“As a parent, I am very proud to say that my daughter plays for the Iowa Hawkeye women’s basketball team! Through the two years that Tiffany has been a part of this team I have seen what a class act program it is. From Coach Bluder and the coaching staff, to the administrative team, to the academic coordinator, to the team chef -- the list goes on and on as to why it is one of the top run programs in the country. I know it has provided so many opportunities and memories for Tiffany so far. I feel like the Iowa program has been a great ‘family’ experience for Tiffany that no one can ever take away from her. Iowa has it all.”

“The University of Iowa is set on a beautiful campus and has a proud tradition of academic and athletic excellence. When we first visited the school, there seemed to be a real camaraderie among the coaches, staff, and players. They all showed each other such respect and support and best of all we couldn’t help notice they were genuinely happy and having fun doing their jobs. We knew Coach Bluder and her staff were excellent teachers, but we didn’t know they were also best friends and had surrounded themselves with a wonderful support staff. We had heard about the ‘Iowa Family’ and once we saw it first hand we wanted to be a part of it. Now that we are involved with the program we know how important, supportive, and loyal the Hawkeye fans are and we’ve enjoyed becoming friends with so many of them.”

"Being a part of the Hawkeye Family has been a long standing tradition in the Morgan household. We are very proud of the rich family values that are instilled in each player by Coach Bluder and her staff. The importance of "life after basketball" is taken seriously and building women of character is a part of every daily practice. The coaching staff, the trainers, the academic advisors, the Carver Hawkeye staff, the office personnel; they all care genuinely for the well-being of our daughter. It a great feeling to know that they are in such good hands! Everyone wants them to succeed and find success, not only on the basketball floor, but also in life! We are confident that Crystal is finding that success for both with Coach Bluder and her staff here at the University of Iowa. We are honored to be a part of the Iowa Women's Basketball family! Go Hawks!"

"Sports has been a way of life in the Solverson family for many years. When you see a winner you want to jump on board. After we visited Iowa on our recruiting weekend, we all came away knowing Iowa was the place. It was a feeling you get when you know something is right for all the right reasons. Coach Bluder had taken us into her home, meeting her family and friends. Coach Jensen showed us around the campus and made us feel very comfortable. Family and togetherness is power for success and Iowa has those qualities. Johanna has grown and developed close relationships with her fellow players. The Iowa fans are the greatest fans around and are part of the Iowa women's basketball family. We are proud to be a Hawkeye!"

“As a family, we feel very privileged to be a part of the Iowa Hawkeye ‘family’. As professional educators ourselves, and as for Scholar Athletes at SMS, we have always believed very strongly in the development of the total person, academically, socially, and emotionally, as well as athletically. We believe that our daughter selected the right school because of Iowa’s emphasis on excelling in all of those areas. We consider the nomination of Jenna, as a biology/pre-med student, to the Big Ten Academic Team, along with seven of her teammates, to be one of their greatest achievements. It is a great time to be a Hawkeye!”

Tony and Terre Armstrong

“For us the thing that makes Iowa Women’s Basketball so special is the ‘people’. In the end, it was the main reason Lindsay chose Iowa. Everybody, from the coaches, to the players, to the people in the office, to the trainers, to the doctors, and even the fans behave like one big family. As parents, it is very comforting to know that people care so much about your child both on and off the court.”

Tom and Mary Beth Richards

JAMIE WITH HER FATHER PAT AND MOTHER PAM.

"The Iowa women's basketball program is an awesome program because it is built on the foundation that families are built on. Everyone in the program cares about one another in all aspects of their life. Basketball is of course very important and the players and coaches all work very hard and give 110 percent. However, school, family and friendship is equally important and they genuinely care about all aspects of everyone's lives. The 'family' that has been developed in the Iowa Women's Basketball program is exactly the type of program we had hoped our daughter would be a part of. We are very proud to be part of the Hawkeye Family!!!"

