YOUNG HUSKERS MAKE HISTORY IN FIRST BIG TEN SEASON

Lindsey Moore (left), Emily Cady (center) and Jordan Hooper (right) captured All-Big Ten honors in 2011-12, as the Big Red's "Big Three" made up the nucleus of a consistent starting five for all of Nebraska's 33 games in a 24-9 season.

Nebraska spent the 2011-12 season proving itself to the women's basketball world. The Huskers, who produced the second-most victories in school history with a 24-9 overall record that included a 10-6 mark in their first Big Ten campaign, advanced to their fourth NCAA Tournament in the past six years.

NU also finished No. 17 in the final Associated Press Poll, marking the school's second top-25 final national ranking in the last three seasons.

Junior point guard Lindsey Moore and sophomore forward Jordan Hooper burst onto the national landscape as national player-of-the-year and All-America candidates, while Emily Cady proved herself as one of the Big Ten's best freshmen in 2011-12.

Hooper, who led NU with 18.9 points and a Big Ten-leading 9.3 rebounds per game, finished as an honorable-mention All-American by the Associated Press while earning first-team WBCA All-Region 6 honors. She also became Nebraska's first first-team All-Big Ten selection. Along the way, Hooper earned spots on both the Wade and Naismith National Player-of-the-Year watch lists.

Moore, who added 15.7 points, 5.1 assists and 2.2 steals per game, joined Hooper on the Naismith list and was one of eight finalists for the Nancy Lieberman Award presented to the nation's top point guard. Moore added second-team All-Big Ten honors.

Cady, who averaged 9.9 points and 6.5 rebounds per game, ranked among the top six freshmen in the Big Ten in every major statistical category on her way to earning a spot on the Big Ten All-Freshman Team. She added honorable-mention All-Big Ten accolades from the media.

Senior guard Kaitlyn Burke, a candidate for the Lowe's Senior CLASS Award and Nebraska's Student-Athlete Advisory Committee President, proved herself as one of the nation's top student-athlete leaders by helping the Huskers advance to their first Big Ten title game.

Nebraska's success came without any preseason hype. The Huskers weren't big enough to win against the traditional powerhouse teams in the Big Ten. They weren't experienced enough to find success against the best teams in the conference. They weren't healthy enough, strong enough or tough enough to take the physical pounding of a Big Ten campaign that would feature a new conference opponent every night of the season.

Nebraska just wasn't good enough -- at least that seemed to be the preseason opinion of the college basketball community before NU's first Big Ten campaign.

"The Big Ten doesn't really do a true preseason poll, but I would guess that the coaches would have picked us 10th or 11th if there was one," Yori said. "We knew we had some great senior leaders, but we weren't sure they could play. We knew we had some really talented players in Jordan and Lindsey who worked really hard in the offseason. We knew we had some talented young freshmen, but we didn't know how it would all fit together. We just had a lot of unknowns."

Nebraska was coming off an injury-ravaged season when the Huskers finished last in the Big 12. NU's roster featured only 12 total players and just two seniors.

Burke was challenged by injuries throughout her career and would manage multiple injuries again in 2011-12. In fact, during the Huskers' 2011 summer tour of Sweden, Norway and Denmark, Burke played sparingly.

NU's other senior, Harleen Sidhu, underwent offseason knee surgery and did not play at all in Europe.

One of the Huskers' two juniors, Meghan Williams, had battled a foot injury her first two years and was limited in offseason training.

While the Huskers had an experienced floor general in Moore and a rising star in Hooper, they lacked a proven scorer in the post. The tallest player and the only center on the roster was 6-3 sophomore Adrianna Maurer, who played just 190 minutes in 2010-11. Two redshirts and four true freshmen filled out the 2011-12 roster.

In addition to the injuries and youth among the players, Husker Coach Connie Yori was sidelined for six weeks after NU's return from Scandinavia in August. Complications to a relatively routine knee surgery left Yori in the hospital for nearly all of September. When she returned for the start of practice in early October, Yori was limited in both her time and physical ability on the court.

The Huskers had used 10 days of summer practice and the 11-day trip to Europe to bond in a big way, developing outstanding team chemistry while Burke, Sidhu and Moore established themselves as leaders. Hooper also showed an expanded game at both ends of the court, transforming herself from a Big 12 All-Freshman selection into an All-America contender. After the team returned for the fall semester, Nebraska's youngsters grew closer together while Yori tried to overcome her own injury.

