SARZ – PREC1-P: ISSUES

Hamiltonians enjoy the benefit of open space spread throughout the City. Open space is an important part of providing for the social, economic and cultural wellbeing of a community. It is important that Hamilton has land to accommodate parks, sports fields, recreational facilities, amenity areas, buffers and areas with natural value. Frequently, particular open space areas will serve a number of these values. Many open spaces provide links between different parts of the City for pedestrians and cyclists. Open space may also continue to provide for existing Three Waters assets, solid waste infrastructure and ecological networks.

Reserves are a type of public open space, managed by Council. Management plans, developed subject to the Reserves Act 1977, provide for the day-to-day management of activities on reserves. The District Plan manages the environmental effects of activities.

The Sport and Active Recreation Zone includes sports fields (grassed and artificial), courts, greens, athletic tracks, their surrounds and other facilities used predominantly for organised, competitive sports or active recreation. Spectator stands, clubrooms, toilets, changing rooms, car parks and lighting are often associated with this type of open space.
