PRACTICE ATTENDANCE:

A specific time frame will be established for UM basketball work to be open to the media. Members of the media are encouraged to attend practice during those designated times. Local and out of town media who wish to attend practice must call the SID office each day to verify the time frame for practice availability. All media guests are required to check in with the UM Sports Information Office prior to entering a practice session. THE UM LOCKER ROOM, WEIGHT ROOM AND TRAINING ROOM ARE OFF LIMITS TO THE MEDIA THROUGHOUT THE SEASON.

Box 248167, University of Miami, Coral Gables, Florida 33124.

PARKING PASSES:

A GLOBAL UNIVERSITY IN A GLOBAL CITY

UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI CORAL GABLES, FLORIDA

The University of Miami is the largest independent teaching and research university in the Southeast and, established in 1926, is among the nation's youngest. The Coral Gables campus, 10 miles from Miami, is the site of most of the university's undergraduate and graduate programs. The University also operates a medical center in downtown Miami, a world renowned marine and atmospheric science school on Virginia Key in Biscayne Bay, and a biomedical research and development center on its South Campus.

Following goals established in its nationally acclaimed strategic plan, the University of Miami is in the midst of one of the longest fund raising campaigns in the history of higher education in the United States. The campaign will raise $400 million for endowment, facilities and equipment, and current operations by 1989.

Enrollment at the University of Miami has grown from a few hundred, when classes were held in a remodeled Coral Gables Hotel, to more than 13,700 credit-seeking students including about 9,150 undergraduate, 2,550 graduate, 1,350 law and 650 medical students.

