This year's Hurricane bench will see plenty of action following the departure of eight seniors from the 1988-89 squad.

UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI BASKETBALL
1989-90 OUTLOOK

The word "challenge" is no stranger to Bill Foster. The head coach at the University of Miami has witnessed the arrival and dismissal of several difficult tests in his 23 years as a collegiate mentor. The latest to come and go was the task of building, not just re-building, the Hurricane basketball program from scratch. In just four short seasons, Miami has produced a win total that steadily increased from 14, 15, 17, and finally 19 victories.

The 1988-89 record of 19-12 represented the most wins for the Hurricanes in 23 years and 10 seasons. The slate was produced against some of the finest competition in the nation as Miami more than circled the earth in distance travelled to take on nine teams that participated in the NCAA tournament, including Final Four participant Duke and regional finalist Georgetown.

For 1989-90, Hurricane Basketball ignites stage two in the mission of basketball revitalization. Eight seniors have departed the UM program, including three 1000-point scorers in Eric Brown (2,270 pts.), Dennis Burns (1,594 pts.) and Kevin Presto (1,156 pts.). The current UM roster shows an alarming "0" next to the senior class. The building blocks of the UM program have departed and a host of new names and numbers promise to send early season program sales skyrocketing.

With a huge void on the 'Canes' roster, one could easily understand Foster seriously lamenting the coaches' annual preseason woes of how difficult a time his team will have in the upcoming season. But Foster does not see a negative. It is not in his nature to do so. Rather, the coach sees only positive and productive times ahead for the Hurricanes.

"This is not a rebuilding year," touts Foster. "We have had a very important group of young men graduate from our program and it will not be the same around here without them. I'll feel a little naked without that group. But we have an excellent nucleus returning with strength at several positions. And our incoming freshmen represent the finest recruiting class we have had at Miami, including our initial group that just left."

"The first four seasons were an excellent learning experience both for our team and the community," continues Foster. "Now we are ready to take basketball to the next level here in Miami. Our schedule will again rival any in the country. That's nothing new to us. It will be a battle that I know our kids are ready for and should be a great deal of fun. We're all looking forward to this season."

Stepping into the limelight are a strong contingent of seven underclassmen and six incoming freshmen. While no seniors return for the UM's upcoming campaign, three talented juniors stand ready to provide the leadership for the Miami team. Junior point guard Thomas Hocker has started 43 of 61 contests in his two-year UM career, averaging 5.3 points per contest and shining as Miami's top assist man with over 100 dishes in each of the past two seasons.

Joining Hocker in the junior class are a pair of anything but "ordinary Joes" in 6'9" Joe Wylie and 6'11" Joe Ross. Wylie transformed the paint into "Wylie's World" last season as he led the 'Canes with 8.5 rebounds per contest while firing in 10.7 points from the field (3rd best on the UM squad). Ross steps in for his third season in a Hurricane uniform, but his first at 100%. Two knee surgeries that idled the big man during his freshman campaign lingered on in the form of a poorly conditioned player into his second season. For '89-90, Ross returns with a new commitment to give Miami some much needed help in the paint.

Two guards and two forwards make up the sophomore class that boasts a tremendous level of experience and talent. Point guard Jake Morton headlines the second-year crew after receiving the starting nod in 20 contests as a rookie. Morton picked up his first collegiate start nine games into the season, a move that sent Miami on a five-game win streak. Joining Morton is perhaps the most talented ball handler on the UM squad, Jerome Scott. An early season ankle injury slowed Scott's progress, but some excellent performances off the bench, including a combined 19 points and six rebounds in 28 minutes of action vs. Georgetown and Virginia Commonwealth, have left the future very bright Scott.

Forward Joseph Randon turned into a key asset for Miami last year, coming off the bench to average 5.4 points and 2.8 rebounds while averaging just 12 minutes of playing time. Randon's hustle and attitude were main factors in his ability to overcome a lack of size (6'4") and is expected to challenge for a starting role this season. Also at the forward spot is sophomore Brandon Adams. At 6'6" and 210 lbs., Adams will be heavily counted upon to provide much needed muscle on both ends of the court for the UM.

Six incoming freshman will travel near and far to join Miami this season. Headlining the group, and travelling less than a mile, is guard Trevor Burton (Miami, FL) who led Dade County in scoring for three consecutive seasons. Burton stands as the only guard to join the 'Canes, as a strong contingent of five forwards will make the move to the Coral Gables campus to bolster the Miami front line: Justin Caldwell (Houston, TX), Doug Elliott (Wade, NC), Samarr Logan (East Orange, NJ), Paul Shipe (Kissimmee, FL) and Hammie Ward (Houston, TX).

UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI

The University of Miami is the largest independent teaching and research university in the Southeast and, opened in 1926, is among the nation's youngest. The Coral Gables campus, 10 miles from Miami, is the site of most of the university's undergraduate and graduate programs. The University also operates a medical center in downtown Miami, a world renowned marine and atmospheric science school on Virginia Key in Key Biscayne Bay, and a bio-medical research and development center on its South Campus.

Following goals established in its nationally acclaimed strategic plan, the University of Miami is in the final year of one of the largest fund raising campaigns in the history of higher education in the United States. The campaign has raised more than $450 million for endowment, facilities and equipment, and current operations, and will continue until December 1989.

Enrollment at the University of Miami has grown from a few hundred, when classes were held in a remodeled Coral Gables Hotel, to more than 13,800 credit-seeking students including about 8,600 undergraduate, 2,900 graduate, 1,400 law and 640 medical students.

Representing all U.S. states and 107 foreign countries, the student body is composed of 59 percent Florida residents, 28 percent from other states, and 12 percent foreign nationals. Eighty-three percent of the 1,500 member faculty hold doctorates or other terminal degrees in their fields.

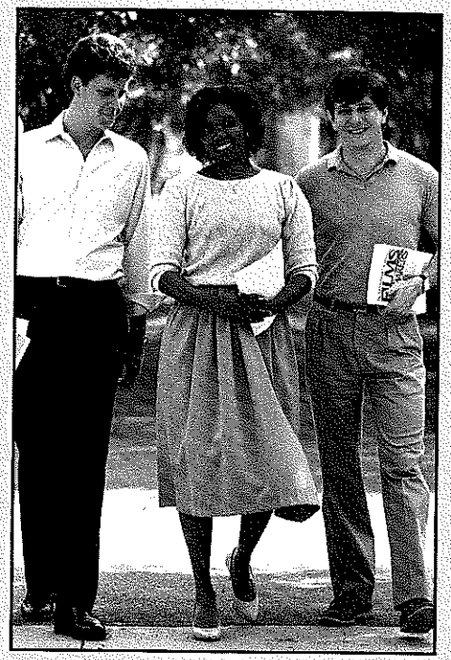

SCHOOLS, COLLEGES, INSTITUTES and CENTERS

The University offers 130 undergraduate and 175 graduate degree programs through Schools of Architecture, Business Administration, Communication, Continuing Studies, Education, International Studies, Law, Marine and Atmospheric Sciences, Medicine, Music, and Nursing, the Graduate School, and Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Engineering.

The Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science is recognized as one of the top three marine science schools in the country. The University offers graduate, as well as undergraduate, degree programs in marine affairs and marine sciences.

Established in 1952 as Florida's first medical school, the University of Miami School of Medicine is the hub of the UM/Jackson Memorial Medical Center, the fifth largest such complex in the country and one of the hemisphere's major centers for teaching, research, diagnosis and patient care. The hospital was recently ranked as "The Best in Medicine" based on peer review by 200 physicians from across the country.

In addition to schools and colleges, many institutes, centers and interdisciplinary units attract national recognition for research and other programs. Among them are: Bascom Palmer Eye Institute, Innovation and Entrepreneurship Institute, Institute for Molecular and Cellular Evolution, Law and Economics Center, Center on Adult Development and Aging, Mailman Center for Child Development, and the North-South Center.

RESEARCH

As it has for more than a decade, the University ranks among the top three percent of 2,600 universities and colleges receiving federal research and development grants. During the 1987-88 academic year, the faculty were awarded more than $91 million in separately budgeted grants and contracts from federal, state, local, and private sources — a $10 million increase over the previous year.

