

From boring to scoring

INSPIRATIONAL SESSION

How do you give a captivating presentation online?

You host an online meeting and all you see are absent faces looking away from you, no emotion and zero interaction. Even in the chat, everyone keeps quiet. Or worse, some participants turn off their camera or log off. Annoying and pernicious for your self-confidence. Shall we make some changes? Because since the start of Covid, most of our professional life has taken place online, a trend that seems to be continuous. What stands out here? Uniformity.

It's as if a boring presentation has become just as contagious as the coronavirus itself. Let us go from boring to scoring. To start with: we lead by example. We give an online (or live) presentation with lots of interaction a to the point, structured story, using images, metaphors and some surprising twists along the way... Everything you need to catch everyone's attention during your next online presentation.
