SPRINGFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS

Rabbi Norman Lamm

BENEDICTION, COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES, HAMPDEN COLLEGE OF PHARMACY, JUNE 2, 1954

Almighty G-d,

Send Thy blessings upon this assembly - upon administrators and faculty, students and guests. In Thy goodness, make this occasion for the graduates a commencement of a career filled with service, and a life charged with meaningfulness.

~~My~~ ~~th~~ May the young men (and women) now ~~graduating~~ being graduated, become Thy ambassadors of healing. May pharmacy become for them more than a profession - may it be a form of Divine service; more than a career, a calling; more than a livelihood, a life-giving devotion.

May Thy outstretched arm, O Lord, guide and steady their hands. May they learn to compound wisdom with science, generosity with efficiency, and kindness with accuracy. May Thy goodness permeate their hearts, and may Thy wisdom penetrate their minds.

And do Thou give long and happy years of health to these, the guardians of health.

Amen.