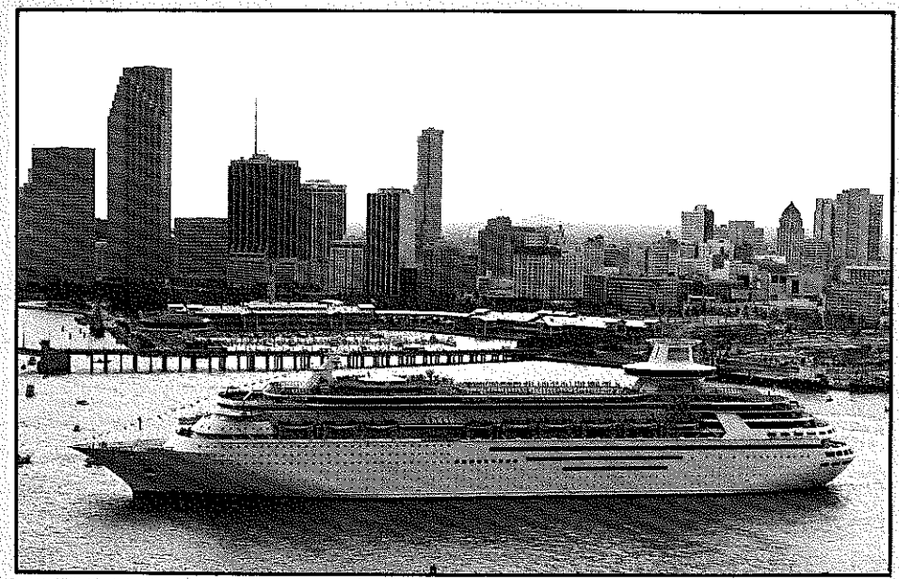

In addition to basic research in science, medicine, engineering and social sciences, current projects cover a wide spectrum of global concerns including climatology, oceanography, population and resource studies, criminal justice, aging, water quality, productivity, technology transfer, international relations and health care.

UNIVERSITY OF Miami

THE COMMUNITY

A crossroads where cultures and commerce of Latin America, the Caribbean, Europe, Asia and North America merge, the greater Miami area is one of the most dynamic regions of the country. Coral Gables hosts hemispheric headquarters of many multi-national corporations and yet, maintains the Mediterranean charm envisioned by its (and the University's) founder, George Merrick, 63 years ago.

ACADEMIC ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS

In striving to meet the challenges facing the student-athlete in today's complex society, the University of Miami Athletic Department, along with the Developmental Services Center on campus, has laid the groundwork for a unique academic support program that will serve to enhance the life of the student-athlete. This cooperative effort between the academic and athletic communities reflects the commitment of the entire university to the complete development of the student-athlete.

Academic Coordinator Dr. Anna Price administers the academic support program, which is under the guidance of Associate Athletic Director Bruce Mays and with the support of UM Athletic Director Sam Jankovich. The system has been designed to encourage students of all levels to best prepare themselves for a career after athletics.

"We have a responsibility to help the student-athlete develop his or her full potential both in and out of the classroom, so he leaves the institution with a marketable degree and is ready to deal with the realities of day-to-day society," said Jankovich. "It goes much further than just maintaining academic eligibility and both our coaching staffs and academic support staff fully understand and believe in that."

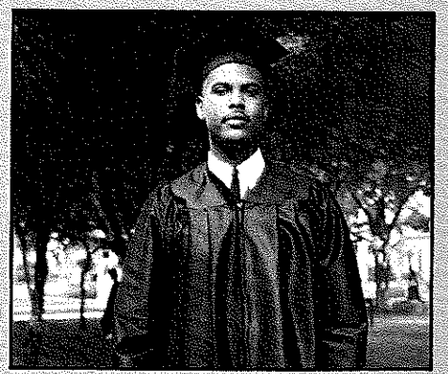

The results of this philosophy have been very impressive as the graduation rate for all UM athletic programs exceeds 60%. Leading the charge in academic excellence at the University is Head Coach Bill Foster. In 22 years of college coaching, 90% of all of Foster's players have earned their degrees. Coupled with the heavy emphasis placed on academics at the UM, Foster boasts a perfect 100% graduation rate. The coach has very strong feelings concerning the importance of academics in the life of a young man. In this day and age, it is a rarity to find a major college coach in any sport who can boast a winning percentage and a graduation rate of better than 65%.

To ensure the University's continued philosophy of reaching for higher academic standards, the coaches have recruited student-athletes that are as impressive in the classroom as they are on the court and the athletic department has made major increases in its budget for academic support systems — most specifically in the area of tutorial programs. As a result, the ratio between tutors and student-athletes will reach three-to-one in the 1988-89 academic year.

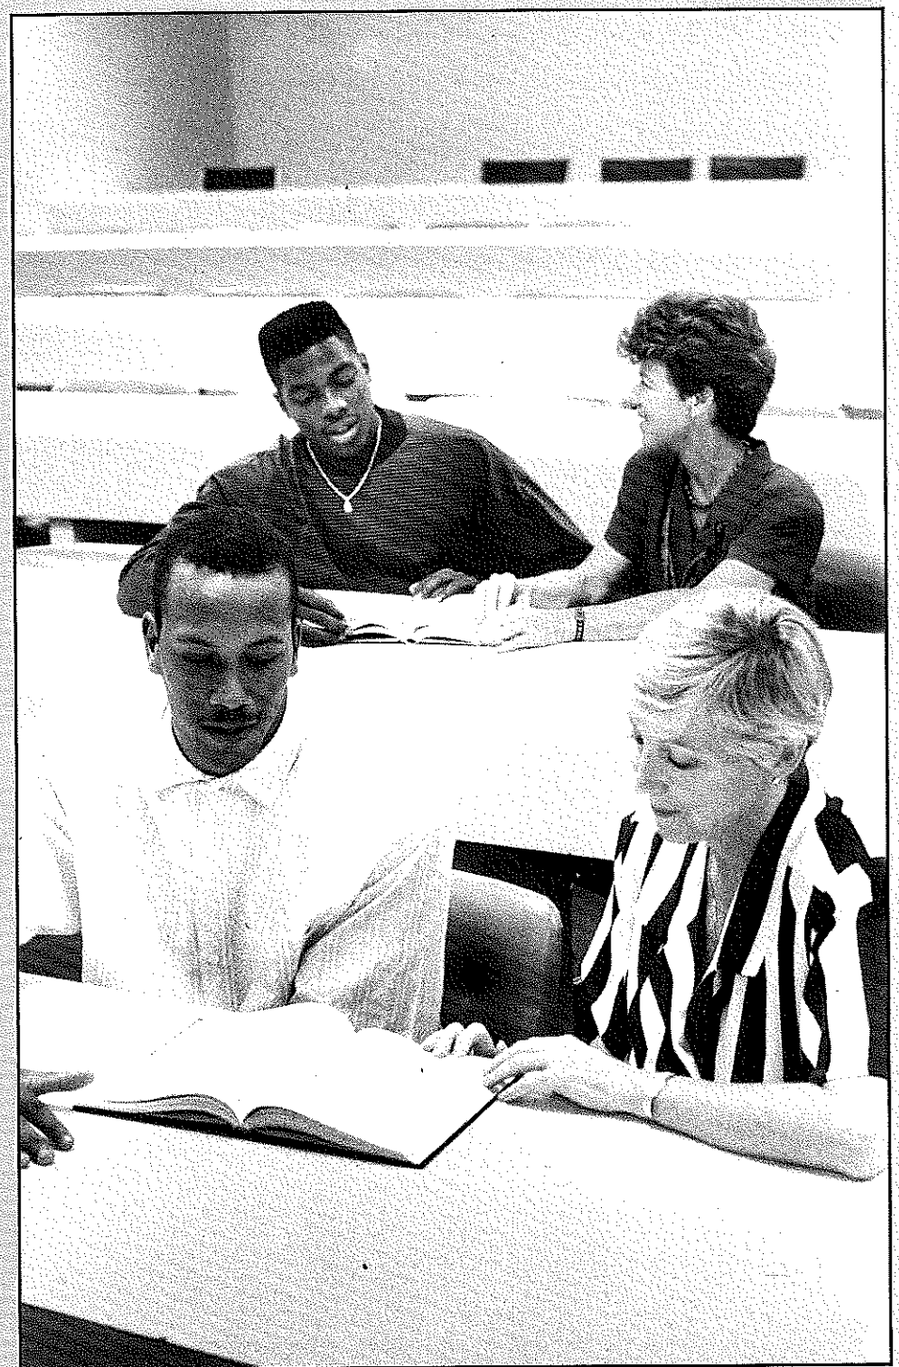

"We want to facilitate the true personal development of the student-athlete by establishing a strong fundamental background," said Dr. Price. "We provide support in helping him develop the balance between academics and athletics as well as proper time management and mental attitude in order to realize and build on his strengths."

