

IOWA FOOTBALL OUTLOOK

A LOOK AHEAD TO 2008

Young and experienced may not often be used in the same sentence when writing a pre-season outlook for a college football team. But, when 34 of 51 returning lettermen are of the one year variety, those two adjectives would seem to be a perfect description.

That is the case for the Iowa Hawkeyes as the 2008 season, the 10th for Kirk Ferentz as the Hawkeye head coach, approaches. The Hawkeyes do return 14 starters from a year ago, including seven on offense and five on defense (along with punter Ryan Donahue and two kickers who shared all placement duties).

Ferentz begins his 10th season as the Hawkeye head coach ranking third in longevity among Big Ten coaches. He was named Big Ten Coach of the Year twice (2002 and 2004) and was the 2002 Associated Press National Coach of the Year. His tenure at Iowa ranks second to Hayden Fry (20 years, 1979-98). Along with six first division finishes in the past seven seasons, Iowa has won 31 league games the last six years, a figure that ranks third in the Big Ten and 18th best overall among BCS conference teams.

After appearing in six straight bowl games from 2001-06 and gaining bowl eligibility for the seventh straight season a year ago with a 6-6 record, the 2008 Hawkeyes will rely on a number of young players as they strive for consistency over the course of another 12-game regular season.

The Hawkeyes have sold out their home schedule the last four years, setting attendance records each season. The 2005, 2006 and 2007 home attendance average of 70,585 is an Iowa record. The Hawkeyes have played before 30 consecutive home sellouts, also a school record. And, those Kinnick Stadium sellouts have helped Iowa to a stellar home field record. Since 2002, the Hawkeyes have a 32-7 (.821) home record, a mark that also ranks with the nation's best.

The 2007 season can be best characterized in two words: youth and inconsistency. The Hawkeyes did post a 6-6 record (4-4 in the Big Ten), earning a tie for fifth place in the Big Ten. It was the sixth time in the last seven years Iowa finished in the league's upper division. After two wins to start the season, Iowa dropped four straight. Four wins in its next five games made the team bowl eligible and seemed to indicate the Hawkeyes had righted the ship. But, a season ending loss to Western Michigan and being left without a bowl invitation for the first time in seven years was an ending nobody connected with Iowa football expected. Despite the ending, Ferentz thinks much brighter days are on the horizon, again.

The Hawkeyes last season played 11 true freshmen and 20 redshirt freshmen, the third most of any collegiate Division I team. No Iowa football team has ever played that many freshmen in one year and the 11 true rookies were a high-water mark under Ferentz.

The Hawkeyes had a small but outstanding senior class last year. The graduates included three mainstays on offense (Albert Young, Tom Busch and Damian Sims), six on defense (Bryan Mattison, Mike Klinkenborg, Mike Humpal, Adam Shada, Ken Iwebema and Charles Godfrey) and long snapper Dan Olzsta on special teams. The Hawkeyes lost a total of 15 lettermen (six offense, eight defense, one special teams) from last year's roster.

Of the 51 returning lettermen, 34 have lettered just once and only seven are three-year award winners. The roster breakdown includes 18 seniors (up from 13 last season), 20 juniors, 37 sophomores, 17 redshirt freshmen and 24 first year freshmen.

The three-year lettermen include WR Andy Brodell, DB Bradley Fletcher, DT Mitch King, DT Matt Kroul, TE Tony Moeaki, TE Brandon Myers and OL Seth Olsen. Defensive tackles King and Kroul are the only three-year starters on the squad.

All-America candidates for 2008 include King and Moeaki. Moeaki started out strong last year, but missed most of the season with an elbow injury. He's expected to be granted an additional year of eligibility following the 2008 season. Iowa's other top candidates for pre- and post-season honors are Olsen and Bryan Bulaga in the offensive line, Kroul, who teams with King to give Iowa a pair of proven defensive linemen, Brodell, who also missed the majority of last season due to injury, linebacker A.J. Edds and punter Ryan Donahue.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"We will have an interesting make up and be a little unique, with the number of younger players that did get game experience a year ago. We'll have a chance to start six to nine seniors, so we won't be a senior-laden team, yet one of the pluses is that a number of young guys have game experience."

"We haven't had many four-year starters over the years, and we feel great about having two in Mitch King and Matt Kroul in the defensive front. These two have done an outstanding job in providing leadership and acting like veterans. There is a lot of upside in having those two guys up front in our defense."

"Two keys for us will be to stay healthy and develop continuity. We weren't able to do that in the spring, but that's not a huge concern. At some point, we have to pull things together in August, make some decisions and keep moving forward. We have enough ability and talent, if we keep everybody out there and playing at the same time, to have a good football team."

"Getting the RB position settled, just decoding the whole thing, will be a key as well. Whether that is selecting a starter, or deciding to split playing time, we need to settle that equation. That's tough until we get everyone out there practicing, which we should be able to do in August."

"We took a step in the right direction from 2006 to 2007 in turnover margin; we did a much better job last year. The next step is to really make it work to our advantage. We need to convert those opportunities into points. We had a hard time moving the ball consistently and a hard time scoring points last year. If we can maintain that ratio (Iowa led the Big Ten and was 22nd in the nation at plus eight), that was one of the positives a year ago, I think with more maturity and continuity our offense will come around."

Here is a look at the Hawkeyes, position by position:

QUARTERBACK

Junior signal caller Jake Christensen (6-1, 215) returns after starting every game last season. But, after Christensen, the experience level is virtually non-existent. A major task and priority for offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach, Ken O'Keefe, is to develop depth at this position.

Christensen had an efficiency rating of 116.9 and threw for 2,269 yards and 17 touchdowns. He completed 198 of 370 passes and threw only six interceptions. He threw three or more touchdown passes in three games (Syracuse, Indiana and Western Michigan) last year. His passing yardage total is the 12th best in a single season at Iowa. He posted personal highs against Indiana when he completed 24 of 42 passes for 308 yards.

