AN INTERNATIONAL CONSULTING CO-EDITORSHIP IN 2013

Recently, the idea enthusiastically backed by the editorial board members, of opening the board to an internationally renowned expert in Radiology has materialized.

The opportunity came with the major contribution to JBR-BTR by Mauricio Castillo of a review article on neuroradiology published in the present issue (see p. 1-54).

Mauricio Castillo, MD, is professor of Radiology, Chief Division of Neuroradiology, University of North Carolina School of Medicine, and his work as the editor-in-chief of the American Journal of Neuroradiology is highly admired internationally. He kindly accepted to be nominated as consulting co-editor of the JBR-BTR for the year 2013.

He will contribute to two main objectives of the project focusing this year on neuroradiology. First to stimulate the publication in our journal of high quality papers in continuing education and secondly to better inform the wider radiological community of the state of the art as well as new developments in clinical diagnostic and interventional neuroradiology.

Of course, JBR-BTR will remain a general journal of Radiology serving primarily the members of the Royal Belgian Society of Radiology, but with from now on, on a yearly basis, the special focus on a subspecialty in radiology, which will be this year neuroradiology.

I hope very much, dear readers, that you will appreciate the initiative of the board and enjoy reading the present and next issues.
