

RESPECT AMONG COACHES

IOWA FOOTBALL EARNS LOCAL AND NATIONAL RESPECT

As the Iowa football program has earned its reputation as one of the top football programs in the nation, it has earned respect from high school football coaches across the state and around the country. From athletes and parents, to high school coaches and administrators, members of the Hawkeye coaching staff are met with open arms while recruiting high school athletes from all over the United States. Following is a sampling of comments and thoughts provided by a sampling of some of the most successful and highly-respected high school coaches.

Aaron Kampman was a defensive standout at Iowa before joining the NFL's Green Bay Packers.

"We've had a number of players continue their careers with the football program at Iowa and it has been a great situation for our players. They have always been first class in how they deal with recruits, athletically, and academically. We've always known that the Iowa coaches and staff are interested in the guys as student-athletes, not just as a player who might be able to help win games.

I'd have to say that Coach Ferentz and the current staff are as good a staff as there is in the country. They know how to deal with people in the proper way, they create a great environment for players who choose the Iowa program. Along with the coaching staff, they have the best strength coach in the country in Chris Doyle and his staff. He sets the attitude and the climate for success in the off season.

We have always received very positive feedback from our former players who have played at Iowa. They get great coaching, from the head coach and all the assistants. But more than the football, everyone has commented on how the coaches are concerned about them as a person and a young man. They care about the total development. Our guys leave there prepared to be successful in life, in business, as a parent. They've learned the intangibles of what it takes to be successful.

When we go to visit the campus, or when the Iowa staff is here, they make the kids, and the coaches, feel very important all the time, not just when we might have a prospective student-athlete. They care about your program. They stop here and stay in touch, letting us know they are there to help in any way possible. They do a great job of linking the high schools in the state to their program.

I think one great thing Coach Ferentz has done, he has made it a priority to bring past players back to campus, to help them remain a part of the family and keep their ties with the program. They are doing a great job in keeping those guys as part of the program, and that makes the program special."

ED THOMAS

Head Football Coach
Aplington-Parkersburg High School
Parkersburg, Iowa

Senior CB Charles Godfrey joined the Iowa program after a prep career at Robert E. Lee HS in Baytown, TX.

"Along with former QB Drew Tate, we also have two additional players, DB Charles Godfrey and WR James Cleveland, with the Iowa program. Those kids have done a good job at Iowa and we hope Coach Ferentz and his staff look to our program in the future. All of our players who have attended Iowa have had good experiences.

I am grateful to Coach Ferentz and his staff, from a coaching perspective, for what they have provided, in having players from our program be a part of the Iowa program. It has been a great experience to follow Iowa football and keep track of our guys who are part of the program there. I tell our guys, there isn't anything better than Big Ten Conference football.

Coach Ferentz is a remarkable man, as well as a tremendous coach who cares about the total development of everyone in his program. From my perspective, there isn't any place better than the football program at the University of Iowa."

RESPECT AMONG COACHES

IOWA FOOTBALL EARNS LOCAL AND NATIONAL RESPECT

Former DB Antwaan Allen is one of several players from Armwood HS in Tampa, FL to have played football at the University of Iowa.

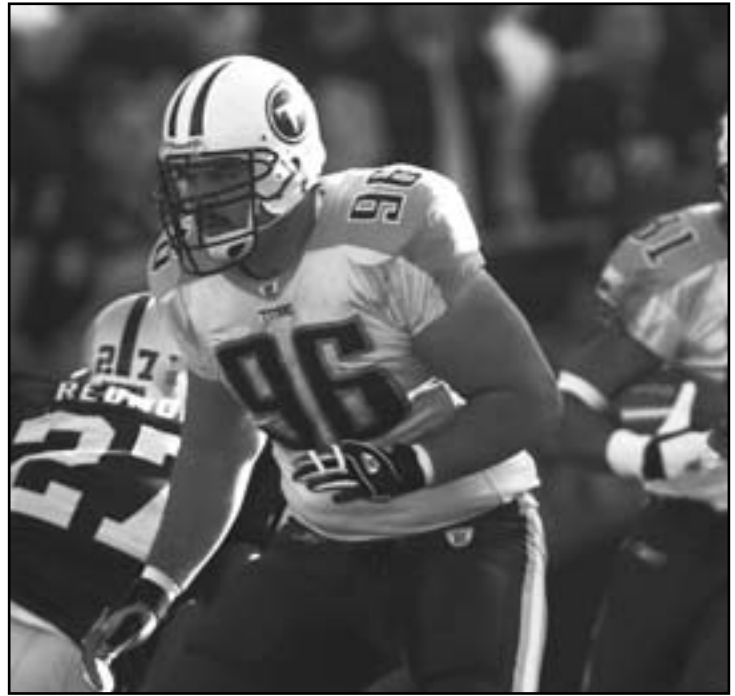

"It is easy to see, with the coaching staff at Iowa, that it all starts at the top with Coach Ferentz. The professionalism and the leadership displayed by Coach Ferentz, is evident in the manner in which the assistant coaches conduct themselves. As a staff, the Iowa coaches are courteous and friendly, the best I've worked with.

It's easy to see the people in the Iowa program are good, quality people, and that starts with the head coach. We've been fortunate enough to have several players move on to play Division I football, and I like the way the players at Iowa feel they are treated. Our players who attend the University of Iowa, really enjoy being a part of the program. They improve as players and mature as individuals.

With Iowa playing in bowl games in Florida each of the past three years, it's a great drawing card for our prep players. With the Orange Bowl in 2003, the Outback Bowl in 2004 and the Capital One Bowl in 2005, it's easy to see the great support the players receive from the Iowa faithful."

SEAN CALLAHAN

Head Football Coach
Armwood High School
Tampa, Florida

Former DL Jared Clauss is one of several former West Des Moines Valley HS players who have played for the Hawkeyes.

"Kirk Ferentz and his coaching staff work in a very professional manner in recruiting and have displayed a real priority for signing as many in-state athletes as possible. They are making a tremendous effort to evaluate the in-state players and establish relationships with high school coaches, to make sure athletes in the state of Iowa are contacted and viewed as potential student-athletes at the University of Iowa.

In the recruiting process, Kirk and his staff are doing a very good job of making sure the Iowa program is a good fit for the athlete, both in the football program and in academics. They are doing their homework to make sure kids can do the job in the classroom and will earn a degree along with pursuing their athletic career."

CONSIDER THE OPPORTUNITY FOR A QUALITY EDUCATION

Your aspiration may be a career in medicine or law or education. Regardless of the specific career field, it's important to identify the college football program that places a high priority on academics and allows the student-athlete to take full advantage of the tremendous educational opportunities available to him.

At the University of Iowa student-athletes learn quickly that academic success is the highest priority.

"The number one reason a student-athlete should go to college is to earn an education," says Hawkeye Coach Kirk Ferentz. "Iowa has a tremendous academic reputation with diverse areas of study available."

Student-athletes at Iowa are scoring big in the graduation race. In fact, when compared to other Big Ten Conference and NCAA Division I-A institutions, the Hawkeyes stack up quite nicely.

According to annual graduation rates released by the NCAA, Iowa annually ranks among the leaders in the Big Ten Conference in graduation rates among football players. Seventy-two percent of the student-athletes who came to Iowa in 2001-02 to play football earned their bachelor's degree in six years.

The Hawkeye football team, from 2002 to 2004, was ranked in the top 25 in the nation at the conclusion of each season. Among those top 25 teams, Iowa's graduation rate, in all three years, ranked among the top five.

In recent semesters, Iowa's male and female student athletes for all sports, have posted a combined grade point average above 3.0.

According to the U.S. News & World Report rankings, The University of Iowa ranks as the 20th-best public university. In addition, five UI graduate programs rank as the best in the nation and 10 additional UI programs rank among the top 10 nationally.

GRADUATION RATES RANK HIGH

Iowa's football team has ranked in the top 10 in the nation in both major polls in three of the last five years, based on its results on the field. Based on results in the classroom, the Hawkeyes have ranked even higher.

Among the 64 teams competing in bowl games at the conclusion of the 2006 season, Iowa's football program had the ninth best graduation rate (72%) for the group of student-athletes who enrolled in the fall semester of 2001. This includes a graduation rate of 86% for "Black" student-athletes, 67% for "White" student-athletes and 50% for "Hispanic" student-athletes.

In addition, Iowa's football program was one of 34 programs in the nation to recently be cited by the American Football Coaches Association (AFCA) for having a graduation rate of over 70%. The AFCA report involves the freshman class from the 2001-02 academic year.

Among the top 25 ranked teams at the end of the 2004 season, the graduation rate for Iowa football (58%) ranked third best. Among the top 25 in 2003 Iowa ranked fourth (57%) in graduation rate and, in 2002, Iowa's graduation rate (63%) ranked fifth best among ranked teams. Only one other institution ranked among the top five in graduation rates over the same three seasons.

Iowa ranked second among the eight universities represented in the 2003 Bowl Championship Series (BCS) in graduation rates for its student-athletes in the sport of football.

"Student-athletes at the University of Iowa, through the office of Athletic Student Services, have the best support system available anywhere. This support is well documented by the academic success our athletes have enjoyed. The graduation rates and the academic honors are a compliment to our Student Services staff and the effort they put forth in assisting our student-athletes in their academic pursuits."

KIRK FERENTZ
Head Football Coach
University of Iowa

"This points to success in three areas of our football program and our athletics program. First, it speaks to the determination of our football staff to recruit students who are as committed to academic excellence as they are athletic excellence. Second, it speaks to the work of the staff in our Athletic Student Services unit and the commitment that they have consistently demonstrated to providing the appropriate guidance and support to our student-athletes. Third, and most importantly, it speaks to the commitment of the student-athletes themselves. As always, numbers don't lie and these indicate that you can be successful both on the playing field and in the classroom."

