

I am a brazilian aspiring writer and for some time now I have been exploring AI LLM to assist me in my writing related endeavors. AI can be a very useful tool for fully extracting the potential of your creativity, allowing for very in-depth world and character building. Although tested with other AI's, Claude seems to be exceptionally good at this, both the prosaic and poetic aspects far exceeding those of the competition. I believe access to Claude would be very beneficial to my project and the Hackathon itself a great opportunity to get a step closer to my goals of becoming a sucessful writer some day.