In addition to advanced methods of individual and group tutoring, several other vehicles have been set up to acquaint student-athletes with techniques and skills in order to facilitate progress toward graduation. Student-athletes are taught a variety of performance enhancement techniques such as visualization, time management, relaxation skills, goal setting principles and thought-stopping. The use of these skills will benefit the student-athlete academically, athletically, socially and also in terms of their personal growth and development.

Support staff in this area has increased drastically since Jankovich took over as Athletic Director in 1983. Dr. Price is joined by Sports Psychologist, Dr. Jodi Yambor; Dr. Gale Lang, Coordinator of the Study Skills Program; and Toni Russell, Assistant Academic Support Coordinator.

NICKNAMES, MASCOTS, ETC.

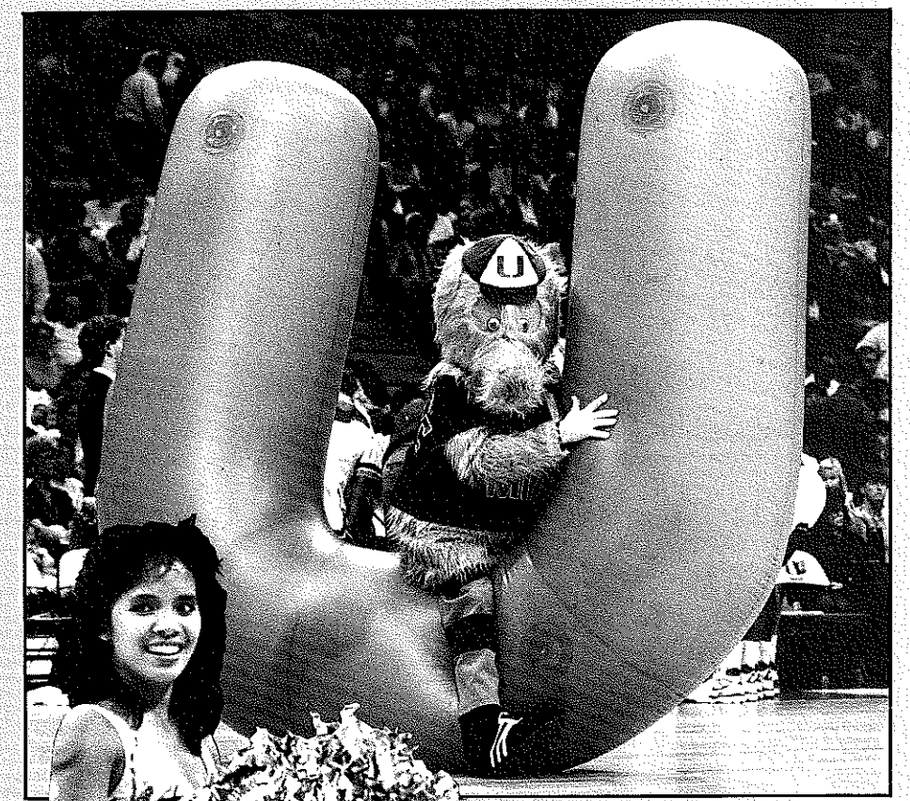

THE HURRICANES — It began in controversy. Some reports say that the '27 squad held a team meeting to select Hurricanes, hoping they would sweep away opponents just as the devasting storm did on September 16, 1926. Another version holds that MIAMI NEWS columnist Jack Bell came out to the field the day before UM's freshman team played Rollins in '26 and asked end Porter Norris what the team should be called. Told that local dignitaries and University officials wanted to name the team for a local flora or fauna, Norris said the players wouldn't stand for it and suggested "Hurricanes" since the opening game had been postponed by such a storm. From time to time, opposition has arisen to the name that would "re-enforce Miami's negative reputation as a weather-beaten community living constantly under the threat of destruction." But as one UM official rationalized in the 60's, "Does anyone think Chicago is overrun by Bears just because the town has a football team by that name?"

ORANGE, GREEN & WHITE — The UM school colors were selected in 1926 by a committee consisting of Ruth Bryan Owens (daughter of famed attorney William Jennings Bryan), Harry Provin and Bertha Foster. Owens was a member of the board of regents and taught speech at the University. From her suggestion, the colors of the Florida orange tree were to represent UM — orange for the fruit itself, green for the leaves and white for the blossom.

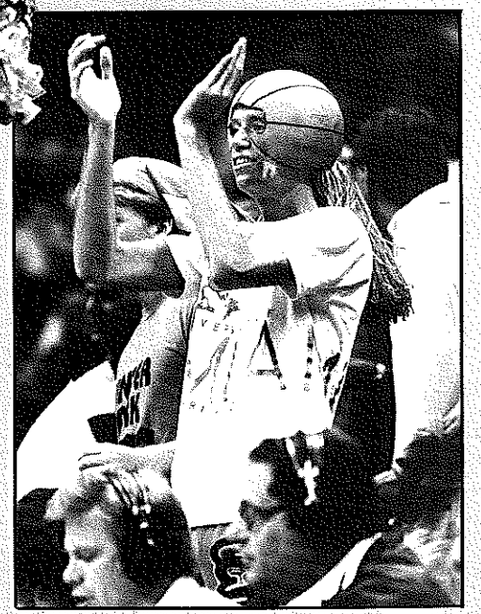

THE U — In 1973, the UM Athletic Federation, the then fund-raising arm of the athletic department, commissioned a local public relations expert to develop a distinctive logo. The University had gone several years with a variety of helmet and uniform changes and the Federation noted that a number of major colleges have the initials UM (three of whom have been on the football schedule the last two years — Maryland, Missouri and Michigan). Miami designer Bill Bodenheimer suggested the U idea, which lent itself to inserting silhouetted athletes in the middle of the U to establish distinctive logos for each sport, as well as slogans like "U gotta believe" and "U is great."

THE MIAMI MANIAC — Serving as the official mascot at all Hurricane basketball home games is the Miami Maniac. Having been originated by UM Baseball Coach Ron Fraser in 1983, the Maniac also performs at Miami baseball games as well as special performances as the official mascot of the College World Series. The maniac inside the costume since 1984 is John Routh, who also portrays Sebastian The Ibis, the official mascot of Hurricane football. Routh is in his ninth year in the mascot business, having begun as 'Cocky,' the mascot of the University of South Carolina, his alma mater.

EDWARD T. FOOTE II
PRESIDENT, UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI

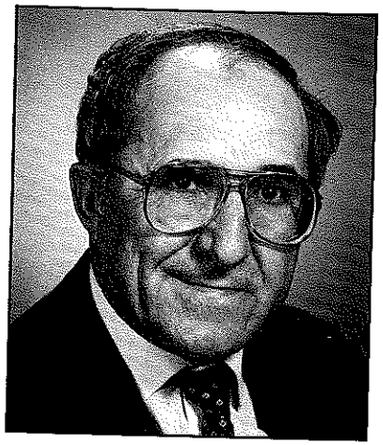

Edward T. Foote II, fourth president of the University of Miami, leads one of the nation's youngest private teaching and research universities. Now the largest private university in the Southeast, it is increasingly recognized as a national and international leader.

Since his inauguration in 1981, President Foote has guided the University of Miami during a period of remarkable transition. The University has formed new schools of Architecture, Communication and Graduate International Studies, and the North-South Center; recruited 57 percent of its 1500 member faculty; raised more than $400 million in its fund raising campaign, one of the largest in the history of American higher education; reexamined and reemphasized priorities to stress undergraduate and graduate education as well as research; and entered the select circle of Phi Beta Kappa membership.

President Foote has been very active in the South Florida community since his arrival eight years ago. He is the founder and chairman of the Miami Coalition to Fight Drugs and serves on several community-based boards and panels. He was also a member of the Florida Academic Task Force for the Review of the Insurance and Tort Systems.

Before coming to Miami, President Foote held the following positions at Washington University in St. Louis: Special Advisor to the Chancellor and Board of Trustees (1980-81); Dean of the School of Law, where he taught constitutional law and legal ethics (1973-1980); Vice Chancellor, General Counsel and Secretary to the Board of Trustees (1970-73). From 1966 to 1970, he was an associate in the law firm of Bryan, Cave, McPheeters and McRoberts in St. Louis.

From 1963 to 1965, he worked as a reporter in Washington, D.C., first for the Washington Star, and later, while studying law at the Georgetown University Law Center, for the Washington Daily News. In his last year of law school, he worked as an assistant to the chairman of the Pennsylvania Avenue Commission. Following his 1959 graduation from Yale University, he served until 1962 as an officer in the U.S. Marine Corps.

