Up to Bat

The Penn State baseball team is set for its historic trip to Cuba, in which it will take part in multiple lectures and cultural experiences arranged by Penn State's partner institution in Cuba, the Center for Marti Studies, and play four games against teams from Cuba's premier baseball league, the Cuban National Series. The Nittany Lions will depart for Havana, Cuba, Saturday, Nov. 21 and return to State College, Sunday, Nov. 29.

Starting Pitching Rotation

- Sophomore LHP Taylor Lehman (Pittsburgh, Pa.) will get the start in the tournament opener Sunday against Industriales. Last season, Lehman ranked second on the team with 41 strikeouts. He held eventual Big Ten champion Illinois to an unearned run in seven innings in his best outing of the season.
- Lehman is the only Nittany Lion starter that has started at the collegiate level. Sophomore RHP Sal Biasi (Hazelton Township, Pa.) will start Wednesday against Ciego de Ávila. Last season, Biasi was the bullpen leader in strikeouts (31) and in ERA (2.62) amongst those with more than five innings pitched. He saved three games and was second amongst relievers with 34 1/3 innings pitched.
- Penn State will go with a pair of freshmen on the back end of the rotation. RHP Eli Nabholz will get the ball Friday at Mayabeque. Nabholz threw a no-hitter as a high school senior to lead Pottsville (Pa.) to a 1-0 victory in the first round of the PIAA Class AAA playoffs.
- The finale Saturday at Matanzas will be started by freshman RHP Justin Hagenman (Vorhees, N.J.)

About Penn State Baseball

- Penn State competes in the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA).
- The NCAA is split into three divisions, Division I, Division II and Division III. Penn State plays in the highest, Division I, with more than 300 other schools. Within Division I, Penn State plays in the Big Ten Conference, a group of 14 schools. The Big Ten is one of the most competitive conferences in all of college sports.
- Baseball is Penn State's oldest varsity sport, being established in 1875. The school opened in 1855.
- Penn State has advanced to the College World Series five times.

Tournament Rules

- Games will be scheduled to go nine innings and will be a maximum of nine innings.
- Wood bats and the designated hitter will be in use.

Center for Marti Studies

Penn State and the Center for Marti Studies in Havana have a previously signed official memorandum of understanding. Led by Cuban task force chair Dr. John S. Nichols, Penn State has long held an official policy of engaging Cuba on educational fronts.

Second Cuba Trip for Penn State Athletics

PSU is believed to be the first NCAA school to send two different teams to Cuba in the post-revolutionary era, as its volleyball team was the first DI team to compete there in March 2000, taking on various national squads.

History in the Making

Penn State is poised to set several historical milestones with its trip:

- First NCAA Division I team to compete against a Cuban National Series team.
- First U.S. team (any level) to play multiple Cuban National Series teams.
- First U.S. baseball team to play in Cuba since restoration of diplomatic ties with Cuba.
- Second NCAA team to play in Cuba since restoration of diplomatic ties (Coastal Carolina men's basketball, August 2015).
- Third U.S. collegiate team to visit Cuba this year. The Princeton track and field team traveled to Cuba in June, while the Coastal Carolina men's basketball squad visited in August. Additionally, a group of Vanderbilt student-athletes and staff visited in July, but did not compete.
- Fifth NCAA Division I baseball team to compete in post-revolutionary Cuba

NCAA Teams in Cuba

PSU baseball will be one of the few NCAA teams to compete in post-revolutionary Cuba. Johns Hopkins baseball is believed to be the first NCAA team to compete in the post-revolutionary era in 1986, and then St. Thomas (Minn.) challenged the University of Havana in Cuba in Jan. 2000. Division I baseball programs to visit Cuba include Washington (Dec. 2000), Tennessee (Dec. 2002), Southern California (Jan. 2004) and Alabama (Dec. 2008). Division II Grand Valley State (Jan. 2012) and University of Tampa (Jan. 2014) were the most recent NCAA baseball teams to compete in Cuba. Princeton track and field (Jun. 2015) and Coastal Carolina men's basketball (Aug. 2015) were the most recent NCAA teams to travel to Cuba. U.S. schools previously competing in Cuba have typically faced teams in the Cuban national program or developmental leagues.

