Kienbaum takes the top spot in two recent industry rankings

Kienbaum ranked as the best consultants for executive search and leadership, organization, and HR consulting

Dusseldorf, 15 May 2015 Two industry rankings recognize Kienbaum as the leading provider for HR and organizational consulting services: This year's consulting industry report by brand eins Wissen and Statista places Kienbaum at the first place for leadership, organization, and HR consulting, while Kienbaum also defends last year's top spot as the best executive search provider in the ranking of FOCUS Spezial.

Jochen Kienbaum, Chairman of the Executive Board of Kienbaum Consultants International, has reason to celebrate: "These top results show us: Our competitors and our clients know what makes us unique and what our special strengths are. People and organization are the key success factors for private enterprises and public institutions alike – and these are the two categories that our Kienbaum consulting concept revolves around. What makes me particularly proud is that we did not just repeat our great performance from last year, but even extended our lead in the eyes of both our clients and our competitors."

The business magazine brand eins Wissen teamed up with the statistics portal Statista for the second run of its detailed check-up of the consultancy industry, with more than 15,000 consultancy firms in Germany. For the purpose, they asked over 1,400 executives of large consulting businesses and approx. 1,500 clients which consultants they would recommend, distinguishing between different sectors of industry and consulting services.

FOCUS and Statista spoke to more than 3,000 HR managers and candidates about their experiences with HR consultancies (FOCUS Spezial Issue 4/2015).

Kienbaum is the market leader for executive search and HR management services in Germany and ranks among the top management consultancies in the industry. With its integrated approach to consulting, Kienbaum supports companies from all leading sectors of the economy through their change processes, from the design of the concept to its eventual realization. Kienbaum combines proven HR competence with comprehensive know-how in the areas of strategy, organization, and communication.
