shy of his season output entering the game.
- Midfield scoring – Entering the game, Penn State saw 63 percent of its season scoring coming from the attack position. The attack line served as facilitators in the top-10 showdown, scoring just two goals, while seven midfielders accounted for the remaining 12 goals.
- Transition opportunities – The Nittany Lions made the most of their chances moving the ball from defense to offence, going a perfect 12-of-12 in clearing opportunities. Additionally, both Arceri and Wright found chances to score thanks to efficient play in the fast break.

By Quarters

First Quarter

The first frame opened with a strong Penn performance, leading to three goals within the opening six minutes. Penn State stopped the run with the most unlikely of goals, as Wright scooped up a groundball before going coast-to-coast and scoring his first career goal. The two sides were stagnant until Penn's Reilly Hupfeldt dodged from behind the net to score with 18 seconds remaining in the first quarter.

Penn State 1, Penn 4

Second Quarter

Spillane made the game a two-goal contest 1:16 into the second quarter, firing from 10 yards out on an assist from Aponte for his seventh goal of the season. Penn scored a pair of goals before Aponte logged his lone goal of the contest on a feed from Keenan behind the net. Penn logged its seventh goal of the day before Florence kicked it out to O'Keefe, who scored with a shot from the wing.

Penn State 4, Penn 7

Third Quarter

The Nittany Lions would regain control of the game in an outrageous seven-goal performance during the third period. The Nittany Lions wasted little time, scoring 37 seconds into the frame, as Spillane scored his second goal of the day. Arceri won the ensuing faceoff, sprinted down field and fired home his third goal of the season just seven seconds later. Penn's Austin Kreinz, brother of Penn State midfielder Drake Kreinz, was called for a holding penalty, giving Penn State a 30-second man-up situation. Hill capitalized on the opportunity, tying the game following a pass from Ament. Penn scored the next two goals before a 4-0 run from the Nittany Lions. Penn State's run began at the 6:35 mark, where Florence dodged a pair of defenders before burying the shot. A little over two minutes later, Hill found the bottom corner of the net for the equalizer. Another penalty was assessed to the Quakers, followed by a shot from Spillane for his third goal of the contest along with Ament's third assist. Aponte kicked the ball to Sutton 41 seconds later, as the senior went low-to-high to give the Nittany Lions an 11-9 advantage. Penn tacked on a goal with eight seconds remaining to close out the quarter.

Penn State 11, Penn 10

Fourth Quarter

Spillane opened scoring in the final frame a minute in, scooping up a loose ball on a rebounded shot and dumping it in from close range. Penn responded with a score of its own just over three minutes later. Less than a minute afterwards Craig caught a pass from Ament and scored on the run for a two-goal advantage. A minute later Spillane juked his defender and scored the eventual game-winner. Penn made a run later, scoring twice at the 3:24 and 2:42 marks, but the Nittany Lion defense dug in over the remaining time to earn the fifth win of the season.

Nearly five minutes later Florence logged the equalizer, picking off the corner while standing in the middle of the zone. O'Keefe logged the assist on Florence's goal before a pair of JHU goals. Both defenses stifled the opponent for the final 2:35 of the first.

Penn State 2, Johns Hopkins 4

Second Quarter

Hopkins opened the second with a goal just 22 seconds in. Craig caught a pass from Keenan for Penn State's first score of the quarter, picking off the top corner. The Blue Jays scored three in a row before a crafty pass from Ament found O'Keefe for his first score of the day. With 1:40 on the clock, Keenan ripped a shot that skimmed the ground and beat the keeper. Johns Hopkins put away a pair of goals over the final 38 seconds to close out the first half.

Penn State 5, Johns Hopkins 10

Third Quarter

Both defenses stood tall in the third quarter, allowing just one goal apiece. Hopkins struck first, as Patrick Fraser scored just over a minute into the frame. With just under eight minutes to go Aponte passed from behind the net to Spillane. The sophomore midfielder made a quick flick of the wrist, dumping the ball into the right side. The two sides then were stuck at a stalemate until the end of the quarter.

Penn State 6, Johns Hopkins 11

Fourth Quarter

The Nittany Lions kicked off the fourth with a bang, as freshman faceoff man Gerard Arceri won the draw. He quickly kicked the ball to Aponte, who then dumped it to Ament for the first score of the fourth. Penn State scored twice more with Sutton and Florence finding the back of the net on helpers from Ament and Aponte. Hopkins broke up the run with a man-up goal before Sutton picked off the corner. Craig scored high on a bounce shot to cut the lead to one. Penn State lost the ensuing faceoff and was called for a penalty, which eventually led to a score from Joel Tinney to finish the game.

PENN STATE MEN'S LACROSSE FRESHMAN GERARD ARCERI FINDS SUCCESS IN FACEOFF X

Andrew Rubin | The Daily Collegian | Feb. 22, 2017

Freshmen who can make an instant impact, especially at critical positions, are what every collegiate coaching staff craves.

No. 10 Penn State has three freshmen who are making a huge difference on the field so far this year; one of whom is Gerard Arceri.

Arceri emerged from a preseason competition to win the Nittany Lions' starting job over established veterans, and so far, Arceri has been one of Penn State's most valuable players. The St. James, New York native has gone an incredible 58-of-82 at the faceoff X, winning 70.7 percent of the draws he has taken through three games.

The freshman came in and exceeded almost everyone's expectations after his first 82 draws. Arceri's understanding of the game and ability to adjust from draws in high school compared to college has made him a key component in Penn State's lineup.

"His approach is very cerebral," head coach Jeff Tambroni said. "He understands this position better than anyone I've ever been around."

In a short period of time, Arceri has recognized the changes that he has to make to his game and implemented them successfully.

"In comparison to high school, the speed of the play, and I think the amount the wings, play a huge factor on the faceoffs," Arceri said. "In high school, I did the faceoff kind of just me on my own; I never thought about using my wings too much. In college it is really a faceoff unit. You have to have your wing guys on the same page as you."

Part of the reliance on the wings may come down to someone like Arceri, who could easily dominate most of the players he went up against before reaching the collegiate level. Now, he has to search for advantages, realizing it is a lot harder to win a faceoff on his own.

Every practice, Arceri works with his wing on improving the faceoff unit. They have a couple of different plays, drawn up by assistant coach Chris Doctor, which they use.

"Coach Doc. has these three specific set plays called rock, paper, scissors," Arceri said. "It makes it a lot easier to have me and my wingmen on the same page. Throughout practice we really work on it a lot."

We have specific calls that my wingmen can make during the faceoff," Arceri said. "There are two calls. It is usually six or goose."

Arceri elaborated on which each of the calls are.

"Six would be say I'm in a scrum throughout the faceoff. I would literally just pop it back to them. They'd be right behind me. I would try to get that ball out to a space where they can go and get it, where goose is kind of the same thing but just forward. So say the ball pops up forward, I can just flick it back to them in a spot I know they are always going to be. It really helps a lot throughout the faceoff."

Another aspect of Arceri's game is his ability to make in-game adjustments, which was clear on Saturday against Cornell. After starting 0-for-3, he went 15-of-18 for the remainder of the game.

Tambroni has said how some days, it takes Arceri a couple of draws to get going, and then he can be dominant.

"I think, especially with the difference between college and high school, you kind of have to know what your guy is doing. Get into a groove," Arceri said. "I try to read my opponent. It probably takes about four faceoffs before I know exactly what my guy is going to do."

Doctor, who primarily works with the specialist, talked about how Arceri has clearly demonstrated that film is a big part of his game and that the freshman prepares himself week-to-week as well as anyone on the team.

"He is definitely heavily involved in film, whether it is his own film or his opponent's film," Doctor said. "You don't have to ask him, you don't have to prod him, he is already doing it."

DEPTH BUILDS STRENGTH IN GOAL

Maria Canales | GoPSUSports.com | Feb. 22, 2017

No. 10 Penn State men's lacrosse has talent and depth between the pipes this season, thanks to a capable quartet of goalies and targeted instruction from the coaching staff.

Junior Will Schreiner, sophomore Trevor Scollins, and a duo of freshmen in Colby Kneese and Jack Rusbuldt, make up the Lions' skilled group of goalies. Each Nittany Lion has their own unique playing style that they've molded to their individual strengths, bringing something different to help strengthen the unit as whole

The two goalies that have seen the most playing time this season, Kneese and Schreiner, have almost opposite styles between the pipes. Schreiner likes to draw the opposing team's offense to get them to shoot the ball in a way he knows he can save.

"For example, if I'm on the left side of the net it's easier at that point to make a stick-side save," Schreiner said. "So I might hug the pipe a little bit longer."

Schreiner said his style of goaltending is more common from Philadelphia-area players and that he has played that way his whole life. Former Penn State men's lacrosse standout and decorated goalie, Austin Kaut, is a notable baiter in net also.

Schreiner earned the first start of the 2017 season against Robert Morris, helping the Nittany Lions to a 15-11 victory.

Kneese, on the other hand, tends to wait for a shot before reacting. Head coach Jeff Tambroni praised Kneese's quick hands and said his natural instinct in net is a great sign of things to come for the young player.

"I hope his preparation includes confidence," Tambroni said. "It's been a long preseason for him since he walked on campus, just trying to fit in here at Penn State. Then to try and find his way on the team and put himself in a position to realize a position of playing time, and then to earn the starting spot and to have some struggles in his first start only to back it up with a much stronger performance."

