SANTALUZ GOLF COURSE

ARCHITECT: Rees Jones, 250-Acre Golf Course

HOLES: 18

FEES:

Initiation fees: $115,000
Monthly dues: $700

REMARKS:

Rees Jones designed the course with the intention of giving golf a concept. To achieve this, he elevated tees when possible, graded fairways and added bunkers, pockets and berms or mounds. He used naturally appearing features to help contain slightly errant shots and provide a variety of approach shots.

The site has a number of "signature holes" all diverse and memorable in their own way from which a golfer can watch his ball against a variety of contrasts.

Jones worked closely with landscape architecture firm Wimmer Yamada and Caughey to create a landscaping plan that complements the fairways and greens with a natural minimalist approach.
