2007 IOWA FOOTBALL OUTLOOK

A POSITION BY POSITION LOOK AT THE 2007 HAWKEYES

2007 IOWA FOOTBALL OUTLOOK

The 2006 University of Iowa football season resembled a two-act play. The first act was pure enjoyment for everyone connected with Hawkeye football as Iowa won five of its first six games. The second act, in turn, was a disappointment as Iowa was 1-5 in the second half of the season.

The Hawkeyes, and their reputation for being a great bowl team, received an invitation to the 2006 Alamo Bowl. It was Iowa's sixth straight bowl appearance (one of only three teams in the Big Ten to do so) and followed four straight years of January bowl game appearances. The Hawkeyes outplayed defending national champion Texas for much of the game. Ultimately, the Longhorns scored a come-from-behind 26-24 win. But, Iowa left Texas with its confidence restored and eager to begin the 2007 season.

Wins over Montana, Syracuse, Iowa State and Illinois allowed the Hawkeyes to enter their Big Ten home opener against Ohio State. A national audience saw the Hawkeyes, in primetime from Kinnick Stadium, drop their first game of the season to the top-ranked Buckeyes. A big win over Purdue the following week preceded Iowa's slide into the second half of the season.

The last five years have been unprecedented in Iowa football history. It's resulted in two Big Ten championships (2002 & 2004), four January bowl games and three finishes in the nation's top ten. A 22-game home winning streak (broken in 2005) and 24 straight home sellouts are additional positives of a program rich in tradition and consistency. A pair of January bowl wins over highly regarded teams from the Southeastern Conference (Florida & LSU) are two more notches on the Hawkeye win belt.

The Hawkeyes had another outstanding senior class in 2006. The graduates include five starters from offense (Scott Chandler, Marshal Yanda, Mike Jones, Mike Elgin and Drew Tate) and three from defense (Miguel Merrick, Marcus Paschal and Ed Miles). Yanda (third), Chandler (fourth) and Elgin (seventh) were NFL draft selections. Schlicher and punter Andy Fenstermaker are also gone. The Hawkeyes lost 25 lettermen (15 offense, eight defense, two special teams) from last year's roster.

Because of Iowa's performance in the Alamo Bowl, expectations will again be high this year. A strong blend of experience and talented underclassmen are reasons for the optimism. The defense returns eight starters. Special teams and offense will see a lot of new starters in the line-up with excellent potential.

A total of 34 lettermen return, nine less than last year. That list includes eight returning starters on defense (Ken Iwebema, Matt Kroul, Mitch King, Bryan Mattison, Mike Humpal, Mike Klinkenborg, Charles Godfrey and Adam Shada) and six on offense (Tom Busch, Albert Young, Andy Brodell, Dominique Douglas, Rafael Eubanks and Seth Olsen).

Here is a look at the Hawkeyes, position by position.

QUARTERBACK

For the first time in four years the Iowa quarterback position does not belong to Drew Tate. Tate ended his career ranked in the top five of virtually every Iowa passing mark. The Hawkeyes won 23 games in that span and made it to the Capital One, Outback and Alamo bowls. His signal calling abilities will be missed. Also gone is Jason Manson, who proved to be an invaluable team leader as a quarterback and receiver.

The search for Iowa's next quarterback starts with sophomore Jake Christensen (6-1, 215). He the only returning signal caller with any game experience. Christensen started one game last year (Northern Illinois) and played in five games. He was 23-35 passing for 285 yards and a pair of touchdowns. He is considered a strong passer and had a solid spring.

A pair of freshmen from Ohio, Arvell Nelson (6-4, 210) and Ricky Stanzi (6-4, 215) are listed behind Christensen. Both have excellent credentials, are very athletic and were impressive during their redshirt campaigns last year.

It'll be hard to replace the all-Big Ten credentials Drew Tate left behind, but quarterback Coach Ken O'Keefe feels the Hawkeyes have excellent talent ready to step to the front this season.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"There are some parallels to the last two guys who have become starters, in that they were the number two guy the year before.

That year gives a guy a real chance to get a good fundamental understanding of what he is doing, if they take advantage of that in the proper way, to grow and improve. Jake took advantage of that last year; he got a little more playing time that what you might expect. In the Northern Illinois game he played with a lot of poise, made good decisions and played under control.

We were pleased with what we saw from both Arvell Nelson and Ricky Stanzi. Both did some good things in the spring. As history has dictated, a quarterback in his first spring, can make a big jump if they continue to study and work at it, and I know both of those guys will. All three guys are capable of running our offense. I think all are capable of throwing the ball well, all three can escape trouble and do a good job in the pocket. All three can move and do some things on the run. And, all three have shown leadership qualities. In addition, Adam Farnsworth showed great improvement this spring. It will be fun to see how they improve as we begin fall camp."

RUNNING BACK

Two of the top running backs in the Big Ten will be seniors on the 2007 Iowa roster. All-America candidate Albert Young (5-10-209) and Damian Sims (5-9-197) return for their final seasons.

Young and Sims combined for 1,443 rushing yards and 13 touchdowns last season on 310 rushing attempts. The duo is considered by many to be the top 1-2 rushing threat in the league. Young was hurt much of the 2006 season but still rushed for a team-best 779 yards.

In addition, Young caught 30 passes for 225 yards and a touchdown as Iowa's fourth leading receiver in 2006. He has excellent power and is good at breaking tackles. Young is currently eighth on Iowa's career rushing charts with 2,205 yards. He could move as high as second on the Iowa rushing charts with a good 2007. He ranked 17th nationally in rushing yards as a sophomore while leading the Big Ten in league games only.