When the student-athlete considers his future, he should consider prospects beyond football. He should consider where he wants to be in five, ten, fifteen years from today and the best course of action for getting there. Also, he should decide early on to commit to excellence in every challenge undertaken.

Without a doubt, the men and women listed here took time to consider their future and the ways to get there. These former University of Iowa undergraduates have gone on to become leaders in their chosen fields. They also pursued their academic studies as strongly as the Iowa Hawkeyes go after their opponents each Saturday on the gridiron.

THE GERDIN LEARNING CENTER

RUSSELL A. AND ANN GERDIN ATHLETICS LEARNING CENTER

The University of Iowa's Russell A. and Ann Gerdin Athletic Learning Center, opened for the fall, 2003 semester, is one of the latest additions to the University of Iowa campus which directly benefits Iowa's student-athletes.

The Learning Center is a multi-level, 20,000-square foot facility which provides one all-purpose area for the academic pursuits for Iowa's male and female student-athletes. The facility is centrally located on the Iowa campus for easy access by all athletes and staff.

The Learning Center features an auditorium, two classrooms, study lounges for freshmen and upper-class student-athletes, a computer lab, a teaching lab, the athletic library, office space for Iowa's academic Student Services staff and a display area to recognize the academic accomplishments of Iowa's student-athletes.

"We are extremely excited about the addition of the Gerdin Athletic Learning Center and what it has added to the educational experiences of our student-athletes. Our student-athletes enjoy the finest facilities available. The Learning Center makes the total package we have to offer our student-athletes second to none."

The Learning Center provides one area, in a convenient, central location, that provides a great environment for our student-athletes to achieve their academic goals."

KIRK FERENTZ

Head Coach
The University of Iowa

"The Gerdin Learning Center has to be, if not the best, one of the best in the nation, for our use as student-athletes. It is located very close to the other facilities, very convenient for our use, and everything we need is there."

The Student Services staff is great to work with, they are always available and they have a great understanding of what our needs are and what we are going through in balancing everything we have going on in our schedule."

The Student Services staff, and our coaching staff, make it very clear that education has to be a priority. You have to come in with the right mindset and establish the fact that we are here for a good education. They make it very clear they expect us to do our best academically, and those habits carry over to what we do on the football field."

THE GERDIN LEARNING CENTER

RUSSELL A. AND ANN GERDIN ATHLETICS LEARNING CENTER

"When I was in the process of making my college choice, one of my issues was discovering the type of academic support that was available. Of the places I had an interest in, Iowa was at the top in what the Student Service staff had to offer and in the area of facilities. I wasn't sure what to expect academically, but everyone here made the transition easy.

Throughout my career, I have been able to obtain the academic support I have needed. Not just as a freshman, but each year, I have been able to use the resources available as far as tutoring and guidance. I give the Student Service staff and counselors a lot of credit for being very helpful.

The facilities we have available within the Gerdin Academic Learning Center are second to none. It makes it very easy for us as student-athletes to get all of the assistance we need in one building. It's great to have everything in one place. The academic support and the academic facilities at Iowa played a big part in my decision."

To many, the student-athletes who play football for the University of Iowa are simply campus celebrities who play a game each Saturday afternoon before fans packed into stadiums across the country.

However, to the staff in Iowa's Office of Student Services, these young men are individuals with the same routine problems of the ordinary college student. Instead of talking touchdowns and interceptions, the Students Services staff works alongside the student-athlete in tackling "off-the-field" problems.

The staff works with faculty advisors on the scheduling of classes for each student-athlete, making certain each course is geared toward the educational and professional goals of that specific student-athlete. The office also provides tutors for student-athletes as well as assistance in finding summer and permanent employment opportunities in the area of their career ambitions.

Once on campus every first year student-athlete attends a series of lectures that investigate the academic sphere at the University of Iowa. These discussion sessions help prepare the student-athlete on subjects as diverse as relaxing prior to an exam to the most effective way to study for an essay test.

First year student-athletes are also involved in special study sessions. The Student Services staff oversees the program, but the entire coaching staff is actively involved in its day-to-day operation.

The Office of Student Services has proven most beneficial to Iowa's student-athletes. For the student-athlete, the staff is a group of men and women who help them look beyond the immediate interests of college and athletics, concentrating instead on the long-term interests of the student-athlete.

During the fall semester a year ago, eight Iowa Hawkeye football players earned academic all-Big Ten honors. Senior TE Ryan Majerus was recognized for the fourth straight season, while OL Mike Elgin and LB Mike Humpal were named for the third straight year.

In 2006, Iowa's football program was one of just 34 Division I programs to be recognized by the American Football Coaches Association (AFCA) for having a graduation rate above 70%.

In addition, Elgin, LB Mike Klinkenborg and DB Adam Shada were named as first team academic all-Americans. Iowa was the only Division I program in the nation with three players named to the academic all-America team.

During the 2007 spring semester, 38 Hawkeye players (over 30% of the team) earned a grade point average above 3.0. Nine team members earned Dean's List recognition and a total of 27 current Hawkeyes have a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or above.

Defensive lineman Anton Narinskiy earned President's List recognition for the second straight year. To earn that recognition, a student must have compiled a grade point average of 4.0 or above for their most recent two semesters, with a minimum of 12 graded hours per semester.

"Athletic Student Services assist student-athletes in handling academic and social problems they may face. We want the student-athlete to feel comfortable with our staff to the extent that they can come to us and talk about anything. We also push the student-athlete to excel. On many occasions after a student-athlete leaves the University of Iowa, he'll call back and say how he appreciated the help and support we gave him when he was here."

IOWA'S STUDENT RETENTION PROGRAM

The graduation rate of student-athletes at the University of Iowa each year has been higher than the national average, exceeding that of the student body as a whole and ranking among the best in the Big Ten Conference and the nation.

However, the Iowa Hawkeyes aren't known for resting on their laurels. That's why the Iowa Athletic Department continues to seek ways to enhance existing academic support programs to increase the chance that all student athletes at the University will reach their academic goals.

Essential to Iowa's approach to this complex problem is a pro-active retention program. The program is founded on a strong principle: the longer a student-athlete attacks his academic challenges as hard as he attacks his daily practices and competition, the more likely that student-athlete will achieve academic success.

The goal of the retention program is to move a student-athlete from a passive to a pro-active position in the retention process; from observer to participant.

There are several reasons why the UI's retention program has been successful. First, the program is under the direction of one full-time staff member.

Mrs. Susan Walker, who joined the Iowa staff in 1982, earned both her bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Iowa. Prior to heading the retention program Walker served 14 years as a counselor for Iowa's football athletes.

Walker spearheads a support team which works directly with students, faculty and other academic staff members. Iowa's student-athletes benefit from the ongoing efforts that one full-time specialist can put toward the program and their needs.

The UI program includes an "early warning system" which helps identify potential difficulties for the student-athletes. This process begins upon receipt of the college entrance exams and high school transcripts, and continues throughout the student-athletes' entire academic experience at the University of Iowa.

The Office of Student Services looks to other offices for assistance in providing a fully-integrated approach to student retention. Staff members encourage student-athletes to also take full advantage of the expertise available from faculty members and the numerous excellent campus-wide academic support systems.

"The Iowa Retention Program has been broadened each year as we have developed new initiatives in addressing the academic needs of the student-athletes. We spend a large amount of time in one-on-one meetings and developing individual educational plans."

FROM FOOTBALL TO MEDICAL SCHOOL

Two senior members of the 2002 Iowa offensive line are proving that brains and brawn can mix. Andrew Lightfoot, a native of Des Plaines, IL is attending medical school at Iowa, while Will Lack, a native of Nora Springs, IA, is attending Harvard University medical school. Both cite their experiences with the Iowa football program as being very helpful in their preparation and medical school selection.

Lightfoot graduated with a major in psychology and minors in biology and chemistry. An academic all-Big Ten and Verizon district academic all-American selection throughout his career, Lightfoot took his medical school entrance exams during spring practice prior to his final season.

Lack joined the Iowa program as a walk-on and feels his football experiences paid dividends. He graduated with a double major in biomedical engineering and pre-medicine. While over 5,000 students apply for acceptance to the medical program at Harvard in any given year, less than 200 are accepted. Lack and Lightfoot are current residency students at Iowa.

"I think football helped in a lot of ways. It shows time management skills, leadership skills, it shows that you can handle responsibility. I think football caught their eye. They asked me about football, and I think it showed that I was a real person. Football made me more confident. I feel like I can look anything in the face and know I'll be able to handle it."

WILL LACK

2002 Senior
Harvard Medical School

"The academic success had to do with the coaching staff being very supportive, very understanding of what I needed to accomplish. If I needed to miss practice or whatever, they were very understanding and supportive. I missed the spring game to take the M-CATS, and actually, I missed each Saturday practice in the spring to be able to take practice tests to prepare. Along with the support of the coaches, you also need to be very determined and understand what you have to do. Class work has to be your top priority, followed by football and then make your social life a third priority."

"I'll be able to say that I've been there. I know what it's like to want to get back on the field no matter what. Hopefully, I'll be able to explain the risks if they outweigh playing. And hopefully, I'll bring some perspective."

GRADUATION RATES

TAKE A LOOK AT THESE NUMBERS

In a recent study by U.S. News & World Report, The University of Iowa has the nation's top graduate programs in audiology, creative writing, nursing service administration, printmaking and speech-language pathology. Ten additional UI programs ranked among the top 10 in the nation.