Backing up Christensen are sophomore Ricky Stanzi (6-4, 225) and redshirt freshman Marvin McNutt (6-4, 210). Stanzi played briefly in two games before making significant strides during spring practice. Three quarterbacks are part of Iowa's 2008 signees and could be a factor when practice begins in August.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"Jake Christensen came out of spring as our number one guy. Two things that changed with spring practice; first, all three guys improved from last fall. All three of our quarterbacks are better after spring practice than they were at the beginning. The other thing, the competition was more legitimate in the spring. I'm not sure Jake was pushed by anyone consistently last fall. Now, we are in a situation where Ricky Stanzi has made it a legitimate competition between the two and we expect Marvin McNutt to compete as well."

"Jake, last year, did some things that he'd like to change. Just like every position, like every coach, you'd like a chance to do some things over again. And as I've said before, way too much blame usually goes to the quarterback. If you can see the big picture, in fairness to him, there were a lot of things we were having a hard time with last year, for some pretty traceable reasons."

"Ricky is more confident, he has done some good things on the field, which has made the position better. The competition is good for both players. We'll keep an open mind and see where they are in August. We have total confidence in Jake, I totally expect him to keep improving also."

"Marvin McNutt is not quite at that comfort level yet, but he certainly has improved. It will be interesting to see where he is in August. I think he has the potential to maybe improve a little more dramatically than the other two guys. At some point, I can see him in the race too. I think it's a good, healthy competition right now."

"I'm confident that whoever ends up being our starter in August will have a chance to play well. We're certainly going to count on that. I'm optimistic that whoever is playing quarterback will get more support this year and have a better chance to be more proficient. It's going to be up to that person to do that, we're going to expect that. I don't see any reason that won't happen; I'm confident our quarterback will play very, very well."

RUNNING BACK

Iowa will enter the fall with as much uncertainty and untested talent at running back, as possibly any time in recent memory. And, the running back position will have a new coach directing the talent. Hawkeye aide Carl Jackson retired after 22 years in Iowa City. He'll be replaced by Lester Erb, who previously worked with the receivers.

The departed Albert Young and Damian Sims accounted for 97% of Iowa's rushing yards last season. The talented pair accounted for 1,467 net rushing yards last year with Young totaling 968. Young was a co-MVP a year ago.

Young finished his Hawkeye career with 3,173 rushing yards, good enough for third on Iowa's all-time rushing charts. He also wound up with 4,121 all-purpose yards, which ranks sixth on Iowa lists. He led the Hawkeyes in rushing the last three years and had 25 career touchdowns, a figure which ties him for third with former Iowa running back Ladell Betts. Young is a former first-team All-Big Ten running back. Sims had 1,504 career rushing yards and, along with Young, provided a great one-two punch.

Sophomore Paki O'Meara (5-11, 210) saw limited action last season and also saw action on Iowa's special teams. Sophomore Jayme Murphy (5-11, 207) also had a productive spring, giving the Hawkeyes two players who have experience in the system.

Junior college transfer Nate Guillory (5-10, 185) joined the Hawkeyes for spring practice to get a head start in learning the Iowa system as well. Guillory carried 325 times for 2,644 yards and 28 touchdowns at Coffeyville C.C. in 2007.

Junior Shonn Greene (5-11, 235) will return to the roster this fall after spending a year in the junior college ranks. He could be a significant factor in the race for the starting nod. Greene rushed for 378 yards (5.5 average) and scored three touchdowns during the 2005-06 seasons.

At least two talented incoming freshmen could figure in the running back equation.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"This is a big variable for our offense right now, it could be a position we play by committee. Paki O'Meara and Jayme Murphy did a real solid job in the spring. They gave great effort, performed well and showed versatility. They are zeroed in to what we are doing and give us a good starting point.

Nate Guillory looked like a young player, a new player, in the spring. He had a lot to learn, as you would expect, as a transfer. He improved as spring progressed and showed potential in the last week. A fair evaluation on him will come in August when he gets more comfortable and knows the routine. It was invaluable to have him here in the spring, to get him up and started. I can certainly envision him having a role this year.

Shonn Greene is somewhat of an unknown, coming back after missing last season. Shonn is a guy we have a lot of confidence in. The plan going into last season was to redshirt Shonn, to give him two years after Albert and Damian. The big thing is getting him back into practice and game shape. We've seen him play at running back and on special teams and think he will do very, very well.

We'll keep an open mind with the two first year guys as well. Both have a chance. We'll see how quickly they can learn and see what roles they might be able to carve out for themselves.

We don't plan on changing what we do because of inexperience. The only wild card would be what the first year guys can pick up, more of a situation of what role we put some individuals in. Shonn shouldn't have any problems and I would hope by the time the season begins Nate will be on track with everything."

FULLBACK

It will be different finding someone other than Tom Busch starting at fullback for Iowa. The four-year letterman started 38 straight games for the Hawkeyes. He rushed only 24 times for 62 yards, caught 20 passes for 146 yards and scored five career touchdowns. But his value lay not in numbers and statistics. The blocking and leadership provided by Busch proved invaluable over the years.

Sophomore Brett Morse (6-3, 235) and senior Jordan McLaughlin (6-0, 230) are one-two, respectively, on the depth chart. Neither has a rushing attempt at fullback, but, that's okay in the Iowa offense as the fullback is used primarily as a blocker.

Both McLaughlin (formerly a linebacker) and Morse have lettered while gaining experience on Iowa's specialty teams. McLaughlin was hampered by injuries throughout the 2007 campaign.

Wade Leppert (6-0, 235) is a redshirt freshman who joined the program as a walk-on and had a productive spring as well.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"On the positive side, Jordan McLaughlin is healthy again. He had a tough fall, from an injury standpoint, and it took him awhile to get back into it. We're confident about Jordan and what he can do. Brett Morse may be improved as much as anyone on our team this spring. He really made nice strides. We're confident he has a chance to develop into a good football player.