"We were really fortunate to have that time in Europe to come together as a team," Yori said. "With my health situation and limitations in the fall, we would have been way behind entering a typical season. Instead, we were probably several months ahead. We got lucky, but we also made our own luck."

As Yori battled her way back to the floor, her players formed a similar fighting mentality. The Huskers faced every challenge as a group, learning as a team and growing together. By the time the season started in early November, the Huskers were ready to show how far they had come in a short time.

After opening the regular season with wins over Arkansas-Pine Bluff and Mississippi Valley State, the Huskers faced their first true test against No. 23 USC.

Hooper made a statement on the national stage with 22 points and 13 rebounds, while Moore added 22 points of her own to go along with six assists.

True freshmen starters Emily Cady and Hailie Sample both added 10 boards, as Nebraska grabbed 66 rebounds against the Trojans. The 66 boards marked the highest total ever by a Husker team against a Division I opponent, as NU owned a plus-26 rebound margin on the night.

"Coming into the season, we thought rebounding might be our greatest weakness, and at times it was during the year," Yori said. "But our players made a commitment to working hard and getting better every day and for the most part, we turned that weakness into one of the strengths of our team. That is no small accomplishment."

The Huskers carried the momentum of four home wins with them to Florida, where they defeated a Florida A&M team that went on to win 22 games. Following the win over FAMU, the Huskers knocked off USA Today No. 25 and perennial ACC power Florida State, 66-63, on the Seminoles' home court to improve to 6-0.

Moore had 15 points, seven rebounds, five assists and three steals, while Hooper managed 12 points and eight boards against FSU All-American Cierra Bravard. Cady stepped up with 14 points and five rebounds, while freshman guard Brandi Jeffery pumped in 12 points and grabbed three steals. Both freshmen joined Moore in making huge plays down the stretch in the win.

The Huskers suffered their first loss of the season three nights later as they continued their road trip at Georgia Tech in the Big Ten/ACC Challenge. The Yellow Jackets went on to the NCAA Sweet 16.

Nebraska responded from its first loss by reeling off five straight wins to close non-conference play, including wins over a pair of conference champions and 2012 NCAA Tournament qualifiers Creighton and South Dakota State.

Against SDSU, Hooper poured in 30 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, while Moore added 27 points and six assists.

The stretch also featured a 97-88 double-overtime win at Northern Arizona. Hooper had 32 points and Moore 31 against the Lumberjacks to become the first teammates in Husker history to score 30 points in the same game.

Unfortunately, the win over NAU would be the last appearance by Nebraska's lone center, Adrianna Maurer, who succumbed to a back injury that eventually required season-ending surgery.

At 11-1 overall and No. 23 in the AP Top 25, the Huskers headed to University Park, Pa., to face No. 16 Penn State in NU's first-ever Big Ten Conference game. Hooper powered the Huskers again, scoring 30 points for the third time in a four-game stretch, finishing with 31 points and 12 boards in NU's 71-63 win over the eventual NCAA Sweet 16 participants.

NEBRASKA CLAIMS 24 WINS, RACES TO NCAA TOURNAMENT

In just over a three-week span in December, the Huskers had gone from unknown and unproven to unshakable and unrelenting. The Big Ten's comeback kids had battled back from double-digit deficits on the road to beat both Florida State and Penn State, then did it again to defeat Indiana in Lincoln in the Huskers' home Big Ten debut Jan. 5. However, Nebraska's roster took another hit following the win over the Hoosiers, as Sidhu's knee injury knocked her out for the rest of her senior season.

With just 10 players left on the active roster, NU came from behind again to defeat eventual NCAA Tournament qualifier Iowa on Jan. 8. The Huskers then posted their fourth double-digit comeback of the year at Wisconsin on Jan. 12 to improve to 15-1 overall and 4-0 in the Big Ten.

Moore, who had team highs of 22 points, 11 assists, seven rebounds and three steals in the win at Iowa, carried the Huskers again at Wisconsin with 28 points and five assists. Redshirt freshman Rebecca Woodberry also played big for the Huskers, erupting for a career-high 14 points on 5-of-5 shooting with four threes.

The Huskers ascended to No. 15 in the national rankings and returned home to face Penn State again. The eventual Big Ten regular-season champion Lady Lions played a nearly flawless second half in a 93-73 win.

