Huskers Have Fun on Run to Second NCAA Sweet 16

Nebraska spent the 2012-13 season solidifying its spot among the top 20 women's college basketball programs in the nation.

A young Husker team that featured just one senior starter and just two seniors overall on an 11-player roster, sprinted to its second NCAA Sweet 16 in the past four years. Despite playing the nation's No. 12 strength of schedule, the Huskers notched the second-most wins in school history with a 25-9 record.

NU also finished second in the regular-season Big Ten standings with a 12-4 conference mark, the second-most league wins in school history. Nebraska's success translated into a No. 16 RPI in the final NCAA rankings and a No. 18 final national ranking in the USA Today Coaches Top 25. It was NU's third top-25 finish in the last four seasons.

Nebraska's fan base also continued to grow in support of one of the nation's rising programs. The Huskers ranked 16th nationally in average home attendance with more than 5,200 fans per game watching Nebraska compete in its final season in the Bob Devaney Sports Center. The Huskers averaged nearly 6,600 fans per Big Ten home contest.

Throughout the season, senior Lindsey Moore and junior Jordan Hooper rewrote Nebraska history. The pair became the first Husker teammates to earn preseason mention on the Wade, Naismith and Wooden National Player-of-the-Year watch lists at the same time. At the end of the season, they became the first Husker teammates to earn All-America honors in the same year.

Moore continued to etch her name in Nebraska lore after the team's season ended with a loss to No. 5 Duke in the Norfolk Regional semifinal at the Constant Convocation Center. The 5-9 point guard from Covington, Wash., was selected in the first round of the WNBA Draft by the Minnesota Lynx.

From start to finish, the Huskers produced a memorable ride through 2012-13, but like any long journey, it wasn't always smooth.

"Considering where we started, we came a long way. We had a lot of injuries in September, October and November," Nebraska Coach Connie Yori said. "We weren't very healthy. We didn't have a lot of good practice time because we were not healthy. We really came a long way. We started out 2-3 in the Big Ten. It would have been easy to start pointing fingers, but I thought our kids did a really good job of pointing the thumb and saying, 'let's get better.' At that point, I thought we became a better practicing team and a better focused team and our players really bought in to what we were trying to do."

Nebraska's road through 2012-13 actually began in the 2012 postseason. Following the Huskers' run to the Big Ten Tournament title game, Nebraska limped into the NCAA Tournament.

Hooper and starter Hailie Sample did not practice in the two weeks leading up to NU's NCAA first-round loss because of foot injuries. Emily Cady battled a knee injury that required offseason surgery. Meghin Williams was slowed by a foot injury of her own. Center Adrianna Maurer was out after undergoing back surgery in January.

During the offseason, Cady's surgery limited her for six to eight weeks. Hooper and Sample spent weeks on the sidelines. Hooper eventually returned in early summer, but Sample missed the entire offseason with a back injury.

Seniors Meghin Williams (#10) and Lindsey Moore (#00) led Nebraska to three NCAA Tournament appearances, including NU's first two NCAA Sweet 16 bids during their four years in Lincoln.

For most of the summer, the only healthy Huskers were Moore, sophomore guards Tear'a Laudermill and Brandi Jeffery, sophomore forward Katie Simon and freshman guards Rachel Theriot, Sadie Murren and Courtney Aitken.

As summer turned to fall, health was still a major concern. Moore, Hooper and Cady were near 100 percent, but Sample did not return to the court until almost October. Just as Sample returned, Theriot was knocked out for a month with a foot injury of her own. That injury slowed her down for her entire freshman season.

During exhibition play, sophomore Rebecca Woodberry left the team. By early December, Aitken was knocked out for the year with a leg injury and Murren suffered a back injury of her own. Maurer, who battled back from her own back injury to play in nine non-conference games, experienced the return of significant pain and chose to end her playing career. Jeffery was also affected by the death of her grandmother at the end of November, before battling foot and knee injuries the rest of the season.