Sims is an explosive breakaway threat and is especially dangerous when put into the lineup after the opposing defense gets a steady dose of Young. Sims, a three-time starter last year, also led Iowa in 2006 kickoff returns with 10 for 184 yards.

Iowa's running backs are strong and talented and the top pair provides an excellent 1-2 punch. The success of a new quarterback and a rebuilt offensive line will greatly determine the success of this unit.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"The veterans we have should help keep things stable and calm on the field. Three guys (including FB Tom Busch) have been around and through a lot. That should help, not only with the quarterback, but also the inexperience we have in the offensive line. Hopefully we will have them all play at a high level, keep them healthy and continue to see them improve.

Albert and Damian have proven themselves to be very capable running backs. Depth behind those two is something we were concerned about in the spring and something we will be concerned about in the fall. It's important that some of the younger players continue to move forward, hopefully we will see that take place."

FULLBACK

Senior Tom Busch (5-11, 235) returns, having started 26 consecutive games at fullback. He's one of only two offensive players (TE Scott Chandler) to start at the same position, every game, last year. He rushed only two times last year, but caught eight passes for 55 yards and three touchdowns. He is considered an excellent blocker and pass receiver.

Junior Jordan McLaughlin (6-0, 230) is Busch's backup. Like Busch, McLaughlin is a converted linebacker. He saw limited action in 10 games last year and recorded no statistics. Another linebacker moving over to fullback is redshirt freshman Brett Morse (6-3, 230). The only other fullback on the roster is junior Eddie Williams (5-11, 240).

KIRK COMMENTS:

"Tom Busch is a very productive blocker for us. We're not a team that features the fullback as a runner. It is important to have a guy in that position who can catch the ball. When Tom has had a chance to run the ball he has done a nice job, it's just not a huge part of what we do.

It's a little bit of a jump ball behind Tom. Jordan McLaughlin moved over a year ago from defense, making progress and improvement. Eddie Williams has done some good things. Brett Morse moved over from defense in the spring and we saw some things that were encouraging."

TIGHT END

The Hawkeyes lost considerable

2007 IOWA FOOTBALL OUTLOOK

talent with the graduation of Scott Chandler and Ryan Majerus. Both saw considerable playing time over the last four years. Chandler was a second team all-Big Ten selection and was selected by San Diego in the fourth round of the NFL draft. He started all 13 games and was Iowa's second leading receiver with 46 catches for 591 yards and six touchdowns. His size and pass catching ability will be missed.

Junior Tony Moeaki (6-4, 255) is Iowa's leading candidate to take over the top spot. He has seen extensive action over the last two years and should provide invaluable experience. Moeaki caught 11 passes for 140 yards and three touchdowns in 2006. He played in every game as a true freshman in 2005.

Junior Brandon Myers (6-4, 250) is listed behind Moeaki. He is a highly effective pass catcher capable of considerable playing time. Junior Michael Sabers (6-5, 245) leads a group of underclassmen hoping for playing time. Others are sophomore Kyle Spading (6-6, 245) and converted sophomore wide receiver Tyler Gerstandt (6-6, 248).

Talent doesn't seem to be a problem at tight end. Coach Eric Johnson will need to build depth to offset the loss of Chandler and Majerus.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"Tony's probably more of a balanced tight end than what we lost in Scott Chandler, who was converted from wide receiver. We felt Tony would be capable in both blocking and receiving and are very optimistic he will continue to improve."

Brandon Myers has done a good job. He's made some strides with his blocking and maturity. With those two we have a very capable one-two punch. Myers was a guy who came on strong in December and he carried that into the spring as well."

WIDE RECEIVER

The Hawkeyes were extremely young and inexperienced at wide receiver last year. The inexperience showed in the form of dropped passes at the most inopportune times. The good news is that virtually all of those young receivers are back with a year's experience under their belts.

The top returnees are sophomore Dominique Douglas (6-1, 190) and junior Andy Brodell (6-3, 200). Douglas started the final 11 games as a true freshman. He led the nation's true freshmen receivers with 49 catches and his 654 receiving yards was second nationally. He averaged 13.3 yards per catch. Those numbers made him Iowa's leading receiver and got him selected to The Sporting News third freshman all-America team and The Sporting News' first freshman all-Big Ten team.

Brodell was Iowa's third leading receiver with 39 receptions for 724 yards and five touchdowns. He had six catches for 159 yards and two touchdowns against Texas in the Alamo Bowl. The 159 yards set an Alamo Bowl record and his 63-yard scoring reception against the Longhorns is the longest in Iowa bowl history. Brodell caught 13 passes for 318 yards and three touchdowns in the final two games a year ago.

Sophomores Trey Stross (6-3, 195) and Anthony Bowman (5-11, 167) gained valuable experience as freshmen. Bowman played as a true freshman. Stross caught 13 passes for 189 yards and one touchdown. Bowman had no catches with limited playing time.

Four redshirt freshmen are all considered talented with an excellent chance to gain playing time this fall. The four are James Cleveland (6-1, 195), Paul Chaney, Jr. (5-9, 165), Derrell Johnson-Koulianos (6-1, 205) and Ben Evans (6-0, 180).

