

Rural Property Valuers – Queensland

Herron Todd White is one of the largest independent property valuation and advisory groups in Australia, and proudly one of the largest in the world. Our people are our point of difference. Our 64 offices and over 750 employees all work together to ensure that we are providing the highest level of client service with innovative solutions, underpinned by integrity, professionalism and independence.

We are wanting to speak to Registered Valuers who have experience or a genuine interest in the Rural/Agribusiness field. We're looking for team members who look out for each other and want to be part of an organisation that is driven by IT innovation and isn't afraid of change. If this sounds like you, then read on...

In these roles, Valuers can look to specialise in their own areas, including intensive livestock, litigation and compulsory acquisition, whilst being comfortable in the knowledge that 80% of our work comes from our bulk markets, including Cropping, Sugar Cane, Beef Grazing and Horticulture. Our business is carving out some unique opportunities and we're evolving and focussing on other key growth areas including P&E, Tax Depreciation Services and Advisory solutions.

This is your chance to live and work in your local community whilst having the backing of a national support system. Be assured that the people you work with are the people who own the business and if you are aspiring to equity options, this may be the place for you.

You can choose to live in the bush, on the beach, a sea-side city or even Brisbane city! We genuinely support our employees working in their local communities and our structure allows for an authentic work life balance. Work during the week, or work the weekends, the lifestyle is yours to create.

We are keen to speak to Valuers with various levels of experience, so please make contact today to discuss this extraordinary career opportunity. We're looking forward to you joining us!