Kneese earned his first start February 11 in a 21-15 win against Hobart. He also started between the pipes last Saturday against Cornell, helping the Nittany Lions secure a 20-10 win.

Despite strong performances from both goalies so far, Tambroni said he is still likely to use the two-headed monster of Schreiner and Kneese in net, opting to wait a few more games before making a final choice of a starter.

For the goaltending unit, preparing for games is how victories are secured. Assistant coach Chris Doctor broke down the preparations the goalies make during the week.

"They usually have an individual session during the week," Doctor said. "Sometimes guys will come in before practice starts or in the morning and they'll get half an hour of extra work. All four of them do that."

Doctor said during practices, all the goalies have time to warm up in net, and then break up into stations where they're needed. Some of them will work with Tambroni with the offense shooting on them while another goalie might work with associate head coach Peter Toner focusing on defensive game plans. To finish out practice, the whole team works on live drills, such as man-down scenarios, half-field exercise and riding and clearing segments.

Doctor said that when he's not working with his faceoff players he tries to give the goalies extra attention and help with any developmental exercises. He also praised the veteran defense in aiding whichever goalie is in net at the time, especially Kneese as a freshman.

"We've communicated to Colby that he is the goalie, obviously, but he's just another member of our defense," Doctor said. "Knowing that he doesn't have to take on the burden of being the best part of our defense, his role is to just be one of seven guys that communicates and talks through things and help keep the ball out of our net."

Doctor said that as a freshman seeing a lot of playing time between the pipes, it's important for Kneese to know he's not alone, adding that all four of the goalies encourage one another to play their best.

"Some of them are classmates, some of them are older," Doctor said. "Will is the oldest guy we have so he's kind of the teacher, Jack and Colby are the younger ones, and Scollins is a little bit of both. It's a unique situation to have four guys who are not only close in age, but also as a group. It's fun to have a competition knowing that guys are pushing each other every day."

IS THIS THE SEASON THEY'VE BEEN WAITING FOR IN HAPPY VALLEY?

Patrick Stevens | US Lacrosse Magazine | Feb. 23, 2017

The signs were there last year, when Penn State averaged almost a dozen goals a game, knocked off Denver and played almost everyone it encountered tough.

The Nittany Lions didn't make the NCAA tournament, but with only one starter departing, there was some promise in Happy Valley.

It still had to happen, though. The wait for the breakout might — might — be over as No. 10 Penn State (3-0) ranks second in the country with 18.7 goals per game with the help of a lot of holdovers coupled with the arrival of freshman Mac O'Keefe.

"You've got eight of the nine playing who played for us last year," coach Jeff Tambroni said. "That kind of maturity and chemistry is playing a role. These guys are fairly familiar with the offense also familiar with each other. They each got a little bit better. They're collectively doing a better job of managing their tasks on a day-to-day basis. Add Mac to that group of eight guys and he only increases the productivity and efficiency of the offense."

O'Keefe, a member of last year's U.S. under-19 national team, is an obvious headline with 16 goals and three assists in his first three college games, while Grant Ament (11 goals, eight assists) is following up on a promising freshman year during which he led Penn State with 54 points.

Eight players already have multiple goals, though Tambroni points to another factor in bolstering the offense. Gerard Arceri has won 70.7 percent of his faceoffs just a year after the Nittany Lions won 47 percent of their attempts.

"We hoped we would be a bit better, and the other side of it is faceoffs," Tambroni said. "Look at Gerard Arceri as a freshman faceoff man. He is a big reason that are season has gone as it has. We're winning a lot more faceoffs. He's provided a huge boost, and it's just provided more opportunities and more touches on offense. The more opportunities they get, the more productive they are."

And that makes it more likely this could be the season so many have anticipated since Tambroni left Cornell for Penn State after the 2010 season. Penn State made the NCAA tournament in 2013 but went 20-22 over the next three years.

Last year could have unfolded differently were it not for consecutive one-goal losses to Maryland, Johns Hopkins and Rutgers (the latter two in overtime) in April. Flip two of those results, and Penn State has 10 victories and a strong NCAA tournament case.

"We were getting a lot closer," Tambroni said. "We were competitive against Denver, competitive against Maryland, competitive against Hopkins, competitive against Rutgers --- playoff-caliber teams --- but we weren't getting over the top. We felt we were competitive enough to be in every game. We had a couple unfortunate and extenuating injuries and the tragedy to our goalie [the late Connor Darcey]. It was just too much for us to overcome with a young team."

These Nittany Lions aren't devoid of experience with four seniors starting. But their leading scorer, faceoff man and goalie (Colby Kneese) are all freshmen. They could plateau as the year unfolds.

Tambroni is reluctant to get too far ahead of things so early in the season, but he is unmistakably upbeat about the early returns as Penn State enters Saturday's trip to Villanova.

"This is a fun group to be with," Tambroni said. "They've really bought into the approach of working hard and getting better. There's optimism. Hopefully, this will be a year we take the step forward that we haven't been able to take the last couple years."

PENN STATE OFF TO HISTORIC START AFTER 17-12 WIN OVER 'NOVA

Joe Santoliquito | Inside Lacrosse | Feb. 25, 2017

The heart of Penn State's lacrosse team can be a little erratic. The Nittany Lions are like a spool of thread that unwinds gradually, and then, a quick tug and before you can blink, they roll at you in waves. Then they'll hibernate for a spell, and attack again.

It's understandable considering that of Penn State's starting lineup, eight are either freshmen or sophomores. So uneven play can be expected when the hub are freshman faceoff man Gerard Arceri, freshman attack Mac O'Keefe, who should be the nation's leading scorer after this weekend (24 goals in four games) and freshman goalie Colby Kneese.

Against Villanova on Saturday, before a nice traveling crowd of Penn State supporters, the Nittany Lions carried on their rhythmic ways, with their quick-strike offense far exceeding their sporadic lapses in a 17-12 victory—behind a Penn State freshman-record eight goals from O'Keefe (on 11 shots).

Penn State, ranked No. 10 in the Maverik Media Poll, is 4-0 for the first time since 1992. Villanova, a talented team going through an early rough patch, remains winless at 0-3.

"I think it's a momentum that we have right now, going hard in practice and it's really paying off," O'Keefe said. "The one thing we wanted to focus on today is getting out of those lulls. We had them in the third quarter in our first two games and we let everything go. We're working on the times we (take their energy dips). It's there. We are young, but the older guys are pulling us together. We are trying to get better every day."

Penn State trailed once, 1-0. After Villanova scored the first goal (John Kluh, unassisted), Penn State replied by scoring six unanswered goals to seize control of the game. With 9:21 left in the first half, the Nittany Lions looked as if they were going to run away and hide. Villanova went 18:33 between goals, but Kneese also had a lot to do with that, making 11 saves in the first half—and 18 for the game.

Then the lull came.

"I think we can do a lot of things this year, we focus more on what we have to do to get better," Kneese said. "Our defensive focus is inside-out, and that gives our offense time to come together and establish themselves. We have everyone right now working together. We have the confidence to take on anyone lined up against us."

Villanova scored four of the game's next five goals, drawing to within 7-5 at halftime. Penn State answered that by scoring seven of the game's next 10 goals in the third quarter, once again grabbing command.

"Their offense is really, really good, but their goalie was the reason they won," Villanova coach Michael Corrado said. "I like what we're getting on offense. We're getting good shots. We're not taking advantage of our opportunities the way we need to, and the last two games we've had a spurt in the third quarter when the other teams gets a four-, five-goal run on us. We have to figure out a way to limit those runs."

What's frightening is that as Penn State matures its lapses will become shorter and further spread out. Nittany Lions coach Jeff Tambroni says his team isn't close to where it could be. An though his underclassmen have made great strides in the short time that they've been playing Division I lacrosse, it's been the foundation of seniors Nick Aponte, Matt Florence, Dan Craig, Peter Triolo and Mike Sutton that have set the foundation.

"It is an interesting perspective historically beginning 4-0. We are doing it with a young team, but a young team led by a veteran group," Tambroni said. "These guys aren't where they are without Nick Aponte, Danny Craig, Matt Florence, Michael Sutton and Peter Triolo. They might not be getting the recognition as the other guys, but they're our steady pieces every day. They understand how to lead, how to practice, and those contributions may not always show up on a stat sheet, but they show in how we're playing."

"They've made it easier for the younger guys and we're excited the younger guys are playing with so much confidence. Last year, we tried to pick up the pace of our game, but it just wasn't conducive for us the way we were facing off and maintaining possessions. This year, we have Mac O'Keefe, another year of Grant Ament and Nick Spillane, grouped with those seniors. Kneese is making big saves at the other end, and the pieces are falling into place."

"We wanted to play at a certain pace and build a certain identity. We're getting there. I still think we're growing. I still think we need some pieces that need to develop. We beat what I think is a very good Villanova team. We'll go home and have humility and hunger, and think about Penn coming up."

PENN STATE'S MAC O'KEEFE IS LIGHTING UP THE NATION

Joe Santoliquito | Inside Lacrosse | Mar. 2, 2017

It served as his own private shot incubator. It still does, to a degree. Mistakes, and there were many, were tangible. The brown wooden fence in Mac O'Keefe's backyard took the brunt of each miss. The fence, which has since been restored, was at one time in shambles. Pocked by white, round blotches and splintered in other areas, O'Keefe's backstop took a beating through the years. The family dog would go in and out because the fence had so many gaping holes in it.

