

aiaga.org/ckldp

Application open: September 23 – November 8

A leadership program designed by you

The Christopher Kelley Leadership Development Program (CKLDP) is a national initiative that has been cultivating the next generation of architectural leaders since its inception in Washington, DC, in 2013. With a presence in over 10 chapters across the United States, CKLDP offers the chance to craft a curriculum responsive to the needs of present and future leaders. Each year, this competitive program accepts 16 emerging professionals to collaborate, learn together and develop as leaders in architecture honing skills in entrepreneurship, firm management, collaboration, negotiation, client development, industry trends, equity, community engagement, and civic leadership.

2025 Program Dates
January 10 | “Boot Camp”
March 14
April 11
May 9
June 13
July 11
August 8
September 12
October 10 | Graduation

2018

Georgia Program Starts

96

Georgia Program Alums

38%

Alums who have served in a leadership position*

AIA Georgia’s program is proud to be entering its 7th year of empowering emerging professionals across the state and region. Members who are eager to advance in their career and either have not yet become a licensed architect, or have been licensed for 10 years or less are encouraged to apply.

*This number represents local, regional and national firm and service positions as self-reported by Georgia CKLDP alums.

Scan to learn more and join the hybrid info session on October 10