Education

Despite playing on their first full day in Cuba, the educational slate begins before the Nittany Lions take the field. The team will meet with representatives of the Cuban Federation of Baseball Sunday morning and learn about Cuba's system of development for baseball. Throughout the week, student-athletes will also attend lectures by leading Cuban scholars, visit important historical and cultural sites, attend cultural events, and travel in the countryside and get a glimpse of real Cuban life outside the tourist centers of Havana. Thanksgiving Day will feature a lesson on the history of sport in Cuba with special guest Yosvany Aragón, a former star on the Cuban national baseball team.

How It Started

Several months ago, Penn State head baseball coach Rob Cooper was in a routine fundraising meeting when he suggested he would like to raise a fund for an international trip. Director of the Varsity 'S' Club Kirk Diehl asked if he had an interest in going to Cuba. Cooper initially thought Diehl was joking, but Diehl informed him of Penn State's relationship with the Center for Marti Studies in Cuba and introduced him to Dr. John S. Nichols, Penn State professor emeritus of communications and international affairs.

How It Happened

Much of the planning for the trip has been handled by Kate Manni, assistant director for embedded programs at Penn State and Dr. John S. Nichols professor emeritus of communications and international affairs at Penn State.

Manni's responsibilities typically include helping Penn State students with study abroad programs, but she has led the trip planning with her expertise on Cuba and will be traveling with the team.

Dr. Nichols will also be traveling with the team. He retired from Penn State University in 2010 after more than 33 years as a faculty member and administrator. His teaching and research focus was international communications and comparative media systems, and he long specialized in communications issues in Cuba and other countries in the Caribbean Basin. In retirement, he continues to lead Penn State's initiative to establish collaborative educational programs with Cuba. Nichols previously organized and led a U.S. congressional delegation to Cuba and was a consultant to ABC News on Cuban coverage. He also was a frequent witness before congressional committees and analyst on network television and radio, primarily on Cuban issues.

Cuban Baseball

- Cuba's current national baseball system has been in place since 1961-62.
- The "Serie Nacional" (National Series) is the closest equivalent to Major League Baseball in Cuba. There are 16 teams located in the country's 14 provinces, but players are assigned to a team based on location.
- There is a "Super Liga" that runs from May to June comprised of the top National Series players on five teams. The Cuban National Team is selected from this group.
- There are also developmental leagues.

Scouting Industriales

Industriales is widely considered the "New York Yankees of Cuban Baseball." The team has won a league-high 12 championships and draws one of the largest followings in Cuba. Industriales is second in the National Series with a 30-14 record.

Scouting Ciego de Ávila

Ciego de Ávila has been one of the most successful teams recently in the National Series, winning two titles (2012, 2015) since Industriales' last title in 2010. The defending champs currently lead the league this season with a 30-12 record.

Scouting Mayabeque

Mayabeque began play in 2011 after the Cuban government divided the province of Habana into two, Mayabeque and Artemisa. Mayabeque replaced the former La Habana team and plays in its ballpark. The Hurricanes are currently 15th with an 11-33 record.

Scouting Matanzas

Matanzas has never won a league title, but came close in 2013-14, finishing as the runner-up to Pinar del Rio. The Crocodiles are 25-19 to sit seventh in the National Series.

Beyond the Baseball Team

The trip will afford educational opportunities beyond the student-athletes on the Penn State baseball team. Eight undergraduate students from the John Curley Center for Sports Journalism at Penn State will cover the trip providing content for media outlets across the state as part of a partnership with the Pennsylvania News Media Association. The Curley Center students focus on storytelling through broadcast, multimedia and print journalism options.

