PLEASE NOTE: Per statute, the City has 60 days in which to review and make a decision on land use applications. However, the City strives to process all applications as soon as they are received, usually within 7 – 15 days. To avoid delays, applicants should allow themselves as much time as possible between the time they submit their application and the time they wish to begin construction. Close coordination with the City Staff during the project design phase and submittals that are complete and accurate will help applicants avoid delays.