HAWKEYE TRAVEL

The first stop on Iowa's 12-day Italy tour in 2003 was the historic Ancient Colosseum in Rome.

This season will mark Iowa's first-ever trip to the Bahamas. The Hawkeyes will be competing in the four-team Junkanoo Jam, Nov. 26-27, in Freeport. Iowa will open the tournament against Florida and then play either Akron or Oklahoma in day two of the tournament.

Not only do the Hawkeyes play in front of thousands of fans in Carver-Hawkeye Arena, but the Iowa women's basketball program also travels to exciting destinations to play in challenging tournaments. Over the past eight years, Iowa has competed in holiday tournaments in Alaska, California, Hawaii, New York, Florida (2), Massachusetts and South Carolina. The Hawkeyes have also traveled to Utah, Connecticut and Virginia in their last three NCAA Tournament appearances.

During the summer of 2003 the entire Iowa basketball team and staff traveled overseas. The Hawkeyes spent 12 days in Italy touring the country and playing four exhibition games. Iowa visited the beautiful cities of Rome, Vatican City, Florence, Venice and Lake Como. The Hawkeyes' next big summer trip is planned for the summer of 2007 when Iowa will travel to the Greek Islands and Spain.

Iowa also hosts its own tournament every year. The Hawkeyes have won the KCRG-TV 9 Hawkeye Challenge 15 times, including winning five of the last six.

Playing in one of the most demanding conferences in the nation, the Hawkeyes continually play challenging non-conference games. Four years ago, Iowa played the most demanding schedule in the Big Ten and the 16th toughest in the nation. Last year, Iowa played the 14th most difficult schedule in the country.

Iowa has also been invited to play in the biggest and most important tournament, the NCAA Tournament 15 times, which is the second most among Big Ten teams (Penn State).

The Hawkeyes travel "in style" after last year's NCAA Tournament. Iowa flew from Roanoke, VA, to Cedar Rapids, IA, on the Cleveland Cavaliers private jet.

(1) In 2003, the Iowa Hawkeyes traveled to California and competed in the Loyola Marymount Thanksgiving Classic in Los Angeles. In addition to playing in the tournament the Hawkeyes were able to do a lot of sightseeing, including visiting Universal Studios (right). The holiday trip also included ESPN broadcaster Ann Myers inviting the entire Iowa women's basketball team over to her parent's house for Thanksgiving dinner.

(2) Head Coach Lisa Bluder led her team on a 12-day, four-game foreign tour to Italy, August 11-22, 2003. While abroad the Hawkeyes were fortunate to visit many cities and sites throughout Italy. Iowa toured Rome, the Vatican, Florence, Venice and Como. Some of the highlights from the trip include visits to the Ancient Colosseum (right), the Sistine Chapel, St. Peter's Basilica, the Spanish Steps and gondola rides.

(3) Last season, the Iowa Hawkeyes enjoyed a week in the sun in South Florida during Thanksgiving week. Iowa won the four-team FIU Thanksgiving Classic in Miami, FL. Away from the basketball floor, the Hawkeyes enjoyed shopping, a boat tour and also found plenty of time to relax on the beautiful beaches of South Beach.

MEDIA ATTENTION

The popularity of Iowa women's basketball has grown so much that television coverage of the Hawkeyes has more than doubled the past couple years. Not only are the Hawkeyes playing more games on national TV and major cable outlets, but locally as well.

Four years ago, the Iowa Athletic Department and the Big Ten Conference granted permission to KCRG-TV 9 to televise games locally. Since that time, KCRG-TV 9 has televised 14 games. This season Hawkeye fans can expect a minimum of three games to be televised by the local ABC affiliate, including Iowa's game against intrastate rival Iowa State. KCRG's first telecast was against Iowa State on Nov. 22, 2000. The primetime broadcast was the second highest watched program in the state of Iowa that night. In addition to Iowa women's games, KCRG enters its third season of airing Lisa Bluder's monthly television show.