Wade Leppert caught our eye in the spring, he did some good things. He joined us as a walk-on freshman a year ago. He's not quite ready yet, but he has some potential as well. We feel good about that group and the potential we have there."

TIGHT END

This could be one of, if not the strongest and most talented positions for Iowa. It'll be a welcome sight for new Hawkeye assistant Erik Campbell, who takes over the mentoring of wide receivers and tight ends. Campbell has spent the last 13 years as receivers' coach at Michigan.

A strong positive for Campbell will be the return of junior all-America candidate Tony Moeaki (6-4, 255). He was injured in last year's Wisconsin game and missed the final eight games.

Moeaki played in only four games last year and caught 14 passes for 170 yards and three touchdowns. He's considered an excellent blocker and an outstanding route runner. Moeaki has caught 33 career passes for 422 yards and six touchdowns. His season ending injury also forced him to miss spring practice.

Senior three-year letterman Brandon Myers (6-4, 250) filled in nicely a year ago following the injury to Moeaki. Myers did an outstanding job while starting the final eight games, catching 21 passes for 208 yards and five touchdowns. Behind Myers is sophomore Allen Reisner (6-3, 220), who also saw considerable action last season. He caught only two passes for 31 yards, but played in eight games. Senior Michael Sabers (6-5, 245) is another letterman who enjoyed a productive spring and adds depth to the position.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"We feel good about the experience and depth we have at this position. Tony Moeaki couldn't practice in the spring due to his injury, but we have a good handle on what he brings to the table. Brandon Myers improved a lot last year. That began with his preparation for the 2006 Alamo Bowl, where he made some significant strides. That progress and maturity continued through the season and the spring, we feel good about him.

Two other guys who distinguished themselves, who probably improved as much as anybody on our team during the spring, were Alan Reisner and Michael Sabers. Michael, a fifth year senior, showed significant progress this spring. With Allen, it was almost like he aged two years in a matter of months. He appears much more mature and a lot more confident. In fairness, he wasn't ready in the fall, but he did a good job under tough circumstances. We have four guys that really give us a good start on things."

WIDE RECEIVER

Going into the 2007 season, Iowa had a young and inexperienced corps of wide receivers. The good news in 2008 is the return of most of Iowa's top receivers from a year ago. Iowa's new assistant coach, Erik Campbell, will be working with the receivers and will have many experienced players bidding for playing time. Campbell has been in coaching for over 20 years, the last 13 at Michigan.

The Hawkeyes return four wide receivers that saw considerable action in 2007. Sophomore Derrell Johnson-Koulianos (6-1, 205) was Iowa's top pass catcher a year ago with 38 receptions for 482 yards and two touchdowns.

Following spring practice, senior Andy Brodell (6-3, 202) and junior Trey Stross (6-3, 200) are listed in the top two spots at wide receiver. Behind them are Johnson-Koulianos and sophomore Colin Sandeman (6-1, 200), who played as a true freshman last year. Sandeman caught four passes in 2007 and was also used on punt returns during an injury-plagued season.

Brodell is a candidate for all-Big Ten honors. Like Moeaki, Brodell suffered an injury in last year's Wisconsin game and missed the remainder of the season. He's expected back at full strength this fall. Brodell caught 13 passes for 96 yards prior to sustaining the injury. Sophomore Paul Chaney, Jr. (5-9, 170) is pushing for playing time.

All five of the aforementioned receivers are experienced and have the capability of playing either wide out position. Iowa's receiving corps is talented, yet still young. There's only one junior and senior among the top half dozen wide receivers.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"This is another area where we have good potential as well. Andy Brodell and Trey Stross both had injuries last year, with both missing considerable time during the season. Trey was able to stay healthy the entire spring and I thought he had a nice spring. It was good to see him out there, he has play making ability.

Andy had some work to do after missing so much time with his season-ending injury. A big part of the spring was getting his confidence back that he is healthy, and feeling good, which was accomplished. About two thirds of the way through spring practice he started to look like the Andy Brodell that we saw at the end of the 2006 season. His strength and endurance weren't where they need to be, but there is no reason he shouldn't be at full speed at the start of August. Those two guys have done a good job of establishing themselves.

Derrell Johnson-Koulianos basically missed the entire spring. He did some good things last year as a first year player. We're hoping he will continue to grow; he certainly has the potential to be a good receiver. He needs to gain experience and consistency in his play. It was unfortunate he missed that time in the spring; that impeded his progress.

Paul Chaney, Jr. has potential, hopefully he can continue to move forward and be more involved. Colin Sandeman also missed some time at the end of spring. He did some good things last year. As was the case with Reisner at tight end, he probably got thrown in there a little before his time last year, We're confident he will continue to improve and be a much more confident player this year.

There are some others as well, such as Ben Evans and Don Nordmann, I'm curious to see how they improve and see where they are in August. This is a spot, realistically, where a newcomer could get involved and contribute."

OFFENSIVE LINE

The 2007 season was one of learning, and gaining experience, for the Hawkeye offensive line. A number of new faces did the blocking for the Hawkeyes last year. Despite hitting some pot-holes along the way, the 2008 blockers should be bigger and stronger, along with having another year's experience.

Virtually every offensive lineman on the 2007 roster returns this season. There may be a few players moving from one spot to another as Iowa's coaches look for the best combination, but everyone is back, a year older, stronger and more experienced.

Sophomore tackle Bryan Bulaga (6-6, 301) and senior guard Seth Olsen (6-5, 305) are solid all-Big Ten candidates who will lead a group of tested veterans. Olsen has started 22 straight games while playing both guard and tackle and, as a senior, is a top candidate for post-season recognition. Bulaga started the final five games at left guard last season as a true freshman.