"Honestly, our preseason and early season practices were a joke," Yori said. "From day to day, we had no idea who was going to be on the floor available for practice, and that continued until January. We just had no consistency."

Amazingly, Moore, Hooper, Cady and Sample started every game together for the second straight year, and Theriot replaced Jeffery in the starting lineup in Nebraska's seventh game. Theriot went on to make the final 28 starts of the season.

Despite their early season limitations, the Huskers opened with a 68-50 win over North Carolina A&T at the Devaney Center Nov. 9. It was NU's eighth straight season-opening victory and it came against an A&T team that won 22 games - the first of 18 games for NU against 20-win teams.

Jeffery shined in the win over the Aggies. Making her first career start, she scored 10 points and grabbed three rebounds. She added

10 more points, four rebounds and two steals in the Huskers' victory over Temple two days later.

Nebraska added a win over Northern Arizona Nov. 16, which featured 15 consecutive points from Hooper to shoot NU to a 16-0 lead over the Lumberjacks. She finished with 27 points and seven rebounds in just 24 minutes.

NU hit the road for the first time against South Dakota State. The defending Summit League champions fought their way to a 60-55 win over the Huskers. SDSU won 25 games and captured another Summit League crown before advancing to the 2013 NCAA Tournament. It was the first of NU's 18 games against NCAA Tournament teams and the first of 11 contests against 2013 conference champions for the Huskers.

Nebraska defeated 2013 Southland Conference co-champion Sam Houston State, before a thrilling road win at USC moved NU to 5-1 on Nov. 23.

The wins over the Bearcats and the Trojans marked the emergence of Laudermill as a major player in the Huskers' 2012-13 fortunes. The 5-9 sophomore from Riverside, Calif., scored seven points in the win over SHSU on Nov. 20. Then against the Trojans, she buried a three-pointer from the right wing with one second left on the shot clock and 1:49 on the game clock to give the Huskers a 64-63 lead.

Those games marked a stretch of nine straight with five or more points for Laudermill. She finished with 23 such efforts on the year, averaging 5.9 points and 1.6 rebounds. Laudermill's speed, consistency and defensive ability added an important element for NU.

Moore also put her ability to close games on display at USC. She scored 17 points in the final 6:06 to put the Trojans away. Moore finished with 23 points, seven rebounds and four assists.

Nebraska returned home to face No. 11 Maryland. Theriot made her starting debut and made an instant impact with six points, six rebounds and four assists. But Terp All-American Alyssa Thomas was too much for NU. The 6-2 forward finished with 25 points, five rebounds, eight assists and six steals.

Nebraska rebounded with a 60-51 win over 2012 Big Sky champ Idaho State on Dec. 1, before suffering a 66-57 defeat at Creighton on Dec. 5. The Bluejays went on to share the Missouri Valley regular-season title and advance to the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

The loss to the Jays did include a career-high 20 points for Sample, but Hooper suffered through the only scoreless game of her career. NU hit just 2-of-13 threes as a team. The Huskers played without Jeffery for the second straight game as she dealt with a death in her family, and it marked the last game of the year for Aitken.

With a roster on the ropes, a star player coming off the worst performance of her career, and a 6-3 record, the Huskers faced back-to-back matchups with unbeaten teams from the state of Florida.

No. 24 Florida State came to Lincoln with a 7-0 record and took NU to the limit. But Hooper responded with her best game as a Husker, erupting for a career-high 36 points to go along with 12 rebounds. Hooper connected on a season-high six threes while going 12-of-20 from the field. In a duel with fellow All-America candidate Natasha Howard, Hooper outscored Howard 36-8 in NU's 78-77 win. FSU eventually advanced to the second round of the 2013 NCAA Tournament.

The Huskers carried the momentum to South Florida to face the 8-0 Bulls at the Sun Dome on Dec. 16. Hooper put up 24 points and 14 rebounds, while Moore added 20 points. The Huskers also employed a zone defense for the first time on the season, forcing USF into an 8-for-34 three-point performance in NU's 62-52 win. The Bulls also advanced to the 2013 NCAA Tournament second round.