In addition to the KCRG-TV local telecasts, there will be games televised regionally by the Big Ten Conference. The Hawkeyes will be televised once during the 2005 regular season by the Big Ten Conference as their road game at Northwestern (Feb. 10) will be televised live on FSN Chicago. Additionally, the network will also televise all Big Ten Tournament games leading up to the championship game, which will air on ESPN2.

Over the past four seasons, Iowa has been televised 52 times: six times on ESPN2, once on ESPN, 17 times on FSN Chicago, 14 times on KCRG, 13 times on an opponent's local TV station and once by NCAA Productions. Iowa was on the tube 13 times last season alone. The Hawkeyes were 31-21 in games that were televised during the four-year span, including Iowa's thrilling Big Ten Tournament victory over Purdue on ESPN2 on March 4, 2001.

January 5 proved to be a landmark date for the Iowa Women's Basketball Team in terms of television coverage. On that date in 1990, the Hawkeyes met Michigan State in East Lansing in a Big Ten Conference opener that was the first-ever regular season women's basketball game to be televised live nationwide. The game was shown on ESPN.

Exactly one year later, in 1991, Iowa and Carver-Hawkeye Arena played host to the Big Ten-SEC Challenge, the first regular season women's basketball doubleheader to be shown by one of the three major networks. The historic basketball extravaganza, featuring five hours of live coverage, was shown on CBS.

RADIO COVERAGE

In 1996, Learfield Communications signed a contract with the University of Iowa Athletic Department, and has served as the official radio network of Hawkeye women's basketball. And in the summer of 2001, the University of Iowa selected Learfield Communications to continue its coverage of women's basketball through 2005.

WHO Radio in Des Moines, Iowa, is one of numerous radio stations on the Hawkeye Network. It is a clear channel station whose signal is received in portions of all 48 contiguous states and Alaska and Canada, on its 50,000 watt station.

KXIC (Iowa City) and WMT (Cedar Rapids) are also members of the Hawkeye Network. Karen Schulte enters her fourth season providing color commentary of the Hawkeye games. The new play-by-play voice of the Hawkeyes will be announced at a later date.

In addition to providing radio coverage for all games, the three affiliates (KXIC, WHO and WMT) also carry Lisa Bluder's weekly radio call-in show, "Hawk Talk With Lisa Bluder".

NEWSPAPER COVERAGE

Fans can read about Hawkeye action in several newspapers throughout the state of Iowa. A few of the papers that cover the Hawkeyes on a regular basis include:

The Des Moines Register, the Iowa City Press-Citizen, the Cedar Rapids Gazette, the Quad City Times, The Daily Iowan, the Voice of The Hawkeyes, the Burlington Hawkeye, the Waterloo Courier, and the Moline Dispatch.

Every Iowa game is broadcast on radio and over the Internet. Karen Schulte (left) returns for her fourth season providing the color commentary during the Hawkeye broadcasts.

ON THE WORLD WIDE WEB

Media and fans can obtain up-to-date information about the Hawkeyes on the Internet. All of Iowa's games can be heard over the Internet via college sports pass. Live Stats, box scores, play-by-play, coach and player bio information and more can be found on Iowa's official website at:

CARVER-HAWKEYE ARENA HOME OF HAWKEYE BASKETBALL

Without question, the University of Iowa's Carver-Hawkeye Arena is one of the finest basketball facilities in the Midwest. Opened in January 1983, the $18-million arena is one of the 10 largest university-owned facilities in the nation. Two years ago it celebrated its 20th anniversary. It's the site for all Iowa home basketball, wrestling and volleyball contests, as well as some gymnastics meets. This winter the arena will host the 2005 Big Ten Wrestling and Women's Gymnastics Championships.

A unique structure in itself, Carver-Hawkeye Arena became even more distinguished with the installation of a parquet-style playing court in July 1988.

The arena's weight and training facilities are arguably the most complete in the Big Ten Conference. The weight room includes state-of-the-art free-weight equipment while the spacious training and medical care area is prized by the members of the Iowa training staff.