KIRK COMMENTS:

"A year ago this was a real concern for us, for obvious reasons. The good news is that our two starting guys showed great improvement last fall. Andy Brodell finished the season in superb fashion against Texas and at Minnesota. I think what we saw in the spring was a guy really starting to enjoy the game and enjoy playing his position. Success can do that for a guy, and I think he's excited about things. Dominique Douglas has been with us a year. For being a true freshman a year ago, he did some real positive things. He had a good attitude in the spring, he's worked hard. Those two guys give us a good starting point. The next guy to mention would be James Cleveland, who had a very nice spring. Trey Stross is another guy who continues to impress and improve. Anthony Bowman played some as a freshman, he's pushing forward as well. Those guys give us a good nucleus to start with, and then we have some other guys too who we think have a chance to help us."

OFFENSIVE LINE

Iowa's 2007 offensive line will need to reload following the loss of three valuable starters. How effectively the Hawkeyes fill those three spots could determine how successful the 2007 season is. Gone are starting guards Mike Elgin and Mike Jones, along with tackle Marshal Yanda. Jones was a first team all-Big Ten choice while Yanda made the second team. Elgin, a three-year starter, was honorable mention all-Big Ten and a two-time first team academic all-American. Yanda was a third round selection in the NFL draft, while Elgin was a seventh round pick and Jones signed a free agent contract immediately following the draft.

A good place to start rebuilding the line is at center. Back doing the snapping will be sophomore Rafael Eubanks (6-3, 285). A mid-season injury forced Eubanks out of the lineup, but he still started nine games during the 2006 campaign.

Depth at the center spot will be a questions mark after junior Rob Bruggeman (6-3, 287) suffered a knee injury during spring drills. Bruggeman will have limited availability due to surgery following spring practice. Sophomore Travis Meade (6-2, 285) and freshman Josh Koeppel (6-1, 260) will need to gain experience behind Eubanks.

Ferentz feels confident and strong about the two junior veterans in Seth Olsen (6-5, 305) and Dace Richardson (6-6, 305). Olsen had an outstanding sophomore season and is listed No. 1 at right guard after starting five times at guard and five times at tackle last year. Redshirt freshman Julian Vandervelde (6-3, 295) is listed behind Olsen.

Richardson started eight games at left tackle during an injury plagued 2006 season and holds down that spot heading into the fall. Converted sophomore tight end Tyler Blum (6-6, 285) is listed behind Richardson.

A major switch during the spring involved junior Alex Kanellis (6-4, 295) moving to offense from the defensive side. Kanellis started four times as a defensive end where he registered 19 tackles last year. He had an appendectomy just prior to the Illinois game last year and played in the Ohio State game a week later. Obviously, toughness is not a question with Kanellis, who played in 2005 as a true freshman.

Sophomore Kyle Calloway (6-7, 205) is listed as the started at the right tackle spot heading into pre-season camp, while Kanellis and junior Wesley Aeschliman (6-8, 318) are listed at that spot as well.

It's a new ball game at left guard, as a pair of sophomores listed at that spot will be seeing their first extensive action. Andy Kuempel (6-7, 295) concluded spring practice as the starter, ahead of Dan Doering (6-6, 300).

Junior Austin Postler (6-5, 285) and redshirt freshman Kyle Haganman (6-5, 265) and sophomore Richie Amendola (6-3, 260) are additional players who could work their way onto the depth chart. As has been the case in past years, the Hawkeye coaching staff will juggle the pieces to get the best fit, with the linemen having the flexibility to play different positions.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"One of the great stories on our football team last year was Seth Olsen. He got his first start at Illinois in game four, and came on and played extremely well for us the rest of the season. Seth was a guy who had sputtered a little bit in the pre-season, but when he got his opportunity, he really did a good job. Not only with his play on the field, but he also gave us great leadership. That will be critical, as he is our most experienced guy returning. We're counting on him to play well and continue to be an outstanding leader in that group. Seth could play tackle or guard, we'll do what's best for the entire group."

The next two guys with experience are Rafael Eubanks and Dace Richardson. Both have played well for us when they have been in the line-up and have continued to move along. Beyond that, it's a wide open derby right now. What happens during the month of August is really going to determine how our line-up settles in. We think we have the nucleus for a good line, but we are going to be inexperienced at the front end of the season."

We have a lot of guys in contention for the other spots. Kyle Calloway, Andy Kuempel, Travis Meade, Dan Doering, Wes Aschliemann, all those guys are in there. Plus I would mention Tyler Blum, who had back surgery a year ago. He made the move fulltime to offensive line and we thought he made good progress. Alex Kanellis moved over to offense as well, but missed significant time in the spring. I think he was doing a good job and could enter the picture. A newcomer like Julian Vandervelde impressed us as well."

A POSITION BY POSITION LOOK AT THE 2007 HAWKEYES

The big negative for us in the spring, team wise, was Rob Bruggeman getting hurt. He had a knee injury which is going to set him back. He was doing well, so the other guys will have to pick up where we lost Rob. He won't be ready at the start of practice; he may get some time this year, he may not.

We moved a lot of guys around to different spots in the spring. We'll probably do some of that in August as well. We'll try to give everyone a chance to compete, to get a thorough evaluation of everyone. Our minds are open going into camp to see how things shake out."

DEFENSIVE LINE (INCLUDES ENDS)

The Iowa defense found itself in unfamiliar and uncomfortable terrain last year. It's been the norm for a Kirk Ferentz and defensive coordinator Norm Parker coached defense to be in the Big Ten's upper defensive echelons. Injuries and other problems put the 2006 Iowa defense in the position of giving up much more yardage than it's accustomed to. It's a problem the Hawkeyes don't expect to last very long.

Iowa's defensive line is rich in tradition and will be looking to rebound this year. Lending credence to Iowa's recent talented defensive lines are former Hawkeye defenders now playing in the NFL. All-Pro Aaron Kampman heads a list which also includes Colin Cole, Matt Roth, Jonathan Babineaux and Derreck Robinson, to name a few.