U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT

America's Best Graduate Schools

Serious about taking advantage of your educational opportunity and earning a degree? At the University of Iowa, the numbers are stacked in your favor. Overall, 72 percent of the student athletes with scholarships who enrolled in the UI in 2001-02 earned their degrees in six years. That percentage ranked Iowa ninth among the 64 Division I programs participating in bowl games following the 2006 season.

In addition, Iowa was the only team in the nation to have three players earn first team academic all-America honors a year ago and Iowa was one of 34 Division I programs to be recognized by the American Football Coaches Association (AFCA) for having a graduation rate of over 70 percent.

Iowa's graduation rate has annually ranked among the best in the Big Ten Conference and the nation. At the conclusion of the 2002, 2003 and 2004 seasons, Iowa ranked in the top 25 in the nation in the national rankings. Among those top 25 teams, Iowa's graduation rate, in all three years, ranked among the top five.

"When high school students visit the Tippie College of Business as prospective scholar-athletes, my colleagues and I emphasize that, if they enroll in the business school, they will have to work every bit as hard at their studies as they do for their sport. Fortunately, athletes who major in business, are, for the most part, as serious about getting their degrees as they are about competing in their sports, and Iowa's coaches encourage that mindset."

To succeed in life, college graduates must work hard and know how to discipline themselves; Iowa athletes learn that lesson early. Hawkeye coaches and UI faculty complement each other and Iowa's student-athletes are the real winners."

GARY FETHKE

Former Interim President
Former Dean, Henry B. Tippie College of Business
University of Iowa

"From the initial visit to the University of Iowa campus, Coach Ferentz and the entire coaching staff stress the importance of being successful in academics and earning a degree. There is a very direct correlation on how you take care of your academic responsibilities and how you take care of your responsibilities within the football program and on the football field."

With the facility we have available in the Gerdin Learning Center, and the great support we receive from members of the Student Services staff, we know our academic requirements are very important. The members of the Student Services staff are always there when we need them for assistance or direction.

Being successful with our academics is a team goal each semester and improving our team GPA each semester is a goal that everyone works very hard to achieve."

HAWKEYES EARN ACADEMIC HONORS

Over the past eight seasons, Iowa football has made its mark on the playing field. The Hawkeyes won Big Ten titles in 2002 (8-0) and 2004 (7-1). Iowa has participated in bowl games at the conclusion of each of the past six seasons, including January bowl games in four consecutive seasons (2002-05).

Under Coach Kirk Ferentz and his staff, Hawkeye football players have also been successful in the classroom during that time. Twelve players have combined to earn academic all-America honors on 21 occasions. Two players, DL Aaron Kampman and OL Andy Lightfoot were three-time honorees. Two current seniors, LB Mike Klinkenborg and DB Adam Shada, could earn that distinction this year.

In 2006, senior OL Mike Elgin joined Klinkenborg and Shada as a first team academic all-American, making Iowa the only Division I program in the nation with three players earning that distinction.

In addition, Iowa players have been honored 96 times over the past eight seasons with academic all-Big Ten recognition.

Senior DB Adam Shada earned first team academic all-America honors in 2006 and he was an all-District honoree as a sophomore.

STUDENT-ATHLETE SUPPORT

ACADEMIC SUPPORT

At The University of Iowa, a strong relationship has been developed between athletics and academics, where football coaches and athletes work hand-in-hand with academic deans and professors, assuring the student-athlete the best possible opportunities to excel in the classroom and in athletics.

From the first visit for any prospective student-athlete, to the completion of their academic and athletic career at Iowa, academic personnel play a large roll in the career of Hawkeye student-athletes. Beginning with the on-campus visits, student-athletes are introduced to professors in their selected field of study, and are able to establish a relationship and develop an understanding of the academic setting in which they will be involved.

"It is a great pleasure working with Coach Ferentz and his staff. Having wrestled for Dan Gable, I have insight into working with a coach who cares as much about an athlete outside the sports arena as in it. I've marveled at the total concern both coaches have shown for the "process" of success. There are no shortcuts in their philosophies or actions. All athletes should be able to take what they learn here and apply it to every aspect of their lives for the next 70 years.

I came to the University of Iowa with marginal athletic and academic ability and left with four NCAA Championship rings and a doctoral degree. Sports careers end, but what is learned from the important teachers and mentors in life endures. Coach Ferentz is the quintessential teacher and mentor."

DR. MITCHELL KELLY

Faculty Representative for Recruiting
2003 University of Iowa Carnegie Foundation Professor of the Year
University of Iowa

"I've been really impressed with the caliber of athlete that Coach Ferentz and his staff are recruiting to be members of the University of Iowa football program. They recognize the demanding life a "student-athlete" at the University of Iowa leads, and place a high priority on seeking capable students as well as good citizens."

ELLIE HERMAN, Ph.D.

Coordinator of Field Experiences
University of Iowa

Marvin Sims, a sports counselor in the department of Sports Medicine at the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics, has been employed at The University of Iowa for 21 years, working exclusively with student-athletes for the past 15 years.

"Student-athletes who enter the University of Iowa must prepare to succeed both scholastically and athletically. To accomplish this essential task the individuals must make many sacrifices and changes.

I've found through the years that student-athletes tend to deal with these changes in many different ways. Some handle the new expectations and living under a microscope very well, while others find it quite uncomfortable, and have a little harder time making the necessary adjustments.

As a sports counselor, I assist the student-athletes in identifying and working through the unexpected changes that naturally occur with this major life shift, and to help prepare them to meet the challenges that the college environment and a Division I program will certainly provide."

MARVIN L. SIMS

Sports Counselor
University of Iowa

The University of Iowa may be the best place in the world for student-athletes interested in living a scholarly life in addition to pursuing success on the playing field.

Providing creative, ambitious student-athletes with such an open and rich learning environment has produced many success stories -- success that's been measured by papers published, scholarships earned, and careers launched. And all of this intellectual energy is brought together in a beautiful place that's designed for meeting the needs of the student-athlete.

Iowa's Honors Program puts highly motivated student-athletes in the company of leading faculty scholars. Iowa's honors students represent an active and energetic group of scholars within the larger student community. They use Honors Program resources to participate in special seminars, to work with faculty members on research projects, to stay informed of scholarship opportunities for graduate study, and to present their own research at conferences around the nation.

They also frequently get together with other honors students to have a good time outside of the rigors of academic study. Students who are eligible to join the Honors Program receive a letter of invitation and information about honors activities.

Senior linebacker Mike Klinkenborg and senior defensive back Adam Shada are two current examples of Hawkeye student-athletes who excel both on the field and in the classroom. Both have earned academic all-America recognition in each of the past two seasons and both earned all-Big Ten recognition for their efforts on the field.

Taking advantage of the recently opened Gerdin Athletic Learning Center, eight Hawkeye football players were named to the academic all-Big Ten team during the 2006 fall semester. Senior Mike Elgin and juniors Mike Klinkenborg and Adam Shada were all named to the academic all-America first team.

Mike Elgin, a three-year starter in the offensive line, earned academic all-America honors in both 2005 and 2006. Following his final season a year ago, he was selected in the NFL draft by the New England Patriots.

Matt Reischl, a two-time academic all-American, made the most of his educational opportunity while at the University of Iowa. Reischl graduated with a double major in economics and finance and earned the Ernest R. Johnson Memorial Prize for graduating from the College of Liberal Arts with the highest academic standing, including a 4.18 GPA, based on a 4.0 scale.

Derek Rose, another 1998 Hawkeye senior, also made his mark in the classroom. A starter for three seasons, Rose earned two prestigious honors during his final year. He was named a National Scholar-Athlete by the National Football Foundation, earning a $25,000 post-graduate scholarship. During his final season Rose was also a Burger King Scholar Athlete of the Week, earning a $10,000 scholarship for the UI general scholarship fund.

PREPARING FOR THE FUTURE

HAWKEYES INVOLVED IN COMMUNITY ACTIVITIES

"Students who assume that their academic majors and association with football will get them jobs out of college may be surprised. Getting a good job after football requires additional things - knowledge about the work world; mastering writing, speaking, research, problem solving and computer skills; summer work experiences, professional contacts and a job search plan. We offer programs and services that help the student-athlete acquire all of these."

NANCY PARKER

Iowa Athletic Department
Office of Student Services

Getting the most out of your education experience means preparing for the life that follows after football and college. At the University of Iowa, student-athletes have access to support services which will assist them in securing employment in the career field that matches their interests, skills and education.

Working with the staff of the Iowa Athletic Department's Office of Student Services and the University's Career Development Services office, student-athletes identify their true interests and career options, select a program of appropriate academic study and explore the world of work through internships and the many resources available.

The Iowa Athletic Department assists student-athletes in making the transition from college to full-time employment by introducing them to business and professional leaders during the annual Polk County Senior recognition banquet in Des Moines. This "networking" often results in job interviews and, for many student-athletes, permanent employment in their preferred career.

University of Iowa student-athletes are encouraged to participate in a variety of workshops on job search skills, resume writing, interviewing, relocation, employment and industry trends, conducted by staff from Business and Liberal Arts Placement, Career Development Services and Athletic Student Services.

Potential employers are invited to the University of Iowa to discuss with student-athletes the world of work and how to effectively "market" themselves in an increasingly competitive workplace.

HAWKEYES INVOLVED IN COMMUNITY ACTIVITIES

Each year, University of Iowa male and female student-athletes take part in the Hawkeye Day of Caring. The student-athletes have joined with Iowa coaches, administrators and staff in performing service projects for many agencies around the Iowa City area in each of the past eight years.

