Dear David: ישיבה

Over this past Shabbot I read through the article you published about my work in the most recent issue of the Torah Umadda journal.

My intellectual approved emotionally expressed reaction -- all my feelings put together -- are contained in one word: WOW!

David, that you did this for me and without even checking as to whether I wanted it, came to me by surprise and for which I am profoundly grateful to you.

We have known each other for many years, and despite the warm feelings I have had for you and your family, what you did is far more than I ever expected or deserved of you.

It is a special token of our friendship that makes me so proud that it was you who volunteered this tribute and now intensify my feelings of comradery and respect for you as a person, a scholar, and above all, a true friend.

May the Almighty grant you many more years of advanced scholarship, more admiration from your colleagues and both teachers and students.

My warmest regards to your wife, brother, and sister, and all of you who have made of your parents such successful practitioners of parenthood.

Cordially yours,

NORMAN LAMM
Chancellor