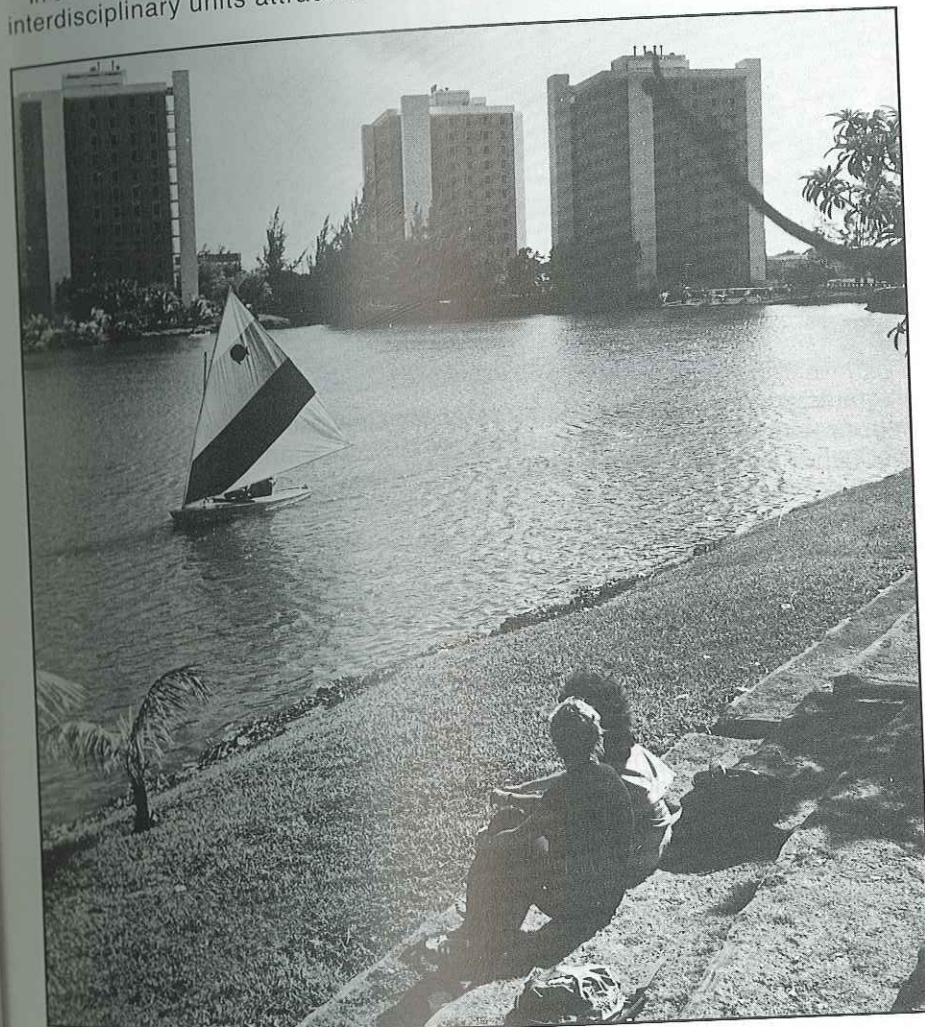

Representing all U.S. states and 110 foreign countries, the student body is composed of 62 percent Florida residents, 24 percent from other states, and 14 percent foreign nationals. Eighty-six percent of the 1300-member faculty hold doctorates or other terminal degrees in their fields.

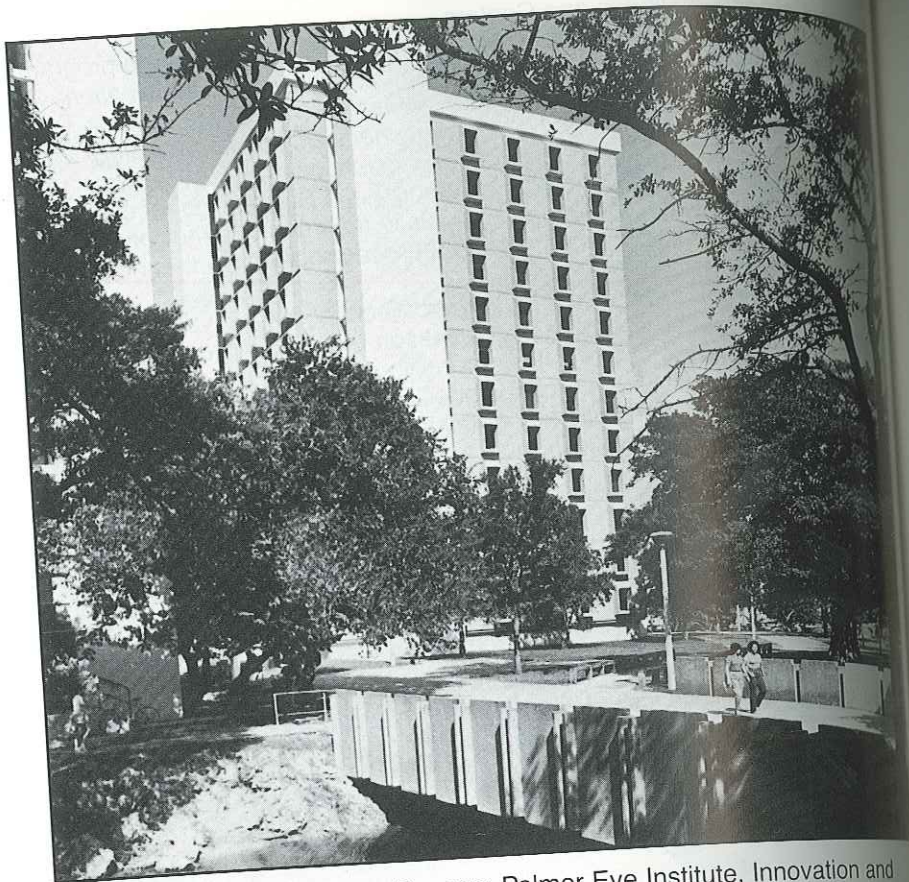

Schools, Colleges, Institutes and Centers
The University offers 140 undergraduate and 200 graduate degree programs through Schools of Architecture, Business Administration, Communication, Continuing Studies, Education and Allied Professions, Graduate Studies, International Studies, Law, Marine and Atmospheric Sciences, Medicine, Music, and Nursing and Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Engineering.

The Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Sciences is recognized as one of the top four marine science schools in the country. The University offers graduate, as well as undergraduate, degree programs in marine affairs and marine sciences.

Established in 1952 as Florida's first medical school, the University of Miami School of Medicine is the hub of the UM/Jackson Memorial Medical Center, the fifth largest such complex in the country and one of the hemisphere's major centers for teaching, research, diagnosis and patient care.