SAM JANKOVICH
ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

Just over six years ago, Sam Jankovich accepted the challenge of guiding the University of Miami athletic department. It was a demanding task, an undertaking which would shape the course of Hurricane athletics for years to come.

The challenge would take place during one of the most trying times in the history of intercollegiate athletics — a period where the emphasis on winning, academic excellence, overall competitiveness, and generating revenues has reached an all-time high. The task would be a tough one, but the man appointed to steering the Hurricane athletic fortunes jumped in head first, with his shirt sleeves rolled up and a hard working dedication that has touched just about everyone who has come into contact with the Miami program over that six year stretch.

The results have been significant and positive — and they have come in leaps and bounds since Jankovich first walked through the doors of the Hecht Athletic Center on June 13, 1983.

National championships have been won in successive years like clockwork: football (1983), women's golf (1984), baseball (1985), women's tennis (doubles in 1986), men's tennis (singles in 1987) and football again (1987). The Hurricanes' overall athletic program has reached a Top 10 national ranking, based on national finishes in men's and women's sports results, and a surplus of world class athletes in all phases of the intercollegiate arena have walked through those same doors of the Hecht Center.

Now the doors of the Miami athletic department are expanding. The broad-based program has seen an increasing emphasis in women's athletics including a first-ever NCAA women's basketball tournament appearance in 1989 in coach Ferne Labati's initial year at UM.

Tournament and event sponsorships are reaching new heights. New horizons have been pursued and conquered in the resurrection of a major college men's basketball program which sat dormant for 14 years until Jankovich built the foundation for its reinstatement in 1984. With the rebirth, came the construction of the 1.1 million dollar Knight Sports Complex which sits adjacent to the Hecht Center and houses the Hurricane men's and women's roundball programs. The sparkling new facility has also enabled the growth of a UM strength room into one of the nation's largest and most complete.

Adjacent to the Knight Sports Complex will be the new UM Hall of Fame Building which is scheduled for completion this year. Construction in 1987 and 1988 included the plus 1,000 seat Neil Schiff Tennis Center, the refurbishing of the Greentree Track and Field; and the Ron Fraser Building, which houses dugout clubhouse and office facilities for Mark Light Stadium. This past baseball season saw the addition of a state-of-the-art scoreboard that further makes the Hurricanes' baseball home among the most attractive in the country.

Last year, Jankovich led the way for expansion and improvements of the football practice facilities, including the addition of an all weather artificial surface field. Following the 1989 spring practice session, ground was broken for a new football coaching office complex that will include renovation of the Hecht Athletic Center to allow for the expansion of the academic support area.

In subsidizing the growth and expansion of facilities and nationally elite programs, Jankovich has broken new ground in the always challenging areas of funding a major college program within a private institution. In cultivating the support of the South Florida community, Jankovich has overseen the development of the Hurricane Club into a financial foundation that has increased its annual gift total from $750,000 in 1982 to close to $3 million in 1989.

During that time, ticket sales have also made dramatic strides, with 1988 producing an all-time high in football season tickets.

Additional revenues have been generated through Hurricane appearances on network television at an unprecedented rate. In the past five years, Hurricane football, basketball and baseball teams have made 69 network television appearances. The 1988 football team played seven of its 12 games in front of a network TV audience. Jankovich has also negotiated contracts that ensure weekly programs featuring UM coaches and staff on both local radio and television.

In pursuing the department's goal of striving to attain the nation's most outstanding overall athletic program Jankovich added men's and women's varsity crew to the Hurricane roster in 1987 and during that first year of competition, Miami brought home a national championship in the NCAA's novice division.

Though ambitious and determined to compete with the best in the nation, Jankovich has maintained a predominant focus on the importance of the development of the student who is also an athlete. UM has taken the lead with its drug-testing and education program that is among the finest in the nation. Academic support systems have grown in size, scope and productivity over the past six years, and as a very visible result, the UM athletic department's graduation rate has soared to nearly 70 percent.

That success has earned Jankovich a great deal of respect, not only locally but on the national level as well. He is Chairman of the NCAA Division 1-A Athletic Directors Television committee, and was recently asked to serve on the Executive Board of the College Football Association (CFA). He is the first vice president of the Division 1-A Athletic Directors, is second vice president of NACDA, the National Association of College Directors of Athletics and is on the NCAA Special Events and post-season football committee.

Prior to coming to Miami, Jankovich served as athletic director at Washington State University where he developed a $7.5 million building effort that included new construction and renovation of existing facilities. While competing in the prestigious PAC-10 Conference, his teams participated in their first bowl in 50 years (1981 Holiday Bowl), made two NCAA basketball tournament appearances and captured a conference title in track.

Committed to community activities, the Jankovich family is very active in the Serbian Orthodox Church. Sam is married to the former Patty Mullins of Butte, Montana. They have three children and eight grandchildren.

BILL FOSTER
HEAD BASKETBALL COACH

There is something very special about the look. There is no mistaking it. No hiding it. No faking it. It is the distinctive look that combines the emotions of many moments: the look of a young child on Christmas morning; of proud parents on their sons' or daughters' first day of school; of childhood friends reuniting after a long absence. It is the look of baited anticipation, excitement, and warmth.

Bill Foster carries this look every day. It begins as an amber glow in his eyes and slowly overcomes his face in an impassioned blaze as he takes the short walk from his office in the Knight Sports Complex down the stairway to the basketball court. After 23 years as a collegiate basketball coach, Foster's love and dedication to the game are unmistakable.

Foster enters the 1989-90 basketball campaign with an impassioned bounce in his step and the positive attitude that is sure to reap rewards for the young Hurricanes.

Yes, "young" Hurricanes. It is year number five for the UM program and the first class of building blocks has departed the UM campus with degrees in hand. The first four seasons of Hurricane basketball blew through the nation, strengthening along the way, continually challenging the NCAA's basketball elite to where it seemed that the 'Canes had always been there. But Bill Foster remembers where Miami has come from.

Four years ago, Foster convened his coaching staff on an outdoor patio in Coral Gables, Florida, and tossed a basketball into the air. A simplistic act, but one which had not been seen on the University of Miami campus in 13 years.

Basketball had been all but a distant memory to South Florida. There was no schedule ... no practice facility ... no returning letterman ... there was only a dream.

Foster, recognized as one of the finest builders of championship college basketball programs, stood in the warm Florida sun with a most challenging task set before him — to build the University of Miami a winning basketball program from scratch.

When the program was restored in 1984, a brief peak at the imposing schedule of opponents would have appeared to be suicide for the infant program with dreams of becoming a national contender. With such a slate, even the greatest of South Florida's optimists would have balked at the thought of Miami posting more than 14 wins in any of its first four years.

In the years that have followed, Foster has set about the task of transforming Hurricane basketball into a force in the world of college basketball. No shortcuts have been taken. No easy steps. Foster has painstakingly done things "the right way."