The 2007 defensive line will have a new coach for the first time since Ferentz arrived. Ron Aiken has moved to the NFL (Arizona) and his replacement is Rick Kaczinski, a graduate assistant on the Hawkeye staff the last two years.

Kaczinski will help coach an Iowa defense which returns eight starters. The defensive line could be very strong with both starting tackles and ends returning. The Hawkeye rush defense was seventh and total defense was sixth in the Big Ten last year. The strength of the line could ignite a surge to put Iowa's defense among the league's top units again.

Juniors Matt Kroul (6-3, 277) and Mitch King (6-3, 264) are both candidates for post-season honors as they return for their third year of extensive duty in the trenches. Kroul has been a starter 25 straight times and King has started 19 of the last 25 Hawkeye games. Both are very familiar with each other and their positions. The two accounted for 115 tackles (Kroul 59 and King 56) last season and 108 in 2005. King led the 2006 Hawkeyes with 12 tackles (49 yards) for loss. He also had five quarterback sacks. Kroul had 5.5

tackles (16 yards) for loss and 2.5 quarterback sacks.

Juniors Anton Narinskiy (6-4, 260) and Rashad Dunn (6-3, 290) are listed on the second unit at defensive tackle after making the move from the offensive line. Iowa coaches feel Rashad could be a force in the Hawkeye line. Dunn saw limited offensive line action in his first two years.

Junior Grant McCracken (6-3, 250) and sophomore Mark Mahmens (6-3, 255) are hoping to learn the ropes behind veterans. Both will add depth while gaining valuable experience.

Like the tackle positions, the Iowa staff feels very good about the returning starters at end, but depth needs to be developed.

Seniors Bryan Mattison (6-3, 272) and Ken Iwebema (6-4, 267) are back for their final campaigns and both are candidates for post-season honors. Mattison has started 25 straight games while Iwebema has started 20 of the last 25. Iwebema was a first team all-Big Ten selection in 2005 and was named to many pre-season watch lists prior to the 2006 season. A shoulder injury kept him out of action for much of last season. He still was able to make 27 tackles, 4.5 tackles for loss and three quarterback sacks. A healthy Iwebema will be a big plus for the Iowa defense.

Mattison was named to the 2006 honorable mention all-Big Ten team and was named a 2006 permanent team captain. He had 59 tackles and 10.5 tackles for loss (74 yards) last year. His 6.5 quarterback sacks (-57 yards) led the team. Mattison led the Big Ten (league games only) and was 21st nationally in forced fumbles with four.

Behind those two ends are a group of talented, yet inexperienced players. Redshirt freshman Adrian Clayborn (6-3, 275) could play either end spot and is anxious to get into the battle for playing time. Joining him at the end spots will be sophomore Chad Geary (6-3, 220), junior Jared Oberland (6-0, 250) and redshirt freshman Karl Klug (6-4, 235).

The defensive line could become one of the best in the Big Ten again. Staying healthy and building depth is the key heading into the fall. There's a lot of starting talent and considerable talent waiting for a chance to be recognized.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"If you look at us up front, we have four guys who have played a lot over the last two seasons. Behind the first four, we are relatively inexperienced.

Bryan Mattison has done a wonderful job at one end and we think Ken Iwebema has the potential to be a real good player after the injury problems he had last year. The two back-ups have really made strides. Chad Geary came a long way last fall, and in the spring. Adrian Clayborn has worked extremely hard, both are making good progress.

Matt Kroul has done a great job week in and week out. Mitch King was slowed by injuries last year after a very good season in 2005. He had an outstanding spring. Hopefully we can keep all four healthy and playing at their highest level.

Another pleasant surprise in the spring was Anton Narinskiy, who showed some sparks after moving back from offense in the spring. Those would be our top seven guys up front.

Bryan Mattison has great intangibles. He's a high motor player, he works extremely hard and is a great role model for everyone on the team. Not just for defense, for everyone. He brings a lot of energy to the field each and every day."

LINEBACKERS (INCLUDES OUTSIDE LINEBACKER)

Iowa's tradition at linebacker is becoming well known around the country. Two linebackers from the 2005 senior class are now highly regarded in the National Football League. They are Minnesota's Chad Greenway and Green Bay's Abdul Hodge. Gone from 2006 is Ed Miles, who accounted for 100 tackles, including 11 stops for loss, before signing a free agent contract with Miami. The Hawkeyes will miss his 207 career stops. Also gone is the valuable Zach Gabelmann. He only had 16 tackles last year, but was an important reserve and played a critical role on Iowa's specialty teams.

Returning starters are seniors Mike Klinkenborg (6-2, 240) and Mike Humpal (6-3, 242). Both started 12 of 13 games last season. Klinkenborg was a second team all-Big Ten choice after leading the Hawkeyes with 129 tackles, despite missing the Alamo Bowl due to injury. He also had five tackles for loss and was named a permanent team captain in 2006. He was named Walter Camp Defensive Player of the Week for his play in Iowa's win over Syracuse last year. His 129 tackles ranked second in the Big Ten and eighth nationally. On top of all that he was a first team academic all-American with a 3.96 GPA. He'll be a strong candidate for post-season honors this year. Humpal had 49 tackles, 4.5 for losses. Humpal has been a steady dependable force on Iowa's defense. Like Klinkenborg, he is an honor student as well.

