

NO WONDER PEOPLE DON'T TRUST POLITICIANS!

The Prime Minister says that CLIMATE CHANGE is "probably the single most important issue that we face".

BUT on 8 November the Prime Minister told his MPs to reject amendments to the Housing Bill that would have helped tackle climate change by increasing home energy efficiency targets¹.

The MPs below originally said they would support them², but caved in to pressure from Tony Blair. Their support would have helped not just the climate, but some 30,000 British people who die needlessly every winter because they can't afford to heat their poorly insulated homes.

If your MP is on this list, tell them to stick to their promises to tackle climate change and end fuel poverty. Go to www.locata.co.uk/commons/ to find your MP's name.