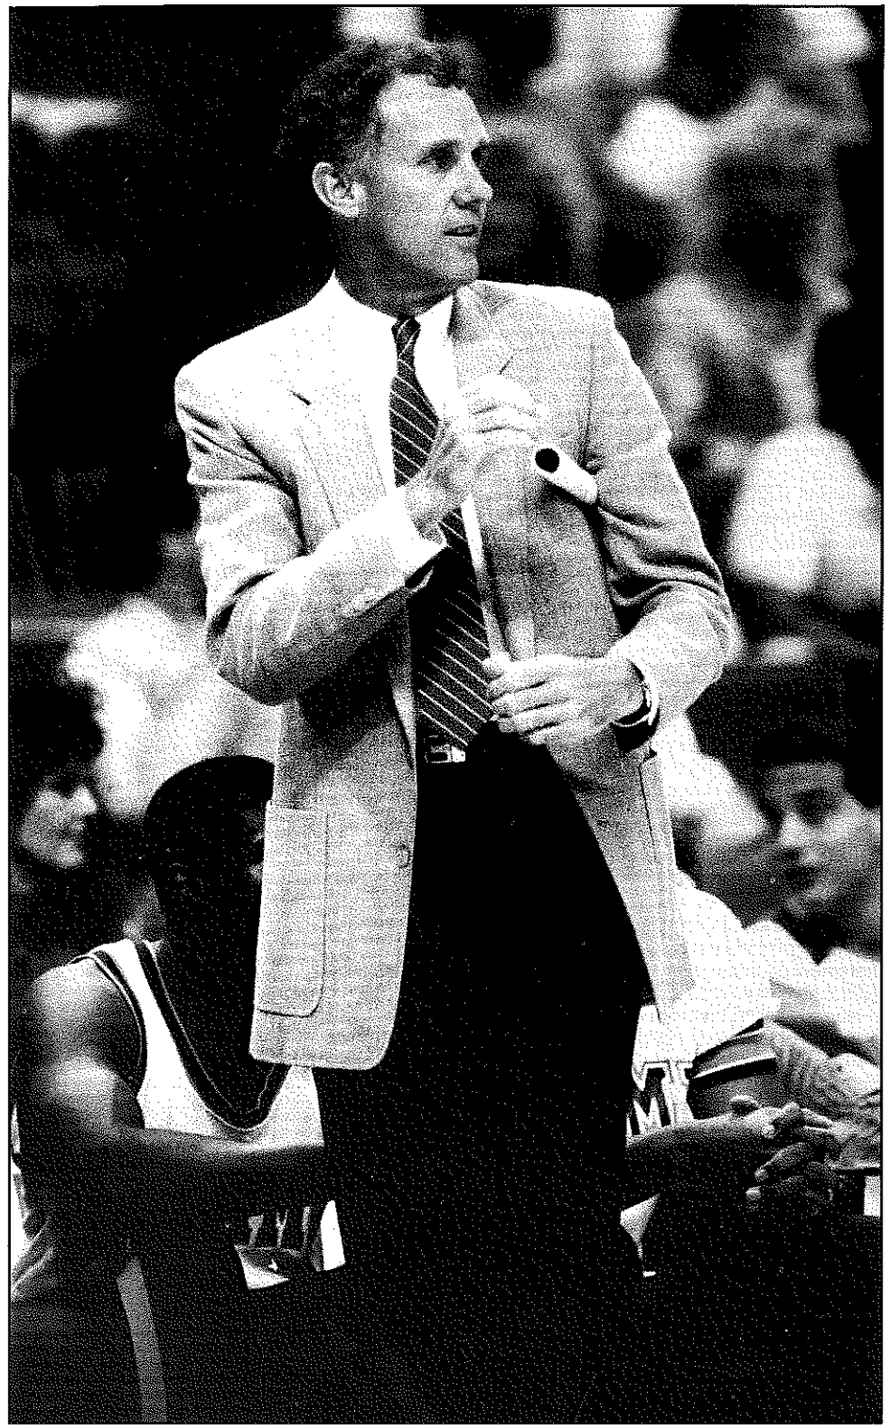

The recent accomplishments of Miami's first four years in the "new era" have impressed even the most optimistic basketball followers and have instilled a nervous anticipation of the exciting future that lies ahead:

 The UM program has developed through weathering the storms of the nation's very best opposition. In the last four seasons, Miami has faced 30 teams that have advanced to the NCAA Tournament, including eight last season. Miami also has played 15 NIT teams in that same span.

 In the past four years, two out of every three Hurricane games have been broadcast on live television, while 11 of those contests have been network telecasts — CBS, NBC, ESPN & USA.

 The Hurricanes were victorious in 32 of 53 games played at home in the James L. Knight Center. In 1988-89, the UM basketball program stepped up to the new $56 million Miami Arena where the 'Canes posted a 12-5 home record.

 Through four years of competition, Miami's basketball program has maintained a team grade point average of better than 2.5. Last year's squad included guard Kevin Presto who earned third-team Academic All-America honors. For his career, Head Coach Bill Foster has maintained a graduation rate of over 90% while his record at Miami stands at a perfect 100%

Head Coach Bill Foster

 Foster has held true to his promise of playing a national schedule. In three seasons, the Hurricanes have travelled to 19 different states and Puerto Rico. This year the Hurricanes travel to Arizona, Illinois, Indiana, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Virginia, and Washington.

 Victories. A total of 65 wins against 56 losses in the first four seasons, including a 14-win total in the first year of basketball in 14 years, followed by a 16-win season in 1986-87, a 17-win campaign in '87-88, and a 19-12 mark in the '88-89 season.

The accomplishments are extraordinary, but Foster is not about to rest on his team's laurels. What is of the utmost importance is not where the Hurricanes have been, but where they are now and where they are going.

Despite having lost eight seniors from last season and having no senior corps for the upcoming season, Foster refuses to consider his team in a rebuilding stage. The seven returning lettermen on the UM squad provide a strong base at all positions on the court. Toss in what is considered the 'Canes best recruiting class since the return of the program, including the first class that contained Eric Brown and Dennis Burns, and it is easy to see why Foster refers to the '89-'90 'Canes as "The Next Generation." Once again, nothing will be handed to Miami on a silver platter, but with Foster's belief that "we can accomplish anything, as long as we work together and work hard," clear skies are the horizon for Miami.

Bill Foster's road to the sunshine of Miami has been weaved with successful stops at every southern coaching post. His career began at Carson Newman College in Tennessee, where he guided the 1958 freshman team to a 19-1 record during his senior year at the school.

His only high school coaching job was at Marion High School in Marion, South Carolina, where he posted a three-year record of 42-21 from 1958 to 1961.

At Shorter College in Rome, Georgia, his five year totals included four 20-win seasons and 15 conference and tournament championships.

After spending two years as a recruiter at The Citadel, Foster took on the tall task of constructing a major college program at the University of North Carolina-Charlotte. At UNCC, he saw the opportunity to transform a Division III program into a solid major college power. From a group of junior college transfers during his first season (1970-71), to the later likes of Cedric Maxwell, Foster laid the solid foundation that would produce a record of 45-7 in his final two years at UNCC. Following his departure to Clemson, the UNCC team that five years earlier had been a mere Division III program, advanced to the finals of the 1976 NIT and on to 1977 NCAA Final Four.

Moving on to Clemson in 1975, Foster inherited a program that had never won 20 games in a single season, while making only one post season tournament appearance in more than 60 years. In nine seasons, Foster's Tigers made four tournament trips, while posting three twenty-game winners and an NCAA quarterfinalist berth.

Foster's tenure at Clemson was highlighted by fifteen wins over teams that were ranked in the Top 20 — including an 87-82 overtime win over No. 1 Duke in 1980. His teams made four straight trips to post season tournaments from 1978 to 1982, and the 1980 club advanced to the NCAA quarterfinal before bowing to UCLA by an 85-74 count. During that same season, the Tigers went undefeated at home, while earning a national ranking for nine straight weeks.

When you consider the state the individual programs were in prior to Foster's arrival, the following statement becomes even more astounding: In 23 years of college coaching, Bill Foster has won 418 games against just 232 losses. In that time, only two of his teams have failed to produce a winning record.

Not only has he built winning programs around the country, Foster also has helped guide the careers and lives of hundreds of young men. In the five years since the Miami program has been restored, the graduation rate of the Miami basketball program stands at a perfect 100% For his career, Foster's graduation rate comes in at over 90%, and he has helped guide the careers of current NBA stars Cedric Maxwell (UNC-Charlotte), Tree Rollins (Clemson) and Larry Nance (Clemson).

The saying that "Success Breeds Success" is personified in Assistant Coach Stan Nance. Having been a significant force in the outstanding accomplishments at every stop in his playing and coaching career, Nance joined the Miami staff as full-time assistant coach in 1988 with the determination to keep his winning record intact.

Nance began his winning ways during his four-year career at Rutgers University where he helped the Scarlet Knights to a pair of NCAA tournament appearances and two births in the National Invitational Tournament. The 1975-76 Rutgers team posted a perfect 31-0 regular season record and advanced to the NCAA Final Four.

Following graduation, Nance remained at Rutgers as an assistant coach for one season before being hired as an assistant at St. Peter's which earned two NIT invitations during his three seasons on the Peacocks staff.

