02 PROGRAMME OVERVIEW

An Advanced Degree for Psychology Professionals, Researchers, and Future Leaders

Human behaviour influences every aspect of society, from individual well-being and workplace performance to education, healthcare, community development, and public policy. As mental health awareness grows and organisations increasingly recognise the importance of human behaviour in achieving success, the demand for highly trained psychology professionals continues to rise.

The Master of Science in Psychology (M.Sc. Psychology) at the University of Ibadan is designed for graduates seeking advanced knowledge in psychological theory, research, assessment, and professional practice. Students develop a deeper understanding of human behaviour, cognition, emotion, personality, social interaction, and psychological well-being.

Delivered fully online through UI eCampus, the programme enables learners to pursue postgraduate study while maintaining professional and personal commitments.