Cooper Familiar with International Game

Shortly after Penn State head coach Rob Cooper accepted the PSU head coaching position in 2014, he traveled to Taichung, Taiwan to serve as the head coach of USA Baseball's 18U National Team at the IBAF U18 World Cup. Cooper steered Team USA to an 8-1 record, in World Cup play, including seven consecutive victories (defeating Cuba, 6-5, in one contest) to win the gold medal. Cooper received one of the highest honors bestowed in the profession, as he was announced as the Rod Dedeaux USA Baseball Coach of the Year.

Cooper was also a member of the coaching staff for the 2007 and 2009 USA College National teams. The 2007 team earned a silver medal at the Pan Am Games in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, falling to Cuba in the gold medal game. Fourteen of the 20 players on the 2007 team reached the Major Leagues, including 2013 All-Star Pedro Alvarez. Fourteen of the 22 members of the 2009 team have also reached the Major Leagues, including 2015 All-Stars Gerrit Cole and Yasmani Grandall.

Rob Cooper enters his third season at the helm of the Nittany Lion baseball program in 2016. He was selected as the 14th head baseball coach in Penn State history on August 9, 2013 after a successful nine-year stint as the head coach at Wright State.

Cooper brought an accomplished resume to Penn State that included three NCAA tournament appearances as a head coach and five more as an assistant coach, including two trips to the College World Series with Miami (Florida). As a head coach, seven of the players he coached were drafted, including eventual Major Leaguer Joe Smith, and 12 more signed professional free agent contracts. He was twice named the Horizon League Coach of the Year and guided Wright State to three league tournament championships and two regular season championships after the team suffered six losing seasons in the seven years before his arrival.

Not shy about stating his goal of building a Nittany Lion program that will compete in Omaha in June, Cooper has made tremendous progress in just two seasons in Happy Valley. The Lions totaled 18 wins against a schedule ranking in the bottom third nationally during his inaugural campaign, but rose to the challenge under his leadership in 2015, matching the previous season's 18 wins despite playing a schedule that ranked in the upper third in difficulty and involved 10 games against top-25 opponents.

A major part of Cooper's scheduling philosophy involves getting the Lions in "NCAA regional environments" to prepare them for success beyond Memorial Day. The Lions certainly did that in 2015, travelling to traditional powers Texas A&M and South Carolina. Five 2015 opponents ultimately advanced to the NCAA Regionals and two advanced to the Super Regionals.

The early season tests paid off in Big Ten play, as the Nittany Lions rallied from a 7-0 deficit against No. 21 Indiana for their first win over a ranked opponent in three seasons and gave eighth-ranked Illinois its biggest scare during its record winning streak, battling for 15 innings. Penn State ultimately won one more conference game than the year before, despite the Big Ten enjoying arguably its most competitive season to date with a league-record five teams earning NCAA tournament bids.

Penn State's improvement on the field could be traced to the development of its returners and the ability for freshmen from Cooper's first recruiting class to step up in vital roles. Senior Aaron Novak and redshirt junior Greg Guers both enjoyed career seasons, as the duo combined for 12 of Penn State's 16 home runs on the season after the team hit just five the year before. The 220 percent increase dramatically outpaced the national average of 44 percent credited to lowered seams on the game ball. Talented sophomore shortstop Jim Haley also became an offensive force, leading PSU in batting in Big Ten games with a .333 average.

On the mound, juniors Nick Hedge and Jack Anderson enjoyed their finest seasons to date, while newcomers accounted for nearly half of the team's inning pitched. Freshmen Taylor Lehman and Nick Distasio drew weekend starts, while Sal Biasi tallied three saves as a key reliever.

Although Cooper has proven himself to be a great head coach on the field, his strong belief in the first part of the term "student-athlete" is perhaps the top reason he has proven to be an excellent fit at PSU. Even with state-of-the-art facilities, the chance to take on elite competition and a program history that includes five trips to the College World Series, Cooper cites the value of a Penn State degree as one of the top reasons to join his program. The last message to the team before departing the bus upon return from a road trip – no matter the hour – is often a stern reminder to be in class on time and take care of school work.