That fence is where it started. Where the vision and precision began. The moves against imaginary defenders. The perfected lefty release.

Now the rest of the country is finding out what that fence has long known — that O'Keefe has honed his shot for hours and hours and hours.

It's still early, four games into the 2017 season, and one name stands above the nation in scoring — the sweet-shooting Penn State freshman who has broken all kinds of program records and is bound to break more. Through the Nittany Lions' 4-0 start, their best since 1992, O'Keefe leads in the nation with 24 goals, averaging a nation-best 6.00 goals a game (the next highest is 4.5). His eight goals in Penn State's 17-12 victory at Villanova last Saturday tops all Division I players for goals scored in a game, outdoing his previous best of seven goals against Robert Morris on Feb. 4.

O'Keefe, out of Syosset High School, near the border of Nassau and Suffolk County, N.Y., didn't see this coming. Neither did his coach, Jeff Tambroni. But the word is spreading, and moving fast. After Penn's 11-10 upset over Virginia last Saturday, talk of "No. 3" — O'Keefe — was a hot topic among the Quakers. The Nittany Lions, ranked No. 5 in the Maverik Men's Division I Media Poll, will be hosting the Quakers, ranked No. 8, this Saturday at 12-noon in a clash of contrasting styles. It pits the high-octane offense of Penn State (No. 2 in the nation in scoring averaging 18.25 goals a game) against one of the nation's stingiest defenses in Penn (No. 9 in the country giving up 7.5 goals a game).

Penn's top priority will be watching where No. 3 is at all times.

It comes with the territory of being recognized as one of the best, a talent the 6-foot, 180-pound O'Keefe started in his backyard, getting lost in countless hours of shooting and learning the nuances of the game from his father Brian, an accomplished collegiate player at Fairleigh Dickinson who went on to play indoors in the National Lacrosse League.

Maybe those practice sessions has something to do with Mac's uncanny accuracy. Against Villanova, he scored eight goals on 11 shots. He's No. 9 overall in the country in shooting accuracy, with 24 goals on 41 shots (.585). Like his 24 goals, his 41 shots are also a national high.

"I've broken a few of the neighbors' windows shooting over the years," O'Keefe recalled with a laugh. "I would shoot, and shoot, and shoot for hours. One thing I would do is envision myself making plays before a game, go over things I would do in tight situations. The net is still there in my backyard. I still shoot there. I think the accuracy comes from consistency and a work ethic. I'm never really satisfied with my shot."

"I'm always working after practice trying to make it better. I think it's worked for me. But my freshman and sophomore years in high school, I didn't score like this. My junior year I hit a growth spurt and I was with Alex Concannon (of Johns Hopkins), and we worked pretty well together. My junior year is when I really came out of my shell and turned a few heads and created a role. But I really didn't see this coming. It's still surreal to me what has been going on, but I really couldn't do anything without my linemates, Nick Aponte and Grant Ament."

An interesting point that bears out statistically: Penn State is No. 2 in the nation in assists/per game (12.25), just behind Brown (12.50).

"I think the chemistry started (between himself, Ament and Aponte) the first few weeks of practice, getting to know them and their tendencies with me," O'Keefe said. "They were figuring me out and finding me, and the same thing with me and them. We really gelled together pretty well. If I just flash my stick a half second, or I make eye contact with them, they're going to throw me the ball. It's insane, and it's the other way around. I couldn't do this without my teammates."

"It's awesome that they have that kind of trust in me. I know that I'm not going to have eight goals every single time I'm out on the field, and if they try and take me out of the game, there are two other guys that can get to the net extremely well. If anyone tries to take away one part, there are two other guys that can do the job. All of this attention is awesome right now. I try not to let it get to my head and focus on what we can do every day to get better. But you're talking about college kids on their phones, and it is all around us. Personally, I try the best I can to focus on what we can do, rather than what people are talking about."

Tambroni found O'Keefe through the summer recruiting circuit. He liked O'Keefe's lacrosse background and his father's experience in box lacrosse.

"Mac really grew up as much in the indoor game as he did the outdoor game," Tambroni said. "He's played up in Canada quite a bit. His skill set comes from his father's experience, and not just the skill set, but his father passed along the passion to Mac. It shows every day I see him practicing."

Tambroni says O'Keefe is more of a scorer than a shooter, which again could come from his box lacrosse roots, since the indoor game relies on precision, because the goals are so small and the goalie equipment is so large.

"The indoor game requires certain deception in how you shoot the ball, it requires a certain mentality with no fear of failure, because you're probably going to miss more than you're going to make, so you're willing and courageous enough to keep shooting in the indoor game without perfection, and Mac has lot of that," Tambroni said. "Mac's range is anywhere between 15, 16 yards and in, but he's become a very deceptive and intuitive shooter. He understands what it means to tilt his body certain ways and shoot the ball in certain spots."

"His raw ability to develop velocity with his mindset as a scorer combines a lot of ways. Seeing Mac score eight goals is not uncommon. That's a direct result for how much time he spends on his craft. He spends hours upon hours shooting. He just loves to shoot."

Now come the steps ahead. Slaying the world in March in much different from being there when it counts in May.

The Nittany Lions have a nice team, a squad certainly worthy of an NCAA tournament berth. Where Penn State goes from here may depend on O'Keefe's progression.

"I would be lying if I said I thought Mac would have this type of impact at this point of his career," Tambroni said. "Mac's earned the respect of his older teammates through his work in the classroom, in the weight room and on the field. I remember during the fall the second time he had the ball, he had an assist with a behind-the-back pass. That's when it sinks in you have someone a little different here. That tells you he has the confidence and ability to make a play like that. He's loosened everyone up. Being creative is one thing, being able to do it something else."

"Another plus is Mac is a humble kid, and that's mom and dad. He doesn't get too carried away with anything. It's also important to know he has a group of seasoned players around him. They've mentored him and allowed him to be in this position. We have a mature enough team, which understands the potential minus the interference of the outside world, that isn't overwhelmed or concerned with what's going on. It's nice to be recognized. The objective for this week is to make sure that we understand that our performance is going to equal our potential, minus interference. We have to stay true to who we are."

Which right now is a dangerously good team led by a dangerously good freshman no one saw coming.

MAC O'KEEFE'S BOX EXPERIENCE MADE HIM A BETTER FINISHER

Corey McLaughlin | US Lacrosse Magazine | Mar. 7, 2017

It's only five games into his freshman season, but 25 goals, the ability to get his hands free in phone booth-type small spaces, and a shooting range from 15 yards, anywhere on the field, has drawn Penn State rookie attackman Mac O'Keefe some deserved attention.

His five goals per game average for the undefeated and third-ranked Nittany Lions (5-0) currently leads the nation. He scored seven against Robert Morris in his college debut, and O'Keefe's eight goals against Villanova, in just his fourth game, set a Penn State freshman record.

The Lions' offense has averaged 17.40 goals per game, second best in NCAA Division I behind Brown (17.67). And after a 14-13 comeback win on Saturday at home against Penn, Penn State is 5-0 heading into a Tuesday afternoon game with Furman, and it is off to the program's best start since 1992.

To say O'Keefe's filled the finishing role left open by graduated senior TJ Sanders is an understatement. The rare Long Island product (Syosset, N.Y.) with youth box lacrosse experience, the 19-year-old, 6-foot, 180-pound lefty complements dodgers Grant Ament, a sophomore, and Nick Aponte, the team's solo senior captain, on Penn State's attack. The latter two are confident tossing passes the freshman's way.

Ament (14 goals, 14 assists) and O'Keefe, shooting 52 percent, are tied for the team lead with 28 points. Aponte has six goals and 10 assists.

"If I get my hands free and they beat their guy," O'Keefe said of his attack-mates, "it works out really well."

O'Keefe's father, Brian, played professionally in the National Lacrosse League for the New York Saints and Anaheim Storm and the younger O'Keefe has indoor lacrosse experience, and in Canada.

"From about 15 and in, he's normally lights out," said Ament, a sophomore who last year led the Lions in points with 54 points. "He's an incredible shooter, and he brings a lot of creativity to my game and I think Nick's game."

O'Keefe showed that game too with the gold-medal-winning U.S. under-19 men's national team this summer in Canada. O'Keefe scored 11 goals with four assists in six games at the Federation of International Lacrosse U19 World Championship. He often scored through tight coverage with his stick blasting into opponents on his follow-through, or by shooting wormburners, or high heat.

Penn held O'Keefe to his lowest-scoring output of the season, one goal on seven shots, on Saturday, and he expects more attention from defenses moving forward. The Quakers didn't slide from him, but in a sign of how deep and balanced the Penn State offense may be this year, it got five goals from midfielder Nick Spillane, three assists from Ament, and seven other players scored. Fellow freshman Gerard Arceri won 24 of 31 faceoffs to give Penn State plenty of possessions and the offense cashed in to rally from a 7-3 second-quarter deficit.

"It shows how much trust we have in one another," O'Keefe said, "and how much chemistry we've built since they beginning of the year. We're working at that every day, and I think it's getting better every day."