The Huskers followed with an 82-68 loss at eventual Big Ten runner-up Ohio State. Cady provided a bright spot against No. 10 OSU, pumping in a career-high 24 points while grabbing seven rebounds.

Nebraska showed its resiliency by returning home to roll to a 64-49 win over Minnesota on Jan. 22 and get back on the winning track. Hooper then poured in 22 points and grabbed 15 rebounds to power the Huskers to a regular-season series sweep of Iowa on Jan. 26.

NU won its third straight with a 67-47 win at Illinois, as Moore dropped in 20 points, and Hooper added 12 points and 16 rebounds for her 10th double-double of the year. Cady contributed 17 points and five boards.

At 18-3 overall and 7-2 in the Big Ten, the Huskers journeyed to West Lafayette, Ind., to challenge Purdue for the conference lead on Feb. 2. Arguably the Big Ten's most tradition-rich women's basketball program, Purdue had never faced Nebraska. The first meeting was historic.

In an epic back-and-forth battle, No. 16 Nebraska produced the first triple-overtime road win in school history with a 93-89 victory over the No. 15 Boilermakers. In a game that featured big shot after big shot, Cady sank a free throw with four seconds left to send the game to the overtime. Then with the Huskers trailing by three at the end of the second overtime, Cady launched a miraculous 28-foot three-pointer at the buzzer that found nothing but net to send it to a third OT.

Moore did the rest, burying two long threes including a 28-footer from the left wing to make her the 27th Husker in history to reach 1,000 career points. Moore finished the night with 26 points and seven rebounds. Hooper led the Huskers with 27 points and seven boards of her own, while Cady earned a spot in Nebraska lore with 11 points, 12 rebounds, seven assists and one unforgettable shot.

After a bye week, the Huskers climbed to No. 13 in the AP Poll - their highest ranking of the year. Unfortunately, Nebraska went cold for a three-game stretch starting with a home loss to Michigan Feb. 9. A loss at Minnesota and another home loss to Northwestern Feb. 16 gave the Huskers their only three-game losing streak of the season.

The loss to Northwestern included a bone bruise below Moore's left knee that left her status in question for a home game against Wisconsin Feb. 19. Moore showed her toughness by helping Nebraska notch its 20th win of the season in a 68-59 victory over the Badgers. Hooper came through with 19 points and a career-high 18 rebounds. Cady added 13 points and four rebounds in little more than a half before suffering a knee injury of her own midway through the second half.

With the injuries mounting, the Huskers tried to dig deep in their first-ever road trip to Michigan State on Feb. 23. The Spartans sizzled on Senior Night in East Lansing, hitting 11-of-14 shots from the field, including 6-of-8 three-pointers to open the game, and race to a 28-8 lead on their way to 93-73 win over the Huskers.

Nebraska injuries had them on the ropes, but the No. 23 Huskers answered the bell. NU rolled to a 71-57 win over No. 8 Ohio State on Senior Day at the Devaney Center to close the regular season 21-7 overall and 10-6 in the Big Ten. OSU held Hooper and Moore to single digits, but the Husker freshmen carried the day. Despite playing with torn cartilage in her knee, Cady matched her career high with 24 points, as NU's six freshmen combined for 49 points and 18 rebounds. Jeffery and Woodberry each produced eight points and six rebounds apiece.

The Huskers headed to their first Big Ten Tournament as the No. 6 seed ready for a rematch with 11th-seeded Northwestern. Nebraska was hoping to solidify its place in the NCAA Tournament field while avenging a loss to the Wildcats just two weeks earlier.

Nebraska accomplished that and much more. When the first-half dust cleared, the Huskers held a 54-25 lead. Hooper finished with a game-high 18 points in just 16 minutes, while becoming the first sophomore in Nebraska history to reach the 1,000-point mark for her career. Moore added 14 points in a season-low 20 minutes. The Huskers hit 50.9 percent from the field, including 47.4 percent from three-point range. It marked only the third time all season that NU hit 50 percent or better from the floor.

The Husker freshmen supplied huge contributions again, producing 49 points and 25 rebounds. Woodberry had 12 points and six boards, while Katie Simon contributed 10 points and five rebounds. Sample matched her career high with 10 points, while Tear'a Lauderhill pitched in nine points and three pointers.