Located on the western edge of the UI campus, Carver-Hawkeye is the centerpiece for a superlative athletics complex. Within walking distance are the Iowa Baseball Field, Fieldhouse, Recreation Building, Indoor Practice Facility, Grant Field, Finkbine Golf Course, Pearl Field and Cretzmeyer Track and Field, as well as Kinnick Stadium, the 70,397-seat home for the football team.

Spectators enjoy an unobstructed view of the playing floor from all 15,500 seats while the most modern lighting and sound systems make covering the Hawkeyes a pleasure for the many members of the print and electronic media.

Carver-Hawkeye Arena also brings in some of the hottest music artists in the country. The Backstreet Boys (right), Red Hot Chili Peppers (far right), Foo Fighters, Tonic, Elton John and the Goo Goo Dolls are some of the bands that headlined the past couple years.

CARVER-HAWKEYE ARENA

Carver-Hawkeye Arena has hosted the NCAA Women's Tournament 11 times and the WNIT once.

Carver Hawkeye Arena has been recognized as one of the architectural wonders of the nation. The American Institute of Architects of Washington, D.C., singled out the arena's design as the winner of its 1984 Honor Award. In bestowing the honor, the AIA wrote the following:

"The lacy quality of the roof structure effectively evokes the natural setting, which, in combination with glass block walls, gives the arena a lightness and attractiveness rare in such large structures."

The Hawkeyes had a season-high 11,036 fans inside Carver-Hawkeye Arena watch Iowa upset No. 13 Penn State, 79-64, in 2001.

OUTSTANDING FANS

A basketball player at the University of Iowa not only enjoys the finest coaching and facilities available, but a student-athlete is also provided the opportunity to showcase their talents to some of the greatest fans in America.

Iowa's women's basketball team has ranked among the nation's leaders in attendance and has been one of the top draws in the Big Ten the past 16 seasons. In fact, in 1985 the Hawkeyes shattered the NCAA and Big Ten Conference attendance records when 22,157 fans squeezed into the 15,500 seat Carver-Hawkeye Arena, and in 1988 Iowa became the first school to sellout a regular-season women's basketball game over 30 hours prior to tip-off.

For 14 of the last 15 years, the Hawkeyes ranked in the top 25 in average attendance, including ranking in the top 10 for nine seasons. In 1988, Iowa established the record for Big Ten attendance as an average 7,071 fans followed the team during league play.

During 1993-94 Big Ten fans set new national records for total attendance and per-game average. The conference shattered its own record (set in 1993) as 427,166 fans passed through Big Ten gates. Ohio State led the way and Iowa was second. The Hawkeyes averaged 7,131 fans per game, an all-time high, ranking sixth nationally.

In 1994-95, the Hawkeye loyalists filled the stands, averaging 6,147 fans per game, ranking seventh nationally in home attendance. In 1996-97, the Hawkeyes ranked 10th nationally in home attendance, while Iowa ranked 12th in the country during the 1995-96 campaign.

Iowa has ranked 24th nationally in attendance the last two seasons. Furthermore, the Big Ten, as a conference, ranked second in the country for three straight years. Six conference teams ranked in the top 25 the last two seasons.

NO PLACE LIKE HOME WHEN YOU'RE WITH THE HAWKEYE FAMILY

Becoming a member of The University of Iowa basketball team means more than just being a player, you're a member of the Hawkeye Family.

The Iowa coaching staff knows how important it is for their players to get the opportunity to play games close to home. Each year the basketball team travels to tournaments around the country to insure that friends and families can see their Hawkeye stars play.

While traveling on the road, Hawkeye players and the coaching staff join in a private dining area to enjoy their pregame meal.

Playing in Carver-Hawkeye Arena the Hawkeyes enjoy the enthusiasm and warmth of their fans.