Nebraska returned home to face its fourth straight 2013 NCAA Tournament team, posting an 80-67 win over Southland Conference co-champion Oral Roberts on Dec. 20. Hooper continued her torrid stretch with 33 points and nine rebounds in just 25 minutes. Moore added 15 points and eight assists, as Nebraska headed into the Holiday break with a 9-3 record.

NU closed non-conference play with an 84-39 win over Grambling State on Dec. 29. The Huskers then opened Big Ten action with a solid 70-52 victory over Wisconsin to improve to 11-3, setting up a top-25 showdown between the No. 25 Huskers and No. 14 Purdue.

Nebraska and the Boilermakers had played a pair of epic battles that covered five overtimes in 2012, and all signs pointed to another tight game in NU's first-ever CBS nationally televised game.

The two teams did not disappoint. With NU trailing 59-53 with 30 seconds left, Hooper hit a three to cut the deficit to 59-56. After a pair of missed free throws by Purdue, Hooper buried the game-tying three with 2.7 seconds left to send the 6,600 fans at the Devaney Center into a frenzy and another NU-Purdue game into overtime.

Hooper finished with 15 points and 14 rebounds, while Moore added 22 points and eight assists, but Purdue prevailed 69-66. The Huskers hung with Purdue despite opening the game 0-for-16 from the field, before Jeffery sparked NU with eight points and four assists off the bench.

Nebraska rebounded with a 67-38 run past Indiana that included career highs of 14 points from both Theriot and Lauderhill. Theriot added four rebounds and six assists.

A showdown at No. 8 Penn State followed, but the Huskers struggled in an 80-58 loss. NU returned home and was handed its only back-to-back losses of the season in a 62-52 setback to an improved Illinois squad on Jan. 17.

Those two losses put the Huskers at 12-5 overall and 2-3 in the Big Ten. It also put NU's season at a crossroads heading into a road game at Minnesota - a place the Huskers had never beaten the Golden Gophers.

A players-only meeting before the Minnesota game helped set the tone. A change in defensive approach from full-court man pressure to a mix of man and zone added to Nebraska's focus. An 84-63 triumph over the Gophers in front of more than 6,300 fans at Williams Arena and a Big Ten Network national television audience changed the course of Nebraska's season.

Moore shouldered the load, erupting for 26 points, seven rebounds, seven assists and three steals. Hooper added 17 points and eight boards, while Cady contributed a double-double with 12 points and 10 rebounds. Theriot was spectacular with 13 points and eight assists on her way to a second Big Ten Freshman-of-the-Week award.

The Huskers also held one of the Big Ten's most explosive offenses to just 63 points. More defense and several doses of Jordan Hooper followed. Hooper poured in 25 points in a 59-54 win over No. 25 Michigan State Jan. 24. She added 28 points and seven rebounds to shoot NU to a 62-53 win at Ohio State Jan. 31. An 80-56 home win over Minnesota in front of nearly 7,000 fans on Super Bowl Sunday in Lincoln, included 27 more from Hooper, as she led five Huskers in double figures. A 55-50 victory at Northwestern Feb. 7, gave NU four straight games holding foes in the fifties.

Hooper poured in 29 points and grabbed eight boards in a 76-75 shootout at Iowa Feb. 11 to stretch NU's winning streak to six games.

Nebraska then took its defense to another level. In a 58-39 win over Ohio State in Lincoln Feb. 14, the Huskers held the Buckeyes to their lowest point total of the Jim Foster coaching era at OSU. A week later, No. 24 Nebraska overcame a 22-18 halftime deficit to rout Michigan 58-39 in Ann Arbor, outscoring an NCAA second-round team by 22 in the second half. The 39 points allowed were NU's fewest in history in a regular-season conference road game.

