02 PROGRAMME OVERVIEW

A Professional Master's Degree for Information, Technology, and Knowledge Management Professionals

In today's digital economy, organisations depend on accurate information, efficient systems, accessible knowledge, and effective information management practices to remain competitive. The ability to manage information resources strategically has become essential for decision-making, innovation, productivity, and organisational growth.

The Professional Master of Information Resources Management (MIRM) at the University of Ibadan is designed for professionals seeking advanced expertise in information management, digital systems, knowledge management, information technologies, and organisational information strategy.

Delivered fully online through UI eCampus, the programme combines professional practice with advanced learning to prepare graduates for leadership roles in information-intensive organisations.
