

What we are looking for in a Young Ambassador Classic Ladies Foundation (CLF) Young Ambassador Quest

If you are a young lady between the ages of 18-30 and wanting to enter our Young Ambassador Quest, but don't know what we are looking for, listed below are some of the qualities and skills it takes to be a CLF Young Ambassador:

- Someone who will work within a team and demonstrate skills and dedication to potentially take the CLF into the future. It should be noted however, that unfortunately we are unable to take the winner and runner up from each year through to become a member of the CLF team, however, you're always welcome to provide feedback and help the team should you wish to do so.
- Someone who is not necessarily in the spotlight, but who also has the ability to work behind the scenes, at times on menial jobs.
- Past fundraising experience is not necessarily a part of the criteria.
- Despite any previous entrant fund raising you may have seen in the past, independent fund raising is NOT required. Our preference is you support the CLF charities by selling our monster raffle tickets before the Nutrien classic if you chose to do so, otherwise just over the Nutrien event. Monster Raffle tickets are available to you upon request.
- Someone who is innovative, determined and inspired by the concept of not only raising funds for the CLF Charities, but raising awareness of the public about the Charities and how the funds raised are spent and how this benefits those who receive support.
- Someone who is prepared to step up and be an active member of a committee, potential office holders of committees, be part of changes and progress and who is truly passionate about making a difference in our industry.
- Someone who shows initiative, creativity, commitment to their task and who is able to collaborate with others, listen to their views and ideals and work with them to achieve the best outcome for the group.
- Someone who can recognise a conflict of interest in certain situations and declare that interest and step back for the greater good of the group.
- Someone who can go with the flow, accept changes on the run, think on their feet and find solutions in a quick, no fuss manner when problems or obstacles arise. It is for this reason the CLF YAQ do not have a strict and regimented schedule. Nutrien is a live event and live means, change from one hour or minute to the next, we often need to make last minute changes to our plans that may have been in place for months prior to the event. Keep smiling and carry on!
- Demonstrate to the CLF new and fresh ideas and changes to the way we do things that we may not yet have thought of.
- Someone who is prepared to speak up and say "you are currently doing things this way, but have you thought about this? This change may be a better way of doing it."
- Someone with the ability to recognise matters that are to be treated with confidentiality and maintain confidentiality.

- Someone who can interact with people from all walks of life and of all ages.
- A person who is not necessarily an adept public speaker, however someone who is prepared to give it a go and work on improving those skills.
- Someone who is outgoing or willing to push their boundaries to meet new people as part of their journey to benefit other individuals, charities and groups.
- Someone who shows commitment to their entry in the CLF and the compulsory activities of the Quest.
- Someone who recognises in advance what may be required of them as part of their entry and time spent at Nutrien and who is prepared.
- Someone who can make the most of opportunities presented to them.
- Someone who has good time management skills and is able to multitask.
- Someone who is aware of animal welfare and the public's perception of our industry and how these matters can impact the future of the industry.
- Someone who shows potential to mentor other young women to step outside their comfort zone and try something new, like entering the Young Ambassador Quest.

The above are just some points of consideration when choosing our Young Ambassador Winner and Runner Up.

We wish every entry the best of luck and most of all hope you enjoy your participation in the Quest.
