In the beginning... I spent 7 years learning the carpentry business from Andy. I learned to finish drywall, roof, siding, build walls, etc..etc.. It was at this time I was finishing drywalled soffits in the kitchen for a customer. The plumber was watching as I completed the third coat of mud and he replied "that must take a woman's touch cuz mine doesn't look anything like that". That's the seed.

Years later after a divorce, while working at Braun Bldg Center A customer brought his bucket of mud and drywall tape to the counter mumbling. I told him he should come sit at my desk and I would do his drywall finishing. He chuckled and as he walked away he said, Sue you might have a niche there.

6 months later I turned this into reality. A Woman's Touch started in Sept of 1999. I started out primarily finishing drywall, but then painting what I finished became a regular request. Faux painting grew in popularity and I enjoyed the challenge of creating beautiful finishes out of multiple colors. The wood graining of steel doors became an obvious challenge and is still one of my favorite jobs.

Now there's wallpaper removal and installation, patching and re-texturing of damaged walls and ceilings, color consultations, trim work painting and installation, staining and varnishing of windows and doors, and so much more.

And still, after 20 years, I can honestly say I love my job as much as I did when I started.
