SCOUTING THE RUTGERS SCARLET KNIGHTS

Coquese Washington leads Rutgers in her second season as the head coach for the Scarlet Knights. The three-time Big Ten Coach of the Year (2012, 2013, 2014) returned to the conference after guiding the Penn State program for 12 seasons (2007-19).

At 6-17 overall, Rutgers comes to Lincoln looking to snap a 12-game losing streak that includes 10 straight Big Ten losses. The losing streak started with a loss to current top-10 Indiana (Dec. 9) and five of the setbacks have come to current top-25 teams (Princeton, Virginia Tech, Iowa, Ohio State).

Graduate Awa Sidibe was lost to injury prior to 2023-24. The 5-11 guard from Bamako, Mali, started all 32 games for 12-20 Rutgers last season, averaging 9.3 points, 5.2 rebounds, 3.1 assists and 1.3 steals.

Kaylene Smikle, who was RU's leading scorer through 15 games at 16.1 points and 5.1 rebounds, has missed the past eight games. Last season, the 6-0 guard from Farmingdale, N.Y., averaged 17.9 points, 4.5 rebounds and 3.1 steals. Smikle led Rutgers with 20 points, six rebounds, three assists and four steals last year in a win over Nebraska.

Mya Petticord, a 5-9 sophomore guard from Detroit who is averaging 10.4 points and 3.7 rebounds through 14 games this season, did not play in an 82-64 loss to Michigan State on Tuesday. The Texas A&M transfer, who has scored in double figures in seven of her eight Big Ten games this season, was on the sideline in a walking boot.

Seniors Chyna Cornwell (8.0 ppg, 7.9 rpg) and Erica Lafayette (1.5 ppg, 0.7 rpg) are the only players who have spent at least three seasons at Rutgers, along with the injured Sidibe. Cornwell has started 53 games in four years at Rutgers, including 21 this season. Last year, she had eight points and a game-high 12 rebounds as a starter in the win over NU. Lafayette, who started 28 games last season and averaged 5.7 points per game, has made 31 career starts.

North Carolina transfer Destiny Adams has become the focus of the offense, averaging 14.9 points and 7.3 rebounds. The 6-3 junior is shooting 51.6 percent from the field and 70.5 percent from the free throw line. She also has 35 steals.

Sophomore Antonia Bates adds more size. The 6-3 Bates has managed 3.2 points and 3.4 rebounds while dishing out 2.8 assists and leading Rutgers with 1.6 blocks. Bates had eight points, including a pair of threes, against NU last season.

• Freshman guard Lisa Thompson rounds out the possible starting five for Rutgers with 7.4 points and 2.2 rebounds per game. Thompson has hit 14 three-pointers on the season.

HUSKERS READY FOR RUGGED RUTGERS

Nebraska returns home completes a two-game Big Ten home stand this afternoon expecting a rugged test against a tough Rutgers team.

The Big Red fought its way to a 68-54 victory to open the stand on Wednesday night, with Alexis Markowski and Darian White each scoring 14 points to lead five Huskers in double figures against the Boilermakers. Natalie Potts and Kendall Moriarty each contributed 11 points, while Jaz Shelley pitched in 10 points and a game-high nine rebounds to power Nebraska to its sixth Big Ten win of the season.

Markowski fueled the Huskers to a 32-29 first-half lead against Purdue by scoring all 14 of her points in the half. White, Potts and Moriarty were key to Nebraska pulling away in the second half.

White, who has produced double figures in three of her last four games, scored 13 of her 14 points after halftime. Potts not only scored seven of her 11 in the second half, she also hit the glass hard with six rebounds while setting a career high with four steals against the Boilermakers.

Moriarty also scored seven second-half points for the Big Red to match her career high with 11 points for the second straight home game. She also put up 11 points in the win over Michigan (Jan. 17), and is averaging 8.3 points per game over her last four games.

Shelley was consistent from start to finish, putting up five points in each half while grabbing a total of nine defensive rebounds to go with her 10 points, just missing a double-double.