NO. 3 PENN STATE HOLDS OFF HARVARD 15-12

Kyle Devitte | Inside Lacrosse | Mar. 11, 2017

No. 3 Penn State used two second half runs to surge past previously undefeated Harvard 15-12.

Freshman wunkerkind Mac O'Keefe continued his prodigious goal output and finished with a hat trick, including two key tallies to stifle Crimson runs in the first and second half. Harvard battled back in the third and fourth quarters, but fell just short of taking out the Nittany Lions under a bubble at Harvard.

The Crimson started strong, scoring the game's first goal by using their speedforce-infused dodgers to put PSU on the back foot from the jump. A goal from Harvard's Peter Blynn (2G) at just after the 12-minute mark opened the occasion, but was quickly matched by PSU senior Matt Sutton's (2, 1) tally minutes later.

The two teams continued to trade goals in the opening stanza thanks to the perfect storm of Harvard's voracious ride and Penn State's command of the face-off X — though one begat the other.

"At the X, they were out playing us," Harvard head coach Chris Wojcik said. "I thought we needed to be better on the ground and make it up on the ride. I thought we really showed that in the first half. We rode really well, got the ball back and it was a pretty even back and forth first half."

Were it not for the execution of the Penn State offense and the efficiency of Gerard Arcieri — who went 22-29 at the X — the first half would have belonged to the Crimson. Harvard won the hustle game even though the numbers may not have indicated their efforts off the ground.

"Harvard did a really good job off the ground and in their ride," Penn State head coach Jeff Tambroni said. "They created extra possessions, got to the ball. Harvard does a really good job of packing the box. They keep all six guys around the midline and I think we were just slow in our formation the clear. When you do that, then the clock starts ticking and you start to play with more urgency than need be and make poor decisions — and I thought that was exactly what happened."

Penn State led 6-5 at the break, and although spectators were not allowed due to space constrictions, were an audience present they would have felt that the momentum was with the losing team at that juncture. The Crimson had PSU reeling as goalkeeper Robert Shaw had five of his 10 saves at the break, including a controlled save on an absolute rocket by Matt Florence (3G) near the end of the first half. Shaw's counterpart, Colby Kneese, ended up outdueling him, however, finishing with 15 saves — with two key stops in the second half that quelled Harvard runs.

"I think [Kneese] bounced back," said Tambroni. "I don't think our Tuesday game was his best performance and I think he would be the first to admit that. He practiced really well in the latter part of the week and he seemed really focused coming into the facility. It's not an easy place for either goalie to see the ball, but I thought he really stepped up, which says a lot about his confidence and character."

Tactically, the story of this game for Penn State revolved around the play of defenseman Chris Sabia (1G, 2GB, 2CT), who was called on to smother Harvard attackman Morgan Cheek whenever he was on the field. Sabia had his hands full trying to contain Cheek, who is as dynamic as he is creative dodging with the ball. Cheek's line of two goals and one assist could have been much gaudier had the PSU defense surrendered to the army of picks that Harvard used to free up Cheek, but they switched and stuck valiantly as a unit and forced Harvard to rely on other players for creative flourish in settled sets.

"Morgan Cheek is an extremely impressive lacrosse player," said Tambroni. "The fact that we're talking about a young man who had a couple goals today as being 'limited' or 'shut down' says a lot about who he is. We're proud of the way Chris [Sabia] played and competed; we tried to put him somewhat on an island, but I think the entire defense really stepped up and covered him well."

Penn State only began to pull away midway through the third quarter thanks to a four-goal run that included two goals from senior midfielder Matt Florence, one that he stuck from far out on a diving Shaw, who had come out of the crease to guard Grant Ament (2G, 2A) after his defender was hung up on the other side of the cage. However, Harvard wasn't ready to capitulate.

Back to back unassisted goal from JT Palladino cut PSU's lead to just two goals at the 10:00 mark of the final quarter, the second of which was a remarkable effort as the midfielder fell down after absorbing a hit and torquing his body into shooting position to finish. Another goal from Blynn a minute later put Harvard within one, but O'Keefe scored right off of the next face-off, and then completed his hat trick with a garbage goal fired in from a clustered scrum that Shaw didn't clock until it was behind him. Cheek scored his two goals as the quarter came to a close, but they were not enough as his nemesis Sabia scored a goal of his own with nine seconds remaining to put an exclamation point on the victory for PSU.

Though Harvard didn't come away with the win, it was not an easy game for Penn State despite dominating the face-off X and showcasing a top offense.

"We're fairly young, I think Morgan [Cheek] has been our key catalyst offensively," said Wojcik. "I thought we got some production from guys around him today which was great. Great to get JT [Palladino] back for his first game [of the season] — he finished some plays for us. I think it was a great effort from our team; they really continued to respond when we went down and kept fighting until the end.”

For Penn State, this contest certainly showcased the capability of their offense. Exploding for three- and four-goal runs is a boon for any team, though there are still nuances (clearing, turnovers, recovering on defense) that elude this team.

“I thought we were doing a great job defensively, but they were playing very connected,” Tambroni said. “I thought our offense was being a little bit impatient. We pulled the trigger long before we should have, before we got a good angle or a high percentage shot. I thought in the fourth quarter, Harvard played with a lot of emotion, and I think we got a little tight, but they did a great job of just playing hard; they had no reservations — just went out hard and competed.”

PENN STATE MEN'S LACROSSE OFF TO BEST START IN PROGRAM HISTORY

Ryne Gery | Centre Daily Times | Mar. 17, 2017

While Nick Aponte and his Penn State teammates try not to get caught up in the attention that comes with an undefeated start, they're also embracing their new reality as one of the top men's lacrosse teams in the country.

Aponte said the Nittany Lions look to limit the “noise” — like the team's spot in the national rankings — after earning a hard-fought 9-8 victory over Fairfield on Friday at Penn State Lacrosse Field to clinch the best start in program history. The Nittany Lions, who improved their record to 8-0, survived the upset bid against the Stags in a game that reinforced the type of effort they can expect from opposing teams this season.

Fairfield (2-5) never backed down against Penn State, and the Stags' sideline erupted after every goal by jumping up and shoving each other in celebration.

“It's awesome to be the hunted,” Aponte said.

With the win, this year's Nittany Lions replaced the 1992 team's 7-0 start as the best in program history. Penn State is also among the nation's best, as the Nittany Lions are ranked No. 1 in the US Lacrosse/Nike Poll, No. 2 in the USILA Coaches Poll and No. 3 by Inside Lacrosse. After going a combined 20-22 over the last three seasons and missing the NCAA tournament each time, Penn State is building the foundation toward establishing itself as an elite program.

“We've been here for four years,” said senior Mike Sutton, who scored the game-winning goal Friday. “And we're all trying to make a statement here.”

Penn State coach Jeff Tambroni, who is in his seventh season at the helm, took the job after leading Cornell to three final fours and a national championship game appearance in 10 years.

Tambroni arrived in University Park thinking, “This could be one of the greatest places” to play college lacrosse, saying he saw that potential due to the combination of the school's educational opportunities and its passionate fan base. There are few places like it, Tambroni said, and with hard work, he feels the Nittany Lions can make his vision a reality.

“I think at least the compass is pointed in that direction,” Tambroni said, “but I know we got a ton of work to put ourselves in the position to truly start to feel comfortable that it's where we think it needs to be or should be.”

Aponte and his fellow seniors bought into their coach's vision.

Those players now serve as the leader's for this year's team. And Tambroni feels leadership will determine whether or not Penn State makes the most of its historic start. The coach said his players need to maintain a “growth mindset,” looking to continue to improve and saving the reflection on their accomplishments for after the season.

“If our leadership truly believes that there is something that they can improve on every day, we'll continue to get better,” Tambroni said. “If they don't, we're going to become complacent and be in a position to probably get beat by just about anybody.”

That was clear Friday against Fairfield.

On the field, the Stags jumped out to a 3-1 lead after the first quarter and led 8-7 in the fourth. On the sideline, the Stags celebrated every goal and defensive stop while constantly offering support for their teammates and trying to get under the skin of Penn State's players.

Senior Christopher Giorgio served as the primary instigator.

He urged his teammates to keep the energy on the sideline, praised big plays by Fairfield and took aim at the Nittany Lions. Early in the second quarter, with Fairfield ahead 3-1, Giorgio shouted, “You can't see missiles, buddy” to Penn State goalie Colby Kneese. After Fairfield took a 4-3 lead following a turnover by Mac O'Keefe, Giorgio let him know about it, yelling, “That's on you, O'Keefe.”

Aponte said the Nittany Lions haven't dealt with that much heckling this season, but he knows it comes with the territory.

“It's a good feeling,” Aponte said, “because that means we're doing something right to get to that spot where we want guys and other teams to just come at us with everything.”

MAKING HISTORY STARTED LONG AGO FOR PENN STATE MEN'S LACROSSE

Paddy Cotter | The Daily Collegian | Mar. 19, 2017

Nick Aponte couldn't quite pinpoint the exact reasons Penn State had made history, after the team set a program record with an 8-0 start to the season.

When the asked what went into making history, the senior paused.

“A lot,” Aponte said. “A lot, a lot.”