Humpal was an outside linebacker, for the most part, last year, before moving inside for the Alamo Bowl vs. Texas. He'll stay inside in 2007. Fighting Humpal and Klinkenborg for playing time will be senior Bryon Gattas (6-1, 233) and sophomore Pat Angerer (6-1, 230). Gattas had seven tackles while playing in all 13 games a year ago, mostly on special teams. Angerer also played in every game last year, but registered only five tackles. The combination of Klinkenborg, Humpal, Gattas and Angerer at inside linebacker give the Hawkeyes strength and depth at the position.

Sophomore A.J. Edds (6-4, 244) is listed as the top outside linebacker. Edds began 2006 as a true freshman tight end and made the switch early in the season. Edds started the Purdue game in place of the injured Humpal. He was credited with nine tackles and a forced fumble last year. Edds was named to The Sporting News freshman first all-Big Ten team and honorable mention freshman all-America team.

It's plain to see the Hawkeyes need to develop more depth among the linebackers, with three of the top four being seniors and not much experience behind them.

The other linebacker candidates have little, if any, game experience. They include junior Gavin McGrath (6-2, 235) and redshirt freshmen Jeremia Hunter (6-2, 222) and Jeff Tarpinian (6-3, 220). All have excellent potential and are just waiting for their chance.

Iowa linebackers have a reputation for being good, hard-hitting football players. This year is no different. It's been said before about other defensive units on the team; the starters are good and depth needs to be fortified this spring. The talent is there.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"Two of the three positions are experienced with Mike Klinkenborg and Mike Humpal. Humpal moved back inside for the bowl game, which is his best spot and where he is most comfortable. That gives us two very veteran guys; both seniors and both smart players. Both have been very productive.

We chose to play A.J. Edds as a true freshman last year and he gained valuable experience; He was getting valuable reps as a back up and on special teams. He did a good job in the game he was able to start against Purdue. Behind them are Bryon

A POSITION BY POSITION LOOK AT THE 2007 HAWKEYES

Gattas and Pat Angerer, two guys who have played special teams and done some good things. Jeremiah Hunter, Jeff Tarpinian and Troy Johnson are redshirt freshmen. We are curious to see how they do, how they can improve as camp goes on.

Klinkenborg and Humpal both have now been on the field for a year in a fulltime capacity. Their confidence level is higher and both had a good spring. We expect good things out of both of those guys and it helps that they are playing behind four veteran players in the defensive line."

DEFENSIVE BACKS

The good news is the return of both cornerbacks. The bad news is the loss of two four-year lettermen starters at the safety positions. Aside from the returning starters, the backfield will be green and inexperienced.

Last year the Hawkeyes were faced with replacing cornerbacks Antwan Allen and Jovon Johnson. This year the loss of safeties Marcus Paschal and Miguel Merrick will be felt just as strongly. The two veterans accounted for 149 tackles last year, with Merrick collecting credit for 82 and Paschal 67. Both were honorable mention all-Big Ten in 2006. The pair had over 400 career tackles between them and both signed NFL free agent contracts.

Senior Adam Shada (6-1, 185) will start at one corner with senior Charles Godfrey (6-1, 208) at the other. Shada started the first eight games last year before being sidelined with a leg injury. He returned to play in the Alamo Bowl. Shada was an honorable mention all-Big Ten pick and another Hawkeye first team academic all-American (there were three last year). He had 40 tackles and three interceptions, including a record 98-yard return for a touchdown against Purdue.

Godfrey started all 13 games last year after starting three in 2005. He was Iowa's third leading tackler with 83 stops last year. He had two interceptions and forced one fumble.

Four additional defensive backs have seen appreciable game experience. They are senior Devan Moylan (5-10, 201), junior Bradley Fletcher (6-2, 200), sophomore Marcus Wilson (6-2, 200) and junior Drew Gardner (5-10, 178). Moylan was injured in the fourth game last season and missed the rest of the season. He was granted an additional year of eligibility early in the summer and adds experience to the strong safety position.

Wilson started two games in place of the injured Paschal at mid-season and Fletcher started four games late in the season when Shada was injured. Fletcher played in every game last year and had 38 tackles and a forced fumble, while Wilson had 21 stops and an interception.

With Moylan not participating in spring practice, junior Harold Dalton (6-1, 201) and redshirt freshman Lance Tillison (6-2, 205) shared time at strong safety. Redshirt freshman Brett Greenwood (6-0, 200) had a solid spring at free safety and will battle Wilson for the starting spot at that position.

The backfield appears, on paper, to be Iowa's most inexperienced spot on defense. With a number of quality young players, this unit could become deep and talented this year and in years to follow.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"Charles Godfrey and Adam Shada have done a good job, with Bradley Fletcher the most experienced guy behind them. Adam and Charles both played well in the spring. We need them to stabilize the secondary as we bring the young guys along at safety. Adam was playing well before missing the four games with an injury a year ago. Charles became more comfortable as the season progressed and had an excellent spring as well. We expect a real strong senior year from both of those guys.

We'll start the fall with five guys in contention for two spots; it's probably too early to call right now. Harold Dalton and Marcus Wilson have been around a little more with their playing time a year ago. It will be a big boost to have Devan back for another year. He was playing well when he was injured last season. We have two first year guys in Lance Tillison and Brett Greenwood. This area is similar to the offensive line, in that we may go halfway through camp before we know who might be in the starting line-up."

KICKING GAME

It's a whole new ball game for Iowa's kicking game. Kicker Kyle Schlicher and punter Andy Fenstermaker are both gone. Both were honorable mention all-Big Ten choices last year and were on the watch lists for kicker and punter of the year awards.