In 1982, Nance began a four-year stint as an assistant coach at Boston College. While a member of the Eagle coaching staff, BC posted a 76-45 (.628) record. AT MIAMI: Third-year junior who will be the foundation of the UM frontcourt in '89-90...has developed into one of the nation's most exciting and often dominating big men...will log playing time at both the forward and center positions...is Miami's leading rebounder and leading returning scorer...is a tremendous leaper with a vertical jump well over 30 inches...signed a national letter of intent to attend Miami in April of 1987...is joined by freshman Brandon Adams as the two Hurricanes from Washington, DC. AS A SOPHOMORE IN 1988-89: Quickly developed into a force on the boards as he led the 'Canes with 8.5 rebounds per contest...led the UM in rebounding in 13 contests and had nine double/doubles in points and rebounds to his credit...was erratic, yet always very aggressive, in early action, picking up 12 points, four fouls and a game-high 12 rebounds in just 15 minutes of action in season-opening win over Maryland-Eastern Shore...found his shooting touch vs. Bethune-Cookman when he hit on five-of-six from the field and three-of-four free throws for 13 points...also added eight rebounds vs. the Wildcats...had a strong outing vs. much taller Duke when he fired in 17 points while leading Miami with 10 rebounds...had 14 boards, including nine in the first half, in his first career start (replacing injured Mark Richardson) vs. Long Island...also hit on five-of-six field goals en route to 14 points vs. the Blackbirds...followed up with 14 points and 10 rebounds vs. Florida...fired in 20 points while pulling down 12 rebounds vs. Eastern Illinois at the Chaminade Christmas Classic...had 12 points and five rebounds in 19 minutes vs. Georgetown's Alonzo Mourning while playing with a broken foot that forced him to the sidelines for the following six contests...returned with two double/doubles: 11 points and 12 rebounds vs. BYU and 17 points and 13 rebounds vs. South Florida...hit for a career-high 22 points on 11-of-16 field goals vs. Tennessee Tech...had a UM season-high 16 rebounds vs. Oral Roberts while firing in 11 points...Miami was 11-5 when Wylie scored in double figures and 6-3 when he recorded a double/double...Miami was 8-3 following the return of Wylie from the injured list. AS A FRESHMAN IN 1987-88: Sat out the entire 1987-88 campaign as per NCAA Bylaw 51 (j), formerly Proposition 48...used the time to make tremendous strides in his physical size, adding two inches and ten pounds to his frame. HIGH SCHOOL: One-year starter at Woodrow Wilson High School...team captain...as a senior, was selected for all-metropolitan, all-american and all-inter high honors...led Woodrow Wilson to a 10-11 record averaging 24.7 points, 12.6 rebounds and 6.1 assists per game...named team's Most Valuable Player...participated in the 1987 McDonald's Capital Classic All-Star game...member of the D.C. EASTERN AIRLINES PALM BEACH CLASSIC
DECEMBER 27 & 29, 1989
WEST PALM BEACH AUDITORIUM

TOURNAMENT CHAIRMAN: Daniel L. Bakst
TOURNAMENT DIRECTOR: Marianna Zernich
TOURNAMENT HEADQUARTERS: The Royce Hotel

Now in its fourth season, the Eastern Airlines Palm Beach Classic has established itself as one of the most successful holiday tournaments in the nation. It annually provides the sports fans of Palm Beach County with exciting competition from the finest teams in college basketball.

The event matches the host University of Miami against a trio of top-notch contenders in a two-day competition, with an off day between, that takes place in the West Palm Beach Auditorium in West Palm Beach, FL. This year the Hurricanes, who have been victorious in two of the first three Classics, will be challenged by Boston College, Lehigh University and West Virginia University.

Television coverage of the Classic reaches an all-time high this year with SportsChannel Florida providing coverage during the first round of competition on Dec. 27. For the consolation and championship contests on Dec. 29, the coverage will be expanded by the cablecasting of SportsChannel America which reaches over 7 million homes nationwide.

The tournament is officially hosted by the University of Miami and is chiefly sponsored by Easter Airlines with additional major sponsorship from Cities In Schools and the Palm Beach County Sports Authority. Further support for the Classic comes from: Ackerman, Bakst, Gundlach and Lauer, P.A.; AMI Palm Beach Gardens Medical Center; Richard S. Bernstein and Associates; Bonacker and Leigh, Inc.; Cellular One; Gatorade; Jerry's Caterers; Lytal and Reiter; Max Davis Associates/Uniprop, Inc./Risograph 3500; Nike; James Smith and Jean Bell; Southern Bell; Suburban Bank; Wilson and Buist, Inc.; Palm Beach Post; WPTV Television Channel 5; WJNO News Radio; Royce Hotel; Holiday Inn Singer Island; Art Moran Auto Plaza.

UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI BASKETBALL THROUGH THE YEARS - 1926-1989

Hurricane basketball is back. In a big way.

The resurrection of the men's basketball program at the University of Miami has signalled the start of a new and exciting era in the storied history of intercollegiate athletics at the UM. The slick new edition of Miami men's basketball will develop through its infancy under the watchful eyes of nation-wide television audiences, and extensive print, radio and television coverage will assist in creating instant exposure for this young group of pioneers who dare to tackle and create history.

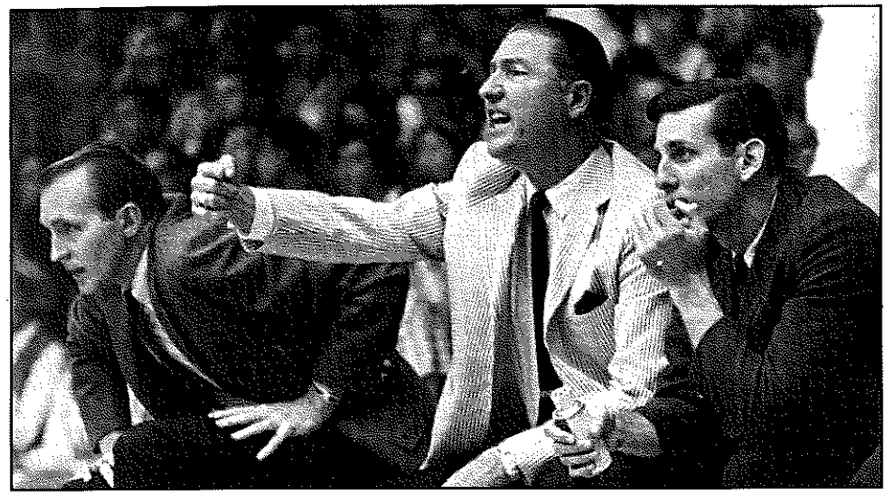

The road back was not an easy one for those who have thirsted for basketball in this continually prospering section of the country. Moreover, the previous path traveled by Miami basketball players, coaches and fans was dotted by flashes of brilliance, color and sometimes disappointment.

Here is a capsule summary of the sixty years of Miami basketball that have intermittently played a part in the history of the athletic program at the University and its neighboring community.

When it all began again, on November 22, 1985, the green Hurricanes were shooting to improve on an all-time record of 456 wins and 297 losses for a .606 winning percentage. And that was an impressive ledger to improve upon.

- The Hurricanes fielded a freshman team in 1926-27, finishing 7-1 under head coach Art Webb.

- In 1927-28, the first official varsity basketball team at the University of Miami posted an 8-4 mark, knocking off Rollins 52-15 in the opener.
- Miami records list no official results from 1932 through 1938. During that period of time, representatives from the school played local AAU and church sponsored teams under coach Tom McCann.
- The Hurricanes returned to intercollegiate competition in the 1938-39 season, posting a 4-6 record under head coach Hart Morris.
- Like many other institutions across the nation, Miami dropped intercollegiate basketball during the war years of 1942 through 1945.
- In 1954, the University named Bruce Hale as its head basketball coach. The retired Air Force captain and former professional basketball star held the UM head coaching post for 13 seasons, leading the Hurricane program through its glory years of intercollegiate basketball. Before the end of Hale's tenure in 1967, the Hurricanes won 220 games and lost 112 for a .663 winning percentage. Hale's first Miami team turned in a 9-11 record, but there were no other losing campaigns in the next 12 years. The streak of non-losing seasons extended into the 1968-69 season--marking 14 consecutive seasons of .500 basketball or better for the UM.

Bruce Hale (center) was hired in 1954.

- Hale's 1959-60 club was the only UM men's basketball team to ever advance to the NCAA Tournament. That 1959-60 edition ran its record to 23-3 before bowing to Western Kentucky, 107-84, in the first round of the tournament.
- During that historic 1959-60 NCAA Tournament year, junior guard Dick Hickox became the first UM basketball player to earn All-America recognition. Hickox averaged 22.1 points per game during that season en route to becoming a member of the AP and UPI All-America teams.
- The Dick Hickox led Hurricanes of 1960-61 returned to post season play--falling in the first round of the NIT to St. Louis, 58-56. The 1960-61 squad compiled a 20-7 record.
- In 1962-63, Miami advanced to the second round of the NIT before falling to Providence 106-96. An opening round NIT victory over St. Francis (71-70) marked the only Miami victory ever in post season play.
- From 1962 through 1965, Miami recorded three consecutive twenty-game winning seasons, rolling up a composite record of 65-16. The star of these Hurricane glory teams was a brilliant scorer named Rick Barry.

Dick Hickox, UM's first All American.