The senior had certainly seen a lot over his nearly four years as a Nittany Lion. During his freshman year, he was in the trenches as his team was denied a chance to make a mark in the Colonial Athletic Association tournament. He participated in the Big Ten's first lacrosse season in 2015. He celebrated when his team upset No. 1 Denver and grieved when his teammate, Connor Darcey, died in a car accident in the summer of 2015. Those are just a few moments that led the Nittany Lions to this historic mark.

“We've been through a lot of struggles over our years,” Aponte said.

Aponte's journey started with Jeff Tambroni. The coach was in his third year as head coach of the Nittany Lions after replacing Glen Thiel, who had coached the program for 33 years. Thiel had the longest tenure in the program's 103-year history and led his team to a 7-0 start in 1992 before falling to Towson. The next longest tenure was held by his father, Nick Thiel, who coached Penn State for 22 years.

Tambroni was starting to mold an image of what he wanted his program to become after his third season, and Aponte's recruiting class was the basis of bringing that image to fruition.

“One of the biggest reasons was to start that new program,” Aponte said, referring to why he chose Penn State. “I saw this as a potential team to be one of the best.”

However, Tambroni sold his program to recruits by selling the university. He based his message off of his own belief that Penn State was one of the greatest environments in college lacrosse to be a student and an athlete. That message, which Tambroni still delivers today, has resonated with high-profile recruits.

But recruiting was just the beginning. The road to reaching this success wasn't easy for this year's senior class.

“We're digging every day over the fall, over the spring, for four years,” Aponte said “And we're finally getting some results.”

After Darcey's fatal car accident, a new element was added to the team. The meaning of being a teammate was amplified, and Tambroni's image of what he wanted the program to become was even clearer.

Saturday was the culmination of the hard work and heartbreak the Nittany Lions had suffered, but it almost didn't happen. The Nittany Lions were tied with Fairfield, 8-8. The historic streak was in the balance as the last few minutes leaked off the scoreboard.

After freshman goalie Colby Kneese stunted a long possession by the Stags with a series of saves, senior Mike Sutton made a bounce shot that hit the top shelf of the net. That goal was the last of the contest and sealed this 2017 squad into Penn State athletics history.

The culture that has been created through Tambroni's message and Aponte's authentic leadership is bound by certain values.

One of the most important for this year's team is ignoring the noise. Rankings, historic streaks and media criticism can get in the way of winning.

“There are some believers; there are plenty of doubters out there,” Tambroni said. “So I think it's important for our guys just to focus on getting better day to day.”

Tambroni and Aponte know what's ahead. The Big Ten is the strongest it has ever been, and a huge target will be on the backs of the top-ranked Nittany Lions at the start of conference play.

“There still needs to be a growth mindset,” Tambroni said. “It's important for our guys to look less about the historical perspective and save that for when the season is complete.”

DRAKE KREINZ THRIVING AFTER MOVE FROM THE FACEOFF X TO DEFENSIVE MIDDIE IN FINAL SEASON

Andrew Rubin | The Daily Collegian | Mar. 22, 2017

Now in his redshirt senior season, Drake Kreinz has seen his role change throughout his Penn State career — from being recruited as an offensive middie, to jumping in at the faceoff X and now playing his final season as a short stick defensive middie.

Coach Jeff Tambroni described him as an “old soul,” someone that has had an impact on this Nittany Lions team in ways that can't be measured statistically.

“He has got some years on him right now. He has become a sounding board for our team in a lot of ways, not necessarily just the faceoff X,” Tambroni said. “He has been through it. Last year's injury certainly provided him some perspective.

“The passing of his teammate provided him some perspective that is now being passed onto the next generation. A lot of stuff that is probably not statistically worthy, but really helps out the camaraderie, chemistry and development of our locker room.”

Kreinz came in as a freshman in 2013 and redshirted after playing as an offensive middie in high school. He then spent the 2014 and 2015 seasons as the Nittany Lions' primary faceoff man.

In 2014, Kreinz's redshirt freshman season, he went 140-of-211 at the X, winning 61.1 percent of the faceoffs he took.

A year later, as the team struggled through a tough 5-9 campaign, Kreinz stayed above 50 percent and won 129 of the 237 faceoffs, finishing the season at 54.4 percent.

Then injury struck, Kreinz only made two appearances and took 20 faceoffs during the 2016 season, as he was dealing with a foot injury. When he hurt his foot again, and the Nittany Lions had several other faceoff options and a shortage at defensive middle, it was decided that Kreinz was going to move back to middle for his final season.

"At the time, there was only one healthy defensive middle, which was Tripp Traynor," Kreinz said. "We had about three healthy faceoff guys. So I just looked at that as an opportunity to run around at practice a little bit more and then ended up sticking with it. And then continue to stick with it, especially as the faceoff guys do really well. So I just continued to stay at the defensive end and help anyway I could."

Kreinz has taken his two years of faceoff experience at the collegiate level and helped freshman faceoff man Gerard Arceri prepare for contests. Arceri has quickly developed into a huge difference maker for the Nittany Lions. He doesn't have the benefit of experience against any of the faceoff men that Penn State has or will face in 2017.

Many of Penn State's opponents remain consistent on a year-to-year basis, so Kreinz can give Arceri personal pointers headed into matchups.

"A lot of [how I can help Arceri] is seeing little tendencies of guys that I have played that Gerard may be going up against," Kreinz said. "A lot of these guys are seniors that I have played for the last two years, so a lot of it is little tendencies that he might not have picked up on film. Also I'll go work with the faceoff guys a little bit and throw in my two cents anyway I can to help him and Billy [Lombardi] out for game day."

In game, Kreinz has better instincts to assist the faceoff man that most middies have out on the wings. A big part of taking faceoffs at the collegiate level, and something that Arceri has spent a lot of time on, is working the wings into the faceoffs to help pick up ground balls.

Since Kreinz is well versed at the position, he can better assist Arceri than most of the middies, not only on Penn State, but across the country.

"The communication, having the sense on where the ball may go, who has the ball in the clamp, because sometimes it is really hard to see who has the advantage in the faceoff," Kreinz said. "Being at the X, being in there do the faceoffs, you have a sense of where the ball may go, or where it may pop out. It definitely helps a lot."

Kreinz has to spend a lot more time studying opponents on film in his new position than he did when he was taking faceoffs. Breaking down and scheming for a new offense each week takes more time than just studying the opponents' faceoff man.

While Kreinz may have a totally different routine when it comes to studying opponents than he did as a faceoff man, he has the same routine when it comes to conditioning.

"As far as off the field training, nothing has changed. The weight lifting is still the same. Obviously you have to do a little more running, so maybe a little more long distance," Kreinz said. "On the field it has changed a ton. Ninety percent of the defense you play is off the ball, so just knowing the slide packages, knowing what hands guys are. As far as film preparation, that has to go up quite a bit."

NITTANYNS LIONS EXCITED FOR A STACKED BIG TEN

Gary Lambrecht | US Lacrosse Magazine | Mar. 30, 2017

Up at State College, where Penn State continues to extend the best start in school history and is ranked No. 1 for the third consecutive week, Nittany Lions head coach Jeff Tambroni is all about perspective.

Are the Lions really as good as their 9-0 record suggests?

"Our guys are cautious and optimistic," Tambroni said. "They're realistic about what we've accomplished so far. We've learned a lot from last year's team. We understand much more about managing expectations each and every week.

"We've established a mindset. We're about yearning to get better each week. Our senior class has done a good job of creating a compass that's been moving forward since August. We sprinkle in a dose of humility day in and day out. Nobody feels like we've arrived."

The arrival of Big Ten conference play should keep Penn State in line. The conference posted a non-league record of 44-8, with five of those combined losses absorbed by Johns Hopkins and Maryland, whose always-nasty schedules reflect that number.

The entire conference remains ranked, including No. 9 Rutgers, which won its first eight games for the first time since 1955, before getting upset by Delaware last week.

The arrival of No. 7 Ohio State (9-1) at University Park on Sunday night – in one of the more unexpected, mid-season marquee games one could have imagined six weeks ago – underscores the urgency of the tests that await the Nittany Lions, who have not beaten a team currently ranked.

The Buckeyes, off to their second-best start in program history, already have beaten No. 8 Denver and No. 15 Towson in the same week.

In Tambroni's eyes, this year's Penn State team, which last year limped home with an 8-7 record by suffering consecutive, one-goal losses in April against Maryland, Hopkins and Rutgers before getting walloped by the Terps in the Big Ten tournament semifinals, is simply a different animal.

It starts with the fact that three freshmen – attackman Mac O'Keefe, goalie Colby Kneese and faceoff specialist Gerard Arceri – have reinvigorated a squad featuring a 10-man senior class led by all-conference attackman and team captain Nick Aponte. O'Keefe, the highly-touted recruit out of Syosset (N.Y.) who played on the U.S. U-19 team last summer, has been as good as advertised as a finisher. His 34 goals (on 43.6 percent shooting) lead the country. Aponte and sophomore Grant Ament each have fueled O'Keefe's surge with 18 assists, while Ament has netted 21 goals on 49 percent shooting.

The Nittany Lions have won 69.8 of their faceoff attempts, largely because of Arceri, who has ignited the runs that have elevated the offense to fourth in Division I with an average of 15.33 goals per game.