Hawkeye Day of Caring is the brainchild of the Iowa Student Athlete Advisory Committee, whose goal has been to increase the level of community service among its teams and individuals. Hawkeye Day of Caring is an annual opportunity for Iowa's student-athletes to offer their support to service organizations throughout the community.

Members of the University of Iowa football team hosted children from Camp Courageous during the spring, taking part in activities on the Iowa practice fields and signing team posters.

A LIFETIME COMMITMENT

TO THE STUDENT-ATHLETE

"I don't like to leave anything undone. In athletics and life, I've always finished what I started."

That's what Andre Tippett, a five-time all-Pro defensive end for the New England Patriots and captain of the Iowa football team that played in the 1982 Rose Bowl, said about finishing his education.

Tippett left school before earning his degree. However, in January 1990 he returned to campus at the urging of Associate Athletic Director Fred Mims for one final semester of class work.

Tippett retired following the 1993 season and now works in Players Relations as a member of the New England administrative staff.

Mims oversees a program that encourages former University of Iowa student-athletes who have not completed an undergraduate degree program to return to Iowa City and finish their education. A number of Hawkeye football players have returned to campus to finish degree programs following their playing careers.

"If they can't come back right away, maybe they can take correspondence classes or enroll in some courses at another school closer to their home and transfer credits back to the University of Iowa. The important thing is for each student-athlete to complete his education," said Mims.

The program is even more evidence of the University of Iowa's commitment to each of its student-athletes academic success. It's a commitment that is for life and, in return, can provide the student-athletes who participate, a lifetime of career opportunities.

"The University of Iowa Athletic Student Services office is committed to developing long-lasting relationships with all student-athletes. These relationships begin during the student's recruitment process and last a lifetime."

SUE WALKER

Iowa Athletic Department
Office of Student Services

"People talk about where their allegiance is. Well, my allegiance is to the University of Iowa and I didn't want to get my degree from anyplace else."

ANDRE TIPPETT

Five-time All-Pro and former Captain, New England Patriots
and former Iowa Hawkeye

"First and foremost, the people in the program at the University of Iowa, everyone involved, are just great people. I formed many great relationships while at Iowa and I'm always anxious to get back to Iowa City to see how everyone is doing. I always try to follow the program when I can, and I stay in touch with the coaches. As a former player, I know myself and others always want Coach Ferentz and the staff to know they have our support."

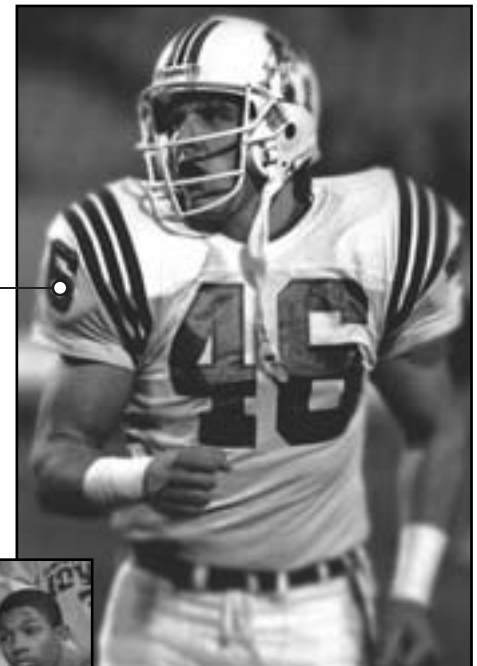

Iowa City is a great city and community, it has everything you are looking for in a University and it is a community I will always feel a part of."

DALLAS CLARK

Indianapolis Colts, 2007 Super Bowl Champions

Dallas Clark (44) is an Iowa native who stays in touch with the Iowa football program. Clark who entered the NFL following his junior season at Iowa, returned to Iowa City and enrolled in classes during the 2007 spring semester.

Following an NFL career in which he earned all-Pro honors while playing for the New England Patriots, Marv Cook returned to Iowa City, where he is a successful businessman, high school football coach and staunch supporter of Hawkeye football and the University of Iowa.

Former Hawkeye Andre Tippett, who enjoyed an all-Pro career with the New England Patriots, is greeted by Coach Kirk Ferentz after being introduced to the crowd at an Iowa basketball game. Tippett is now a member of the management team for New England, Super Bowl champions in 2003, 2004 and 2005.

The University of Iowa Athletic Department is committed to provide educational experiences and services to develop well-balanced lifestyles for student-athletes. The Athletic Student Services staff is committed to help the student-athlete derive maximum benefits from their athletics and college experience. Learning about who you are, acquiring self-understanding, a positive self-image, learning decision-making and coping skills to deal with the pressures and stresses of growing up all lead to a high quality of life as a student and an athlete at Iowa.

TRANSITION SEMINAR

The Transition Seminar runs for 12 weeks (90 minutes per week) at the beginning of the fall semester. This seminar, which is attended by all new students, explores personal and academic issues stemming from the transition from high school to college and adjustment issues that are unique to student-athletes. Its purpose is to help student-athletes improve their performance and persistence at Iowa.

These are highly interactive sessions with emphasis on group discussion in order for the student-athletes may learn from each other. Some of the topics are introduction to the University library, personal and academic goal-setting, time management, personal responsibility and accountability, substance abuse, relating to professors, study skills, diversity and ethics.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS

Throughout the year, Athletic Student Services sponsors and conducts educational programs. These are seminars, speakers, workshops and short courses on issues of personal growth and life skills, with a primary focus on alcohol and other drugs. These programs, which are often topics suggested by student-athletes, appeal to a variety of audiences, including specific teams, age groups (i.e., freshmen, fourth-year seniors) or department-wide.

Subjects that have been addressed in the past include alcohol and self-esteem, healthy intimacy, sexual assault, personal responsibility and accountability, communicating with coaches, stress management, racial diversity, time management, learning strategies and transitions from college to professional life.

CAREER GUIDANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

Planning a meaningful career and a fulfilling life is an ongoing process of expanding and narrowing choices, beginning when the student-athlete arrives on campus and continuing throughout their college career and lifetime. This process includes learning about who you are (e.g., your values, abilities and interests) and using that information to choose courses leading eventually to an academic major by the end of the second year.

Fred Mims (far left), Director of Iowa's Athletic Student Services, visits with members of the Iowa football team during the spring. Members of the Athletic Student Services staff work closely with the student-athletes to assist in all areas of their experiences while attending the University of Iowa.

The process continues with "building a resume" and exploring other college and community activities (e.g., campus organizations, student government, community service, church involvement). An important step is to learn about the world of work, growing industries, employment forecasts and how the student-athlete interests and abilities fit. Summer internships, fieldwork and volunteering are all valuable experiences that lead to reasonable decisions about a career.

As the student-athlete approaches their senior year, they need to explore their options for life after graduation (i.e., full time work, graduate or professional school or professional sports). Those decisions will require further planning, whether it is to develop a job strategy and resume, or to apply to graduate schools and take entrance exams.

Athletic Student Services offers individual consultation, career development seminars and workshops, referrals to other campus offices and special events, such as the Polk County Senior Recognition Banquet for graduating student-athletes. This event is an opportunity for graduating seniors to be recognized by the governor for their contributions to the people of Iowa and to meet and network with professional and business executives across the state of Iowa.

Athletic counselors and staff members from Athletic Student Services help student-athletes identify their choices, clarify their plans and refer them for further assistance to other student service offices on campus.

CAREER PLANNING TIMETABLE

All the activity in career planning boils down to the tasks of expanding and narrowing . . . and of exploring and choosing.

First Year: EXPLORING

- Get to know who you are: interests, skills, work values through inventories and assessments
- Get introduced to the Discover Software Program
- Take a variety of introductory courses to learn about academic programs
- Explore college majors with athletics counselor, academic adviser, faculty, family, friends
- Investigate the academic departments, their admission requirements, required courses/prerequisites
- Take 7C:081, Making a Vocational Educational Choice for two credits
- Attend a career exploration workshop
- Visit Career Development Services, 315 Calvin Hall, to find out sources of career information
- Volunteer on campus or in the community

Second Year: NARROWING

- Get involved in a campus activity; join a campus organization
- Take 7C:081, Making a Vocational Educational Choice for two credits
- Work with academic advisors/athletics counselors to identify academic majors that fit your academic performance, interests, skills
- Begin to define the things that are important to you in a job
- Learn as much as you can about available careers, occupations, employment outlook
- Talk to professionals in the field you are considering
- Research in the Career Development Services
- Attend a workshop on choosing a major
- Attend Careers Day in September
- Investigate internships and seek out summer jobs and volunteer work related to your career interest
- Draft a resume
- Choose a major; apply to an academic department
- Attend the Summer Jobs Fair in February
- Volunteer on campus or in the community

Third Year: FOCUS

- Determine a graduation plan with advisor; tentative graduate date, degree requirements, required internships, field experiences, student teaching
- Begin to network: Get to know faculty, professionals, former teammates in interest areas
- Explore graduate or professional school possibilities after graduation
- Identify career goals based on skills, interests, work values
- Update/add to your resume
- Seek out a summer internship, quality work experience related to interest area
- Attend Careers Day in September. Distribute resume and meet employers
- Take leadership role in campus activity/organization
- Attend the Summer Jobs Fair in February
- Volunteer on campus or in the community

Fourth Year: TAKE ACTION

- Request and get a graduation analysis. Are you ready to graduate?
- Develop a job search strategy
- Take an inventory of skills and abilities you have developed and make sure you can speak to what you can do
- Refine, finalize resume
- Attend workshops on writing resumes, interviews, job search process
- Register at Business and Liberal Arts, Engineering or Education Placement Office for on-campus interviews
- Research employers, companies to interview
- Attend Career Day in September. Distribute final resume and meet employers
- Attend Polk County Senior Recognition Banquet and continue to network
- Step-up networking activities and talk to faculty, employers, friends and former teammates
- Complete all graduate/professional school applications; register and take graduate entrance exams
- Attend senior transition workshops

Junior defensive lineman Matt Kroul has earned academic all-Big Ten recognition in each of the past two years.

