e-Health Sri Lanka 2010 is the Official Conference of the Health Informatics Society of Sri Lanka (HISSL)

Since the late nineties, HISSL Scientific Congresses have grown to become the main biomedical informatics conference in the country. These conferences are organized to give the opportunity to those in the health care sector to update their knowledge and contribute to the rapidly evolving knowledge in the field of biomedical informatics. An interesting programme is planned including plenary lectures, symposia, workshops and oral as well as poster presentations.

eHealth 2010 would be an ideal forum to share information and results of research generated by investigators in medicine, science and the electronic communication technology industry working in the field of biomedical informatics.