- In 1964-65, Barry became the Hurricanes' only consensus All-America selection. The 6-7, 200 pound native of Rosselle Park, New Jersey led the nation in scoring with a 37.4 average in his senior season. He later went on to become the only player in basketball history to win single season scoring titles in the NCAA, the ABA, and the NBA.
- The 1964-65 Miami squad, led by Barry's scoring brilliance, established a new NCAA offense record by averaging 98.4 points per game. The 'Canes, however, were not allowed to participate in the NCAA Tournament that year--after posting a 22-4 record--because of recruiting violations.
- Bruce Hale resigned as head coach after the 1966-67 season, and UM assistant Ron Godfrey assumed the head coaching responsibilities.
- Don Curnutt closed out his Miami baskeball career in 1970 as the Hurricanes' third and last player to receive All America recognition.
- February 27, 1971--The last victory by a University of Miami men's basketball team came in the second to last game of the season, a 100-94 triumph over Florida State at home in the Dinner Key Auditorium. The 'Canes shot a season high 62.5% from the floor as all five Miami starters scored in double figures.

Rick Barry averaged 37.4 points as a senior.

- March 2, 1971--The last basketball game played by a University of Miami men's team took place at the Dinner Key Auditorium where one of the largest UM home crowds in recent years turned out to see the Hurricanes host nationally-ranked Jacksonville. The Dolphins downed Miami by a 94-75 count.

- April 22, 1971--The University of Miami Board of Trustees voted to drop the sport "temporarily until such time as a permanent fieldhouse can be constructed on the main campus." Sagging attendance figures and serious financial losses were also believed to contribute to the discontinuation of men's basketball at the University of Miami.
- July 15, 1983--Sam Jankovich was named athletic director at the University of Miami. Coming to the UM after a successful stint as the athletic director at Washington State, Jankovich immediately announced that the resurrection of men's basketball at Miami would be his primary priority in the early months of his tenure, enabling the UM to have "one of the nation's most complete and visible overall programs in the country."
- October 12, 1983--The University of Miami Board of Trustees unanimously voted to reinstate men's basketball at the University of Miami. The Board made the decision after reviewing a report submitted by newly hired Athletic Director Sam Jankovich which stated that men's basketball can be a revenue-producing venture. Moreover, nearly $500,000 had already been raised in support of bringing intercollegiate basketball back to the University. It was also announced that the Hurricanes would be ready to compete on the Division I level in the 1985-86 season, and the downtown James L. Knight Center would serve as the home court for the reborn program.

"This is an exciting day for the University and for the athletic program," UM President Edward T. Foote, II said at a press conference. "And we're keeping in mind the priorities of academics first and athletics second . . . we are pleased that the changes in the economics of intercollegiate basketball allow the University to resurrect one of the country's most popular sports . . . and the rise in television income during recent years makes basketball a money-maker at universities like ours. We look forward to welcoming these Hurricanes home again."

- March 21, 1984--Bill Foster, a 47-year-old native of Hemingway, South Carolina was named the seventh men's basketball coach at the University of Miami. Foster came to Miami after 19 years as a head coach at three different institutions, Shorter College, North Carolina-Charlotte, and Clemson. Foster also announced on this day that Clint Bryant, a long time assistant at Clemson, would also join the Miami staff in a similar capacity.

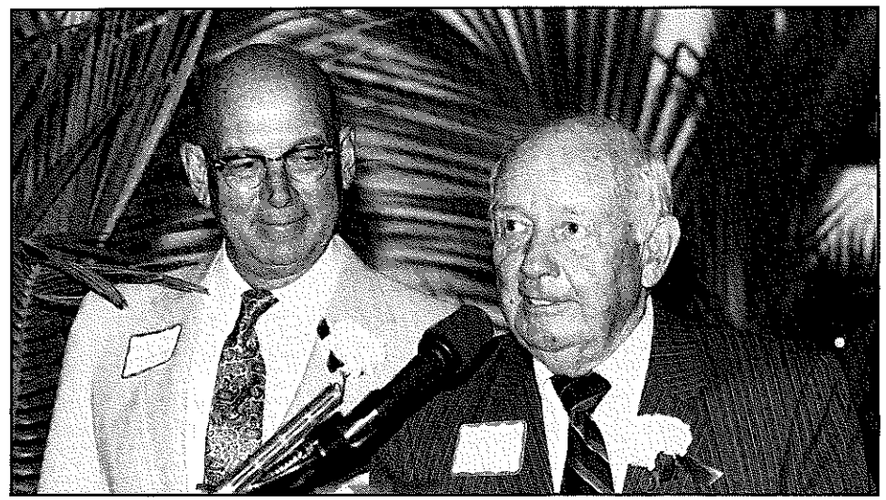

Sam Jankovich and Bill Foster, March 21, 1984.

- April 9, 1984--Foster announced the hiring of a second assistant coach, Seth Greenberg, who was serving as an assistant coach to Terry Holland at the University of Virginia.
- April 16, 1984--Tim Harvey, a 6-10, 240-pound center, became the first basketball player to commit to the University of Miami in over 14 years. The Plainfield, New Jersey native announced tht he would transfer to Miami after spending two seasons in the Georgia Tech program.
- July 1, 1984--A third assistant coach was hired to complete the basketball staff as Miami native Cesar Odio returned home after serving as an assistant coach at his alma mater, Florida Southern College.
- October 11, 1984--Nearly one full year after the announcement that basketball would return to the University, Athletic Director Sam Jankovich announced that a million dollar-plus practice facility would be constructed on the Coral Gables campus. The new all purpose structure--located between the Hecht Athletic Center and the Greentree Practice Fields--would be totally funded through a gift from the James L. Knight Charitable Trust.

  The first phase of the 1985-86 basketball schedule was also announced on this day, and the line-up included such perennial powers as North Carolina, Georgia, Notre Dame, Marquette, and Dayton.
- October 15, 1984--The first men's basketball practice session in over twelve years was held on the patio in the center of campus. More than 200 members of the student body participated as Foster and his assistants searched for prospects under the warm sunshine.
- April 24, 1985--Foster announced that the UM's 1985-86 basketball roster will include nine freshmen, one sophomore, and one junior as the spring signing period ends for NCAA basketball.
- August 16, 1985 – Athletic Director Sam Jankovich announced that the 1985-86 basketball schedule had been completed and that network television coverage of the Hurricane program would include two games to be broadcast by CBS (Arizona) and ESPN (Notre Dame).

  Jankovich also announced the completion of a local television schedule (WBFS-Channel 33) that would bring all nine UM road games back to Miami by way of live local broadcasts. Channel 33 would also carry selected home games in the Knight Center.

  WIOD Radio, the radio voice of UM football and baseball would also carry all Hurricane basketball games during the 1985-86 season.
- October 15, 1985 – Basketball practice officially begins at the University of Miami in the Knight Sports Complex.
- November 12, 1985 – The Knight Sports Complex was dedicated at a gala banquet that was held on the basketball courts of the new structure. CBS basketball analyst Billy Packer served as the evening's guest speaker for an event which welcomed over 500 guests to the on-campus home of Hurricane basketball. The facility now serves as the practice home to the men's and women's basketball programs while also housing the men's basketball coaching staff offices. In addition, the Knight Sports Complex enabled the athletic program to more than double the size of the existing strength room, while also providing meeting rooms and lecture rooms for all of Miami's student athletes. The structure is located between the Hecht Athletic Center and the Greentree Practice Field and Track.

- November 22, 1985—The brand new era of Hurricane basketball was ushered in by a young UM squad which defeated The Citadel 85-77 in front of a sell-out crowd of 4,984 at the Knight Center. Dennis Burns (24 points), Kevin Presto (22) and Eric Brown (21) combined to lead the Miami offense, while Bryan Hughes enjoyed the distinction of scoring Miami's first point in 14 years (a free throw with 18:34 remaining in the first half).

- November 30, 1985 – Miami stuns 1985 NCAA Tourney participant Georgia with a thrilling 81-78 victory to capture the first AMI Classic Championship at the James L. Knight Center.

- March 5, 1986 – An 84-62 loss to Marquette in Milwaukee closed the Hurricanes' first season since 1970-71. Miami finished the year with a 14-14 record, giving Bill Foster his 19th non-losing record in 20 years as a collegiate head coach.
- The 1986-87 season—Though still considered the "youngest team in America," Miami compiled a 15-16 slate – recording upset victories over Marquette, Stanford and Florida State, while losing by only four points to a Providence team that advanced to the NCAA Final Four.

Within three seasons, the brand new Miami program produced a player who moved on to the professional ranks — Tito Horford, Second Round of the 1988 NBA Draft to the Milwaukee Bucks.