Junior Kyle Calloway (6-7, 317) started all 12 games last year, 11 at left tackle. Junior Andy Kuempel (6-7, 300) and senior Wesley Aeschliman (6-8, 318) are qualified candidates for either tackle position as well.

Sophomore Julian Vandervelde (6-3, 300) and junior Dan Doering (6-6, 300) shared the starting spot at right guard in 2007. Vandervelde started six games at that position until an injury sidelined him for much of the second half of the season. Doering stepped in and started the final five games.

IOWA FOOTBALL OUTLOOK

A LOOK AHEAD TO 2008

At the center position, junior Rafael Eubanks (6-3, 285) has started 21 games over the last two seasons, including all 12 last year. Eubanks was named to last year's honorable mention all-Big Ten team. Senior Rob Bruggeman (6-3, 287) returned to action late in the 2007 season following a long recovery from a knee injury. Eubanks and Bruggeman are both talented enough to be starters and both could be in the line-up at the same time.

Junior Travis Meade (6-2, 285) provides depth at the guard position after starting seven games in 2007. Adding depth are redshirt freshmen Adam Gettis (6-4, 270) and Markus Zusevics (6-5, 255) and sophomores Josh Koeppel (6-1, 265) and Kyle Haganman (6-5, 277). Senior Dace Richardson (6-6, 205) had last season cut short by injury. He is hoping to be able to return to action this fall.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"We have a lot of competition here that is going to be interesting to follow. The guys made progress in the spring. We had a lot of guys in and out of the line-up, which made it a little tough to evaluate. Bryan Bulaga missed the entire spring after having surgery in January. Seth Olsen missed most of the spring and Rafael Eubanks missed a significant portion.

We had the opportunity for a good look at Kyle Calloway, who played a lot last season and, I think he's climbing the charts. Rob Bruggeman was doing well last spring before an injury; he improved and we feel very good about him. Dan Doering and Julian Vandervelde, who shared time last season, made strides during the course of the spring.

We expect Seth and Bryan to be fully healthy, and both have played well for us. Eubanks has good game experience at the center position. Rob was right in the thick of it when he was injured last year. It was a healthy situation with Rob and Rafael competing at center before Rob's injury.

Andy Kuempel has made significant gains from where he was in the fall, which was good to see. Travis Meade is right in the thick of things; he's played and done some good things as well. Wes Aeschliman is a senior who has been very steady. Josh Koeppel and Kyle Haganman are two walk-ons who have potential to help us in the very near future. Adam Gettis and Markus Zusevics are redshirt freshmen who made strides in the spring, which was good to see as well.

We have a ways to go, so it will be interesting to see what shakes out in August. It's tough to predict at this time, but we have good competition and have the potential to have a good group with some depth. We probably have eight or nine guys who could conceivably end up starting. What they do this summer will have a lot of bearing as to how things shake out. Injuries may play a part as well, but everyone should be healthy when we start in August.

If we get Dace Richardson back, that will be a real bonus. We're not counting on that, we won't know about his status until July. It's been a tough period for him with the injuries. It's realistic that we could get him back; that would be a huge plus for us. He has proven he can play well at this level."

DEFENSIVE LINE

A pair of senior all-star candidates anchor Iowa's defensive line. All-America candidate Mitch King (6-3, 280) and all-Big Ten candidate Matt Kroul (6-3, 281) return as Iowa starters at tackle. Both have an impressive streak of starts for the Hawkeyes. Kroul has started 37 straight and King 32 times during his career. The two have been stalwarts in the Iowa defensive front for the past three years. King was named to the first all-Big Ten team by the league coaches and Kroul made the honorable mention all-league unit a year ago. King has 174 career tackles and 39 tackles for loss (-154 yards). Kroul has 181 career stops, with 13 tackles for loss.

Four players with limited experience back up the two veterans. Behind Kroul and King are sophomore Karl Klug (6-4, 255) and senior Anton Narinskiy (6-4, 270). Narinskiy played in six games and had three tackles in 2007 while Klug appeared in only one contest while fighting an injury most of the season. Sophomore Cody Hundertmark (6-4, 276) and redshirt freshman Mike Daniels (6-1, 261) add depth but have little game experience. Hundertmark appeared in six games and had two tackles.

The Hawkeyes lost a pair of honorable mention all-Big Ten defensive ends and must now establish new names at the position. Gone are Bryan Mattison (37) and Ken Iwebema (30), a pair with 67 career starts between them. Mattison had 171 career tackles, 33 tackles for loss (-170 yards) and 20 sacks. Iwebema had 106 tackles, 20 tackles for loss (-92 yards) and 15 sacks.

Sophomore Adrian Clayborn (6-3, 282) played in all 12 games last year and collected 20 tackles. He also had 2.5 tackles for loss, two sacks, a forced fumble and a blocked kick. Pushing for a starting spot as well will be junior Chad Geary (6-3, 261), who played in seven games and collected 11 tackles with two sacks. Both have been bidding their time and now have a chance at extensive playing time.

On the other side of the line, sophomore Christian Ballard (6-4, 284) is listed No. 1 at left end. Ballard saw action in 10 games and had 15 tackles. He was also credited with four tackles for loss (-25 yards) and two sacks. Listed behind Ballard are redshirt freshmen Broderick Binns (6-2, 250) and Lebron Daniel (6-2, 253).

KIRK COMMENTS:

"Our defense starts with Mitch King and Matt Kroul as the foundation. We're counting on those two to really give us a lot, and that started in the spring with their work ethic and leadership. Both had excellent springs.

Anton Narinskiy is another senior who did a nice job in the spring at the tackle position. We have healthy competition with a couple of newcomers in Cody Hundertmark and Mike Daniels. Karl Klug had some injuries last year, but he had a good spring. We feel like we have a good group of guys competing at the tackle position.