In addition to schools and colleges, many institutes, centers, and interdisciplinary units attract national recognition for research and other programs. Among them are: Bascom Palmer Eye Institute, Innovation and Entrepreneurship Institute, Institute for Molecular and Cellular Evolution, Intelligence Computer Systems Research Institute, Center for Social Research on Aging, Mailman Center for Child Development, and the North-South Center.

Research

As it has for more than a decade, the University ranks among the top two percent of 2,600 universities and colleges receiving federal research and development grants. Over 1,000 sponsored research, training and service programs totaled $59 million in 1984-85 and involved more than 400 faculty.

In addition to basic research in science, medicine, engineering, and social sciences, current projects cover a wide spectrum of global concerns including climatology, oceanography, population and resource studies, criminal justice, aging, water quality, productivity, technology transfer, international relations and health care.

The Community

A crossroads where cultures and commerce of Latin America, the Caribbean, Europe, Asia and North America merge, the Greater Miami Area is one of the most dynamic regions of the country. Coral Gables hosts hemispheric headquarters of many multinational corporations and yet, maintains the Mediterranean charm envisioned by its (and the university's) founder, George Merrick, 60 years ago.

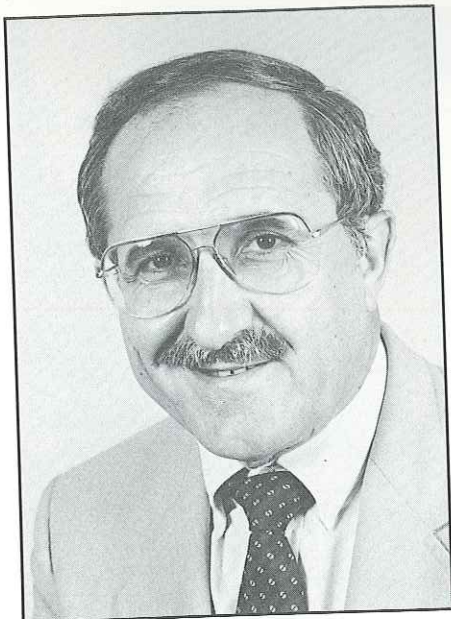

EDWARD T. FOOTE II PRESIDENT, UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI

Edward T. Foote, fourth president of the University of Miami, leads one of the nation's youngest private teaching and research universities. Now the largest private university in the Southeast, it is increasingly recognized as a national and international leader.

Since his inauguration in 1981, President Foote has guided the University of Miami during a period of remarkable transition. The University has formed new schools of Architecture, Communication, and Graduate International Studies, and the North/South Center; recruited 32 percent of its 1300 member faculty; successfully launched a $400 million fund-raising campaign, one of the largest in the history of American higher education; reexamined and reemphasized priorities to stress undergraduate and graduate education as well as research, and entered the select circle of Phi Beta Kappa membership.

Before coming to Miami, President Foote was Special Advisor to the Chancellor and Board of Trustees at Washington University in St. Louis. From 1973 to 1980, he was Dean of the Washington University School of Law, where he taught constitutional law and legal ethics. From 1970 to 1973 he was Vice Chancellor, General Counsel and Secretary to the Board of Trustees at Washington University. From 1966 to 1970, he was an associate in the law firm of Bryan, Cave, McPheeters and McRoberts in St. Louis.

From 1962 to 1965, he worked as a reporter in Washington, D.C., first for the Washington Star, and later, while studying law at the Georgetown University Law Center, for the Washington Daily News. In his last year of law school, he worked as an assistant to the chairman of the Pennsylvania Avenue Commission. Following his 1959 graduation from Yale University, he served until 1962 as an officer in the U.S. Marine Corps.

SAM JANKOVICH - ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

The dream of reviving men's basketball at the University of Miami became a vivid reality on July 15, 1983 when Sam Jankovich was appointed to the athletic director's position at the UM. The 51 year old native of Butte, Montana made it clear from his very first day in Miami that he would strive to develop one of the nation's most complete athletic programs, and the primary step in that direction was to bring men's basketball back to the UM campus. Within three months, the University's Board of Trustees unanimously voted to reinstate the men's basketball program.