Kneese (10.73 GAA, .514) beat out incumbent Will Schreiner for the job and has started all but one game. He has helped Penn State preserve one-goal wins over then-ranked Penn and Fairfield, and his 15 saves put away Harvard in a 15-12 victory.

Penn State might be the deepest at midfield ever under Tambroni, who has switched his top two lines back and forth in the rotation repeatedly, an approach that has yielded impressively balanced results. Sophomore Nick Spillane leads one group with 13 goals and 22 points. Senior Mike Sutton (16 points) leads the other group, with

All signs point to a Big Ten that is capable of beating each other up in the coming weeks.

"[The conference] looks like a gauntlet of bluebloods and currently successful teams," Tambroni said. "Balance and depth have been keys for us so far. We need more of that going forward. But I like where we are as a competitive group. Every day, whether it's in practice or in games, we're enjoying the moment and managing our expectations in the moment."

Tambroni credits the Lions' approach to Dr. Patricia Lally, a sports psychologist who has worked with the team since last fall. After last year's late fade, Tambroni thought the Lions failed to handle the losing that snowballed.

"It took us two or three days to bounce back from the [overtime] loss to Maryland," he said. "The next week, Johns Hopkins [with an overtime win] took advantage of a team that wasn't prepared mentally.

"What Dr. Lally has done is reframe what 'fear of failure' means. Her point is that whether it's through winning or losing, you should always embrace the opportunity to get better. I think that message has hit a home run with this group. But a lot more will be told in the next couple of months."

MAC O'KEEFE'S EARLY SUCCESS REMINISCENT OF FATHER'S DOMINANCE 30 YEARS AGO

Paddy Cotter | The Daily Collegian | Mar. 30, 2017

Brian O'Keefe was about to watch his son, Mac, play in his ninth collegiate game. Brian, who seems to know everyone in the stands, never misses an opportunity to watch his son play.

But when asked whether Mac, currently the nation's leading scorer with 34 goals, would top his own nine-goal game, he smirked.

"No," Brian said. "I'm going to say no."

Penn State's Mac O'Keefe has burst onto the college lacrosse scene.

The freshman is on pace to break the program's single-season record of 49 goals, which was set by Bill Hess in 1957. Against Villanova earlier this season, Mac fell just two goals shy of Penn State's single-game record of 10 goals, accomplished by Rich Russo in 1983.

Even so, Brian is fairly certain that his son won't surpass the nine-goal mark he set with Fairleigh Dickinson in 1986.

Mac's march to the record books is eerily similar to what Brian accomplished during his collegiate career.

Brian played at Syosset High School in New York, the same school that Mac later tallied a county-high 63 goals during his junior year. Brian's high school coach became the head coach of Fairleigh Dickinson, a small Division III school, bringing the attackmen with him.

Over his three years as an attackman, Brian recorded 251 points, which ranks second all-time in program history. He had a school-record 16-point performance — nine goals and seven assists — against Widener in 1986, the same season he scored a ridiculous 64 goals.

But due to the fluctuating needs of a lower-level lacrosse program, Brian switched to goalie during his senior year. In a game against Rutgers in 1987, he made a school-record 45 saves. He was three saves away from setting an all-time NCAA record that would have stood to this day. Brian was inducted into the Fairleigh Dickinson Hall of Fame in 2000.

He played a few years of professional box lacrosse following his college career before deciding to return to his hometown of Syosset, New York.

Coming from a lacrosse background, it made sense for

Mac to fall in love with the game.

However, Mac was a sport polygamist in his earlier years.

He played baseball, football, hockey and lacrosse. At the time, choosing which sport to focus on was tough for the 14-year-old, but time constraints forced him to select one. The final decision was a relief for his exhausted parents.

"Ice hockey was about four or five days a week, so I wasn't really that upset when that stopped," Brian said. "Trust me, it was OK."

Brian coached his son's club lacrosse teams and used his box lacrosse background to mold Mac's style.

"He's always instilled those box lacrosse values into me," Mac said. "He's always had a stick in my hand from a young age. It's really been a big part of my development."

Box lacrosse features a much quicker and high repetition environment than standard field lacrosse. A smaller goal gives a shooter less net to work with, forcing an attacker to create goals with limited options.

"You have to think very quickly and be able to make decisions under duress in box," O'Keefe said. "I thought that would give him an advantage."

Those box lacrosse values became coupled with what became Mac's most dangerous weapon: his shot.

"He shoots the ball better than I ever did," Brian said. "I think kids in general shoot the ball better than their ancestors shot the ball. The mechanics of shooting, the sticks, and look — he's put in far more time than I ever did shooting."

The commitment to improving his shot masked Mac's undersized frame early in high school. The 5-foot-10, 160-pound then-sophomore was overlooked by top-tier college lacrosse programs. Just like those teams, Brian wasn't sure how good his son was. But Mac's outstanding junior year erased that doubt.

He led his team to the state semifinals and demonstrated the maturity needed to compete at the next level. A day after the county championships, during his senior year, Mac went from sporting his high school's colors to his nation's colors. Mac's play during his final years of high school earned him a spot on the U.S. Men's Lacrosse U19 team.

"They were playing against some pretty high level competition," Brian said. "If you belong in there, I guess you're doing OK."

His "OK" performances assured what Penn State head coach Jeff Tambroni had already thought: Mac was a special talent. In the summer before his sophomore year, Mac verbally committed to the Nittany Lions.

Instead of basing his recruiting message on winning national championships, Tambroni made the Penn State community his selling point.

"Lacrosse was far secondary," Brian said. "For me and my wife, the culture of the kids is what I want my son surrounded by. Every kid has been fantastic. That was very important to me. Much more than lacrosse."

Ohio State and Maryland took a shot at getting Mac to join their respective programs, but one family friend had been advertising Happy Valley to the O'Keefe's since Mac was just starting to cradle the ball.

The friend, Artie Berry, played for the Nittany Lions in the mid-1980s and was persistent about sending Mac to Penn State.

"That guy's been drilling it in my head since Mac was in fourth grade about coming to Penn State," Brian said.

It didn't take long for Mac to leave an impression on the program. Tambroni has deemed Mac the best shooter he's ever had, which is high praise from a coach who's been in college lacrosse for around two decades.

In the modern college lacrosse recruiting world, if you don't have a high-level program offer by 10th grade, you have every reason to worry.

The Nittany Lions' most recent recruit is an eighth grader.

"When I got recruited to be honest, I was pretty small and undersized," O'Keefe said. "Not too many schools were calling my name, so to have [Tambroni] call my name... I knew immediately this is where I wanted to go."

For many, adjusting to college can be difficult under the pressure of high-level college athletics.

"This whole collegiate athletic world is a little bit shell-shocking honestly, and it takes a while to get used to it," senior teammate Peter Triolo said. "It took me my whole freshman year just from academics to playing on the field. Seeing Mac come to the field every day with an open mindset just wanting to get better — it's great to see."

After adjusting to the physical and incredibly fast pace of college lacrosse during practice in the fall, O'Keefe found his niche in arguably the best attacking corps in the nation.

Senior Nick Aponte and sophomore Grant Ament were preseason All-American honorees and have been superb in feeding and opening shooting lanes for the freshman. The duo has combined for 36 assists, many of which have resulted in O'Keefe goals.

But even playing alongside talented teammates, O'Keefe's six goals per game through the first four contests exceeded people's expectations, including his father's.

"No, no, certainly not," Brian said when asked if he expected his son to have this kind of start to his college career. "I thought if he got the opportunity to play with the attackmen here that some really good things could happen. Those two guys, Nick and Grant, are expert distributors of the ball and really heads up and unselfish guys. He's been able to benefit from their expertise."

Defenders have certainly taken note of the freshman's abilities, using strategic slides to prevent O'Keefe from finding any open net. However, that has only done so much, as Mac has scored in all nine games.

A daunting Big Ten schedule awaits the undefeated, No. 2 Nittany Lions (9-0). And the O'Keefe's will be there along the way to witness.

Brian sees a lot of himself in the kid that is taking over the college lacrosse world. Just like his father, Mac is very left-handed. And just like his father, Mac has the grittiness and style of a box lacrosse player. But, to Brian, the comparisons are starting to thin.

"I can't really compare with what he's been able to do," Brian said, adding with a slight chuckle, "but I also didn't play with Grant Ament and Nick Aponte or Nick Spillane, and those guys."

Brian's nine-goal mark has survived nine games, but by the looks of it, Mac seems poised to top it.

PENN STATE USES DEFENSE TO BEAT OHIO STATE, KEEP RECORD PERFECT

Gordon Brunskill | Centre Daily Times | Apr. 2, 2017

After losing every single faceoff in the first half, the Penn State men's lacrosse team picked just the right time to turn around those misfortunes.

Clinging to a one-goal lead to start the second half, Drake Kreinz won the faceoff, sprinted down the field and within eight seconds found the net.

The defense did the rest.

Thanks to a run of six straight goals, highlighted by Kreinz's sprint, No. 2 Penn State turned aside No. 5 Ohio State 9-4 Sunday night at the Penn State Lacrosse Field to open the Big Ten season.

"We just finally played a full 60-minute lacrosse game," senior defender Peter Triolo said. "We knew we had all the components to be a successful team and a top-tier team in the NCAA."

Winning the top-five showdown, coupled with No. 1 Notre Dame's loss to Syracuse on Saturday, means the Nittany Lions (10-0) could vault to the top of the national rankings Monday. They join Hofstra as the only undefeated teams remaining in Division I.