Schlicher finished his career with 260 points to rank fourth on Iowa's all-time scoring charts. He was 51-65 on career field goals and made 106-111 extra points. His 51 career field goals rank third in Iowa history. Like Nate Kaeding, the loss of Schlicher will be a big one for the Hawkeyes. Fenstermaker was reliable, averaging nearly 38 yards a punt. Of his 56 punts, 19 were downed inside the 20-yard line, and opponents had just 33 total return yards in 13 games.

So who's the next man in for the Hawkeyes?

Redshirt freshman Ryan Donahue (6-3, 175) sat out last year after joining the Hawkeyes as one of the nation's top prep punters (and placekicker). He'll begin the season as the starting punter.

The top two placekickers are sophomore Austin Signor (6-4, 230) and freshman Daniel Murray (5-10, 175). Signor handled most of Iowa's kickoff duties last year. He was 2-2 on field goals (41 & 35 yards) and 5-5 on extra points. He has a strong leg and needs to become more consistent. Murray will be pushing Signor for playing time.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"This might be the most inexperienced position on the team. Normally we have had one returner between the kicker and punter. This is a little like the offensive line. We feel we have the potential to get it done and get it done well; but we don't have the experience right now.

Ryan has the talent and ability to be a very good punter. Austin and Daniel are competing for the placement job. All three guys did a solid job in the spring. No matter how it shakes out, our biggest issue will be consistency, which has been the pattern when we have had new kickers. If we have to weather that a little we will, both have a chance to be more than adequate for us. Austin kicked some last year and did pretty well when he had a chance. Both are tough minded competitors."

SPECIAL TEAMS

The Hawkeyes finished first in Big Ten in kickoff coverage two years ago and eighth last year. The Hawkeyes were 10th in Big Ten kickoff returns. Punt returns and net punting both ranked sixth in the Big Ten. And, for the first time in recent memory, Iowa did not block a kick. It's obvious to all the Hawkeye special teams need to see improvement this year. It's not coincidental that good Iowa teams (and good records) were accompanied by stellar special teams play.

It's said often in Iowa City, but it's especially true this year; the way to a coach's heart is with special teams.

With so many young players on the roster, this is a good area to gain the attention of the coaches. Strong special teams play is a great ticket to earning additional playing time on the field.

KIRK COMMENTS:

"This is an area we feel we definitely have to improve upon our overall play. Part of that is the work of the specialists, including the return guys. We haven't had the return game as good as we would like, outside of maybe punt returns. We can definitely upgrade our kick returns. Just as important is the play of our core players. We haven't quite performed at the level that we feel we need to. We saw some good indicators in the spring that we might be a little bit healthier this year, but we need to continue to push there. As a coaching staff, we might be a little more open minded to playing some true freshmen to get a little more octane in that area. We have to keep the strong areas solid, and work to improve other phases. We haven't been consistent enough in a lot of areas; we have to get back to a higher level of play with our special teams.

Dan Olszta (punts) and Clint Huntrods (placements) both return and they have done a good job with the snaps. Dan has had two outstanding seasons in that department and Clint is in his second year snapping for placements after a solid year last fall."

THE SCHEDULE

Iowa will play a 12-game regular season schedule that includes six home games, five road games and a season opener at a neutral site. There is no week off during the campaign, which ends with a non-conference home game.

The Hawkeyes have traditionally played one of the nation's top schedules and this year is no different. Seven of last year's opponents appeared in bowl games and six teams on the 2007 schedule played in 2006 bowl games. New to Iowa's non-conference schedule is season-closing foe Western Michigan. Other non-conference games include the Sept. 1st season opener against Northern Illinois at Soldier Field in Chicago. That game is followed by a home contest against Syracuse and a road trip against Iowa State. The Hawkeyes also have Kinnick Stadium contests with Indiana, Illinois, Michigan State and Minnesota. Big Ten road contests include Wisconsin, Penn State, Purdue and Northwestern. Michigan and Ohio State are Big Ten teams not on the Iowa schedule for the next two years.

2007 IOWA FOOTBALL NOTES

COACH KIRK FERENTZ

The 2002 Associated Press, Walter Camp National Coach of the Year and AFCA Regional Coach of the Year and two-time Big Ten Coach of the Year, Kirk Ferentz (pronounced FAIR-rintz, rhymes with parents), is in his ninth season as Iowa's head football coach. Ferentz guided Iowa to Big Ten titles twice in the last five years and four straight January bowl games, including back-to-back New Year's Day bowl victories (2004 Outback Bowl and 2005 Capital One Bowl). Iowa has posted a 44-19 (.698) overall mark and a 27-13 (.675) Big Ten record the last five seasons. Ferentz, at Iowa, holds an overall record of 55-43 (.561) and a 34-30 (.531) mark in Big Ten games. In 11 seasons as a college head coach, his career mark is 67-64 (.511). Ferentz, who boasts the second-most victories by a Hawkeye head coach, will coach his 100th game as Iowa's head coach on Sept. 8 vs. Syracuse in Iowa City.

HAWKEYE HISTORY

Iowa has played 1,091 games since beginning football in 1889. Iowa's overall record is 553-499-39 (.525). That includes a 349-194-16 (.639) record in home games, a 204-303-23 (.407) record in games away from Iowa City, a 272-336-25 (.449) mark in Big Ten games and a 232-159-15 (.590) record in Kinnick Stadium.

