(2) Designing and developing workforce and supportive housing, mixed-use development, & community-oriented architecture.

(3) Educating and mentoring youth and adults in design and life skills through community involvement programs.

H.O.P.E believes that credit and homeownership are the primary means for working families to build assets, and that credit is the single most important element in controlling financial affairs. Financial Literacy fosters financial stability for individuals and the entire community. Homeownership is good for families, neighborhoods and the economy.

Homeownership is the key to financial independence and accumulation of wealth.

Homeownership builds stronger, safer, and healthier communities. It raises self-esteem and confidence for families and finally, homeownership is a symbol of success that gives families a greater sense of freedom, security, empowerment, and independence and simply allows families to thrive.

(4) Being a member of the President's Initiative at Treasury. Members of this committee work with Treasury Staff for innovative ideas for teaching financial literacy.

(5) Providing instructors with Maryland Association of Realtors Workforce Housing Continuing Education as well as developing/publishing/teaching the course of Credit.

(6) Being a Small Dollar Loan Lender: Application being submitted to Community Loan Center, a highly successful small dollar loan program designed to be used through employer's employees. The loans are then paid back by payroll deduction.