While they are trying to ignore "the noise" of the rankings, as Triolo described it, they also put on a scintillating display in front of a record 3,172 fans.

"It was definitely hard to control emotions," Triolo said. "It's a 7 o'clock game at night and you wake up in the morning and you are ready to go. I woke up at 7:30 this morning and I couldn't fall back asleep I was so excited for this game."

Eight different Nittany Lions netted goals, with two scores for Mike Sutton and one each for Kreinz, Nick Aponte, Mac O'Keefe, Nick Spillane, Dan Craig, Kevin Hill and Grant Ament.

It was the defense that made the win possible, shutting out the Buckeyes over a span of 37:23. Freshman goalkeeper Colby Kneese made 13 saves, but got a lot of help from his teammates.

"It was unbelievable," Kneese said. "We scouted three of their best players and they probably had under eight shots. When all their second guys are getting off shots from distance, that's just part of my job that I have to do."

He was tested, though, with a number of denials on high-quality Ohio State (9-2) attempts for the fewest goals allowed in a game by the Lions this season.

"He looked like he was seeing the ball very well," Penn State coach Jeff Tambroni said. "They've got some really sharp shooters on that team, so that's not an easy task. But I thought he was surrounded by a group of defenders that really just competed with a ton of heart tonight."

The decisive shutout span lasted from 10 seconds into the second quarter, when Ryan Terefenko scored to give the Buckeyes a 3-2 lead, to the 7:27 mark of the fourth quarter, when Tre Leclair scored his second goal of the game as his team trailed 8-4.

Meanwhile, Penn State was horrendous in faceoffs in the first half, losing all nine draws, but somehow still had a lead at intermission.

"We just kind of held our ground early in not winning any faceoffs," Tambroni said. "Credit the defense because that could have gotten out of hand early with the way they were facing off."

Then it was time for Kreinz to turn his magic, winning that opening draw and racing to his first goal of the season.

"That was a huge momentum boost for our guys," said Tambroni, whose team won just 4 of 17 draws for the night.

"We weren't going to do anything different than we started the game," Kreinz said. "We just wanted to put a full game together."

The victory starts a run of the final five games of the regular season all against ranked teams, and all in the Big Ten. Three are on the road starting with a trip to No. 9 Maryland on Saturday, while only one home game remains.

The Nittany Lions could not ask for a better way to start the final stretch.

PENN STATE MEN'S LACROSSE NO. 1 IN EVERY MAJOR POLL FOR FIRST TIME IN HISTORY

CDT Staff | Centre Daily Times | Apr. 3, 2017

For the first time in program history, the Penn State men's lacrosse team is No. 1 — across every major poll.

The Nittany Lions received 24 of 34 first-place votes in the Inside Lacross poll and, in the USILA Coaches poll, they received 14 of 16 such votes. In the Nike/USL poll, Penn State also remained No. 1.

The rankings were released Monday. The Nittany Lions were previously No. 2 in the first two polls.

Penn State (10-0) has already made history with its perfect start. Before this season, its best-ever beginning came in 1992 when it started 7-0.

In a lot of ways, this dream season has shocked many in the lacrosse world.

The Nittany Lions were 20-22 over the last three seasons and missed the NCAA tournament each time. Now, they've already cranked out wins against No. 6 Army, No. 9 Ohio State, No. 18 Villanova — and two other teams, Navy and Penn, receiving votes in the polls.

One of the key reasons for the turnaround has been Penn State's underclassmen. Freshman Mac O'Keefe is second nationally in scoring (3.5 goals per game), while sophomore Grant Arment — who's second on the team in scoring — is 15th nationally in shot percentage. He's finding the back of the net on 46.8 percent of his attempts.

The Nittany Lions have just four games left in the regular season. Their next test, against No. 8 Maryland, will take place on the road at 1 p.m. Saturday.

ARCERI GUIDES LIONS BACK ON TRACK

Maria Canales | GoPSUSports.com | Apr. 24, 2017

After a pair of difficult losses on the road, Penn State men's lacrosse (11-2, 2-2 Big Ten) bounced back to defeat Rutgers (9-4, 1-3 Big Ten) on senior day Sunday.

For head coach Jeff Tambroni, the 13-7 victory was the result of a hard week of practice and a focus on ground ball play.

"I thought the biggest thing was just effort," Tambroni said. "I thought our guys played with a lot of conviction today and it was just fun to watch. The last couple of weekends we just didn't give ourselves a chance in the middle of the field and we lost possessions, and it wasn't necessarily because of the faceoff 'x' it was just because of the way we were battling for ground balls."

In previous weeks, Tambroni has noted the Nittany Lions have needed to step up ground ball production but haven't been able to get the numbers he'd like. Against Rutgers, the Nittany Lions were able to turn that around, picking up 31 of 55 ground balls on the night.

Senior attackman and captain Nick Aponte said this week's practices were heavy on ground ball drills and that the team relentlessly practiced them day in and day out, knowing they needed to step up their competitiveness against the Scarlet Knights.

"We've just got to practice like we're going to play on game day every single day, and it'll show on game day like it did today," Aponte said.

Aside from ground ball improvements, Tambroni admired freshman faceoff specialist Gerard Arceri for bringing his 'a' game to Sunday's matchup, bouncing back from a tough conference battle last week at Johns Hopkins.

"Gerard was spectacular tonight," Tambroni said. "He certainly set the tone and then he was complimented by the wing play. I thought Tommy Wright really stood out tonight, he was one guy I thought stood out in terms of making simple plays throughout the course of the evening and making a lot of tough plays."

Arceri said he felt the strong effort from his teammates, especially Wright, in addition to other wing players, freshman Nick McEvoy, junior Tripp Traynor, and sophomore Kevin Fox. For Arceri, his own strong performance against Rutgers only help his confidence headed toward the next few games including the Big Ten Tournament, since faceoffs are such a mental aspect of the game.

"These past two weeks have been a learning experience for me, just having those rough days in the faceoff 'x' but I think it's all just really going to come to a point now so I'm really glad it all worked out," Arceri said.

As for senior day, Aponte was happy he could help his fellow seniors to victory, but since there are more games guaranteed in the postseason, there's still much to look forward to.

"It's awesome, it's a great feeling just doing it on senior day too and seeing the whole team come together and play for the seniors was great," Aponte said. "We've just got to keep this going and we have to remember what we did to prepare for this game because we need to play like this for every single game for the rest on, and hopefully we can get back and play another home game in the first round of playoffs."

MENTOR PROGRAM BRINGING TOGETHER PAST AND PRESENT

Maria Canales | GoPSUSports.com | Apr. 27, 2017

The week of the Ohio State game in early April, Penn State men's lacrosse junior midfielder Ryan Keenan checked his email. "Play with an edge this week," read the text in his most recent email. It was from Joseph Staropoli, a former Penn State men's lacrosse student-athlete and Keenan's mentor.

"Reading that was like, 'yes - we're playing Ohio State, we have to play with conviction, you're going to get your emotions up,' and knowing he was invested in how we worked through the week and not only the games, just shows how he knows what we're going through and what we're doing," Keenan said.

This academic year marks the first year head coach Jeff Tambroni, along with a board of Nittany Lion lacrosse alumni have implemented an alumni mentor program. In its current format, former Penn State men's lacrosse student-athletes get paired with a current Nittany Lion to guide them in handling all aspects of student-athlete life including internship searches or career path exploration.

The mentors often give feedback to their mentees regarding job interviews or help with cover letter and resume building. Mentors also provide networking assistance, connecting individuals in industries of interest, also serving as another outlet for student-athletes to seek advice.

Once an idea, the program is thriving in its first year, reaching sophomores, juniors, and seniors on the team. Next year's agenda even intends to expand to all classes.

Although each Nittany Lion is paired with one mentor, since lacrosse is a relatively small community and many of the alumni either played together at Penn State or have crossed paths, it's common for several teammates and mentors to all become familiar faces.

Sophomore midfielder Matt Donnelly said he and his mentor, Marty Coyle, see one another at games, but if Coyle can't make it he can count on other former players to always give him encouraging words of advice.

"When I first called my mentor it was just a typical introduction," Donnelly said. "He explained his experiences here, and basically he offered if I needed anything, roommates, something for school, something for lacrosse, he was all ears. He made it clear that he was someone who is here for me."

Donnelly said it was very easy to connect with his mentor, noting that being from similar areas outside of Philadelphia, Coyle from Pennsylvania and Donnelly from southern New Jersey, gave both of them something instantly in common.

"It was very easy to connect with him on breaks, Donnelly said. "I think that had a huge impact on why the coaching staff decided to pair me with him."

The coaching staff tries to pair the team with individuals who are located in similar areas, with similar career paths, or simply complimenting personalities.

Keenan and his mentor are both from Long Island, New York, but for Keenan, since they are both easygoing, it made the pairing a no-brainer.

"He's just a great guy, it's awesome to have someone who really cares about how you're doing," Keenan said. "Someone just sending you a text or email saying good luck, or me calling him to talk, and sometimes seeing him after games, it's nice to have."

Donnelly and Keenan both said they speak to their mentors several times a week, especially during the season. Keenan said that Staropoli is very supportive, talking to him before and after games, always making the effort to provide uplifting words.