HAWKEYES TO PLAY 12

The 2007 Hawkeyes will play six home games in Kinnick Stadium, where they have posted a 28-5 (.848) record the last five seasons. Iowa will open its 2007 season vs. Northern Illinois at Soldier Field on Sept. 1. The opener will be the first NCAA Bowl Subdivision contest in renovated Soldier Field and first since Northwestern defeated Oklahoma on August 23, 1997, in the Pigskin Classic. Additionally, the game will mark the first time Iowa opens the season at a neutral site since playing Kansas State on August 26, 2000, at Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City.

The Hawkeyes' home opener will come against Syracuse one week later. Other Iowa home games include Indiana, Illinois, Michigan State, Minnesota and Western Michigan. The Hawkeyes' only true road non-conference contest is at intra-state rival Iowa State, while they travel to play conference foes Wisconsin, Penn State, Purdue and Northwestern. Six of Iowa's 12 opponents played in bowl games in 2006 (Northern Illinois, Western Michigan, Wisconsin, Penn State, Purdue and Minnesota).

Iowa has a new Big Ten slate, as this season marks the first time in three years it will play Michigan State and Penn State. While the Spartans and Nittany Lions rejoin the Hawkeye schedule, leaving are Michigan and Ohio State for the next two seasons.

IOWA OPENS BIG TEN PLAY ON ROAD

Iowa will begin its quest for a 12th Big Ten championship Sept. 22 at Wisconsin. This year marks the eighth time in nine years, including the last six, the Hawkeyes open league play away from Iowa City. Iowa's lone conference home opener, under Coach Ferentz, came in 2001 when it defeated Penn State.

IOWA LEADERSHIP COUNCIL

Iowa's Leadership Council for the 2007 season includes five seniors, three juniors, three sophomores, one redshirt freshman and one true freshman. A member of the incoming freshman class will be named soon. Permanent team captains are named at the conclusion of each season. The Leadership Council for this season includes seniors Tom Busch, Mike Humpal, Mike Klinkenborg, Bryan Mattison and Albert Young; juniors Rob Bruggeman, Matt Kroul and Seth Olsen; sophomores Jake Christensen, A.J. Edds and Rafael Eubanks and redshirt freshman Brett Greenwood.

TELEVISION SCHEDULE

A majority, if not all, of Iowa's games this season will be selected for television. The Big Ten Conference announces game times and television stations no later than 12 days prior to game days. Iowa's first five games have already been selected for television. The Hawkeyes will play their season opener vs. Northern Illinois at Chicago's Soldier Field Sept. 1 at 2:30 p.m. on ESPN. Iowa will make its Big Ten Network debut in hi-definition Sept. 8 vs. Syracuse at 7:05 p.m., marking the second straight year, and sixth time ever, Kinnick Stadium will host a night game. The Hawkeyes will make their first-ever appearance on the Versus Network when they visit intrastate rival Iowa State Sept. 15 at 12:30 p.m. Iowa's conference opener at Wisconsin will air on ABC to a split-national audience at 7:05 p.m. The Black and Gold's homecoming game vs. Indiana Sept. 29 will be televised on either ESPN, ESPN2 or the Big Ten Network at 11:05 a.m. All times listed are central time. Iowa's bowl game vs. Texas on Dec. 30, 2006, marked the 65th consecutive game the Hawkeyes appeared on television. The last Iowa contest not televised was vs. Minnesota on Nov. 17, 2001.

IOWA AMONG BIG TEN'S ELITE

Ohio State has the most conference victories the last five years with 33. Michigan ranks second (32) and Iowa (27) ranks third during that time span. Michigan (26) has won the most league contests the last four years, followed by Ohio State (25) and Iowa (19).

HAWKEYES BY THE NUMBERS

Iowa returns 34 lettermen from 2006, including 17 on offense, 16 on defense and one kicker. The Hawkeye return six starters on offense and eight on defense. The lettermen breakdown includes eight three-year lettermen, 13 two-year lettermen and 13 one-year lettermen.

The total roster has 116 players, and includes 13 seniors, 24 juniors, 22 sophomores, 28 redshirt freshmen and 29 true freshmen. The pre-season depth chart includes 12 seniors, 14 juniors, 15 sophomores and 10 redshirt freshmen. Only three seniors (two running backs and one fullback) are listed on the offensive depth chart.

STARTERS RETURNING

Iowa returns six starters on offense and eight on defense. The returning starters on offense include: center Rafael Eubanks, tackle Seth Olsen, running back Albert Young, fullback Tom Busch, wide receivers Andy Brodell and Dominique Douglas (plus part-time starters RB Damian Sims and OT Dace Richardson). The defensive starters returning include: ends Kenny Iwebema and Bryan Mattison, tackles Matt Kroul and Mitch King, linebackers Mike Klinkenborg and Mike Humpal and corners Adam Shada and Charles Godfrey (plus part-time starters DB Bradley Fletcher and DB Marcus Wilson).

RETURNING WITH HONORS

Iowa returns three players who earned all-Big Ten honors a year ago. That list includes LB Mike Klinkenborg, who was a second team honoree by the media. DE Bryan Mattison and DB Adam Shada earned honorable mention accolades.

IOWA VS. RANKED TEAMS

These are Iowa's most recent wins vs. nationally ranked opponents:

Home:	30-7 over ninth-ranked Wisconsin, 11/20/04 33-7 over 23 rd -ranked Ohio State, 10/6/04
Road:	20-10 over 19 th -ranked Wisconsin, 11/12/05 34-9 over eighth-ranked Michigan, 10/26/02
Neutral:	30-25 over 11 th -ranked LSU, Capital One Bowl, 1/1/05 37-17 over 17 th -ranked Florida, Outback Bowl, 1/1/04

HAWKEYES LOOK FOR NEW SIGNAL CALLER

Iowa will be starting a new quarterback for the first time since the 2004 season. The Hawkeyes need to replace three-year (2004-06) starter Drew Tate. Tate concluded his career ranked second in passing yards (8,292), touchdown passes (61), completions (665), attempts (1,090) and total offense (8,427) and third in completion percentage (.610) at Iowa.