The Huskers relied on stiff defense for 40 minutes along with a dominant plus-13 rebounding performance in the second half. Defense and rebounding have been the keys to Nebraska's success this season.

The Big Red lead the Big Ten with a plus-10.5 rebound margin while also leading the league in total rebounds (42.5 rpg) and offensive rebounding (14.1 rpg). Defensively, the Huskers are also limiting the opposition to a conference-best 27.8 percent success rate from three-point range. NU also ranks fourth in the Big Ten in overall field goal percentage defense (.393), which has helped the Huskers rank fourth in scoring defense at 62.8 points per game.

Nebraska knows it will need more of the same against a hungry group of Scarlet Knights today. Rutgers is trying to snap a 12-game losing streak that dates back to a loss to Indiana (Dec. 9). The Scarlet Knights have been challenged by multiple injuries to some of their top players, but still bring size and athleticism to the court.

The Huskers also still feel the sting of a 57-45 loss to Rutgers last season in Piscataway that gave the Scarlet Knights their first Big Ten victory after an 0-4 start. It was the lowest scoring total for the Huskers last season.

Rutgers has struggled offensively in Big Ten play, managing just 65 points per game with a shifting starting lineup. The Scarlet Knights have struggled even more on the defensive end, surrendering 81.4 points per game through 10 league contests. Opponents are hitting 48.6 percent of their shots against RU, including 34.2 percent from three-point range. Rutgers also carries a minus-6.5 turnover margin in conference play and is making just 4.2 three-pointers per league game.

NEBRASKA VS. RUTGERS SERIES

Rutgers leads the all-time series with Nebraska, 7-5, including a 57-45 win over the Huskers last season in Piscataway (57-45). In NU's worst offensive performance of the year, the Huskers went 2-for-25 from three-point range and just 17-for-60 (.283) overall, while hitting just 9-of-16 free throws. The Huskers got outworked on the boards, 46-35, and lost the turnover battle, 21-13.

THREE THINGS TO WATCH

1 Graduate guard Jaz Shelley and junior center Alexis Markowski have both moved into the top 25 on Nebraska's career points list. Markowski ranks 23rd with 1,162 points, while Shelley is 24th with 1,155. Both are closing in on Nebraska's first 1,000-point scorer Jan Crouch, who had 1,183 points (1976-79) at No. 22. Isabelle Bourne sits at 21st (1,218), while Hannah Whitish is No. 20 (1,228).

2 Alexis Markowski has been a double-double machine for the Big Red this season, producing 13 double-doubles through Nebraska's first 20 games. She ranks No. 4 in Husker history with 34 career double-doubles and is just two shy of 1993 Wade Trophy winner Karen Jennings, who ranks third at Nebraska with 36. Kelsey Griffin (2006-10) and Jordan Hooper (2011-14) share Nebraska's career double-doubles record with 40. Jennings, Griffin and Hooper were all first-team All-Americans who had their Nebraska jerseys retired. Griffin set the Nebraska single-season double-doubles record with 20 in 2009-10.

3 Maddie Krull will be presented with the Latimer Family Women's Basketball Scholarship during today's game. The first endowed scholarship in Husker women's basketball history, the award was created through the generous donations of Gary and Janet Latimer. The inaugural award was presented to Isabelle Bourne in 2021-22, and Bourne earned the honor again during the 2022-23 season.

Alexis Markowski led Nebraska to a 50-38 win over the Scarlet Knights in the last meeting in Lincoln (Feb. 1, 2022), producing 16 points and 15 rebounds. Markowski was held to five points and three rebounds last season in Piscataway.

Nebraska is 4-1 all-time against Rutgers at Pinnacle Bank Arena, and 1-5 in Piscataway, dating back to the first meeting between the two teams (Feb. 5, 2015). The No. 21 Scarlet Knights earned a hard-fought 46-43 victory over the No. 19 Huskers.

Rutgers defeated NU, 66-63, at the 2016 Big Ten Tournament in Indianapolis. The largest margin of victory in the 12 games in the series is 16 points (78-62 Rutgers win, Feb. 7, 2021, Piscataway). Six of the 12 meetings have been decided by two possessions (6 points) or less.