University of Iowa students have more than 100 programs to choose from when deciding on a field of study. And, they can take their time in selecting a course of study or career. One out of four students begin their college career as an open major prior to selecting a major once their college career is underway.

IOWA RANKS HIGH ACADEMICALLY AMONG BOWL TEAMS

Among the 64 Division I football programs that participated in bowl games following the 2006 season, Iowa ranked ninth overall with a graduation rate of 72% for the group of student-athletes who enrolled in the University of Iowa in the fall semester of 2001. Iowa's graduation rate ranked second among Big Ten teams competing in bowl games.

In graduation rate data for teams that participated in bowl games and finished in the top 25 of the national rankings in 2002, 2003 and 2004, the Iowa football program ranked highly, according to information released by the NCAA.

In graduation rates for student-athletes in the sport of football, Iowa's 63% graduation rate in 2002 ranked second among the eight universities represented in the 2003 Bowl Championship Series and third among the seven Big Ten Conference universities that participated in bowl games.

The Iowa football team ranked eighth in the nation in the final rankings in 2002, 2003 and 2004. Among the teams ranked in the top 25 each year, Iowa's graduation rate ranked fifth in 2002 (63%), fourth in 2003 (57%) and third in 2004 (58%). Only one other school ranked in the top five in each of the three years.

According to the data compiled by the NCAA for the 2001 season, Iowa's graduation rate of 78 percent for scholarship student-athletes in the sport of football, who entered the University of Iowa for the fall 1994 semester, ranked behind only Stanford (93%), Syracuse (91%), Boston College (85%) and Southern California (82%) among the bowl game participants.

The same five schools topped the list when a comparison was done using a four-year graduation rate average, with Iowa again ranking as the top public institution. The national graduation rate average for Division I-A football student-athletes was 52 percent. Iowa was one of 16 of the 50 bowl teams whose graduation rate for its football student-athletes matched or exceeded the graduation rate for its respective institution's entire student body.

"We take great pride in the academic achievements of our student-athletes, just as we admire their athletic achievements. The athletics program at the University of Iowa has long embraced the idea that academic pursuits do not have to suffer in order to be successful in athletic competition. We are proud of what our football team has accomplished on the field and off, and we look forward to a bright future."

Senior linebacker Mike Humpal has earned academic all-Big Ten recognition in each of the past three years. Humpal has earned his bachelor's degree and is working towards an advanced degree.

NFL HAWKEYES

When a student-athlete excels on the football field at the University of Iowa he gets noticed. He's noticed by the thousands of fans in Kinnick Stadium and the stadiums where the Hawkeyes play; by the vast numbers of media who follow the Iowa football program and Big Ten football; by the millions of college football fans watching the Hawkeyes on nationally televised games; and by scouts for the franchises of the National Football League.

When the Oakland Raiders selected offensive tackle Robert Gallery with the second selection in the 2004 NFL Draft, it marked the high point of Iowa's selections in the Kirk Ferentz era. Twenty Iowa players have been selected in the NFL Draft in the past five years. Five Hawkeye players were selected in the 2003, 2004 and 2005 NFL draft, while linebackers Chad Greenway (first round) and Abdul Hodge (third round) were drafted in 2006. Three Hawkeye players were selected in the 2007 draft.

Hawkeye players selected in the past five NFL drafts have included eight selections in the first two rounds. Along with the 20 selections, an additional 26 Hawkeyes in the past five years have signed free agent contracts with NFL teams. An Iowa football player has been selected in the NFL Draft in each of the past 30 years.

In the past eight seasons, with Kirk Ferentz as the Hawkeye head coach, 56 of the 62 seniors who were starters, have been selected in the NFL Draft or signed an NFL contract.

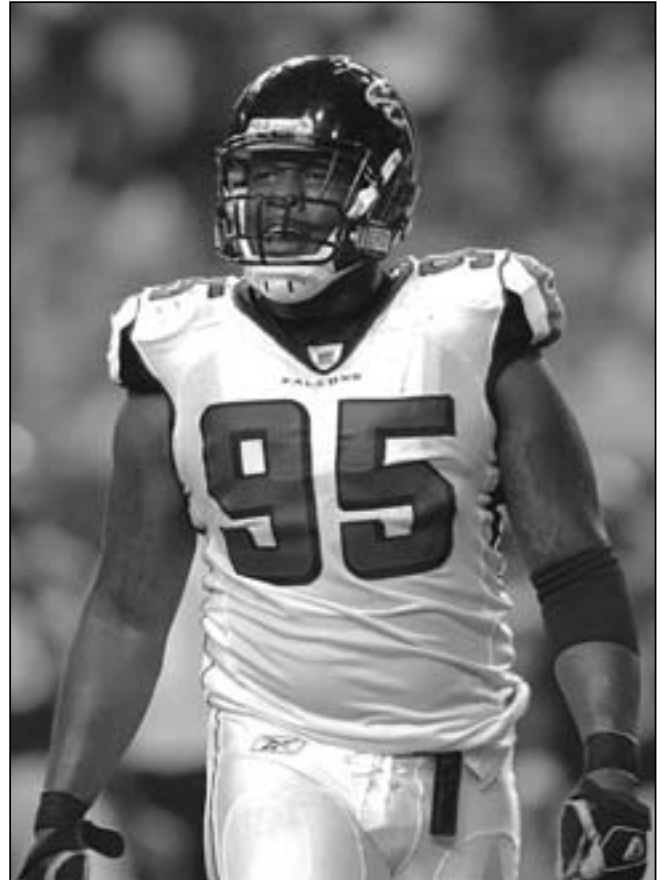

The relationships Kirk Ferentz established during his six years as an NFL coach, along with the reputation established by the Iowa football program for preparing players for the professional level, are beneficial to members of the Iowa football program who aspire to a professional career.

These relationships, paired with an Iowa football program that stresses fundamentals, discipline and pro-like offensive and defensive systems, have meant that highly-skilled Hawkeyes are often the choice of NFL teams in the league's annual college football draft. And the Hawkeyes have been successful in the NFL as well. Twenty-seven former Hawkeyes have competed in the Super Bowl, including TE Dallas Clark and DB Bob Sanders, member of the current Super Bowl champion Indianapolis Colts.

The following list of former Hawkeye players have made the step from college to professional football, with the majority of the players listed currently active in the NFL.

JONATHAN BABINEAUX

Jonathan Babineaux earned all-America recognition as a senior in 2004, helping the Hawkeyes to the Big Ten title and a win over LSU in the 2005 Capital One Bowl. Babineaux was a second round selection of the Atlanta Falcons, and he made an immediate impact. Babineaux saw action in all 16 games as a rookie in 2005, recording 31 tackles, including 24 solo tackles. In his second season, Babineaux recorded 28 tackles (23 unassisted) while again playing in all 16 games.

JASON BAKER

Punter Jason Baker has found a home in the NFL since 2001. He averaged 40.8 yards as a rookie that season with San Francisco. In 2003 Baker averaged 39.5 yards per punt for Kansas City as the Chiefs advanced to the second round of the playoffs. Baker spent the majority of the 2004 season with Kansas City before joining the Carolina Panthers for the 2005 season. He averaged 43.3 yards on 72 punts in 2005, with no blocks, for the Panthers, who advanced to the NFC championship game. A year ago Baker ranked sixth in the NFL with an average of 45.7 yards on 98 punts for the Panthers.

1 - LADELL BETTS

After rushing for over 1,000 yards in each of his final two seasons at Iowa, Ladell Betts moved onto the NFL, being selected by the Washington Redskins in the second round of the 2002 draft. As a rookie Betts averaged 4.7 yards per carry with the Redskins and totaled 1,151 all-purpose yards. In 2003 Betts rushed 77 times for 255 yards and two touchdowns before missing seven games due to injury. In 2004 he played in all 16 games, with one start, averaging 4.1 yards per carry. Betts rushed 26 times for 118 yards in his only start, helping the Redskins to a win over Minnesota. In 2005 he played in 12 games while helping the Redskins advance to the playoffs. He averaged 3.8 yards per carry and scored on a 94-yard kickoff return vs. Tampa Bay.

Betts had his best season in 2006. He started nine games and rushed for 1,154 yards on 245 carries, setting career highs in both rushing and receiving. He is the only running back in the history of the Washington Redskins to record consecutive 150 yard rushing games.

2 - MATT BOWEN

One of the toughest defensive backs in recent Hawkeye history, Matt Bowen was selected in the sixth round of the 2000 NFL Draft by the St. Louis Rams, the defending Super Bowl champions. Moving to Green Bay in 2002, Bowen started six of 16 games and recorded 40 tackles. Bowen signed a multi-million dollar contract to continue his career with the Washington Redskins prior to the 2003 season. In his first season in Washington he started all 16 games, recording 94 tackles, three interceptions, two forced fumbles and two recovered fumbles. He started the first five games of the 2004 season before a knee injury forced him to miss the final 11 games. He had 14 tackles in 13 games in 2005. Bowen played in five games for the Buffalo Bills in 2006 before a leg injury forced him to miss the remainder of the season.

