 Impact investor research The Twin Cities Impact Investing Ecosystem uses the World Economic Forum's language for defining impact investing as an investment approach intentionally seeking to create both positive financial return as well as positive social or environmental impact that is actively measured. By this definition an impact investment could be an equity investment in a social enterprise, a program related investment (PRI) to a local not-for-profit, a loan to a community development financial institution (CDFI), or a retirement account investing in a fixed income bond fund that seeks and measures social impact. As long as the investor is intentionally seeking a social return and the social impact of the investment is being measured, the investment is an impact investment