The dream was now alive.

In the more than two years that he has held his post of guiding the Hurricane athletic fortunes, Jankovich has set into motion a series of positive developments on campus and in the community that will enable the UM program to prosper in the years to come. "People are the greatest natural resource for college athletics," Jankovich says. "The people in South Florida and our far-reaching alumni have responded to the challenge of supporting this program within the framework of the rules."

"It is now the responsibility of the University to give our student-athletes every opportunity to succeed academically, athletically and socially."

His dream of a well-rounded athletic department is becoming a reality. The reinstitution of men's basketball is complete. Academic support systems are rapidly improving. Miami now has a full compliment of coaches with administrative and support personnel to sustain already strong teams. The women's basketball program is healthier than ever. Men's and women's golf, tennis, swimming and diving, track and cross country are being properly funded to continue their yearly assaults on the nation's Top 20.

In fund-raising, Jankovich realigned the Hurricane Club and witnessed a record contribution level the past two years with membership at an all-time high.

Under the direction of Jankovich, the UM athletic department has generated additional revenue. Current radio and television contracts call for coaches shows and state-wide coverage in football, basketball and baseball. In January of '85, the UM signed a million dollar contract with CBS-Sports for the airing of at least three football games over the next two seasons. In addition, the Hurricane basketball program will benefit from national exposure when the young squad will appear on CBS on January 18, in a game with Arizona to be broadcast to a split-national audience. The Hurricane will also make a national appearance on ESPN on February 22, when Notre Dame visits the James L. Knight Center. Jankovich also has worked diligently to strengthen the UM corps of coaches. Swiftly, yet with concern for detail, he hired Jimmy Johnson just three months prior to the '84 football season. He appointed veteran Bill Foster to lead the resurgence of UM's men's basketball and enticed Ron Fraser to sign a new five-year contract to continue as leader of the Hurricane baseball program.

Improvement in on-campus facilities has become another Jankovich trademark. He has arranged for: the complete resurfacing of Mark Light Baseball Stadium with SuperTurf; construction of a new office-locker room complex for baseball; refurbishing of the facilities in the Hecht Center; construction of the Knight Sports Complex with basketball practice facilities, offices, locker rooms, meeting rooms and additional strength room facilities; and expansion of the Greentree Practice Field.

Prior to coming to Miami, Jankovich served as athletic director at Washington State University where he developed a $7.5 million building effort that included new construction and renovation of existing facilities. While competing in the prestigious Pac-10 Conference, his teams participated in their first bowl game in 50 years (1981 Holiday Bowl), made two NCAA basketball tournament appearances and captured a conference title in track.

During his tenure as assistant athletic director in Pullman, Jankovich was responsible for the operation of the Cougar Club; he more than doubled the membership while tripling the contribution level.

Committed to community activities, the Jankovich family is very active in the Serbian Orthodox Church. Sam is married to the former Patty Mullins of Butte, Montana. They have three children and six grandchildren.

BILL FOSTER Head Basketball Coach

On March 21, 1984, University of Miami athletic director Sam Jankovich announced the hiring of Bill Foster as the new Hurricane men's basketball coach. Foster, a 40-year old native of Hemingway, South Carolina, was selected as the cornerstone for the reconstruction process called Miami basketball.

At the time of his appointment, many described Foster as "an encouraging selection," or "an inspired choice."

More than a year and a half later, most agree that Bill Foster was simply the very best choice.

He was also the obvious choice to Jankovich for several reasons:

- Foster is a proven winner. His college teams have won 66.7% of the games over a 19 year period of time. In all, he has guided basketball teams at three different schools to a total of 353 victories and 18 non-losing seasons.
- Foster has been in the building process before. His entire coaching career at the Division I level has been spent in the progressive stages of constructing national contenders.

At the University of North Carolina-Charlotte, he saw the opportunity to transform a Division III program into a solid major college power. He began his building process in 1970, and five years later the 49ers were in the finals of the NIT. The following year, UNCC made a trip to the NCAA Final Four. Although he was not in Charlotte long enough to reap the tournament harvest from the inspiration he planted in his five years at the helm, Foster achieved his top priority--to build a winner from the ground up.