The Huskers advanced to the quarterfinals for a third meeting against third-seeded Iowa. The Hawkeyes entered as the Big Ten's hottest team, reeling off eight straight wins since a Jan. 26 loss at Nebraska. Although Iowa was hungry for revenge, the Huskers were hungrier.

Trailing 48-40 early in the second half, Moore and Hooper fueled a 40-16 surge and Nebraska rolled to an 80-68 win. Moore erupted for 26 points, including four three-pointers, while adding six assists and five steals. Hooper managed a double-double with 15 points and 10 rebounds in just 21 minutes, while Cady added a double-double of her own with 13 points and 11 boards. Sample again shined, matching her career high for the second straight day with 10 points while adding the first three-pointer of her career.

The Huskers moved to the semifinals for their second meeting in seven days with Ohio State. OSU jumped to a 24-11 lead, but Nebraska answered with a 40-10 surge in a 12-minute span to cruise to a 77-62 win over the No. 14 Buckeyes. Hooper led NU with 21 points and 10 rebounds, while Burke matched her career high with 20 points to shoot the Huskers into their first Big Ten title game and snap OSU's 10-game tournament winning streak.

In the championship game, Nebraska faced No. 21 Purdue in a rematch of one of college basketball's best games of 2011-12. Little more than a month after going three overtimes in West Lafayette, the Huskers and Boilermakers went double overtime in Indianapolis.

Nebraska's bid to become the first team in Big Ten history to win four games in four days to claim the title came up just short, falling 74-70 at Bankers Life Fieldhouse. Moore finished with 27 points and five assists, while Hooper added her third straight double-double with 25 points and 10 boards. Moore and Hooper claimed spots on the Big Ten All-Tournament Team for their efforts.

Nebraska returned home for a well-deserved week of rest. However, on the Monday the NCAA Tournament field was announced, Hooper and Sample were diagnosed with stress reactions in their lower legs. The injuries kept the two previously healthy Husker starters in walking boots and off the practice court leading up to NU's first-round NCAA Tournament game against Kansas.

The Huskers claimed the No. 6 seed in the Des Moines Regional and faced the 11th-seeded Jayhawks at the Jack Stephens Center on the UALR campus in Little Rock, Ark.

Nebraska's final two injuries proved too much to overcome. Hooper was visibly slowed by the injury and went 4-for-18 from the field, including 0-for-8 from three-point range. She still battled to play 32 minutes. Sample went scoreless in just 13 minutes of court time.

Burke, Moore and Cady kept the Huskers close against a KU squad that went on to knock off No. 3 seed Delaware and advance to the NCAA Sweet 16. Burke hit 7-of-9 shots from the field to finish with 14 points and four assists in the final game of her NU career. Moore added 12 points and six rebounds, while Cady produced her third double-double of the season with 10 points and 10 rebounds.

Nebraska, which led the Big Ten with 7.0 made threes per game and set school records in threes made (230) and attempted (759) on the season, went just 1-for-19 from long range against KU. It marked the first time all year the Huskers failed to hit at least four threes in a game.

"We kind of lived by the three and died by the three during the year. We were pretty beat up and out of rhythm because we had starters not practicing, but the bottom line was we didn't hit enough shots," Yori said. "I don't care what level you're playing at, if you go 1-for-19 from the three-point line, you're probably not going to win."

Despite the untimely injuries and unfortunate ending, Yori and the rest of the Huskers understood the significance of their season-long success.

"I don't think anybody would've thought we'd win 24 games. For basically the entire Big Ten season, we only had 10 kids suit up, and six of them were freshmen. We had a great season, and we have a really bright future."