A 66-46 pounding of Iowa that included a career-high 19 points from Theriot, and a 10-point, eight-assist, seven-rebound game from Moore, stretched NU's Big Ten winning streak.

The No. 20 Huskers closed Big Ten road play with a thrilling 55-53 win at Wisconsin to complete a perfect 7-0 February and push Nebraska's winning streak to 10 games. It also gave NU a 7-1 road record in regular-season league action.

The win against the Badgers set up a top-20 showdown with No. 7 Penn State for a share of the Big Ten title in the final home game in the history of the Devaney Center on Senior Night.

Moore led NU with 23 points, but Big Ten Player-of-the-Year Maggie Lucas closed the Devaney Center with the best shooting performance in the building's history. Lucas hit a Devaney Center record eight threes to finish with 34 points and secure the Big Ten regular-season crown for the Lady Lions.

However, the nearly 11,000 Husker fans who stayed after the game to hear speeches from Coach Yori, Moore and Williams were still excited by Nebraska's prospects for the postseason.

For their performances during the regular season, Yori was named the Big Ten Coach of the Year. Hooper captured first-team All-Big Ten Nebraska saluted Husker fans who followed them to College Station, Texas, for the NCAA Tournament after a 74-63 win over No. 9 Texas A&M to advance to the Sweet 16 on March 25.

Hooper Earns Second Straight All-America Award

accolades for the second straight year, while Moore settled for second-team honors. Cady was an honorable-mention All-Big Ten pick, while Theriot was a unanimous selection to the Big Ten All-Freshman Team.

As the No. 2 seed in the Big Ten Tournament, the Huskers earned a first-round bye before facing Iowa for the sixth time in two seasons.

A rested group of Huskers made it six in a row over the Hawkeyes with a 76-61 run in the quarterfinals at the Sears Centre Arena in Hoffman Estates, Ill., on March 8. Hooper continued to play at an All-America level with 24 points and seven rebounds. NU's lead ballooned to 72-45 with five minutes left before the Huskers rested their starters for a semifinal game with Purdue.

The Boilermakers spoiled Nebraska's Big Ten Tournament run with a 77-64 win. Purdue went on to claim its second straight tournament title. Despite the loss, Moore earned a spot on the Big Ten All-Tournament Team for the second straight year - the only player not in the championship game to earn a selection.

Nebraska returned to Lincoln to wait a week before finding out its NCAA Tournament destination. At 23-8 and ranked No. 24 in the polls with the nation's No. 16 RPI and No. 12 strength of schedule, the Huskers were being projected as a No. 3 or No. 4 seed in the tournament.

However, when pairings were announced, Nebraska received a No. 6 seed and a berth in the NCAA first and second round site at Reed Arena in College Station, Texas.

While the Huskers were a bit surprised by their seed, they approached the postseason in an excellent frame of mind.

"I kind of like the middle of the pack," Hooper said. "Honestly, I don't care. Whoever we play, we play. Wherever we go, we go."

Nebraska's first-round foe was No. 11 seed Chattanooga. The Lady Mocs rode a 19-game winning streak into the tournament as the Southern Conference champion. They also owned a victory over traditional national power Tennessee in the first game of the season.

The No. 24 Huskers were tied with Chattanooga at 32 at the half, before the Lady Mocs built a 47-38 lead early in the second half.

After a timeout, the Huskers made a defensive adjustment, and Hooper caught fire offensively.

Hooper poured in 18 of her game-high 21 points in the second half, including three consecutive three-pointers in a span of just 1:30. Hooper finished with 21 points and 12 rebounds for the 26th double-double of her career. Moore added 13 points, five rebounds and seven assists, while Theriot added 12 points. Cady also just missed a double-double of her own with 10 points and nine boards to help fuel Nebraska's 73-59 first-round win.

The win over Chattanooga and Texas A&M's win over Missouri Valley champion Wichita State, set up a showdown of former Big 12 Conference foes on the familiar floor of Reed Arena.

