Part I, Line 1 - Mission	IHN-ML's mission is to enable volunteers from local congregations and the broader community to provide compassion and temporary shelter for homeless families. IHN's programs and services connect the families to community resources, empowering them to achieve and maintain affordable housing.

990 Schedule O, Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Part III, Line 4a	1992 a group of concerned citizens launched IHN-ML by sheltering its first family, a mother, and two daughters, through a network of local congregations committed to serving neighbors experiencing homelessness. Built from the nationally proven Interfaith Hospitality Network program model (now called Family Promise), IHN-ML continues to empower Montgomery County, PA families through community-based partnerships that include over 600 volunteers and 24 local congregations who provide emergency shelter. IHN-ML continues its mission to enable volunteers from local congregations and the broader community to provide compassion and temporary shelter for homeless families. IHN-ML's programs and services connect the families to community resources, empowering them to achieve and maintain affordable housing. IHN-ML continues to serve the most vulnerable families of our community with the goal of increasing their long term economic and housing stability. Thus helping family homelessness to be rare, brief, and nonrecurring. IHN-ML is a member organization of the Montgomery County Your Way Home collaborative. This collective impact model coordinates care through a central referral system and shared outcome measures. IHN-ML's model is unique, in that we utilize the collective effort of volunteers and church congregations for the evening sheltering of the families. We can also accommodate families of various compositions, such as multi-generational households, households with teenage males and/or adult children, single-parent females, or males. IHN-ML households are 100% low income according to HUD definition . 90% are extremely low income at the time of intake. Homelessness is traumatic for the entire family; it is particularly traumatic for children who often bear the brunt of precarious housing and the fears of an unpredictable future. Children in homeless families face potentially devastating developmental, social, and academic consequences. IHN-ML's overall goal is to end homelessness for each participant family we aim to keep families intact and reduce the harms on children so they can thrive. Our unique, trauma-informed approach combines the stability of emergency shelter and the benefits of intensive case management services to empower 14-16 families annually (approximately 50 individuals) to re-gain housing within 90 days and ultimately reach economic self-sufficiency by continuing to access a vast network of stabilizing community supports as needed. Emergency Shelter: Twelve host congregations provide private sleeping accommodations for a week at a time, on a rotating schedule. With volunteer support from 14 additional congregations, a daily dinner is served alongside compassionate, warm companionship. On any given week, 40 to 60 volunteers provide critical resources and time for our programming. In FY19-20, volunteers provided over 13,000 hours of service. Mornings and evenings, our Transportation Manager drives families in our agency van to and from o

The Day Center serves as "home base and includes access to laundry facilities and showers, a locked storage area for personal belongings, a kitchen, a computer with Internet access for parents to search for housing and employment and children to complete homework, and a backyard play space. Intensive Case Management: All adults receive ongoing, person-centered case management at the Day Center. Central to case management is each family's Housing Stability Plan, which employs Housing First best practices. It includes support necessary to achieving and maintaining housing, such as employment, child care, transportation, and health care. A team approach is utilized, consisting of close collaboration between the participant, our program manager, Your Way Home's Housing Resource Center staff, and case managers from other stabilizing community resources. The goal is to improve awareness of, and connectivity to community supports so families can recognize the resources they have and confidently access them well beyond their stay in the emergency shelter. This work dramatically improves their economic self-sufficiency and long-term stability. Further, families take goal-directed steps while in residence to increase their income; when they exit, they receive short term financial support to bridge potential wage gaps. Organizational response to Covid-19: FY19-20, Covid-19 severely impacted IHN-ML and the community. In early March, IHN-ML pivoted its programming by sheltering families in place at the Day Center and 3rd-floor apartment in Norristown. Host congregations closed their doors due to the pandemic shifting our evening operations to full-time at the Day Center and 3rd-floor apartment. Sheltering in place allowed each family to have their own private space while still receiving in-person intensive case management. Outcome and utilization numbers are slightly lower than anticipated for the year due to the pandemic. COVID-19 also impacted the opportunities available to our current families to reach outcomes, and our graduate families faced dire circumstances that could thwart their gains. While we continued to provide emergency shelter services, we grew increasingly concerned about our recent graduate families. Under "normal circumstances," recently housed families remain vulnerable to a housing crisis as they work to increase their income and build their assets. It often takes several years for families to become housing stable. Today, more and more families are slipping further into poverty or poverty for the first time, due to lost wages; our graduate families are particularly at risk. To support these families, IHN-ML launched a Graduate Self-Sufficiency Program in March of 2020. Seven families enrolled for a total of 21 people. Services include on-going case management sessions via phone or video con

All but one of our enrolled families initially lost their income by the end of March or had significantly reduced wages. Since the beginning of May 2020, 3 households returned to work stabilizing income. For families with younger children, there had been little hope of accepting any job they may be able to find because childcare is lacking; other families are particularly vulnerable to the health risks of working because of medically compromised family members. All of our graduate families are extremely vulnerable to terminations for utilities and eviction if they cannot pay back what is owed during the current, temporary stay on evictions and utility shut-offs. Our Graduate Self-Sufficiency Program is an essential service that provides an extended safety-net so families can maintain their stability and avoid a repeat housing crisis. We expect the county shelter system to become quickly overwhelmed once eviction and utility shut-offs resume. Our Graduate Self-Sufficiency Program diverts these families from an over-extended shelter system, mitigates homelessness's trauma, and keeps families on a path towards long-term self-sufficiency. Organizational Outcomes : In FY 2019-2020, our comprehensive programming served nine families, consisting of 31 individuals (11 adults, 20 children). Of these nine families, seven households graduated, and two remain in the program. Of our seven graduating families, four were rapidly re-housed to affordable housing. They remain in their apartments to date. Two households increased daily living skills and rebuilt family relationships to return to a family permanently; one household entered a transitional housing program for the next two years. Additionally, 58% of the families that left the program increased their income during program stay while 42% maintained their income during their stay. Since leaving 100% of the families have had income increases. 100% of the families that left the program were connected to two or more community resources and benefit assistance that will support long-term stability and economic self-sufficiency, including WIC, SNAP, food pantries, health services, and employment services, among others.

Return Reference	Explanation
Part III, Line 4a (continuation)	Of the two households that remain in the program, 100% have increased income. 100% of households remaining in the program were connected and now receiving two or more community resources and benefits. 100% remaining households have been connected to next step housing resources and have a housing stability plan in place. The average length of stay in the IHN-ML program was 104 days. Women head all nine households, and 2 of those households were youth age (18-24). Three heads of households reported Mental Health diagnosis, three heads of household chronic health issues, one head of household reported drug and alcohol issues past and present. One child in a household has a severe physical disability. During FY 2019-2020, IHN-ML accomplished several goals on the strategic plan. Our strategic plan will guide growth efforts over the next two years to deepen our impact in the community. Specific objectives of the plan include: 1. Implement a static shelter model, 2. Advance evaluation methods, 3. Launch new services to deepen our impact, including housing diversion counseling and aftercare services, 4. Improve communication with partnering congregations and the community at large, 5. Increase fundraising efforts, 6. Improve organizational capacity through leadership development, and 7. Embody equity and inclusion at all levels of the organization. The Board and IHN-ML staff attend professional meetings to build on best practices and stay current on trends. Staff participated in Montgomery County's Learning Community quarterly, the Annual Your Way Home Summit, Leadership development programs, and monthly organizational collaborative meetings, to name a few. The Board has participated in the Family Promise webinars, Zoom meetings, Learning Community, and special events.