In two years at PSU, 23 of Cooper's student-athletes have earned Academic All-Big Ten honors. As a military history buff, his speeches to the team often include historical references. He even arranged to have the team visit the headquarters of the Navy SEAL Team VI headquarters and speak with a pair of Navy SEALs – one a Penn State alum – during a travel day on the team's 2015 spring break trip.

Shortly after Cooper accepted the PSU head coaching position in 2014, the California native traveled to Taichung, Taiwan to serve as the head coach of USA Baseball's 18U National Team at the IBAF U18 World Cup. Cooper steered Team USA to an 8-1 record in World Cup play, including seven consecutive victories to win the gold medal.

Not long after the triumph in Taiwan, Cooper received one of the highest honors bestowed in the profession, as he was announced as the Rod Dedeaux USA Baseball Coach of the Year. With the honor, Cooper became just the 16th individual in the award's history to receive the accolade, joining the likes of Scott Brosius, Davey Johnson and Tommy Lasorda.

Cooper was also a member of the coaching staff for the 2007 and 2009 USA College National teams. The 2007 team earned a silver medal at the Pan Am Games in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Fourteen of the 20 players on the 2007 team reached the Major Leagues, including 2013 All-Star Pedro Alvarez. Fourteen of the 22 members of the 2009 team have also reached the Major Leagues, including 2015 All-Stars Gerrit Cole and Yasmani Grandall.

Cooper methodically built Wright State into a perennial contender in the Horizon League with seven 30-win seasons, two Horizon League regular-season titles, three Horizon League Tournament crowns and six Horizon League Championship game appearances. In nine seasons starting in 2005, Cooper accumulated a 286-230 record, including a pair of wins over No. 1-ranked opponents Virginia (3/5/10) and Georgia (3/24/09).

Cooper saw 47 players earn all-conference accolades and 18 garner all-newcomer honors. He also produced five Horizon League Players of the Year, one Pitcher of the Year, three Relief Pitchers of the Year and two Newcomers of the Year.

Before going to WSU, Cooper served as the hitting coach, recruiting coordinator and bench coach at Oral Roberts University. A perennial power of the Mid-Continent Conference (now Summit League), ORU advanced to the finals of the NCAA Austin Regional in 2004, beating TCU twice and losing to top-seeded Texas 7-3, and 7-5. The Golden Eagles, who finished with an overall mark of 50-11 in 2004, also boasted regular-season wins over national powers Arkansas, Arizona State (twice), Creighton (three times) and Wichita State. Oral Roberts also had five players selected in the Major League Baseball draft, two honored as All-Americans by the ABCA and three named All-Americans by the College Baseball Insiders website.

Cooper began his coaching career at national power Miami (Fla.), spending two seasons (1994-95) as a student/graduate assistant on the Hurricanes' staff. While at Miami, Cooper helped lead the Hurricanes to College World Series berths in 1994 and 1995.

Cooper spent the 1996 season as an assistant and team academic coordinator at Wake Forest, then moved on to Tulane for the next two seasons, serving as the Green Wave's hitting coach. During his tenure as an assistant coach at Miami and Tulane, his teams advanced to NCAA Tournaments in 1994-95 (Miami) and 1998 (Tulane). In 1997, the Green Wave won the Conference USA regular-season crown.

Cooper left Tulane following the 1998 season and returned to Sacramento City College, where he starred in the early 1990's before lettering at Miami in 1993. In his first season at Sac City, Cooper helped guide SCC to the California Community College State Tournament championship. Sac City was then the runner-up in 2002.

Along with his college coaching experience, Cooper also was an associate scout for the Los Angeles Dodgers from 1990-92 and has been selected to four coaching stints with USA Baseball in 2000, 2007, 2009 and 2013.

Cooper earned his bachelor's degree in psychology from Miami in 1994 and a master's in sports sciences/administration from Miami in 1996. He is married to his wife, Maureen, and has two sons, Jake and Tyson.
