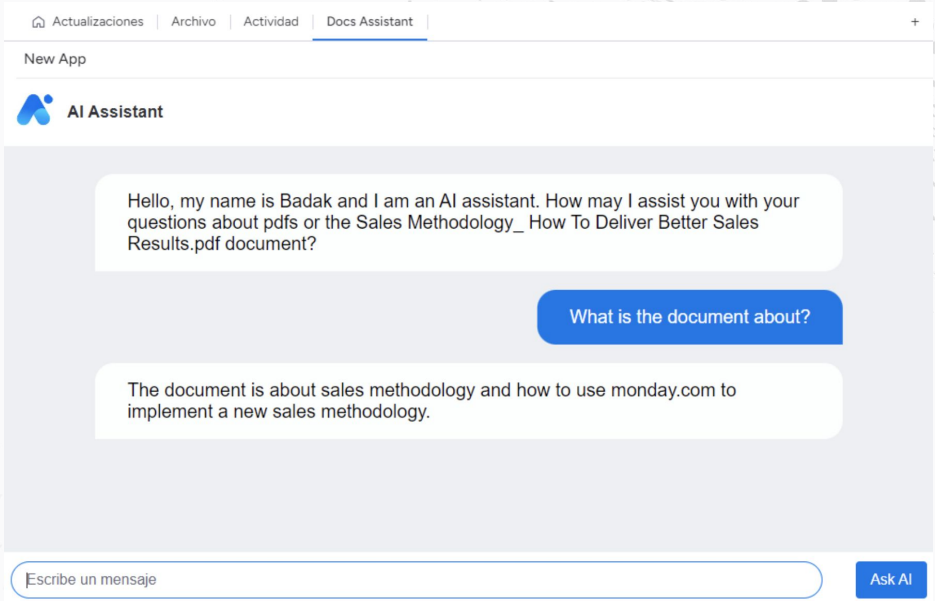
Monday AI Hackathon 2023
By Artificial Rhinos

Abstract

Our intelligent system helps understand documents on monday.com faster with a conversational interface. It extracts text from PDFs, uses embeddings for similarity search, and provides relevant information. It connects directly to board items and remembers previous questions.

This monday app is capable of answering questions based on a private knowledge base (closed domain). The info is provided through one or more docs that must be uploaded to monday. Once data is loaded, you can interact with the assistant via a chat window.



Description

Our intelligent monday app helps you understand a document from your monday.com board more efficiently. It has the qualities of having a friendly conversational-style interface, responding promptly, and being multilingual. It is specifically designed to provide information from the document in the row, and if it doesn't detect a document, it prompts you to upload one to the column in order to use it.

The application directly connects to the item on your board, from where it retrieves the PDF document. This document is processed to extract and clean the text for better understanding by the system.

Once the text is extracted, embeddings of the text are obtained using the gpt-3.5 model and saved in a similarity search library. This allows the assistant to respond to the user's question with the most relevant information from the document. The assistant has question and answer memory, so it can link information with previous questions.
