Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Part X, Line 2	Professional accounting standards require the Corporation to recognize a tax liability only if it is more likely than not the tax position would be sustained in a tax examination, with a tax examination being presumed to occur. The amount recognized is the largest amount of tax liability that is greater than 50% likely of being realized on examination. For tax positions not meeting the more-likely-than-not test, no tax liability is recorded. The Corporation has examined this issue and has determined that there are no material contingent tax liabilities or questionable tax positions. The tax years ending after 2013 are open to audit for both federal and state purposes.

Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Part II, Line 5 - Monitoring and Easement Enforcement	Every conservation easement is monitored annually by qualified staff or volunteers. Most monitoring is conducted by the Conservation Director. All monitoring visits are documented by a Conservation Easement Annual Monitoring Report, which is completed by the monitor and reviewed. The monitor and reviewer are typically the Conservation Director and the Executive Director, respectively.

Supplemental Information

Return Reference	Explanation
Part II, Line 9 - Accounting For Conservation Easements	Conservation easements are recorded on the balance sheet as part of conservation land holdings as an asset. The contribution of these easements is recorded in the statement of activities as contribution income. Financial Statement Footnote Conservation land holdings consist of land acquired through purchase or contribution as well as conservation easements obtained by the Corporation. Conservation easements do not transfer ownership, but entitle the corporation to preserve the land in an undeveloped condition. Conservation land holdings are recorded at cost, including all costs associated with the acquisition, for properties and easements acquired by purchase. Conservation land holdings acquired by donation are recorded at fair market value at the date of acquisition.