3 - DALLAS CLARK

Dallas Clark was a consensus all-American and the winner of the 2002 John Mackey Award as a junior. Declaring for the NFL Draft, he was a first round selection of the Indianapolis Colts in the 2003 draft. As a rookie he recorded 29 receptions for 340 yards and a touchdown over the first 10 games of the season before a broken leg forced him to miss the final six games of the regular season and the playoffs. In 2004 Clark started 13 games, with 25 receptions for 423 yards and five touchdowns. He reached career-high marks with 102 receiving yards and two scores vs. Houston. His numbers continued to rise in 2005 as he had 37 receptions for 488 yards and four TDs. He set career high marks with six catches for 125 yards vs. Cincinnati and he had four catches for 84 yards vs. Pittsburgh in the playoffs. He averaged 12.2 yards per catch in 2006 despite missing several games due to injury. He started four post-season games and had 21 receptions for 317 yards in the post-season, the best playoff receiving total for a tight end since the 1970 NFL merger.

4 - JARED CLAUSS

Jared Clauss enjoyed a solid rookie season with the Tennessee Titans after being selected in the seventh round of the 2004 NFL draft. Clauss saw action in 14 games during his rookie season and in 2005 recorded 18 tackles while seeing action in 15 games. Clauss begins the 2007 season with the Washington Redskins.

5 - COLIN COLE

In the case of DL Colin Cole, patience and hard work have paid off nicely. After helping the Hawkeyes post a perfect 8-0 record in Big Ten play in 2002, Cole signed as a free agent with the Minnesota Vikings. Cole did not see game action in his initial professional season, in which he spent time in both Minnesota and Detroit. Cole's stock in the past three seasons has risen with the Green Bay Packers. Cole played in all 16 games for the Packers in 2005, recording 40 tackles and two QB sacks. Last season he recorded 37 tackles (20 solo stops) while seeing action in 15 games.

NFL HAWKEYES

1 - SEAN CONSIDINE

After joining the Iowa program as a walk-on, Sean Considine became one of the top defensive backs in recent Iowa history. Even after working his way on the field as a starting safety, Considine remained a key player on Iowa's special teams throughout his career. He blocked two punts in a win at Iowa State and closed his career with a touchdown against LSU in the 2005 Capital One Bowl, picking up a blocked punt for a score in Iowa's dramatic win. Considine was the first player selected in the fourth round of the 2005 NFL draft. He was a quality performer on special teams for the Eagles, recording eight tackles before suffering a season ending injury. In his second season a year ago Considine recorded 85 tackles, including 59 solo stops.

2 - JARED DEVRIES

After earning all-America honors for three straight seasons, DT Jared DeVries was a third round selection of the Detroit Lions in the 1999 NFL draft. He was the Big Ten Defensive Lineman of the Year as a junior. After overcoming injuries earlier in his professional career, DeVries has become a steady and dependable defensive lineman for the Lions. In 2005 he saw action in all 16 games, recording 22 tackles, three QB sacks and two recovered fumbles. Last season he started nine games, recording 10 solo tackles and 23 tackles overall. In 2004 was awarded Detroit's Ed Block Memorial Courage Award.

3 - TIM DWIGHT

Tim Dwight, a fourth round selection in the 1998 NFL draft, played a key role as the Atlanta Falcons advanced to the Super Bowl for the first time in 1999. Dwight scored on a 94-yard kickoff return in the Super Bowl loss to Denver and set a Super Bowl record for kickoff return average. Dwight in three seasons with the Falcons totaled over 1,000 receiving yards.

Dwight was traded to the San Diego Chargers for the top selection in the NFL draft prior to the 2001 season.

In 2002, he had 50 receptions for 623 yards and two TDs with San Diego, along with a 7.7 average on 12 rushing attempts, a 12.2 punt return average and a 20.8 average on kickoff returns. Dwight was hampered by injuries during the 2003 and 2004 seasons before joining New England for the 2005 season. Dwight played in all 16 regular season games, averaging 17.5 yards per catch on 19 receptions. He averaged 25 yards on 10 KO returns and 8.5 yards on 32 punt returns. He signed with the New York Jets for the 2006 season and played in nine games. He averaged 10.4 yards on punt returns and had 16 receptions for 112 yards.

4 - BRIAN FERENTZ

Offensive lineman Brian Ferentz defied the odds while fighting through injuries during his Iowa career, battling through knee problems to start the final 20 games of his Hawkeye career. Ferentz signed a free agent contract with the Atlanta Falcons following the 2006 NFL draft and was on the Atlanta practice squad throughout the 2006 season.

5 - ROBERT GALLERY

After earning the Outland Trophy as the top college lineman in the nation as a senior in 2003, Robert Gallery was the second player taken in the NFL Draft. Gallery made an immediate impression with the Oakland Raiders. Gallery saw action in all 16 games for the Raiders in 2004 and started the final 15 games of the season at right tackle. He started all 16 games at right tackle in 2005. A year ago he started all 10 games in which he saw action, but missed six games due to injury.

1 - MIKE GOFF

One of the reasons Tavian Banks was able to set a single-season rushing record for the Hawkeyes in 1997 was the play of the offensive line, and in particular the play of Mike Goff. For his efforts Goff was selected in the third round of the NFL Draft by the Cincinnati Bengals. Goff was a member of the Bengal offensive line in 2000 that led the way for record-setting RB Corey Dillon. He started every game for the Bengals in both 2000 and 2001. Goff in both 2002 and 2003 was a mainstay in the offensive line for the Bengals. In March, 2004, he signed a five-year contract with the San Diego Chargers. Goff became a solid reason San Diego was able to enjoy success in 2004, starting all 16 regular season games and the single playoff game in the offensive line. He started all 16 games as well in 2005 for the Chargers. He played in career game No. 100 vs. Dallas in the first week of the season and later started his 50th consecutive game vs. Kansas City on Oct. 30. His starting streak continued as he started every game in 2006, helping the Chargers rank as one of the top rushing teams in the NFL.

2 - CHAD GREENWAY

Linebacker Chad Greenway was the 17th player selected in the 2006 NFL draft, being selected in the first round by the Minnesota Vikings. Greenway made an immediate impact in training camp with the Vikings due to his aggressive style of play. He suffered a knee injury during a pre-season contest and was forced to miss the entire season.

3 - ABDUL HODGE

Linebacker Abdul Hodge was a third round selection of the Green Bay Packers in the 2006 NFL draft. Hodge saw action in eight games and earned one start during his rookie season. Hodge collected a season-high 12 tackles against Seattle in his only start of the season.

4 - JOVON JOHNSON

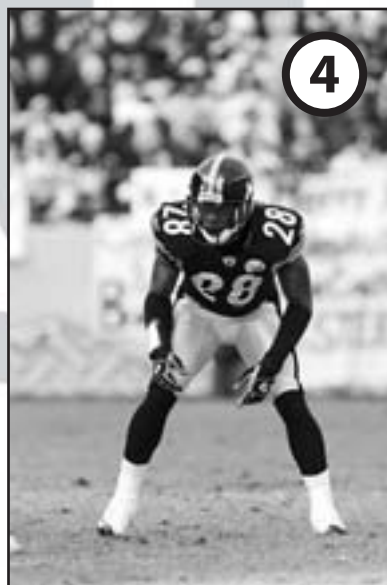

Defensive back Jovon Johnson earned first team all-Big Ten honors as a senior in 2005 and completed his career with 17 pass interceptions, just one shy of the school record. Johnson signed a free agent contract with the New York Jets following the 2006 NFL draft. Johnson saw limited action during his rookie season with the Pittsburgh Steelers. After spending a majority of the season on the practice squad, Johnson was promoted to the active squad in October and saw action in two games.

5 - C.J. JONES

WR C.J. Jones, who will long be remembered for his 100-yard kickoff return for a touchdown on the opening play of the 2003 Orange Bowl, also made a lasting impression on the Cleveland Browns. Signed to a free agent contract, Jones made the Cleveland roster as a return specialist during the 2003 NFL season and was also on the Browns squad in 2004 and 2005. He began the 2006 season on the roster of the Seattle Seahawks.

NFL HAWKEYES

1- NATE KAEDING

Rookie PK Nate Kaeding played a key role in the resurgence of the San Diego Chargers during the 2004 season. Kaeding set a team scoring record with 114 kicking points as he connected on 20-25 field goals and 54-55 PATs. Kaeding had a career-best 53-yard field goal while helping the Chargers make a return appearance in the NFL playoffs. Kaeding connected on 21-24 field goal attempts in 2005, with a long of 49 yards. He also connected on all 49 PAT attempts during the year. Last season he made 26-29 field goal attempts (89.7%) and all 58 PAT attempts while earning all-Pro honors.

2- AARON KAMPMAN

After being selected by Green Bay in the fifth round of the 2002 NFL Draft, Aaron Kampman immediately went to work on beginning his NFL career. Kampman's efforts paid off as he enjoyed a productive rookie season with the Packers, starting six games. In 2003 Kampman recorded 35 solo tackles, 18 assists and three forced fumbles. Playing his best at the end of the year, Kampman recorded 14 solo tackles and one assist in two playoff games at the conclusion of the 2003 season. Kampman played in 16 games for the Packers in 2004, recording 120 tackles and seven QB sacks. He started all 16 games in 2005. He recorded a career-high 105 tackles (62 solo), the second most ever for a Packer defensive end. He also had 6.5 QB sacks and tied a career-high with three forced fumbles. He led the NFC with 15.5 sacks in 2006, the third best total in Packer history. He recorded 113 tackles (84 solo) to rank third on the team with the most tackles ever recorded by a Green Bay lineman. He twice was named NFC Player of the Week and earned all-Pro recognition.