The junior point guard scored 10 points, dished out two assists and grabbed a steal over the next seven minutes to turn a six-point NU lead into an insurmountable 62-42 cushion with 3:56 left. Nebraska's lead grew to 23 points in the final minutes before the Huskers settled for an 18-point win. Hooper finished with her second straight double-double with a then-career-high-matching 13 rebounds. Game Highlights: Junior Lindsey Moore and freshmen Emily Cady and Brandi Jeffery led the Huskers back from a 13-point second-half deficit to a 66-63 victory at Florida State. The Huskers, who improved to 6-0 with the victory over their second USA Today/ESPN Coaches Top 25 opponent of the season, trailed 44-31 with 18:37 left before slowing down the Seminoles and hitting enough shots to get their second win of the weekend in Tallahassee. Moore finished with 15 points, including NU's final four points at the line to seal the win. She added seven rebounds and team highs of five assists and three steals. Moore's second of two threes tied the game at 52 with 6:33 left. Jeffery's first of two second-half threes gave NU a brief 55-52 lead moments later after a Moore steal. After FSU regained the lead, Jeffery's second three off an assist from Moore tied the game at 60 with 2:04 left. Jeffery tied her career high with 12 points while adding three steals. Game Highlights: No. 24 Nebraska overcame first-half foul trouble by Jordan Hooper and an eight-point second-half deficit to fly by Iowa, 80-68, in the Big Ten Tournament quarterfinals. Hooper was charged with two fouls less than two minutes into the game, and the sixth-seeded Huskers trailed the third-seeded Hawkeyes, 36-28, with two minutes left in the half. But Lindsey Moore's 35-footer at the buzzer cut Iowa's lead to 36-33 and gave the Huskers momentum. The Hawkeyes answered out of the locker room to push the lead back to 48-40, but Moore, Hooper and Hailie Sample fueled a massive NU rally. Sample started the surge with the first three of her career, followed by a pair of threes by Moore to give NU a 49-48 lead. Another Moore three two minutes later pushed the edge to 59-52. Moore and Hooper combined on 13 points to extend the lead to 72-61, before Kaitlyn Burke drained a three. Sample added two free throws for an 80-64 lead. (Fleetwood Secondary)

N Senior (2011-12)

Harleen Sidhu (pronounced SIH-doo) played just three games for the Huskers as a senior. The 6-1 forward from Surrey, British Columbia, Canada, underwent offseason knee surgery before her senior year. She was not cleared to return to practice until Nov. 8. She made her first appearance of the season against Vermont on Dec. 18. She played 15 minutes against the Catamounts and grabbed four rebounds after missing NU's first 10 games of the season.

She played in Nebraska's Big Ten debut at No. 16 Penn State on Dec. 30, and in the Huskers' Big Ten home opener against Indiana on Jan. 5.

However, pain and weakness continued in her leg, forcing her out for the rest of the season. Sidhu, who played much of her junior season with a torn knee ligament, chose not to apply for a fifth season of eligibility in 2012-13.

Despite her physical setbacks on the court, Sidhu continued to be an outstanding leader and teammate for the Huskers. She played a major role in mentoring a group of Huskers that featured six freshmen and two sophomores.

In addition to helping the Huskers in practice and leadership training, Sidhu earned academic All-Big Ten honors for her performance in the classroom.

Junior (2010-11)

Sidhu earned the first start of her career in Nebraska's season-opening victory over Vermont on Nov. 13. She scored four points, pulled down two rebounds and notched an assist and a steal in 12 minutes against the Catamounts. She added her second and third career starts in NU's January games against Kansas and Kansas State. For the season she averaged 1.5 points and 0.7 rebounds while competing in 29 of NU's 31 games.

She erupted for a career-high 12 points in NU's win over Missouri on Feb. 22, when she hit 5-of-7 shots from the field including 2-of-3 three-pointers. She added a rebound and an assist in 22 minutes off the bench against the Tigers.

She produced six points in NU's win over Florida A&M on Jan. 2, when she tied a career high by burying a pair of three-pointers. Sidhu added five points and a pair of boards in just 11 minutes off the bench at Oklahoma State on Feb. 12.

Sidhu played a season-high 23 minutes at Iowa State on Jan. 11, when she had three points and two rebounds. She added three points and a rebound in seven minutes off the bench in the regular-season finale at Texas A&M on March 5. Against Colorado on March 2, Sidhu contributed two points while matching her season highs with two rebounds, two assists and two steals.

Sidhu captured first-team academic All-Big 12 honors as a junior in 2011.

Sophomore (2009-10)

The lone sophomore on Nebraska's 2009-10 roster, Sidhu missed a portion of the preseason and the Huskers' first two games with an ankle injury suffered in preseason practice.

Sidhu averaged 2.2 points and 1.6 rebounds in 12 games, including five points and three rebounds in five minutes in an NCAA Tournament win over Northern Iowa on March 21. She also appeared in NU's win over Kansas State in the Big 12 Tournament quarterfinals on March 12.