Moving on to Clemson University in 1975, Foster inherited a program that had never won 20 games in a single season, while making only one post season tournament appearance in over sixty years. In nine seasons, Foster's Tigers made four tournament trips, while posting three twenty game winners and an NCAA quarterfinalist.

- In 19 years of college coaching, 90% of all of Bill Foster's players have earned their degrees. The coach has very strong feelings concerning the importance of academics in the life of a young man. In this day and age of intercollegiate athletics, it is a rarity to find a major college coach who can boast a winning percentage and a graduation rate of better than 67%. Bill Foster can make that claim--and his lofty percentages echo his solid philosophies.

Foster's coaching career began at Carson Newman College in Tennessee where he guided the 1958 freshman squad to a 19-1 record during his senior year at the school.

His only high school coaching job was at Marion High School in Marion, South Carolina where he posted a three year record of 42-21 from 1958 through 1961.

At Shorter College, in Rome, Georgia, his five year totals included four twenty game winning seasons and 15 conference and tournament championships.

After spending two years as a recruiter at The Citadel, Foster took on the tall task of constructing a major college program at UNC-Charlotte. From a group of junior college transfers during his first season (1970-71) to the likes of Cedric Maxwell, Foster laid the solid groundwork for the growing program. During his final two years at the North Carolina school, the 49ers were 45-7. Following his departure to Clemson, UNCC lost in the finals of the 1976 NIT to Kentucky, and fell to Marquette in the 1977 NCAA semifinals.

His tenure at Clemson was highlighted by fifteen wins over teams that were ranked among the nation's Top 20--including an 87-82 overtime win over No. 1 Duke in 1980. His teams made four straight trips to post season tournaments from 1978 through 1982, and the 1980 club advanced all the way to the NCAA quarterfinals before bowing to UCLA by an 85-74 count. During that same season, the Tigers went undefeated at home, while earning a national ranking for nine straight weeks.

Foster has helped guide the careers of current NBA stars Cedric Maxwell (UNCC) Tree Rollins (Clemson) and Larry Nance (Clemson), all of whom were first round NBA draft choices.

BILL FOSTER QUOTES

On his thoughts concerning the start of the 1985-86 season:

"This is going to be a very exciting time for us, because we don't know just what the immediate future holds. It's a totally new group of people who have come from all over the country to work as a team . . . and that sense of newness and adventure is something that very few people will ever get to experience in this type of atmosphere. This has all caused a great feeling of excitement for everyone involved in the program."

On the Hurricane's style of play in 1985-86:

"We will be overmatched on paper this year, because we will be playing 27 teams that are more experienced. But I'm still going to encourage an upbeat brand of basketball. We want to establish a style of play that emphasizes the fast break and an aggressive defense—a style which the players will enjoy playing and the fans will enjoy watching . . . and that means being upbeat and aggressive with the ball. We've got to play intelligently . . . but we're not going to sit on the ball and try to play low-scoring games. We're going to lace up the shoes and play ball."

On the 1985-86 schedule:

"I would venture to say that either before or after this season is over, our schedule will probably be rated among the 20 strongest in the nation . . . and this is something we planned. The quickest way to catch up to the rest of the pack is to go head-to-head with the very best. With six teams that made the NCAA Tournament last year and two NIT teams, we won't be lacking for quality competition."

On the immediate goals for University of Miami basketball:
"The success of this particular team is not something we're going to measure in terms of wins and losses. We will consider ourselves successful this year if we can play hard, play with intelligence, develop a winning attitude, and improve on a weekly basis. If we can continually grow in all of these areas as the season progresses, then I think everyone will be able to gauge our development by watching the team perform on the floor. To what extent continued hard work and improvement will relate to wins and losses is something we won't know until March."

