Yavneh

Dear Rabbi Blau:

This time I am turning to you for a favor. One of the young men of my congregation, who is a rather good student but whose record is not good enough to get him into the top level colleges such as Harvard or Columbia, is interested in attending a school out-of-town, one with a good reputation and preferably one that has a special department for Business Administration.

Naturally, being an observant young man he is looking for a place where there is an active Jewish community where there is facilities for kashruth and other observances as well as a social life.

Perhaps you could help me by making some suggestions. It is quite imperative that I get the information as soon as possible so that he will be able to fill out applications.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

RABBI NORMAN LAMM
