PROVERBS 2:6, NIrV

 DO THIS:

MORNING TIME

Greet your child with a hug this morning and say, “Knowing God is the most important thing and I am always here to help answer any questions you have about Him.”

DRIVE TIME

Grab some books with Bible stories or even your child’s Bible and put it in the car for this month. Encourage them to look at these while in the car and tell them they can ask you questions as they read and look at pictures. Remind them, “If you don’t understand something about God, ask.”

MEAL TIME

Q&A for kids: What is one subject or area of life that you would consider yourself an expert in?

Q&A for parents: If you could go back to school or some other training, what would you like to study/learn how to do?

BED TIME

Make a list of things that you know God says are important. If you aren’t sure, that’s okay! There’s one thing that God says is most important to know. It’s something Jesus said when He grew up: Love one another . . . just as I have loved you, (John 13:34, NIV). When you know that, and ask God to help you discover what it means, you’re on the way to the most important knowledge you’ll ever have.