The long range goals for the program:
"In this first year, we want to be competitive and learn from our game experiences. Next year—I'd like to feel we've got a chance to win any game we play. I'd like to enter the third season with having a winning record as our goal. . . and by the fourth year, we want to look realistically at making a post season tournament. By the fifth year, I want people to forget that the UM ever dropped basketball. We can erase those empty 14 years rather quickly by becoming a perennial play-off contender in five years. After the fifth season, we look to share the same type of consistent success that our football and baseball programs now enjoy."

UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI BASKETBALL THROUGH THE YEARS--1926-1985

Hurricane basketball is back. In a big way.

The resurrection of the men's basketball program at the University of Miami has signalled the start of a new and exciting era in the storied history of intercollegiate athletics at the UM. The slick new edition of Miami men's basketball will develop through its infancy under the watchful eyes of nation-wide television audiences, and extensive print, radio and television coverage will assist in creating instant exposure for this young group of pioneers who dare to tackle and create history.

The road back was not an easy one for those who have thirsted for basketball in this continually prospering section of the country. Moreover, the previous path traveled by Miami basketball players, coaches and fans was dotted by flashes of brilliance, color and sometimes disappointment.

Here is a capsule summary of the sixty years of Miami basketball that have intermittently played a part in the history of the athletic program at the University and its neighboring community.

When it all begins again, on November 22, 1985, the green Hurricanes will be shooting to improve on an all-time record of 456 wins and 297 losses for a .606 winning percentage. And that is an impressive ledger to improve upon.

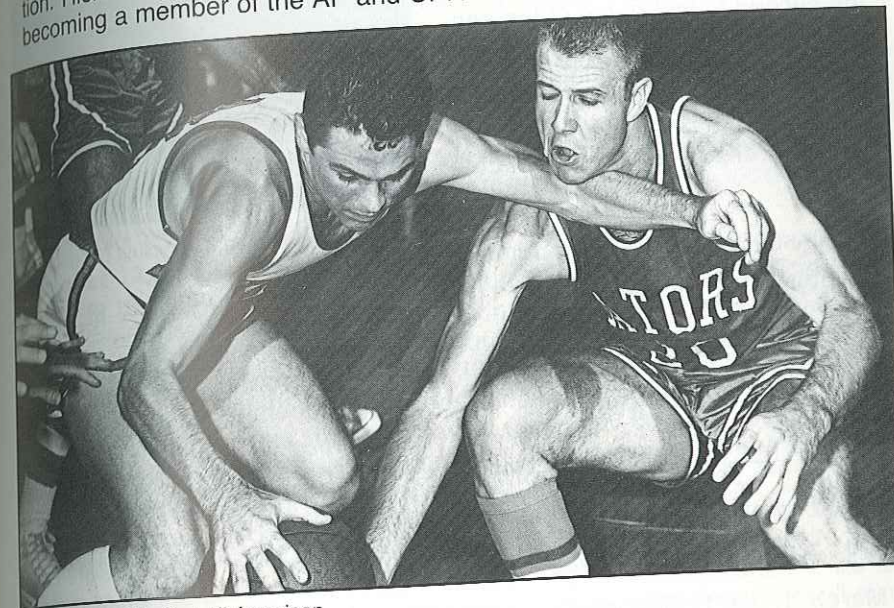

- The Hurricanes fielded a freshman team in 1926-27, finishing 7-1 under head coach Art Webb.
- In 1927-28, the first official varsity basketball team at the University of Miami posted an 8-4 mark, knocking off Rollins 52-15 in the opener.
- Miami records list no official results from 1932 through 1938. During that period of time, representatives from the school played local AAU and church sponsored teams under coach Tom McCann.
- The Hurricanes returned to intercollegiate competition in the 1938-39 season, posting a 4-6 record under head coach Hart Morris.
- Like many other institutions across the nation, Miami dropped intercollegiate basketball during the war years of 1942 through 1945.

Bruce Hale (center) was hired in 1954.

• In 1954, the University named Bruce Hale as its head basketball coach. The retired Air Force captain and former professional basketball star held the UM head coaching post for 13 seasons, leading the Hurricane program through its glory years of intercollegiate basketball. Before the end of Hale's tenure in 1967, the Hurricanes won 220 games and lost 112 for a .663 winning percentage. Hale's first Miami team turned in a 9-11 record, but there were no other losing campaigns in the next 12 years. The streak of non-losing seasons extended into the 1968-69 season--marking 14 consecutive seasons of .500 basketball or better for the UM.