3 - KEVIN KASPER

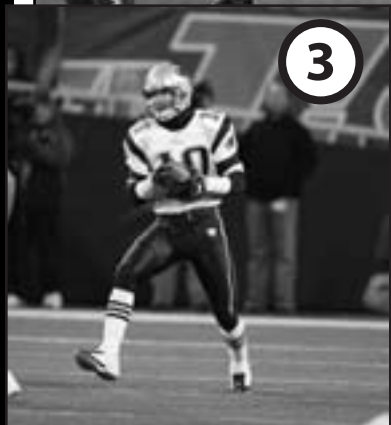

Joining the program as a walk-on, Kevin Kasper during his Iowa career had 82 receptions for 1,010 yards, ranking second in career catches and yards. Following his outstanding college career, Kasper was drafted by the Denver Broncos in the sixth round of the 2001 NFL draft. As a rookie, Kasper had eight receptions for 84 yards. A key player on special teams, Kasper also led the team with a 26.6 yards average on 14 KO returns. In 2002, he averaged 26.2 yards per kickoff return for Denver early in the season, before concluding the year with the Arizona Cardinals. Kasper averaged 22.6 yards on KO returns for Arizona and also had 15 receptions for 180 yards and three touchdowns. He averaged 27.2 yards on kickoff return for the Cardinals in 2003 before joining New England in 2004, where he saw action in the final eight games of the season for the Super Bowl champions. Kasper joined the Detroit Lions in 2006 and begins the 2007 season on the Lion roster.

4 - DERRICK ROBINSON

After playing a key role in Iowa's run to the Big Ten title as a senior in 2004, defensive end Derrick Robinson signed a free agent contract with the San Diego Chargers. Robinson was one of just two un-drafted players to make the San Diego roster in 2005 and he saw limited playing time, recording three tackles. He gained added experience in 2006, recording 19 tackles (14 solo stops) and 1.5 QB sacks.

5 - MATT ROTH

After earning all-America honors as a senior while helping the Hawkeyes win the 2004 Big Ten title, DE Matt Roth was a second round selection of the Miami Dolphins. Roth, in his rookie season in Miami, played in all 16 games, recording 22 tackles and a QB sack. His top game was against Kansas City when he recorded six tackles. A year ago he played in 16 games, contributing 36 tackles (23 solo) and 3.5 QB sacks.

1 - BOB SANDERS

After earning a reputation as one of the biggest hitters in college football, Bob Sanders stepped right in at the professional level as a rookie in 2004. Missing portions of the season due to injuries, Sanders made the most of his opportunity when healthy. Sanders started four of the six games he played, recording 39 tackles and two fumble recoveries. Enjoying a healthy second season in 2005, Sanders was named all-Pro and was selected to the Pro Bowl, the first Colt defensive back to earn that distinction since 1971. He was second on the team with 118 tackles, including 71 solo stops. He recorded 10 or more tackles in five games, with a career-best 20 tackles vs. San Diego. Sanders had one interception during the year and recorded nine tackles vs. Pittsburgh in the playoffs. Sanders was hampered by a knee injury in 2006 and played in just five regular season games before returning for the playoffs. He recorded 22 tackles and two interceptions in four playoff games, helping the Colts win the Super Bowl.

2 - ERIC STEINBACH

OL Eric Steinbach was the first player selected in the second round (by Cincinnati) of the 2003 NFL Draft. He was named Big Ten Lineman of the Year as a senior after helping the 2002 Hawkeyes earn a share of the Big Ten title. Steinbach as a rookie started 15 games for the Bengals, missing one game due to injury. He was named to Pro Football Weekly's all-Rookie team. Steinbach started 14 games for the Bengals in 2004 and saw action in every contest. He started all 16 games during the 2005 regular season and the playoff game vs. Pittsburgh. He played 1,059 of 1,066 offensive snaps in the 17 games. He has been named as an all-Pro alternate in each of the past two seasons while starting every game. Steinbach has signed a seven-year multi-million dollar contract with the Cleveland Browns.

3 - ROSS VERBA

Ross Verba was the final player selected in the first round of the 1997 NFL Draft when he was taken by the world-champion Green Bay Packers. Verba established himself early in the season and by the end of the year became the first rookie to start at left tackle in the Super Bowl. Verba was named to the NFL all-rookie team as well. Verba played for the Cleveland Browns for four seasons after signing a multi-million dollar contract. Verba started all 15 games in which he played for the Browns in 2001 and all 16 games in 2002. He started 84 of 90 games in which he played in his first six pro seasons before an injury forced him to miss the entire 2003 season. Verba returned to start all 16 games in 2004 in Cleveland. He played for the Detroit Lions in 2006.

4 - CASEY WIEGMANN

Center Casey Wiegmann is proof that patience and hard work does indeed have its rewards. Wiegmann, a three-year starter at center for the Hawkeyes who concluded his college career in Iowa's 38-18 Sun Bowl win over Washington, played four seasons with the Chicago Bears. Wiegmann joined the NFL as a free agent and worked his way into Chicago's starting line-up in 1998 before signing with the Kansas City Chiefs prior to the 2001 season. Wiegmann started all 15 games in which he saw action for the Chiefs in 2001 after an injury forced him to miss the opening game. After starting all 16 games in each of the past four seasons, Wiegmann has increased his streak to starting 95 straight games for Kansas City over the last six seasons. He has played 5,235 consecutive offensive plays, the longest current streak by an offensive lineman in the NFL.

5 - LEVAR WOODS

One of Iowa's most dedicated players over the last few years, and a Hawkeye fan favorite due to his work ethic, LeVar Woods signed a contract with the Arizona Cardinals prior to the 2001 season and made a name for himself with his hard work and determination. Woods recorded 18 tackles for Arizona in his rookie season. Woods started two of the 15 games in which he played in 2002, recording 26 tackles. In 2003 he had three starts in 16 games, recording 22 total tackles and two recovered fumbles. In four seasons in Arizona Woods played in 60 games and had seven starts, recording 96 career stops. He signed with the Chicago Bears for the 2005 season and joined Detroit in the 11th week of the year. Woods started three games in Detroit, recording 26 tackles in six games. He played in 14 games for the Tennessee Titans in 2006, recording 19 total tackles.

2007 NFL DRAFT

The University of Iowa has been well represented in the NFL Draft in the past eight seasons, as 26 Hawkeye players have been selected, including 18 picks in the first five rounds. Five Hawkeye players were drafted each year from 2003-05, including OL Robert Gallery as the second player selected in the 2004 draft. Two Iowa players were selected in the first three rounds of the 2006 draft, with four additional Hawkeyes signing free agent contracts. Three Hawkeye players were selected in the most recent draft.

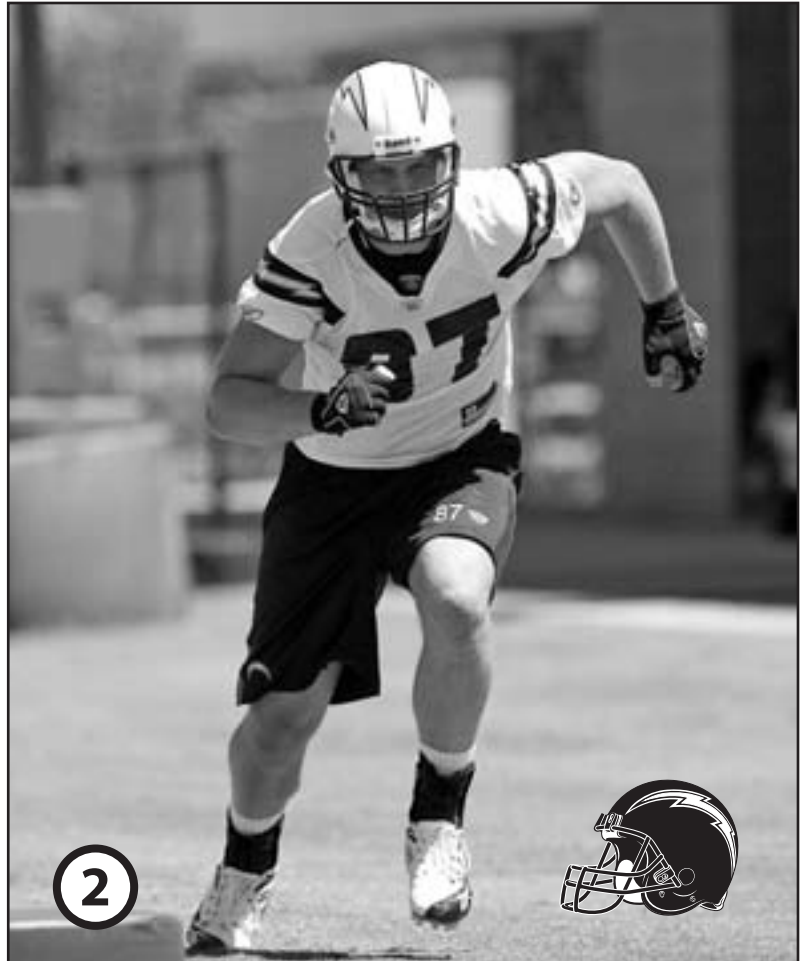

Overall, Iowa has had 23 players selected in the last six years of the NFL Draft, a figure that ranks third among Big Ten Conference teams. In addition, 26 players in the past five seasons have signed NFL free agent contracts.