The Hawkeyes currently have three potential starting candidates: Jake Christensen, Arvell Nelson and Ricky Stanzi. Christensen is listed as the pre-season starter on the depth chart and is the only returnee with game experience. The 6-1 sophomore saw action in five games, including one start a year ago. Christensen completed 23-35 passes for 285 yards and two touchdowns in 2006, including 19-30 for 256 yards and two scores in his only start in the Hawkeyes' 24-14 victory over Northern Illinois. In fact, if Christensen starts Iowa's 2007 opener against the Huskies, it is believed that he will be the first quarterback in NCAA Bowl Subdivision history to start his first two games against the same team.

Both Nelson and Stanzi are redshirt freshman, stand 6-foot-4 and hail from Ohio. Nelson was a second team all-state and first team all-conference honoree his senior season at Glenville High School, while Stanzi was first team all-state and all-conference and named the Ohio Division III Offensive Player of the Year his senior year for Lake Catholic High School.

IOWA RETURNS TWO EXPERIENCED BACKS

Iowa returns two experienced senior running backs to lead its rushing attack in 2007, Albert Young and Damian Sims. Young ranks eighth in Iowa career rushing with 2,205 yards. He needs only 66 yards to tie Ronnie Harmon for seventh (2,271). Young ranked first in team rushing attempts (178), rushing yards (779), touchdowns (7) and all-purpose yards (1,004), fourth in receptions (30) and fifth in receiving yards (225) in 2006. He ranked eighth in Big Ten rushing (59.6). Young carried the ball 249 times for 1,334 yards (111.2 avg.) and a team-best eight touchdowns in 2005. The native of Moorestown, NJ, was a 2005 second team all-Big Ten selection by the media and honorable mention pick by the coaches, averaged 125.2 yards in conference games to lead the league by 0.3 yards per game over Minnesota's Laurence Maroney (124.9). Young also ranked second in all-purpose yards in league games, only 0.9 yards behind leader Brandon Williams (177.9) of Wisconsin. Young became the first Hawkeye to lead the conference in rushing (league games only) since Dennis Mosley in 1979.

Sims ranked second on the Hawkeyes in rushing yards (686), rushing attempts (132), all-purpose yards (981) and touchdowns (6) in 2006. His totals from a year ago helped him eclipse 1,000 yards rushing in his career. He now has 1,005 yards and is the 37th Hawkeye to top the 1,000-yard plateau. The native of Boynton Beach, FL, started two games in 2006 (Purdue and Indiana) for injured starter Albert Young. Sims carried the ball 20 times for 155 yards and two scores against the Boilermakers. The 155 yards is a career-high, besting his 104 yards vs. Minnesota in 2005.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

Iowa returns its top two wide receivers from a year ago, junior Andy Brodell and sophomore Dominique Douglas. Brodell finished the 2006 season with two strong performances. Brodell caught seven passes for 159 yards and a touchdown in the regular season finale and six passes for 159 yards and two touchdowns vs. Texas in the Alamo Bowl. The 159 yards against the Longhorns was an Alamo Bowl record. He also had a career-long 63-yard touchdown reception vs. Texas, which was the longest touchdown reception in Iowa bowl history and the fifth-longest reception in

2007 IOWA FOOTBALL NOTES

Alamo Bowl history. His two Alamo Bowl touchdown receptions (63 and 23 yards) ties an Iowa bowl record with four others.

The native of Ankeny, IA, finished 2006 ranked first on the team in yards (724) and yards per catch (18.6) and third in receptions (39). His 724 yards rank 21st-best in Iowa single-season history.

Douglas was named to The Sporting News' Freshman All-America third team. He caught 49 passes for 654 yards and two touchdowns, both tops in Iowa's record books for a freshman wide receiver. The native of Detroit, MI, ranked first in the country among true freshmen wide receivers in receptions and second in yards.

KLINKENBORG ANCHORS LINEBACKING CORPS

Linebacker Mike Klinkenborg returns for his final season after a stellar junior campaign. Klinkenborg ranked second in the Big Ten and eighth in the country in tackles per game (10.75). He led Iowa with 129 tackles, 29 more than second-ranked LB Edmond Miles (100). The native of Rock Rapids, IA, earned second team all-Big Ten accolades by the media. He recorded double-digit tackles in nine of 12 games in 2006. He was credited with a career-high 16 stops vs. Northwestern. Klinkenborg was unable to play in the bowl game vs. Texas due to injury.

Despite losing his father last Sept. 10, Klinkenborg started vs. Iowa State and amassed eight tackles and helped lead the Hawkeye defense. His performance just days after his father's death earned Klinkenborg Walter Camp Football Foundation Defensive Player of the Week honors. Klinkenborg was one of three Hawkeyes (Adam Shada and Mike Elgin) to earn first team academic all-America honors; Iowa was the only school to accomplish that feat in 2006.

MOYLAN GRANTED ADDITIONAL YEAR

Defensive back Devan Moylan, a senior in 2006, was granted a medical hardship after playing in just four games a year ago. Moylan was injured in Iowa's win at Illinois and missed the final nine games of the season. Moylan, a three-year letterman, adds experience and depth to Iowa's safety positions. He started in the secondary in Iowa's 2006 win over Iowa State and played a key role on special teams prior to his season-ending injury.