- Hale's 1959-60 club was the only UM men's basketball team to ever advance to the NCAA Tournament. That 1959-60 edition ran its record to 23-3 before bowing to Western Kentucky, 107-84, in the first round of the tournament.
- During that historic 1959-60 NCAA Tournament year, junior guard Dick Hickox became the first UM basketball player to earn All-America recognition. Hickox averaged 22.1 points per game during that season en route to becoming a member of the AP and UPI All-America teams.

Dick Hickox, UM's first All American.

- The Dick Hickox led Hurricanes of 1960-61 returned to post season play--falling in the first round of the NIT to St. Louis, 58-56. The 1960-61 squad compiled a 20-7 record.
- In 1962-63, Miami advanced to the second round of the NIT before falling to Providence 106-96. An opening round NIT victory over St. Francis (71-70) marked the only Miami victory ever in post season play.
- From 1962 through 1965, Miami recorded three consecutive twenty-game winning seasons, rolling up a composite record of 65-16. The star of these Hurricane glory teams was a brilliant scorer named Rick Barry.
- In 1964-65, Barry became the Hurricanes' only consensus All-America selection. The 6-7, 200 pound native of Rosselle Park, New Jersey led the nation in scoring with a 37.4 average in his senior season. He later went on to become the only player in basketball history to win single season scoring titles in the NCAA, the ABA, and the NBA.

- The 1964-65 Miami squad, led by Barry's scoring brilliance, established a new NCAA offense record by averaging 98.4 points per game. The 'Canes, however, were not allowed to participate in the NCAA Tournament that year--after posting a 22-4 record--because of recruiting violations.

- Bruce Hale resigned as head coach after the 1966-67 season, and UM assistant Ron Godfrey assumed the head coaching responsibilities.

- Don Curnutt closed out his Miami basketball career in 1970 as the Hurricanes' third and last player to receive All America recognition.

- February 27, 1971--The last victory by a University of Miami men's basketball team came in the second to last game of the season, a 100-94 triumph over Florida State at home in the Dinner Key Auditorium. The 'Canes shot a season high 62.5% from the floor as all five Miami starters scored in double figures.

Rick Barry averaged 37.4 points per game as a senior.

- April 22, 1971--The University of Miami Board of Trustees voted to drop the sport "temporarily until such time as a permanent fieldhouse can be constructed on the main campus." Sagging attendance figures and serious financial losses were also believed to contribute to the discontinuation of men's basketball at the University of Miami.

- July 15, 1983--Sam Jankovich was named athletic director at the University of Miami. Coming to the UM after a successful stint as the athletic director at Washington State, Jankovich immediately announced that the resurrection of men's basketball at Miami would be his primary priority in the early months of his tenure, enabling the UM to have "one of the nation's most complete and visible overall programs in the country."

- October 12, 1983--The University of Miami Board of Trustees unanimously voted to reinstate men's basketball at the University of Miami. The Board made the decision after reviewing a report submitted by newly hired Athletic Director Sam Jankovich which stated that men's basketball can be a revenue-producing venture. Moreover, nearly $500,000 had already been raised in support of bringing intercollegiate basketball back to the University. It was also announced that the Hurricanes would be ready to compete on the Division I level in the 1985-86 season, and the downtown James L. Knight Center would serve as the home court for the reborn program.

"This is an exciting day for the University and for the athletic program," UM President Edward T. Foote, II said at a press conference. "And we're keeping in mind the priorities of academics first and athletics second . . . we are pleased that the changes in the economics of intercollegiate basketball allow the University to resurrect one of the country's most popular sports . . . and the rise in television income during recent years makes basketball a money-maker at universities like ours. We look forward to welcoming these Hurricanes home again."

- March 21, 1984--Bill Foster, a 47-year-old native of Hemingway, South Carolina was named the seventh men's basketball coach at the University of Miami. Foster came to Miami after 19 years as a head coach at three different institutions, Shorter College, North Carolina-Charlotte, and Clemson. Foster also announced on this day that Clint Bryant, a long time assistant at Clemson, would also join the Miami staff in a similar capacity.

