SECRET PARTY

Summary

- A map application with parties around you. You can attend, create character and chat with others. Except some are AI bots and some are real human. Your goal, to get points is to guess who is real and who is human based on their chat!

Goal

- Every day new parties will pop up - each party has a description and a flyer. You can read about the party and attend. To attend you must describe your character and generate a photo avatar. Then you are in. You can chat with people at the party, have fun, try to hook up - like the real thing. Except some of the people are actually not real, they are AI characters. The game means that you must guess if your chat partner is a human or not. If you guess correct you get a point. If the other person however is also a human and guesses correct, they get a point instead!

- So you must be fast! Its a dating game with a twist!
