The All-Day Conference -- February 29, 1976
Theme: "Conversion: Challenge to Orthodoxy and Jewish Life."

In an innovation in Center educational programming, we will sponsor an all-day conference in which, the whole of the Jewish community will be invited to join with The Center membership to study and discuss the critical challenge to Jewish life that is posed by the question of conversion. The conference format will be used beginning with a morning session, lead by a key-note speaker and two prominent respondents. A buffet luncheon will be served in mid-afternoon. Workshops, discussing the questions raised by the morning speakers, will continue afterwards. At the conclusion of the conference, Rabbi Lamm will summarize the critical meaning of the questions raised.

More details will be announced shortly. In the meantime, we are pleased to announce that our key-note speaker will be Rabbi Shubert Spiro of Cleveland, Ohio. Dr. Spiro is a gifted speaker and original thinker. He is the Rabbi of Young Israel of Cleveland, and a faculty member of Case Northwestern University.

More details will be sent in a special brochure. In the meantime, please reserve February 29th.