The Hawkeyes reached a milestone victory in Carver-Hawkeye Arena three years ago. Iowa's 74-59 win over Ohio State on Feb. 18, 2001, served as its 200th win in Carver-Hawkeye Arena. Since its opening in 1983, Iowa holds a 227-54 record in the friendly confines of Carver-Hawkeye Arena entering the 2004-05 season.

The Hawkeyes went a perfect 15-0 on their home court during 1992-93. Iowa also recorded undefeated seasons on its home court during the 1985-86, 1987-88, 1989-90 and 1995-96 seasons, registering a 14-0 mark each time.

The Hawkeyes have been dominant at home under Head Coach Lisa Bluder. The Hawkeyes are 40-17 in Carver-Hawkeye Arena during Bluder's tenure. Iowa went 12-2 during the 2000-01 season. Additionally, the Hawkeyes were one of only two Big Ten teams to run the table during its home conference schedule, winning all eight home contests.

Iowa has ranked in the top 25 in attendance 14 of the last 15 years.

Iowa packed 22,157 fans into its game against Ohio State in 1985, which is a Big Ten record for attendance.

CARVER-HAWKEYE ARENA

The Iowa locker room includes leather sofas, a big screen TV, computers and spacious lockers for the players.

The Hawkeye locker room has a trophy case that showcases Iowa's eight Big Ten Championships, two Big Ten Tournament Championships and one Final Four appearance.

Iowa student-athletes have spacious lockers for their personal and game use.

"The thing I like most about our locker room is the leather couches. I like to take naps on them before and after practice."

Junior
Tiffany Reedy

"We have a great 'front room' where the team gets to bond, hang out and surf the web on the computers."

Junior
Morgan Kasperek

The Iowa women's basketball locker room has been completely remodeled over the past couple years. Highlighting the changes is improvement to the player lounge. Players now enjoy the comfort of leather sofas, a big screen TV and computers with high-speed Internet access. The lounge also features plush carpeting and a high-quality sound system, helping make the Iowa locker room the envy of most women's collegiate basketball programs. The changes provide the Iowa players with an opportunity to relax before and after practices and games.

Iowa's locker area was also remodeled with large wooden lockers for each player's personal and game use. Additionally, Iowa's shower area was expanded to provide additional room.

STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING

Tiffany Reedy executes a squat for lower body strength.

Crystal Smith presses the weight to improve upper body strength.

Jamie Cavey performs a split jerk to work on power.

Strength and conditioning's mission is to enhance athletic performance while reducing the risk of injury. This is accomplished by progression of multi-joint exercises through four phases of training: work capacity (medicine ball circuits, trunk stabilization, combination lifts and repeat sprints at 70%), strength (squats and presses), power (explosive lifts like power clean, snatch and jerk) and speed (high intensity jumps and short sprints). Each phase builds a foundation for the next level.

Basketball is a game of high and rapid forces. The connective tissues of the body resist stretch depending on the rate of force loading. Explosive lifts expose the athlete to high force outputs and rapid loading while preparing the athlete for speed. The multi-joint movements improve muscle coordination, stabilizing muscle groups, body control and timing. These qualities facilitate success in basketball.

Strength and Conditioning Coach

Morgan Kasperek finishes a combination lift with an overhead split squat.

ACADEMIC STUDENT SERVICES

Since its inception in 1979, Athletics Student Services has evolved from a two-person, academic support service to a broad-based, nationally prominent student support services operation. Its purpose is to assist student athletes to become tomorrow's leaders by offering academic and personal support services to assist them in making timely and satisfactory progress toward their degrees.

Athletic Student Services focuses on four important areas — academic counseling and monitoring, educational and support programs, retention programs and compliance services — when working with student-athletes. Following are descriptions of some of the programs, services and opportunities available to student-athletes in those areas.

Athletic Learning Center

The $4.6 million Russell A. and Ann Gerdin Athletic Learning Center, opened in September 2003, giving all Iowa student-athletes a state of the art facility to help them with their educations.

The Athletics Learning Center is a multi-level, 20,000 square foot facility which will provide a computer center, study areas, classes and meeting places for all Hawkeye student-athletes.

