

Dear Rabbi Lamm, m 9/30/67

Many, many thanks for your kind comments about my article.

Several years ago, I read Lichik's gem of a book "The Dynamics of Faith". at that time I entertained the hope that a person of imposing Orthodox stature might also suppress the prevailing existential anxiety which is the "melee" of the Jewish intellectual mind. Your superb article "Faith and Doubt" has made an honest neurotic of me.

What you refer to as a daily renewal of commitment, I call mending fences, and each עצמך ואהב מאד.

With best wishes for the New Year to you and Minnie and the family. Cordially,