Offensive lineman Marshal Yanda was the first Iowa player selected in the 2007 NFL draft, as he was a third round selection of the Baltimore Ravens. TE Scott Chandler was selected in the fourth round by the San Diego Chargers and the New England Patriots selected offensive lineman Mike Elgin in the seventh round.

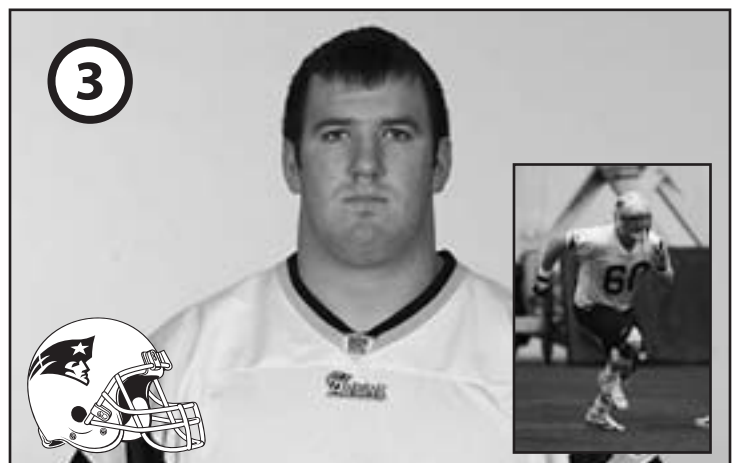

Immediately following the draft, five additional Hawkeye players signed NFL free agent contracts, including OL Mike Jones (San Diego), DB Miguel Merrick (San Diego), LB Ed Miles (Miami), DB Marcus Paschal (Philadelphia) and QB Drew Tate (St. Louis).

In 2006, LB Chad Greenway was a first round selection (17th pick overall) of the Minnesota Vikings and LB Abdul Hodge was selected by Green Bay in the third round. DB Jovon Johnson saw action as a rookie with the Pittsburgh Steelers after signing a free agent contract and OL Brian Ferentz was a member of the Atlanta Falcons organization throughout his rookie season.

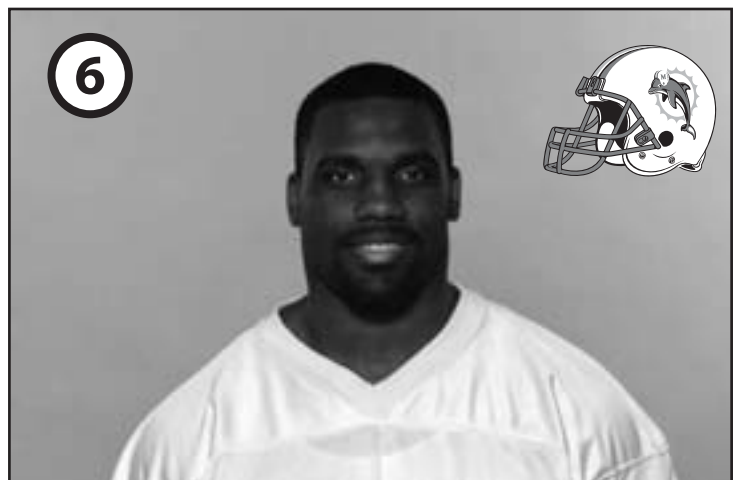

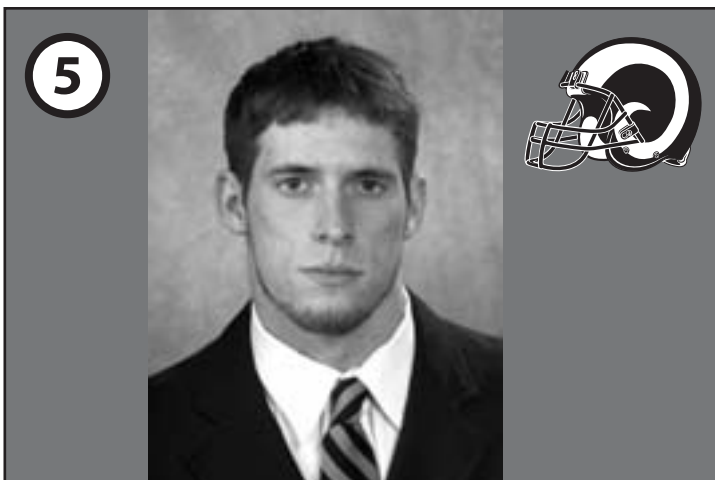

In 2005, DE Matt Roth and DL Jonathan Babineaux were both second round selections. Along with Gallery being selected second in the 2004 Draft, DB Bob Sanders was taken in the second round and PK Nate Kaeding was a third round selection. In 2003, TE Dallas Clark was taken in the first round and OL Eric Steinbach and OL Bruce Nelson in the second round.

Three of the five Hawkeye players selected in the 2003 NFL Draft joined the Iowa program as walk-ons from prep programs from within the state of Iowa. This is believed to be the first time in the history of the draft that any one team had three former walk-ons selected in the same year. It was more of the same in the 2005 draft. DB Sean Considine, a fourth round selection, and OL Pete McMahon, taken in the sixth round, also joined the Iowa program as walk-ons before becoming starters on a team that played in three straight January bowl games during their careers.

- 1 – OL Marshal Yanda was selected by Baltimore in the third round of the 2007 NFL draft.
- 2 – San Diego selected Iowa TE Scott Chandler in the fourth round of the 2007 draft.
- 3 – OL Mike Elgin, an academic all-American during his Iowa career, was selected by New England in the seventh round of the NFL draft.

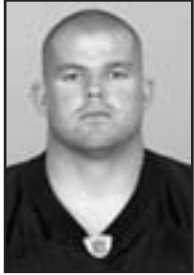

- 1 - Three former Hawkeyes were able to share the moment after an NFL battle during the 2005 season. Nate Kaeding (left) and Mike Goff (right) of the San Diego Chargers share a post-game chat with Oakland's Robert Gallery.
- 2 - OL Mike Jones started 43 games during his Iowa career before signing an NFL contract with the San Diego Chargers.
- 3 - DB Miguel Merrick was a two-year starter and key member of Iowa's special teams throughout his career. Merrick signed a free agent contract with San Diego.
- 4 - Despite fighting through injuries his senior season, DB Marcus Paschal started 33 games in his career and signed a free agent contract with Philadelphia.
- 5 - QB Drew Tate, who ranks among Iowa's top five quarterbacks in nearly all statistical categories, signed a free agent contract with the St. Louis Rams.
- 6 - LB Ed Miles started all 25 games over his final two seasons at Iowa before signing a free agent contract with the Miami Dolphins.

NFL SCOUTS KNOW THE IOWA PROGRAM

The University of Iowa football program has established close ties with National Football League teams, a connection that proves very beneficial to Hawkeye football players as they pursue their dreams of playing professional football in the NFL.

Iowa Coach Kirk Ferentz, who coached in the NFL for six seasons prior to taking his current position as the Iowa head coach, has established close ties with coaches and scouts from around the NFL. Each year, scouts from all NFL teams make it a point to spend time at the Iowa football complex, checking in on the current class of Hawkeye seniors.

Each spring, pro scouts are invited to Iowa City to work out and evaluate the Iowa players who are heading into their senior year, giving the players a chance to showcase their talents and improve their opportunity to catch the interest of one or more NFL teams.

Along with the spring visits, NFL personnel are welcomed to the Iowa campus throughout the football season to observe practice and view video tape of the Hawkeye players in action. The relationships that Coach Ferentz and the Iowa staff have formed with NFL coaches and scouts assure Hawkeye players the chance to be evaluated by NFL personnel.

With 25 Hawkeye players being drafted in the first six rounds of the last eight NFL drafts, including 19 in the last five years, Iowa players are well known to NFL scouts. Even more impressive is the fact that Iowa has had 39 non-drafted players sign NFL contracts in the last eight years.

The Iowa football program, under the direction of Kirk Ferentz for the past eight years, has seen 54 of 62 seniors who were starters, earn their way into an NFL training camp, either by being drafted or signing a free agent contract.

LB LeVar Woods and P Jason Baker are two former Hawkeyes who signed free agent contracts following the 2001 NFL Draft. Both Woods and Baker have spent the last six seasons in the NFL. Baker handled all punting duties for Kansas City in 2003 and was Carolina's fulltime punter in 2005 and 2006. Woods played four seasons with the Arizona Cardinals before playing with the Detroit Lions and Tennessee Titans the past two seasons.

More recently, DL Derrick Robinson was one of just two non-drafted players to make the San Diego Charger roster as a rookie in 2005 and his playing time was expanded last season. Sean Considine, a former Iowa walk-on, has played the last two seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles after signing as a free agent.

Following the 2003 NFL draft, an unofficial survey of major college football conferences revealed that the Iowa football program is almost certainly the first to have three former walk-on players drafted in the first five rounds of an NFL draft.

1 - With Iowa Strength and Conditioning Coach Chris Doyle supervising the activities, OL Mike Elgin works out for NFL scouts on the University of Iowa campus prior to the 2007 NFL Draft. Elgin, a three-year starter and a two-time academic all-American, was drafted by the New England Patriots.

2 - Marshal Yanda, a third round selection of the Baltimore Ravens in the 2007 NFL Draft, runs for time for NFL coaches and scouts. More than 40 NFL coaches and scouts, representing 28 NFL teams, were on hand last March when Iowa held its annual pro draft work-out day at the Iowa football complex.

3 - Iowa Coach Kirk Ferentz, an NFL assistant coach for six seasons, has established many contacts with NFL coaches and college scouts, which assists Iowa players as they prepare for a future in professional football.