The Learning Center will feature an auditorium that converts into two classrooms, separate study rooms for under and upper-class student-athletes that feature 28 study carrels, a computer lab, five tutorial rooms, the book loan repository, office space for Iowa's Student Services staff and a display area to recognize the academic accomplishments of Iowa's student-athletes.

Academic Counseling and Monitoring

Athletics coordinators work closely with student-athletes and their university-assigned advisors from the time they arrive on campus until the time they leave the University. Along with focusing on academic planning matters such as goal-setting, plans of study, choosing majors and degree requirements, athletics coordinators also help student-athletes understand NCAA, Big Ten and University academic policies. They also solicit feedback from instructors on academic progress made by student-athletes.

Tutoring

Tutoring is available free of charge to all student-athletes. Tutors, who are post-graduates and teachers, help with course content as well as study strategies and are available in virtually all general education program subjects.

Retention

A full-time staff member directs the retention program, which identifies student-athletes who may need tailored academic assistance and structure, and implements individualized learning plans to help them succeed. Such plans may include daily and weekly planning sessions with athletics coordinators and retention staff, tutoring, study groups, mainstreaming into on-campus services like the writing center, math labs and services for students with learning disabilities.

Transition Seminar

All new student-athletes attend an eight-week transition seminar during the fall semester that is geared toward helping them make the transition from high school to college successfully. Seminar topics include time management skills, learning and study strategies, the culture and rules of the university, and life skills concerning alcohol and other substances, relationships and intimacy, diversity, tolerance, values and character.

CHAMPS/Life Skills

Life skills programs are conducted throughout the year with and for student athletes on quality of life issues critical to personal growth, such as personal accountability, responsible use and nonuse of alcohol, diversity and gambling.

Career Guidance and Development

Planning a meaningful career and a fulfilling life is an ongoing process of expanding and narrowing choices, beginning when student-athletes arrive on campus and continuing throughout their college career and lifetime. The professional staff works with other career development professionals on campus to offer individual consultation, career development seminars, workshops, referrals to other campus offices and special events like the Senior Recognition Banquet for graduating student-athletes.

Minority Enrichment Program

This program offers a culturally supportive environment in which minority student-athletes have the opportunity to develop friendships and a support network in the university. A core focus group of students and staff coordinate programs such as guest speakers, holiday celebrations, community service activities with the local neighborhood centers, events with Cultural Centers and networking with minority faculty, staff, professional and business leaders.

Compare the Numbers

Iowa's student-athletes have outperformed the University's entire student population each year since the NCAA started requiring a report of student-athlete graduation rates.

ACADEMIC SUCCESS

Hawkeyes Tiffany Reedy and Lindsay Richards receive some academic support from Hope Williams, the team's Academic Coordinator.

"I think that the success that we've had in the classroom shows Iowa's commitment to the student-athlete. With Lindsey Meder being one of the top-five academic players in America two straight years (2001-02) and having eight players on the Academic All-Big Ten Team last season speaks volumes about our commitment to academics. Our players have proven that they can do both at a school like Iowa. They can achieve success both academically and athletically."

Lisa Bluder
Iowa Head Coach

"New student-athletes face many challenges during their first year at the University of Iowa. Freshmen meet with me individually on a weekly basis to discuss academic progress and other issues as they may arise. Athletics Student Services is dedicated to meeting the needs of the whole student-athlete and serves as a support system along the road to the bachelors degree"

Hope D. Williams
Assistant Director, Athletics Student Services

The University of Iowa women's basketball team not only has a rich tradition of success on the court, but in the classroom as well. The University of Iowa and its staff is committed to the student-athlete and prepares its athletes for life after college.

Lindsey Meder (1998-2002), who was a pre-medicine major, was selected to the Verizon Academic All-America First Team both her junior and senior years. She was the only junior selected to the five-member team.