Sam Jankovich and Bill Foster, March 21, 1984.

- April 9, 1984--Foster announced the hiring of a second assistant coach, Seth Greenberg, who was serving as an assistant coach to Terry Holland at the University of Virginia.
- April 16, 1984--Tim Harvey, a 6-10, 240-pound center, became the first basketball player to commit to the University of Miami in over 14 years. The Plainfield, New Jersey native announced that he would transfer to Miami after spending two seasons in the Georgia Tech program.
- July 1, 1984--A third assistant coach was hired to complete the basketball staff as Miami native Cesar Odio returned home after serving as an assistant coach at his alma mater, Florida Southern College.
- October 11, 1984--Nearly one full year after the announcement that basketball would return to the University, Athletic Director Sam Jankovich announced that a million dollar-plus practice facility would be constructed on the Coral Gables campus. The new all purpose structure--located between the Hecht Athletic Center and the Greentree Practice Fields--would be totally funded through a gift from the James L. Knight Charitable Trust.

The first phase of the 1985-86 basketball schedule was also announced on this day, and the line-up included such perennial powers as North Carolina, Georgia, Notre Dame, Marquette, and Dayton.

- October 15, 1984--The first men's basketball practice session in over twelve years was held on the patio in the center of campus. More than 200 members of the student body participated as Foster and his assistants searched for prospects under the warm sunshine.
- April 24, 1985--Foster announced that the UM's 1985-86 basketball roster will include nine freshmen, one sophomore, and one junior as the spring signing period ends for NCAA basketball.

- August 16, 1985--Athletic Director Sam Jankovich announced that the 1985-86 basketball schedule had been completed and that network television coverage of the Hurricane program would include two games to be broadcast by CBS (Arizona) and ESPN (Notre Dame).

Jankovich also announced the completion of a local television schedule (WBFS-Channel 33) that would bring all nine UM road games back to Miami by way of live local broadcasts. Channel 33 would also carry selected home games in the Knight Center.

WIOD Radio, the radio voice of UM football and baseball would also carry all Hurricane basketball games during the 1985-86 season.

- September 2, 1985--The Knight Sports Complex was completed. The facility now serves as the practice home to the men's and women's basketball programs, while also housing the men's basketball coaching staff offices. In addition, the Knight Sports Complex enabled the athletic program to more than double the size of the existing strength room, while also providing meeting rooms and lecture rooms for all of Miami's student athletes. The structure is located between the Hecht Athletic Center and the Greentree Practice Field and Track.
- October 15, 1985--Basketball practice officially begins at the University of Miami in the Knight Sports Complex.
- November 22, 1985--The University of Miami meets The Citadel in the opener at the James L. Knight Center. This marks the first UM men's basketball game in more than fourteen years.

The AMI South Florida Health Care Network Sponsors the Return of Hurricanes Basketball.

AMI (American Medical International) is a leading health care network with over 100 hospitals and health-related centers in over 500 communities across the world. The over 40,000 employees work hard to present all the facts in health care issues. Together they are a highly trained team, dedicated to quality health care.

In recognition of the Hurricanes' great team spirit, AMI's five South Florida hospitals—American Hospital, North Ridge General Hospital, Palmetto General Hospital, Parkway Regional Medical Center and Southeastern Medical Center—offer a hearty salute.

Combined, the five hospitals provide over 1,700 beds attended by over 3,700 skilled employees and almost 2,200 physicians. Their economic impact on South Florida represents $69 million in salaries and $35 million in medical supplies.

Best wishes for strong growth and a solid season from all five South Florida AMI Hospitals!

Coral Gables Campus

A crowd of 6,524 turned out to see the Hurricanes defeat Florida State, 82-75, in 1965 at the Miami Beach Convention Hall.

Other features which will benefit the entire athletic program at the UM include an expanded weight training room which more than doubles the size of the existing strength training area; lockerrooms for men's and women's basketball; a lecture room capable of seating more than one hundred student athletes that will serve several academic and meeting purposes; and an indoor jogging area which surrounds the basketball floors.