"We also talk about everything outside of lacrosse as well," Keenan added. "He comes up a lot, he always comes to games. He's gotten to know my parents and sits with them during some of the games. It's pretty cool he's gotten to know not only me, but also my family."

Penn State's mentor program isn't just a one-way street though. Several of the mentors themselves have said they've gained a lot from the experience.

At the end of March, former Nittany Lions Rich Makover and Gary Martin, who both played for Penn State in the mid-80s and now serve as mentor program board members, came to Happy Valley to visit with the team. Together, they spoke with the team about how they have benefitted from the experience and where improvements can be made.

"The students have given us good feedback on what they want this program to provide for them," Martin said. "That's what we want as mentors."

Both Makover and Martin agreed that although the project was a little slow to get off the ground, they've seen the team excel both on and off the field because of the program in just the first year.

"Really the stars of the show are the players, when you see them growing it's unbelievable," Makover said. "It's unbelievable to see the growth in their confidence and in their communication."

Makover said that mentors often send emails or letters to one another bragging about their mentee and how they've done academically or on the field, noting that mentors keep up with not only the team's success, but individual athlete's successes too.

Despite an age gap between mentors and mentees, the common bond of Penn State lacrosse bridges that gap and helps bring together decades of alumni with current student-athletes.

For Makover, he's thankful he has been a part of Penn State lacrosse not only as a student-athlete, but now an involved alumnus.

"I put a lot of time into this program, but I've gotten way more out of this than I put in, way more," Makover said. "This is highly rewarding for me personally. We all have busy jobs and busy lives but to really feel that you're giving back to something that, I believe I am who I am in large part because of playing lacrosse at Penn State, so to give back to that legacy is incredibly rewarding."

PENN STATE MEN'S LACROSSE LOOKS TO MAKE MORE HISTORY IN BIG TEN TOURNAMENT

Ryne Gery | Centre Daily Times | May 2, 2017

Senior attacker Nick Aponte and his teammates are aiming to stake their claim as the best Penn State men's lacrosse team ever.

They made history during the regular season, winning their first 10 games — the best start in program history — and rising to No. 1 in the country for the first time ever in every major poll. And, now, they're looking to earn the program's first-ever Big Ten tournament win — and set the school record for most wins in a season — when the postseason begins Thursday.

To achieve those feats and add to their list of accomplishments, the No. 4-seed Nittany Lions will need to beat top-seeded Maryland, the team that ended Penn State's perfect start this season. The Terrapins won the regular-season conference championship and are currently ranked No. 1 in the country by Inside Lacrosse.

Penn State (12-2) will take on Maryland (10-3) at 5 p.m. Thursday in Columbus, Ohio, with a spot in Saturday's Big Ten championship game on the line.

"These guys are excited to leave a legacy that has not been left yet," Penn State coach Jeff Tambroni said Tuesday, noting the importance of winning a Big Ten tournament game and title. "I think the hunger is right there."

In their first two Big Ten tournaments, the Nittany Lions suffered losses in the semifinals to Johns Hopkins (2015) and Maryland (2016). Both losses marked the end of their seasons as Penn State missed the NCAA tournament.

This season, the Nittany Lions proved to be one of the nation's top teams with 10 straight wins before falling 15-11 to Maryland on April 8. Penn State midfielder Dan Craig said Maryland owned the possession battle in the first matchup — when the Terrapins won 20 of 30 faceoffs and held a 34-16 advantage on ground balls. Craig knows his team needs a better effort in that area, and he's not the only one.

Aponte said the Nittany Lions must start stronger after falling behind 4-1 early in the first matchup.

"We felt we started off on our heels last time we played them, and Maryland got off to a three- or four-goal lead," Aponte said. "So we just kind of felt like we were always behind, playing catch-up the whole game. We just want to come out of the gates flying."

Tambroni expects his team to play with a sense of urgency Thursday.

The coach said his team took a relaxed approach all year, trying not to put too much pressure on results. But with the postseason starting, a rematch with Maryland and a chance to win a conference tournament game, Tambroni said it's easy for his team to find motivation going into Thursday.

"I think you tend to have a little bit of a fire in your belly and you want revenge to a certain degree," Tambroni said. "You want to go out and prove to yourself that you belong with those games against some of the nation's best teams."

Aponte helped fuel Penn State's fifth-ranked offense (14.21 goals per game), and he's ready to lead the Nittany Lions into the postseason. He said the seniors will be "jacked up" and added he hopes the rest of the team follows them.

"We put in a lot of effort just to get to the point that we're at right now, so we don't want to let it just slide by," Aponte said. "We only have one more opportunity left."

Penn State will then turn its focus to the NCAA tournament and the ultimate goal.

"We want to get to the NCAA championship," Craig said.

PANZER $3.55 MILLION GIFT TO TRANSFORM PENN STATE LACROSSE, NAME NEW LACROSSE STADIUM

GoPSUSports.com | May 4, 2017

Penn State Intercollegiate Athletics announces $3.55 million in gifts for a new lacrosse stadium. Ken Panzer, a 1982 Penn State graduate, and his long-time business partner at Douglas Emmett, Jordan Kaplan, have committed a gift of $3.55 million to launch construction of the new facility on the University Park campus. As a former co-captain of the Penn State men's lacrosse team, Panzer has a long-standing history of giving to the Nittany Lions' program.

Panzer's latest and largest gift will help take Penn State lacrosse to a new level of excellence by transforming the current field into a world-class stadium. The new facility will be named Panzer Stadium.

"Our men's and women's lacrosse student-athletes are among the most talented and dedicated in the nation. We have exceptional leadership atop both programs, and Ken Panzer's gift will have a significant impact on their continued excellence," said Penn State Director of Athletics Sandy Barbour. "Penn State has a tremendous opportunity to be among the premier men's and women's lacrosse programs in the nation, and thanks to Ken Panzer and Jordan Kaplan, this stadium will be a catalyst to help get us there and maintain the excellence."

The addition of the sport to the Big Ten Conference in 2015 has shifted the landscape of Division I lacrosse, elevating the Penn State lacrosse programs' competitiveness and national exposure. Both of the men's and women's programs, led by head coaches Jeff Tambroni and Missy Doherty, respectively, are ranked in the Top 10 nationally entering post-season competition.

Positioned within view of Beaver Stadium, the Bryce Jordan Center and the Multi-Sport Facility, the new stadium will join these iconic landmarks as one of the top lacrosse facilities in the nation. Panzer Stadium will enable Penn State to host a variety of events, including the Big Ten Tournament and NCAA championship preliminary rounds.

With this gift, the stadium, which will be constructed in the same location as the Penn State Lacrosse Field, will benefit from the following features and capabilities:

- Expanded stadium-style seating for up to 1,300, significantly growing the permanent seating capacity and options available to fans.
- Greater comfort and convenience for fans with permanent concessions, more accessible bathrooms and a ticket office.
- A press box above the new seating with full broadcasting capabilities for television and radio facilitating coverage on the Big Ten Network and ESPN.
- A multi-purpose room overlooking the field which will be used for a variety of lacrosse-related events.

"Our program is eternally grateful for the generosity and commitment of Ken Panzer," said Jeff Tambroni, head coach of the Penn State men's lacrosse team. "Ken is a tireless worker, a loyal teammate and a passionate alumnus of Penn State. We hope to honor Ken, his teammates, Jordan Kaplan and the stadium through our effort, loyalty and compassion for Penn State that is symbolic of the Panzer namesake."

"We are so thankful for the generosity of Mr. Panzer, which has allowed us to move forward with the next phase of our stadium," said Missy Doherty, head coach of the Penn State women's lacrosse squad. "His donation, and Mr. Kaplan's, will allow us to create one of the nation's best venues for college lacrosse, and we are extremely excited to see all the plans come to fruition. Thank you so much to Mr. Panzer and all of our supporters, donors, alumni and fans for making this project become a reality."

Panzer Stadium will help usher in Penn State Intercollegiate Athletics' 20-year Facilities Master Plan which will build new, and revitalize selected facilities across the University Park campus. With the money now in place thanks to Panzer and Kaplan, the lacrosse stadium project is expected to begin this summer.

"I am thrilled to leave my legacy at Penn State and support the sport I love," said Panzer. "My time as co-captain on the Penn State lacrosse team was meaningful to me and I want to continue to support the lacrosse program by creating a facility that matches its tenacity and spirit. Penn State is known around the world for excellence across all endeavors, and the time is right to take Penn State Lacrosse to the next level."

"I am proud to support Penn State and the lacrosse program, a place that has been so important to my great friend and partner, Ken Panzer," said Kaplan. "Throughout our company, we are all accustomed to hearing analogies that are drawn from the teamwork, discipline, and focus he learned as a member of the Penn State Lacrosse team."

Gifts from Penn State's alumni and friends have been essential to the success of the University's historic land-grant mission to serve the public good. To fulfill that mission for a new era of rapid change and global connections, the University has begun A Greater Penn State for 21st Century Excellence, a fast-paced campaign focused on the three key imperatives of a public university. Private support will keep the door to higher education open and enable students to graduate on time and on track to success; create transformative experiences on Penn State campuses and around the globe that tap the full potential of Penn Staters to make a difference; and impact the world through discovery, innovation and entrepreneurship.
