What is the organization's primary exempt purpose?
 Support for people coming home from prison to reduce chances that they will return to crime and prison. We accomplish this through leadership training, life skills training, mentoring and transition housing. Specifically, we foster one-on-one conversation between ordinary community members (coming into our prison classes as visitors) and prisoners. These conversations are on specific topics in a classroom environment. The conversations are debriefed in the large group. These one-on-one interactions with community members are the bedrock of our work. Prisoners recognize that they can talk to "normal" people when they return to the community. It gives them confidence that they can make it.

Describe the organization's program service accomplishments for each of its three largest program services, as measured by expenses. In a clear and concise manner, describe the services provided, the number of persons benefited, and other relevant information for each program title.

28 In-the-Community Mentor Project - Our Certified Peer Recovery Mentor worked with 8 mentees over the course of the year, averaging 7 1 unique contact encounters with each mentee (average 1 hour or more per contact) Additionally each mentee was exposed to several hours of life skills training in the community Almost all mentoring and life skills in the community are contracted with Impact NW (in Portland, Oregon) We had two separate contracts with them to do mentoring, but one was from a grant that reached its sunset mid-year We have one remaining contract with them, but it was also reduced in terms of contact per mentee (Grants $ 0) If this amount includes foreign grants, check here . . . <input type="checkbox"/>	28a	1,670

29 PHOENIX Transitional Housing - for people coming out of prison The objective is to acclimate ex-cons to a successful life in the community so they won't return to crime and prison Residents must participate in PHOENIX mentor project because the link between housing, mentor meetings and life skills development together strengthen the likelihood of success There were 10 residents over the year The house has the capacity for six residents at a time The average stay is 6 5 months The house is funded through rents paid by the residents and rental assistance to residents through Impact NW when they participate in our Mentor Project Portland's housing crisis during the year meant that some residents were feeling much more pressed and desperate We ran into more behavior issues with some residents that required us to remove them In addition, the owner of the property wanted to sell, so we closed our transition house, effective June 30, 2019 A few final costs will still accrue for next year The board had considered opening other housing But energy in our organization seems to be elsewhere, namely in our in-prison work We may reopen housing down the road, but have no immediate plans to do so (Grants $ 0) If this amount includes foreign grants, check here . . . ► <input type="checkbox"/>	29a	27,717

30 Community InReach (In-prison mentoring) - We taught a weekly leadership class in the prison to 31 prisoners over the course of the year. We convene a leadership class (2 hours) and a communications class (2 hours) each week. We relaunched communications (writing) in March 2019. There were 1,114 contact hours with students during the year for both classes. We teach a 12-hour intensive on leadership skills that sets the agenda for the class the rest of the year. We graduated 8 people (1 teacher, 1 small group leader and 6 students) in November 2018. These students in turn become class leaders and help teach future trainings. If they remain with PHOENIX in the community, they may be eligible to become mentors. The most important characteristic about our prison InReach is that we take community volunteers into almost every single class. Over the course of the year, 70 volunteers came into our classes (in addition to two staff members). These volunteers are OHSU students and professors, National University of Natural Medicine medical students, members of churches, and members of institutions that are part of Metropolitan Alliance for Common Good (MACG) and other community groups. MACG is a community organizing collective. We use a version of their leadership training to teach men in prison about personal and community transformation. The focus is a culture of positive relationships built on one-on-one conversations around a directed topic (e.g., what are the pressures in your life?) and reporting out to the large group. These one-on-one conversations with community members normalize community contact before release and give hope that one may become a positive, contributing member of society. In addition, community members are transformed by the experience and are more motivated to work with those coming home - as 95% of all prisoners do - to help them succeed and become actively engaged citizens. When people get out of prison, they may participate in training and actions through MACG. This year PHOENIX staff and volunteers traveled to Salem to make presentations at the Oregon State Penitentiary with a view toward expanding our work to that prison. In February we made a presentation to a large inmate club (7th Step Club) of 100+ members. We also made a presentation at their annual release fair in April. As a result, we were able to go back three times in May to teach an abbreviated version of our community organizing training over three 1-1/2 hour sessions drawing around 15 men to each class. (Grants $ 0) If this amount includes foreign grants, check here . . . <input type="checkbox"/>	30a	1,512

Describe the organization's program service accomplishments for each of its three largest program services, as measured by expenses. In a clear and concise manner, describe the services provided, the number of persons benefited, and other relevant information for each program title.	Expenses (Required for section 501(c)(3) and 501(c)(4) organizations; optional for others.)
The Impact of Incarceration on Health Educating Prisoners & Health Care Providers - we continue to work with the School of Nursing at the Oregon Health & Science University, serving as a practicum site for 2-3 student teams (most terms) taking their "Population Health" class - specifically looking at the impact of incarceration on health Student teams attend PHOENIX classes at the prison and any events or trainings we hold in the community They also interact with the men in the PHOENIX House for their projects We worked with two teams (4 students) from OHSU during the year They build on the collective knowledge gathered from their peers (through research and in-person interviews with prisoners/ex-cons in our program) from term to term This year, both teams worked on strengthening our community meetings after release We also continue to have monthly presentations from medical students from the National University of Natural Medicine to educate the men in the prison class about healthy diet, natural pain management, self-massage and other things they can do on right now in the prison - and on their own after they get out - to live healthier lives This is critical because health problems are staggering for those getting out of prison They are 12 9% more likely to die within the first two weeks of release from all causes compared to the general population And one in 12 convicts is hospitalized within 90 days of release from prison This prisoner health work is geared toward speaking to medical professionals and students as well as prisoners This interaction is extremely important since 95% of all incarcerated people are eventually released Because the prison population is hard to access (because of safety and security issues), many OHSU and NUNM students join our prison class as visitors to have the experience and exposure to the health and subculture issues that impact them (Grants $ 0) If this amount includes foreign grants, check here . . . <input type="checkbox"/>	369
