Summer Camps

Coaches that work or operate camps in which prospective student-athletes participate must ensure that those camps follow all requirements of an institutional camp.

Institutional sports camps and clinics must be open to any and all entrants with only limitations for number, age, grade level, and gender permitted. This language must be included on camp websites, brochures or other promotions.

Coaches may engage in recruiting conversations with prospective student-athletes during camps. However, a coach may not extend written or verbal offers of athletically-related financial aid to any prospective student-athlete during his or her attendance at the camp or clinic.

For basketball camps, an institution must include an educational session detailing NCAA initial-eligibility standards and regulations related to gambling, agents, and drug use to all camp participants.

A booster may not pay a prospective student-athlete's registration fee to attend an institutional camp or clinic, unless it is for their own child.

An institution may employ a prospective student-athlete in a camp or clinic, provided that individual has signed a NLI or written offer of financial aid (therefore only seniors or transfers).

Compensation for camp employees may only be paid for work performed, and at a rate commensurate with the going rate in the locality for similar services.

If you are operating a summer sports camp or clinic, make sure to have all pre-camp forms turned into the compliance office.

NLI Signing Reminders

By signing a National Letter of Intent, a prospective student-athlete agrees to attend the designated college or university for one academic year. Pursuant to the terms of the National Letter of Intent program, participating institutions agree to provide athletics financial aid to the student-athlete, provided he/she is admitted to the institution and is eligible for financial aid under NCAA rules.

An important provision of the National Letter of Intent program is a recruiting prohibition applied after a prospective student-athlete signs a Letter of Intent. This prohibition requires participating institutions to cease recruitment of a prospective student-athlete once a National Letter of Intent is signed with another institution.

Student-Athlete Summer Employment

All student-athletes must notify the Compliance Office concerning their summer employment plans. Please direct student-athletes who will be employed to speak with the compliance office and turn in an employment verification form. Here are a few reminders concerning employment:

- Student-athletes must be paid only for work actually performed.
- The rate of pay must be equal to that of a normal employee performing the same task.
- Student-athletes may not be employed because of their reputation, fame, or publicity that they may bring to the employer.
- Student-athletes may not receive any benefits not generally available to all employees.
- Student-athletes may NOT be paid in advance of work performed. Note: Payment should be made by check or direct deposit only.

Employment at Institutional Camps or Clinics

Student-Athletes employed by an institutional camp or clinic must meet the following criteria:

- Must perform duties that are of a general supervisory character in addition to any coaching or officiating assignments.
- Compensation provided to the student-athlete must be commensurate with the going rate for camp or clinic counselors of similar teaching ability and camp or clinic experience. This means that a student-athlete may not be paid based on his or her value because of athletics reputation or fame.
- Student-Athletes who only lecture or participate in demonstrations at a camp or clinic may not be paid.
- Actual travel expenses (lodging, meals, prepaid plane tickets) may be paid to student-athletes for employment in an institutional camp or clinic only if such expenses are paid and procedures used for reimbursement of expenses for all employees of the camp or clinic.

In the News: NCAA Warns N.C. to Repeal HB2 or No Championships Through 2022

North Carolina is close to losing millions of dollars as a result of no NCAA Championship events being held in the state from 2018-2022. The NCAA made it clear that if the legislature does not repeal House Bill 2 by the first week of April, cities in North Carolina will not be considered as potential hosting sites for Championship events.

In early April, the various sports committees of the NCAA will begin making Championship site selections for 2018-2022 based upon bids received from across the country. Once the sites are selected by the committees, those decisions are final. An announcement of all sites will be made on April 18.

Since last year, the NCAA has maintained its position of promoting a “safe, healthy, discrimination free atmosphere for all those watching and participating in [NCAA] events.” An NCAA spokesperson said, “absent any change in the law, our position remains the same.” Last year the NCAA Board of Governors relocated NCAA Championships throughout the state because of the bill, including removing Greensboro, NC as a site for this year’s first and second round of the Men’s Basketball NCAA Tournament.

The North Carolina Sports Association, which represents 27 counties across the state that recruit and promote major sporting events, sent a letter to the state legislature saying the state could lose an estimated $250 Million in economic impact based on 133 bids submitted to the NCAA for 2018-2022.
