

When in doubt,
talk it out.

What would _____ do?

What would YOU do?

Someone creates an account you know using their name and photo. They turned the photo into a meme and drew a mustache and other weird facial features on it, turning the photo into a joke.

A student has made a comment online saying they're going to fight with another student in the lunchroom the next day.

A cartoon video that has some weird content in it that's definitely not suitable for kids and makes you feel uncomfortable.

You're playing an online game with friends when someone that none of the players know starts chatting with you. They're not being mean or anything, but you don't know them. Do you ignore them or report them?
