MASADA

Meaning “strong foundation or support” in Hebrew, Masada is an ancient stone fortress in southern Israel’s Judean Desert, located high above the Dead Sea on a tall, rocky mesa. Built around 30 B.C.E, the complex is a well-preserved attestation to the history of the ancient kingdom of Israel and the courage of its people in the face of a Roman siege. The fortress, in its structure and design, was, at the time, a sophisticated, innovative construction which provided safeguard against invaders.