The close of the 1987-88 season left the Hurricanes boasting a 17-14 record that included thrilling victories over both Providence and Virginia Commonwealth. However, a late season loss at Dayton (90-89) closed the door on Miami's post-season tournament hopes. Following the season, center Tito Horford announced his intention to enter the NBA Draft without completing his final two seasons of eligibility. The 'Canes were left with anything but a depleted roster as ten lettermen, including eight seniors, returned for the UM's fourth season of NCAA Division I competition since the rebirth of the program.

• The 1987-88 season — Thrilling victories over both Providence and Virginia Commonwealth propelled the 'Canes to continued improvement with a 17-14 record. Following the season, center Tito Horford announced his intention to enter the NBA Draft without completing his final two seasons of eligibility. Miami was left with anything but a depleted roster as ten lettermen, including eight seniors, returned for the UM's fourth season of basketball.

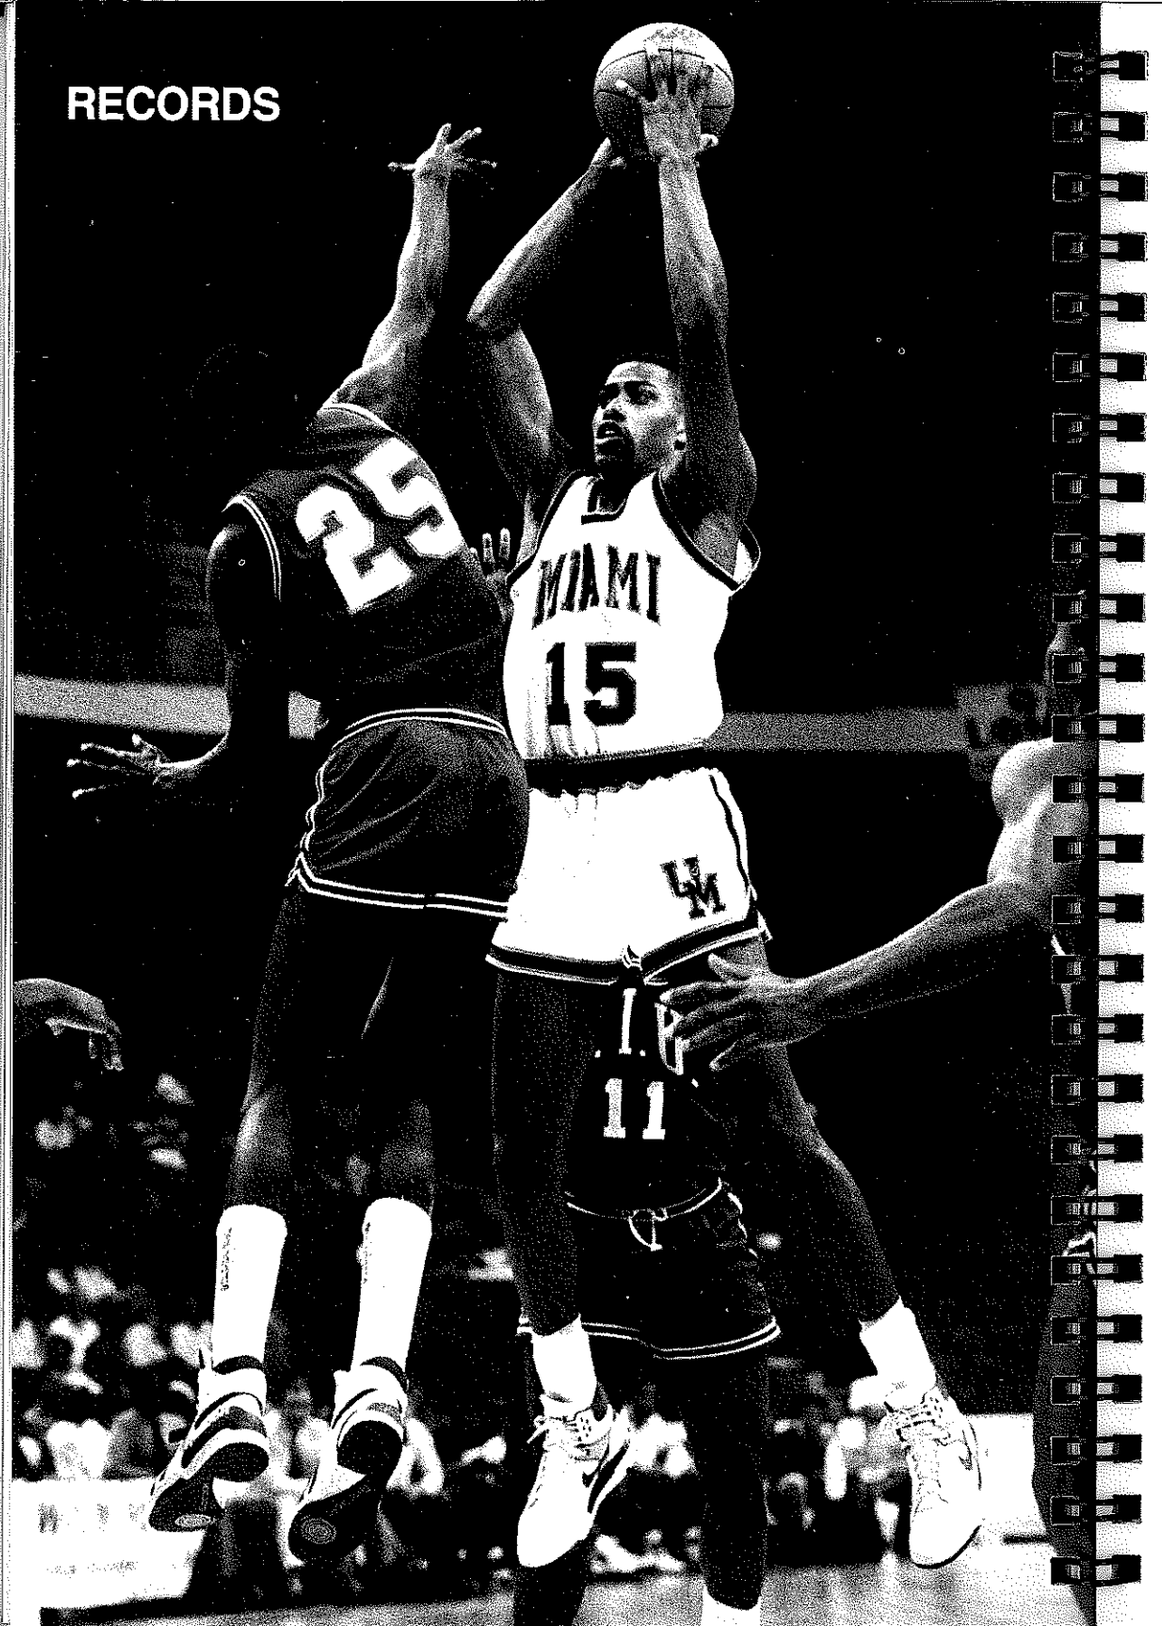

• April 12, 1988 — Miami announces plans to move to the new $56 million Miami Arena. Also home to the NBA's Miami Heat, the state-of-the-art basketball facility signifies a new era in the rise of South Florida basketball.

• December 10, 1988 — A UM record crowd of 6,654 watch the Hurricanes run neck-and-neck for 40 minutes with ACC powerhouse Duke. Blue Devil Danny Ferry needs a superhuman performance to stop the 'Canes as he connects on 23 of 26 shots en route to 58 points. Ferry later calls Miami "a definite top 40 team."

• January 12, 1989 — Senior Joel Warren's free throw with two seconds remaining clinch Miami's first victory over a top 20 team as the 'Canes upset the defending national champion Kansas, 87-86 at the Miami Arena.

• March 6, 1989 — The Hurricanes post a 89-82 win over Florida International in the first annual Carnival Miami Cup. The win leaves Miami with a 19-12 slate, good enough for the best record in 24 years and ten seasons at Miami.

KNIGHT SPORTS COMPLEX

The most visible sign of the roundball resurrection at the University of Miami can be seen right on the Coral Gables campus, where the newly completed Knight Sports Complex recently opened its doors for operation.

Dedicated November 12, 1985, the new structure was made possible through a gift from the James L. Knight Charitable Trust. The facility houses the offices for the men's basketball staff, while also serving as a home court to most of the Hurricane women's basketball games and a practice site for the NBA's Miami Heat. The Knight Sports Complex is located between the Hecht Athletic Center and the Greentree Practice Field and Track.

Other features which benefit the entire athletic program at the UM include an expanded weight training room which more than doubled the size of the strength training area; locker rooms for men's and women's basketball; a lecture room capable of seating more than one hundred student-athletes that serves several academic and meeting purposes; and an indoor jogging area which surrounds the basketball floors.
