Make Ethereum Safer While You Shop

Panvala Allies use the Ally Guide to find great businesses to support. The more customers the Ally Guide brings to businesses, the more they will donate to be listed. Earn an ERC721 badge each time you shop at an Ally Guide merchant.

1. Shop at businesses in the Ally Guide and keep your receipt.
2. Send an email with a photo of your receipt to receipts@panvala.com.
3. We'll follow up to get the wallet address for your badge shortly. (Need a wallet? We recommend Status: <http://status.im/>.)

If you refer people who shop at Ally Guide merchants, you can earn Panvala tokens. See Page 3.

Refer Shoppers, Earn Tokens

The more people you refer to shop at Ally Guide businesses, the more Panvala tokens you can earn. Here's how it works.

1. Refer an Ally Guide shopper.
2. When the Ally Guide shopper claims their badge, we'll ask who referred them.
3. You earn two credits for making that referral.
4. If the person you referred makes a referral, you earn one more credit.
5. Keep referring Ally Guide shoppers to earn more credits. At the end of each week, we'll total the credits and divide that week's tokens among the credit earners.

Tokens Available

March 4-11: 20 000 tokens

March 11-17: 15 000 tokens

March 18-24: 10 000 tokens

March 25-31: 5000 tokens

Total: 50 000 Panvala tokens for Ally Guide Referrals

Welcome to the Ally Guide!

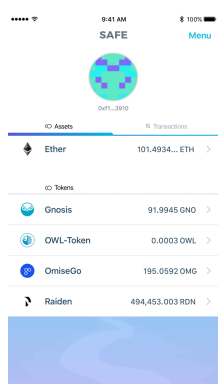

Panvala organizes people who want to make Ethereum safer, and the Ally Guide is a key part of how our community makes that happen. The Ally Guide lets our community know what they can do to make Ethereum safer. The most straightforward way to help with our mission is to buy tokens from grant recipients and donate them back into the “token capacitor” smart contract that issues grants. This keeps the contract charged up so we can keep issuing token grants to teams who make Ethereum safer.

But Panvala doesn't need your money—it needs your power. By shopping through the Ally Guide, you're helping to build up an active community of people who are ready to shop at businesses that donate to Panvala. Instead of getting customers in the door by giving their marketing budget to Google and Facebook for ads, they can get our allies in the door by donating that money to make Ethereum safer instead. Businesses are already pledging to donate a portion of your purchase to Panvala to appear in the Ally Guide, and as we demonstrate our ability to generate business for merchants, we'll be able to drive even more funds toward work we care about. At ETHDenver, we drove over $2000 to businesses. We expect to exceed that here at EthCC, and for the rest of the spring in Paris.

Shop from the Ally Guide and earn as many ERC721 badges as you can! Our community will always respect the allies who got it all started.

PANVALA TOKEN GRANTS

ARAGON ONE

Panvala issues token grants to teams who make Ethereum safer by scaling the network to fulfill its vision, and by securing the smart contracts that run on it. Batch One of token grants was released on February 1 to teams including Gnosis, Aragon One, and Status. Batch Two has 2,034,798 PAN tokens available for grant recipients.

Email us for assistance with your application, and submit your application by April 5.

info@panvala.com

These tokens can be used to vote on future batches of token grants or stake on Panvala Mark applications to show that you're willing to lose tokens if security flaws are found in your smart contracts. But the primary use of Panvala tokens is for donors to buy tokens from workers and deposit them back into the system as donations for future grants.