Jenna Armstrong, Jamie Cavey, Kristi Faulkner, Morgan Kasperek, Jennie Lillis, Becca McCann, Tiffany Reedy and Lindsay Richards were all named to the academic all-Big Ten team last year. Iowa's eight selections is a new school record!!! Twenty-five different Hawkeyes have been named to the Academic All-Big Ten Team since 1985.

In addition, Jennie Lillis (2000-04) was one of only two recipients of the 2004 WBCA Scholarship Award.

Jennie Lillis is congratulated by Robin Roberts after being one of only two recipients of the 2004 WBCA Scholarship Award.

BIG TEN BASKETBALL

The Iowa Hawkeye bench begins to celebrate as the final seconds tick away in its 75-70 Big Ten Tournament victory over Purdue in 2001.

The University of Iowa Hawkeyes play in one of the premiere conferences in the nation: the Big Ten. The 11-member institutions that compete in this highly competitive league consistently battle for National titles on an annual basis.

Women's basketball in the Big Ten is one of its most popular sports amongst its fans. Teams play a 16-game conference schedule, followed by one of the most watched and attended conference tournaments in the country.

The popularity of women's basketball continues to rise. For the past three seasons, the Big Ten Conference ranked No. 2 nationally in attendance, with six school's ranked in the top 25. Additionally, the 2002 edition of the Big Ten Women's Basketball Tournament saw all three tournament attendance records fall. The first attendance mark fell during Sunday's semifinals with 9,358 fans, eclipsing the previous single-session record of 7,948, set two years ago. With 9,221 fans showing up for Monday night's championship game, the all-session total attendance mark (35,846) and the average-per-session marks (7,169) were also set.

Iowa has won or shared the most regular season titles than any other Big Ten team with eight championship trophies (1986-'87, '87-'88, '88-'89, '89-'90, '91-'92, '92-'93, '95-'96 and '97-'98). The Hawkeyes have also won the Big Ten Tournament twice (1997 and 2001).

Four years ago, the University of Iowa and its basketball fans were treated to an unprecedented accomplishment. Both the men's and women's team's won its respective tournament. It marked the first time the same school won both the men's and women's conference tournament the same year. No other Big Ten school has accomplished that feat.

"It was an indescribable feeling when we won the Big Ten Tournament," said Head Coach Lisa Bluder. "To share that with the team and the fans, but then to watch our players genuinely get just as excited when our men won speaks volumes about the comradery between the two programs and the love for Iowa that is shared by everybody."

"Growing up in the Chicago suburbs and in the heart of Big Ten Country, I have always wanted to play for a school in the best conference in America. The fan support is second to none!"

Junior
Johanna Solverson

"The Big Ten race will be very competitive this year as it contains some of the best collegiate women's basketball players in the nation. Without question, this is one of the best conferences in the country, which allows us to be able to be the best team competing in the NCAA Championships."

Freshman
Stacy Schlapkohl

"Playing for Iowa and competing in the Big Ten Conference is a dream come true. Athletes are given every opportunity to succeed both on the court and in the classroom."

Sophomore
Tiffany Reedy

"The Big Ten is one of the best and most competitive conferences in the country every year. The fact that any team can win on any given night makes for great games and lots of fun. I'm looking forward to my first year on Big Ten competition."

Freshman
Krista VandeVenter

Iowa and Michigan State faced off in the quarterfinals of the 2004 Big Ten Tournament held in the Conseco Fieldhouse in Indianapolis, IN.

Mission Statement

The Big Ten Conference is an association of 11 world-class universities whose member institutions share a common mission of research, graduate, professional and undergraduate teaching and public service. Intercollegiate athletics has an important place within the mission.

Founded in 1896, the Big Ten has sustained a comprehensive set of shared practices and policies that enforce the priority of academics in student-athletes' lives and emphasize the values of integrity, fairness and competitiveness. Big Ten universities provide in excess of $76 million in athletic scholarship aid to more than 8,500 men and women student-athletes who compete for 25 championships, 12 for men and 13 for women. In 2003-04, the Big Ten distributed over $115 million in revenues to its 11 member institutions. Conference institutions sponsor broad-based athletic programs with more than 270 teams.