At the end positions, Chad Geary certainly has played well and he is in contention for a starting spot with Adrian Clayborn and Christian Ballard. Adrian and Christian got a lot of quality experience a year ago, both in terms of time and playing in key situations. We were able to see them improve week to week; they competed well against good competition. Both are as equipped to play well as Bryan Mattison and Ken Iwebema were three years ago, and those guys started three years. Based on potential and exposure so far, there's no reason to think Adrian and Christian can't come on and develop into real good football players as well. They've got ability and good attitudes.

We also have freshmen Lebron Daniel and Broderick Binns who both made progress this spring. We have a good nucleus that can develop into a strength for us."

LINEBACKERS

(Includes outside linebackers) Iowa lost two outstanding linebackers in Mike Humpal and Mike Klinkenberg to graduation. The pair accounted for 202 tackles last year as Humpal (123) and Klinkenberg (79) finished one-three, respectively, on Iowa's tackle charts. Humpal was a second team all-Big Ten pick while Klinkenberg, hampered by injuries, was an honorable mention honoree. Klinkenberg had 224 career tackles while Humpal had 197. Klinkenberg also was first-team academic all-American and one of 15 scholar-athletes named as a finalist for the prestigious Draddy Award given by the National Football Foundation.

Something new this year will be the person in charge of the linebackers. Darrell Wilson, who's been in charge of outside linebackers for the past six years, will add the other two linebacking positions to his coaching duties. Eric Johnson, who previously worked with the tight ends, will help Wilson with the linebackers, in addition to his recruiting coordinator responsibilities. Norm Parker, who did work with the linebackers, is now concentrating on the entire defense while turning over the specific linebacking chores to Wilson and Johnson.

Much like the situation at defensive end, Iowa will be looking for new talent to seize the opportunity at these two linebacking positions. Listed first at WILL linebacker is sophomore Jeff Tarpinian (6-3, 231). He played in 10 games and had 13 tackles. Backing him up are sophomores Jeremiha Hunter (6-2, 230) and Troy Johnson (6-2, 230). Hunter played in nine games and had 10 tackles while Johnson played in all 12 games, primarily on special teams.

Sophomore Jacody Coleman (6-3, 240) and junior Pat Angerer (6-1, 230) are listed as the top MIKE linebacker prospects. Coleman played in nine games, collecting 24 tackles and four tackles for loss. Angerer played sparingly in four games and had just one tackle while fighting through a season of injuries and illness.

Good news on the linebacking front is the return of Iowa's starting outside linebacker junior A.J. Edds (6-4, 244). Edds was Iowa's second leading tackler last season with 80 stops and 3.5 tackles for loss. Edds, a strong candidate for all-Big Ten honors this year, was steady in starting all 12 games for the Hawkeyes in 2007. He played as a true freshman, in 2006, starting once.

Behind Edds are sophomore Dezman Moses (6-2, 240) and redshirt freshman Tyler Nielsen (6-4, 228). Moses played in every game last season and collected eight tackles and one tackle for loss. Hunter also saw action at the outside position last year and could see action here as well.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"A.J. Edds isn't a three year starter yet, but I think the staff and his teammates all feel comfortable about who he is and what he is as a player. He comes to work every day, does a great job and has a great attitude. He's a smart player and a very good outside linebacker for us. We're pretty solid at the outside position, while the other two positions are up for grabs with about six guys competing fairly equally for the job. It's a good situation right now.

The top two candidates for the MIKE position are Jacody Coleman and Pat Angerer. Jacody did some real nice things last year when Mike Klinkenberg was injured. Pat had a tough year in 2007. He had mononucleosis before camp, that about wiped him out, and then some injuries. Everything went wrong for him; it was one of those years he would like to forget. But, as tough as the fall was, he had a great out of season training, came back healthy, he was back to being the Pat Angerer we all know, and competed very well at the middle position. A wildcard here could be Dezman Moses, who missed a lot of time in the spring. When he was able to work, he also showed some potential. He also worked at the outside spot as a back-up to A.J.

Jeff Tarpinian did a nice job in the spring at the WILL position. Jeremiha Hunter was in and out with injuries in the spring, but he has shown some flashes, as has Troy Johnson. One of the other guys could move over from the MIKE position as well. A dark horse candidate would be Tyler Nielsen. He spent spring practice working behind A.J. on the outside, but has some flexibility in changing positions as well.

IOWA FOOTBALL OUTLOOK

A LOOK AHEAD TO 2008

We have a fairly young group at linebacker, without a senior in the group. I think the potential of the group is interesting and positive. To say that we know who will start would be pre-mature. We'll wait and see how things go in August, but it's a healthy situation.

It was a tough task to replace Chad Greenway and Abdul Hodge as well, but guys jumped in and did a great job. I think we are looking at the same type of thing with Mike Humpal and Mike Klinkenborg; they both did a nice job over the last two seasons. We're losing two quality guys who knew what to do and how to play, but we feel the potential is there for us to keep moving forward.

DEFENSIVE BACKS

The Hawkeyes have to replace two cornerbacks, but have at least four players with starting experience returning in the backfield. Gone are Adam Shada and Charles Godfrey, experienced corners with 48 combined starts. Godfrey, a third round selection in the NFL draft, started Iowa's last 26 games at corner and had 193 career tackles and seven interceptions. Shada was a two-time first team academic all-American and had 131 career tackles and six interceptions.

Seniors Bradley Fletcher (6-2, 200) and Drew Gardner (5-10, 186) are listed on the first unit heading into August. Fletcher is a three-year letterman who played in 11 games and had 53 tackles and two interceptions a year ago. Fletcher has eight career starts, including three last year. Gardner played in all 12 games and had six tackles. Gardner played primarily on special teams, but did a solid job when playing in the secondary as well.

Sophomore Jordan Bernstine (5-11, 203) saw action in all 12 games last season while playing as a true freshman. Listed behind Gardner, he had nine tackles while seeing most of his action on special teams. Bernstine missed valuable practice time in the spring due to injury.

