

“Web-Based Resources”

“Surfing the Web to help build a Career”

The Internet contains a vast amount of information and resources available for young people to assist them with their career direction and career decision processes.

Information that is developed by government, training and educational organisations and industry providing answers to many of those questions young people ask when trying to decide what career may be for them and how to get there.

“The ‘Web’ Careers Information Guide” can help young people and provide them with the information they may need. This is a guide only and the nature of the ‘world wide web’ means new sites are being developed all the time. Please do not restrict your search to this guide.

Please Note: As sites come and go, there may be sites within this list that no longer exist, they may come up as ‘URL Not Found’ or a site may no longer be current, Please see Mr Impey if you come across a site which no longer exists...