Big Ten Universities...

- are members of the nation's only conference whose constituency is entirely comprised of institutions that are members of the AAU, a prestigious association of major academic and research institutions in the United States and Canada.
- have more than 70 Nobel laureates as faculty, students or researchers.
- enroll students of whom over 41 percent have graduated in the top 10 percent of their high school class, while 74 percent graduated in the top quarter of their class.
- have more than 3,500,000 living alumni and over 320,000 undergraduate students attend Big Ten universities.
- typically receive more than 8,000 employers each year who conduct recruitment visits on Big Ten campuses.
- house on their campuses eight of the nation's 20 largest academic libraries. All of the Conference libraries are interconnected through an online library system (the Virtual Electronic Library).

Athletic Programs In the Big Ten Conference...

- provide an avenue for more than 140,000 young men and women to pursue higher education while competing in sport.
- have, since 1992, created in excess of 2,000 new opportunities for women student-athletes and established 28 new women's teams.
- had more than 8,500 student-athletes playing on over 270 teams in 2002-03. Those student-athletes received in excess of $76 million in direct financial aid.
- graduate at a rate of 10 percent higher than all Division I student athletes.
- have won more than 185 team titles and 1,100 individual NCAA titles. In 1999-00, the Conference celebrated six NCAA team titles (men's soccer, women's volleyball, wrestling, men's basketball, fencing, men's gymnastics), the most for the Big Ten in the last 10 years.
- in the past 10 years (1994-95 through 2003-04) claimed 41 NCAA team championships including 25 since 1998-99.
- were all ranked among the top 29 in the country, including a No. 1 honor for Penn State, in a first-of-its-kind analysis by The Sporting News (September, 1999) of all 112 Division I-A athletic programs (that play football and men's basketball).
- showcased more than 250 events that are televised nationally, regionally and locally last year, representing over 550 hours of programming.
- are among the national attendance leaders in football, men's and women's basketball and women's volleyball. During the 2003-04 season, more than 8.3 million fans attended Big Ten home contests in those sports.

HALL OF FAME

The Roy G. Karro Athletics Hall of Fame and Visitors Center sits on the western edge of campus adjacent to the Iowa Soccer Complex and Finkbine Golf Course.

Women's Basketball Display

Since it opened its doors in September, 2002, the Roy G. Karro Athletics Hall of Fame and Visitors Center has served as a stop for Hawkeye fans on their way to Carver-Hawkeye Arena. Fans can browse through the history of not only Hawkeye basketball, but every competitive sport that the University of Iowa has to offer.

Exhibits of all 22 sports adorn the Hall of Fame walls. Fans can see everything from the men's and women's 2001 Big Ten Tournament trophies to a scorecard from the lowest round shot by a Hawkeye golfer. Fans of Hawkeye athletics can view old baseball uniforms and every national championship trophy won by the Iowa wrestling program.

Fans can get hands on experience in the interactive room by shooting baskets on the old Fieldhouse floor and kicking field goals while a crowd cheers in the background. The Hall of Fame also has computer screens throughout the building, showing historic moments in Iowa athletic history. There is also a theatre where fans can watch highlights from any one of Iowa's sports. Databases are available so friends and relatives of former athletes can relive their history as a Hawkeye.

The Hall of Fame is not just an attraction for fans. Meeting spaces are available and are used for business meetings and team activities.

"Teams use this building for luncheons and recruiting purposes," said Hall of Fame Director Dale Arens. "When potential athletes walk through, they realize the level of commitment that this university has to its athletic program. Not too many universities have a facility like this."

Athletics have always been a big part of the University of Iowa. The newly constructed Hall of Fame allows fans to view the history of the Hawkeyes and will let fans in the future revisit the success that is Iowa Hawkeye athletics.