Junior Chris Rowell (6-1, 197) is listed behind Fletcher on the left side. Sophomore Amari Spivey (6-0, 190), who redshirted at Iowa in 2006, returns after playing last season at Iowa Central Community College.

Sophomore Brett Greenwood (6-0, 200) is listed on the top line at free safety, while senior Harold Dalton (6-1, 201) and sophomore Lance Tillison (6-2, 213) are listed number one at strong safety. Dalton started all 12 games at strong safety last year and totaled 49 tackles. Greenwood started seven games as a redshirt freshman at free safety. He had 45 tackles and two interceptions and improved with experience as the season progressed. Tillison played primarily on special teams and had two tackles in 10 games.

Redshirt freshman Tyler Sash (6-1, 210) is listed behind Tillison and Dalton. Sophomore Diauntae Morrow (6-0, 195) is listed behind Greenwood, but could see playing time at either of the safety positions.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"If you start on the outside, where we graduated two senior corners, maybe the silver lining there is that Bradley Fletcher played down the stretch when Adam Shada was injured a year ago. That was the positive that came out of it. Bradley played well and then had a great spring. We're confident he will play well as a senior.

Drew Gardner did a nice job last fall and competed well in the spring. Jordan Bernstine was out this spring with an injury, but we expect him to compete for a starting spot. Amari Spivey is a guy who can come in and help the competition and give us some depth. He's different from a true freshman in that he has been on campus, has played our defense and is a couple of years older. We're counting on that experience to show in his play. We felt good about his potential. He did a nice job in all areas at Iowa Central, playing defense, returning kicks, and in the classroom.

We've got some freshmen coming in that we think will have a chance to fortify the position for us. Somewhat like the linebacker positions, we're up in the air heading into the fall. We'll see how things play out in August.

Brett Greenwood had a great spring at free safety. The game experience he gathered last year has paid real dividends, he's more confident and decisive in his movement. Diauntae Morrow made strides also. They give us a good one, two punch there, and Morrow could move to strong safety as well. We'll go with our two best guys at the safety positions.

Harold Dalton was a starter a year ago at strong safety, but we have pretty healthy competition here. He's being pressed hard by Lance Tillison and Tyler Sash, who both made real good progress in the spring. I would throw Morrow in the mix here too. We made significant progress at the safety spots. It's a situation where we have good front line players out there and pretty good depth as well.

The secondary is representative of our whole defensive team. We do not have a lot of "established" guys on defense. We have three, as far as guys that we have a good idea of where they are and how they will play. The rest we will keep evaluating, watching, and see how it shakes out. I'm optimistic we have enough ability and potential to shape up into a good defensive football team."

SPECIAL TEAMS

The Hawkeyes made strides in special teams play last year. But, the results are not nearly what Coaches Lester Erb and Darrell Wilson expect from Iowa's special teams. The good news is that virtually everyone returns except veteran snapper Dan Olzsta.

Sophomore punter Ryan Donahue (6-3, 180) was named to the 2007 honorable mention all-Big Ten team as a freshman. He's expected to be one of the league's premier punters over the next three years. Donahue averaged 41.1 yards per kick and Iowa's net punting average (39.4) ranked second in the Big Ten. Donahue seemed to get better, stronger and more consistent as the 2007 season progressed.

Junior Austin Signor (6-4, 230) and sophomore Daniel Murray (5-10, 185) shared all the place-kicking chores last year. Signor kicked off the majority of the time. He was 3-6 on field goals, with a long of 41 yards. Signor hit 8 of 10 PATs. Murray hit 7 of 10 field goals with a long of 47 yards and was good on 16 of 18 PATs. As the 2007 season wore on, Murray seemed to be more accurate and consistent. But, Signor has a very strong leg and could see more action if he can improve his accuracy.

Kickoff coverage improved from eighth to fifth in the Big Ten rankings, and as mentioned, net punting was second in the conference. The Hawkeyes need to improve their field goal percentage, which ranked near the bottom of the league. Iowa showed marked improvement in getting to the kicker, as five kicks were blocked last year. The Hawkeyes registered no blocked kicks in 2006.

The Hawkeyes are a team which has always valued the play of special team members. The best way for a young player to get noticed in the Ferentz system is thru exceptional hard work and effort on the special teams. It's no coincidence that good special teams play and good Iowa seasons go hand in hand.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"We always felt Ryan Donahue had excellent potential and ability and we saw more of that as last year moved along. And, we all knew the potential was there for inconsistency when we started. Ryan improved and grew as the year went on and got better and better. Hopefully he can take that experience and have a nice career, we're counting on that. He's got a chance to be a very good punter.

Throughout the spring, we remained inconsistent in field goal and PAT attempts. This is one position I was hoping we would be a little further along than we are now, that we would have a better handle on things. Both Daniel Murray and Austin Signor have shown potential, but both have been inconsistent. Both are capable, we've seen them execute successfully, but consistency is something we have to develop.

We're not ready to go at this stage, but we have months to get there and I know both will work hard. Ryan was able to improve as the season progressed, but we are not at that point with the placements. This is another position where we have an open mind as far as a newcomer getting a chance to contribute. But, like everything else, the guys here have the advantage with experience on their side.

We've been fairly productive with our punt return game for the most part. Conversely, an area we need to make strides is in the kick return segment. It has dropped off the last couple of years. We have to get the right guy back there touching the ball and hopefully we can develop something there."

Injuries have affected our return game the past several years. Last year, Andy Brodell, gets hurt in the fourth game and Colin Sandeman the following game. We have guys on our roster who have the potential to do a good job back there. We'll have to wait and see who is eligible, health wise, to make contributions. We are hoping to increase our production here.

THE SCHEDULE

The Hawkeyes play a 12-game schedule, which includes seven home contests. Iowa last played seven home games in 2006. The opener is August 30th against Maine, with home contests against Florida International and Iowa State to follow on consecutive weeks before a trip to Pittsburgh. The Hawkeyes play four of their first five games at home and have an open date Oct. 25th.