Texas A&M entered the NCAA Tournament as the SEC Tournament champions and the No. 9 team in the nation according to the AP. But WNBA first-round draft pick Kelsey Bone and the Aggies could not match the Huskers on March 25, 2013.

Moore was sensational, erupting for 20 points, 10 assists and six rebounds for her fifth career double-double. Hooper led NU with 21 points and eight boards while adding three steals in her matchup with Bone.

Sample, a native of Flower Mound, Texas, added the first double-double of her career with 10 points and 11 boards. Sample scored eight points in the game's final five minutes to help punch Nebraska's ticket to the NCAA Sweet 16 for the second time in school history.

Texas A&M Coach Gary Blair may have summed up Nebraska's performance best.

Nebraska's 2013 Team Awards

Most Valuable Offensive Player: Lindsey Moore

Most Valuable Defensive Player: Emily Cady

Kathy Branchaud Most Improved Rebounder:

Emily Cady, Hailie Sample

Husker Award: Jordan Hooper

Teammate Award: Meghin Williams, Katie Simon

"I'm not sure Nebraska can play any better than they did," Blair said. "When you look at the stats, they shot 45 percent, 8-out-of-19 from the three, 14-out-of-15 from the line and outrebounded us by 12. They really only had about four turnovers until the very end. It's hard to beat a team that was playing that well. Nebraska played awfully well. We only had two free throws for the whole ball game. A lot of that was their good defense."

The Huskers were faced with No. 5 Duke in the NCAA Norfolk Regional semifinals. Duke brought 32 wins, an ACC title and a roster filled with high school All-Americans.

In the week leading up to the game, Hooper suffered an ankle sprain and missed a pair of practices. However, she played at a high level in the game, pulling down 11 rebounds while adding six points. On her final shot of the day, Hooper resprained the ankle while landing after making a jumpshot that cut Duke's lead to 40-32 with 7:55 left. She missed the rest of the contest. Without their scoring leader, Nebraska turned to forwards Williams and Simon, who combined for six points off the bench down the stretch to trim Duke's lead to six on two occasions. But the Huskers finished just 3-for-24 from three-point range and hit just 30.3 percent of their shots in the game. NU's season ended with a 53-45 loss in a defensive struggle, but the loss did not take any of the lustre off the Huskers' accomplishments.

Moore led the Huskers with 11 points, five rebounds and six assists in her final game at Nebraska. Her six assists pushed her career total to 699, eclipsing the former record of 696 set by Meggan Yedsena (1991-94). Moore also tied Yedsena's single-season record of 195.

"Playing here at Nebraska has been an unbelievable experience and one that I will never forget," Moore said. "It has definitely been the best four years of my life. It was so exciting to be a part of this program. This is going to be a great program to watch in the future, because they have learned about being hungry, happy and healthy."

While Moore will always hold Nebraska in her heart, Yori recognized Moore's contribution to the Husker program.

"She's one of the best players who ever put a Nebraska uniform on. That's pretty clear," Yori said. "I wouldn't trade her for anyone. She's just such a competitor."

While Moore will be missed by Yori and the rest of the Huskers, Yori said her impact on the program and the rise Nebraska has experienced is expected to continue.

"I think we're playing at the highest level," Yori said. "Our RPI, our strength of schedule and two trips to the Sweet 16 in four years shows the work is paying off. We're going after another aggressive schedule. You may not win as many games, but if you look at our success in the Big Ten and the NCAA, you can see our schedule helped us prepare for the toughest teams in the country this year."

Senior Lindsey Moore (#00) and junior Jordan Hooper (#35) earned All-Big Ten honors for the second straight season. Moore, a two-time Nancy Lieberman Award finalist, earned second-team All-Big Ten honors in both 2012 and 2013. Hooper claimed spots on the five-player All-Big Ten first team in both 2012 and 2013. Hooper and Moore were both preseason candidates for the Wade, Naismith and Wooden National Player-of-the-Year awards and became the first Husker teammates to earn Associated Press All-America honors in the same season.