Iowa has traditionally played one of the nation's top schedules and this year is no different. Six of the 2008 opponents appeared in bowl games last year. Iowa opens Big Ten play at home, against Northwestern, Sept. 27th. It's only the second time in Ferentz' 10 years the Hawkeyes have opened league play at home (the other time came in 2001 against Penn State.). Other Big Ten games in Kinnick Stadium are against Wisconsin, Penn State and Purdue. Road league games are at Michigan State, Indiana, Illinois and Minnesota. This is the second straight year Iowa doesn't play Ohio State or Michigan. (Note: Purdue and Illinois are off the Iowa schedule in 2009 and 2010.)

KIRK COMMENTS:

"I like the fact we are at home early, that's a plus with the first three games at home before a tough road game. We felt like it was important to be on the road at least once before we start league play. We know it will be a challenge. Every conference game is tough, and that's true of our non-league schedule as well.

At the end of the day, our focus stays on what we are doing, that is all we can control. We need to anticipate that every game is going to be difficult and challenging, and do our best to speed the clock up and be prepared as well as we can, starting with the opener.

Having the off week is nice; it's unfortunate we don't have that every year. I think it's a healthy break for everyone involved."

2008 IOWA FOOTBALL NOTES

COACH KIRK FERENTZ

The 2002 Associated Press, Walter Camp National Coach of the Year and AFCA Regional Coach of the Year and two-time Big Ten Coach of the Year, Kirk Ferentz (pronounced FAIR-rintz, rhymes with parents), is in his 10th season as Iowa's head football coach. Ferentz guided Iowa to Big Ten titles twice in the last six years and four straight January bowl games, including back-to-back New Year's Day bowl victories (2004 Outback Bowl and 2005 Capital One Bowl). Iowa has posted a 50-24 (.676) overall mark and a 31-16 (.660) Big Ten record the last six seasons. Ferentz, at Iowa, holds an overall record of 61-49 (.555) and a 38-34 (.528) mark in Big Ten games. In 12 seasons as a college head coach his career mark is 73-70 (.510). Ferentz, who boasts the second-most victories by a Hawkeye head coach, coached his 100th game as Iowa's head coach vs. Syracuse (Sept. 8, 2007).

IOWA COACHING STAFF

With the retirement of long-time assistant coach Carl Jackson, who coached the Hawkeye running backs, the Iowa coaching staff has some changes heading into the 2008 season.

The addition to the staff is Erik Campbell, who is now Iowa's wide receivers and tight ends coach. Campbell has coached wide receivers at Michigan the last 13 years and was the assistant head coach there the last five seasons. Campbell was recently named by CBS Sports.com as the top wide receivers coach in college football.

Assignment changes on the Iowa staff include Lester Erb moving from coaching wide receivers to running backs; Eric Johnson moving from tight ends coach to assistant linebacker coach; and Darrell Wilson coaching all linebacker positions after previously working with the outside linebackers. Erb and Wilson will continue to work with the Hawkeye special teams.

HAWKEYE HISTORY

Iowa has played 1,103 games since beginning football in 1889. Iowa's overall record is 559-505-39 (.524). That includes a 353-196-16 (.639) record in home games, a 206-307-23 (.406) record in games away from Iowa City, a 276-340-25 (.450) mark in Big Ten games and a 236-161-15 (.591) record in Kinnick Stadium.

HOME COOKIN'

Iowa will play four of its first five games, including three straight, in Kinnick Stadium. The Hawkeyes open with home contests against Maine (Aug. 30), Florida International (Sept. 6) and Iowa State (Sept. 13). After playing its final non-conference game at Pittsburgh (Sept. 20), the Hawkeyes return to Iowa City to open league play against Northwestern (Sept. 27). This season marks only the second time in Ferentz' 10 years at Iowa the Hawkeyes will play their conference opener at home (Penn State in 2001). Conversely, Iowa played three of its first four games away from Iowa City last season.

IOWA LEADERSHIP COUNCIL

Iowa's Leadership Council for the 2008 season includes four seniors, four juniors, three sophomores, two redshirt freshmen and one true freshman. A member of the incoming freshman class will be named in late August. Permanent team captains are named at the conclusion of each season. The Leadership Council for this season includes seniors Rob Bruggeman, Mitch King, Matt Kroul and Seth Olsen; juniors Pat Angerer, Jake Christensen, A.J. Edds and Tony Moeaki; sophomores Adrian Clayborn, Jacody Coleman and Brett Greenwood and redshirt freshmen Marvin McNutt and Tyler Nielsen.

The lettermen breakdown includes seven three-year lettermen, 11 two-year lettermen and 34 one-year lettermen. COVETING THE BALL

Iowa broke the school record for fewest turnovers in a season (13) a year ago. The previous record was 15 (nine interceptions and six fumbles), established in 1963 (eight games). Iowa ranked first in the Big Ten and 20th in the country in turnover margin (+8). The Hawkeyes had no turnovers in five games in 2007 (Northern Illinois, Iowa State, Wisconsin, Penn State and Michigan State). Iowa's 13 turnovers (seven interceptions and six fumbles), was tops in the conference with Michigan State and tied four other teams for third in the country. The Hawkeyes' six lost fumbles and seven intercepted passes in 2007, tied for 12th and 11th nationally, respectively.

CHRISTENSEN LEADS IOWA OFFENSE

QB Jake Christensen directed Iowa's offense for the first time last season. The Hawkeyes opened the 2007 season with a new quarterback for the first time since 2004. Christensen started all 12 games a year ago, completing 198-370 passes for 2,269 yards. The sophomore threw 17 touchdowns and only six interceptions. Christensen threw three touchdowns or more in three games in 2007 (Syracuse, Indiana and Western Michigan). He was 4-2 as a starter in home games and 13 of his 17 touchdown passes came in Kinnick Stadium. His passing yardage total (2,269) ranks 12th-best in a single-season at Iowa. Christensen enters his junior season having completed 221-405 passes for 2,554 yards and 19 scores. The 2,554 yards rank 13th-best in a career at Iowa.

In his first start of the 2007 campaign, he completed 12-29 passes for 133 yards and a score. In fact, it is believed that he became the first quarterback in NCAA Bowl Subdivision history to start his first two games against the same team (Northern Illinois). In his third career start, Christensen completed 23-32 passes for 278 yards and a career-high four touchdowns vs. Syracuse. The native of Lockport, IL, posted personal bests in completions (24), attempts (42) and yards (308) in Iowa's loss to Indiana. He also threw for three touchdowns. Christensen helped lead Iowa past 18th-ranked Illinois, completing 19-25 passes for 182 yards and a touchdown and no interceptions.

Joining Christensen on the QB depth chart are sophomore Ricky Stanzi and redshirt freshman Marvin McNutt. Stanzi saw limited action in two games last season, while McNutt redshirted.

KING AND KROUL ANCHOR

DEFENSIVE LINE

A pair of seniors, Matt Kroul and Mitch King, will anchor Iowa's defensive line. Last season, the duo combined for 132 tackles, including 16.5 for loss. King and Kroul are Iowa's two most experienced defensive starters. Kroul has started 37 consecutive games, while King has started 32 career contests, including the last 17. King, who has been named to the 2008 Lott Trophy and Lombardi Award Watch Lists, enters his final season with 174 career tackles, 39.5 tackles for loss and 13.5 sacks. Last year, the Burlington, IA, native ranked seventh in team tackles (58), first in tackles for loss (14.5) and QB hurries (5) and second in pass break-ups (7). King, who was tabbed first team all-conference as a junior, registered a career-high 10 stops at Iowa State. Kroul, an honorable mention all-league honoree last season enters his senior year with 181 tackles, 13 tackles for loss and five sacks. The native of Mount Vernon, IA, ranked fourth in team tackles (74) a year ago. Kroul was credited with seven stops in four contests last season, including equaling a career single-game best with 10 tackles at Penn State.

EXPERIENCED RECEIVERS RETURN

Six of Iowa's top seven receivers return for 2008, including its top receiver from a year ago, Derrell Johnson-Koulianos. Other wide outs returning include Paul Chaney, Jr., Trey Stross and Andy Brodell and tight ends Tony Moeaki and Brandon Myers.

Johnson-Koulianos led the Black and Gold in receptions (38), receiving yards (482) and kickoff returns (22-551-23.7). Additionally, he ranked 10th in Big Ten all-purpose yards (98.1) in league games only his freshman campaign. The native of Campbell, OH, posted a career-high eight catches for 119 yards in Iowa's victory at Northwestern last season.

After suffering through injuries last season, Brodell, Stross and Moeaki are back. Moeaki and Brodell suffered season-ending injuries in Iowa's Big Ten opener at Wisconsin. Prior to injury, Moeaki was named the John Mackey Tight End of the Week and rivals.com Big Ten Player of the Week after posting career highs in receptions (8), receiving yards (112) and touchdowns (3) in Iowa's triumph over Syracuse. The native of Wheaton, IL, has accumulated 33 receptions for 422 yards and six touchdowns in two and a half seasons of action.

Brodell's career numbers stand at 58 receptions, 889 receiving yards and five touchdowns entering his senior campaign. Brodell had a break-out season his sophomore year in 2006, ranking first on the team in yards (724) and yards per catch (18.6) and third in receptions (39). His 724 yards rank 21st-best in Iowa single-season history. The native of Ankeny, IA, caught seven passes for 159 yards and a touchdown in the 2006 regular season finale and six passes for 159 yards and two touchdowns vs. Texas in the 2006 Alamo Bowl. The 159 yards against the Longhorns was an Alamo Bowl record. He also had a career-long 63-yard touchdown reception vs. Texas, which was the longest touchdown reception in Iowa bowl history and the fifth-longest reception in Alamo Bowl history. His two Alamo Bowl touchdown receptions (63 and 23 yards) tied an Iowa bowl record with four others.

Stross enters his junior season with 29 career receptions for 461 yards and five touchdowns. Myers, who stepped in for the injured Moeaki after four games, produced 21 catches for 208 yards and five scores last season. Sandeman caught four balls for 55 yards and returned 12 punts for 92 yards (7.7), while Chaney, Jr. had 19 receptions for 210 yards and a score and 13 kickoff returns for 234 yards (18.0).

SPECIALISTS RETURN

The Hawkeyes had a new punter and place kickers last season. Ryan Donahue handled Iowa's punting duties, Daniel Murray kicked field goals and extra points, while Austin Signor handled a majority of the kickoffs.

Donahue punted 46 times for a 38.6 average through Iowa's first seven games last year. Following the Hawkeyes' contest at Purdue, the redshirt freshman raised his punting average to 41.1 on 86 kicks. The last five games he punted 40 times for a 44.0 average and downed eight inside the 20. Donahue had long kicks of 82 (Michigan State), 76 (Northwestern), 68 (Purdue) and 54 (Minnesota and Western Michigan) the last five contests. Donahue broke two school punting records in 2007. The native of Evergreen Park, IL, established school records for punts in a single-season (86) and punt yardage (3,533). The previous records were held by Dave Holsclaw in 1978, 85 punts for 3,107 yards. Furthermore, the 86 punts is a Big Ten single-season record. The redshirt freshman was named Big Ten Special Teams Player of the Week Oct. 29, after averaging 51.6 yards on eight punts vs. Michigan State. Four of his eight punts eclipsed 50 yards, including an 82-yarder that is the second longest in school history. Donahue also earned freshman honorable mention all-American accolades by The Sporting News. Murray was 7-10 on field goals and 16-18 on PATs in 2007, scoring 37 points.
